LAND NEAR TAKE-OFF BEACH

No Readable Message Had Been Received From Their Plane for Twenty Hours.

STORMS BESET THEIR PATH

By WILFRID FLEISHER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 15.—The Japanese news agency Nippon Rempo reports that Lieutenant Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty landed their plane City of Tacoma at Siriyazaki at the northeastern point of the mainland of Japan, forty miles from their starting point for Tacoma, Wash., at 6 o'clock this morning [5 P. M. Sunday in New York]. [They started their flight at 5:08 A. M. Sunday (Japan time,) and were therefore in the air for twenty-five hours.]

Officials of the wireless station at Ochiishi at the northeastern point of Hokkaido Island had picked up a fragmentary message believed to be from the airplane City of Tacoma at 7 o'clock last evening [6 A. M., Sunday, in New York] in which the two words "ship" and "harbor" were heard, but the wireless station could not guess what they meant.

Early Report Definite.

The only definite report from Lieutenant Bromley and Harold Gatty received up to midnight Sunday, was picked up by the Ochiishi station at 3:30 P. M. yesterday [2:30 A. M., Sunday, in New York] and reported the passage of the plane over Chirihoi Island, ten miles northwest of Urup Island, in the Kurile group, about 600 miles from Sabishiro Beach, Japan, the starting point of the flight. The plane was then reported traveling at about eighty miles an hour. It is calculated that the fliers had averaged only sixty miles an hour until then.

Previously the steamship President Taft of the Dollar Steamship Line, due at Yokohama tomorrow from San Francisco, had reported at 12:20 P. M. yesterday [11:20 A. M., Sunday, in New York] that she had heard the City of Tacoma and estimated that the plane was at a distance of 700 miles from the vessel, but was unable to determine her exact position.

A message at 9 o'clock yesterday morning [8 P. M., Saturday, in New York] gave the position of the plane as off the coast of Etorofu Island in the Kuriles. The plane was reported flying about ten miles from the coast at a low altitude. The message was picked up by an amateur wireless operator.

The plane had not been sighted at any time since she passed out of view of Sabishiro Beach.

Was Reported Over Kamchatka.

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 15 (AP).—Lieutenant Bromley and Harold Gatty, in landing within a few miles of Samishiro Beach, where they took off, ended a flight of twenty-four hours and fifty-two minutes, during much of which time their fate was unknown. Although the plane carried a wireless set, there was an almost total absence of reports while it was in the air.

Rumors and conflicting reports were many, but not until news of the landing was flashed to Tokyo was the fliers' safety definitely established. Whether the plane was damaged in landing was not established.

It was presumed, however, the fliers were forced to turn back because of adverse weather conditions. Previous to the take-off yesterday the two airmen were promised excellent weather along almost the entire route they chose to follow. Soon after the City of Tacoma left the sandy runway of Samishiro Beach, however, it was learned the plane encountered heavy fog and headwinds in addition to rain over the Kurile Island chain northeast of Japan.

The first intimation that the plane was returning to Japan was given by the radio operator of the Dollar liner President Taft, which docked at Yokohama at 7 A. M. today (6 P. M. Sunday in New York). He said he intercepted a message late Sunday indicating the plane was at Cape Lopatka, the southernmost point of the Kamchatka peninsula.

The operator said he later intercepted a message stating the aviators were over the middle of the Kurile chain, heading back to Japan.

If Bromley and his companion reached Cape Lopatka they traveled about 1,800 miles during the time they were aloft.

Bromley May Have Landed In Kuriles on His Way Back

Special to The New York Times.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 14.—Lieutenant Harold Bromley, in the plane City of Tacoma, sent out S O S calls earlier in the day before he returned to Japan, the Radio Marine Corporation here reported. Advices to them were that he had landed at Chirihoi, in the Kurile Islands, north of Japan.

Whether this indicated he had made an intermediate stop on his return trip or whether it was an error in transmission could not be determined.

FRENCH FLIERS START 40-STATE TOUR TODAY

GREET MECHANIC ON LINER

Major Dieudonné Coste and Lieutenant Maurice Bellonte, the first airmen to cross the North Atlantic from Europe to New York in non-stop flight by plane, spent yesterday making final preparations for their nation-wide tour, which will carry them over forty States, with stops at thirty-one cities.

The two Frenchmen, with an escort of two planes, will take off this morning at 11 o'clock from the Curtiss Airport at Valley Stream, L. I., and fly to Hartford for luncheon. They will have the midday meal at Brainard Field, Hartford's municipal airport, and then go on to Boston, flying over Providence, Newport and the yachts gathered there for the international races, landing at the Boston airport at about 3:30 this afternoon.

Ahead of them will go the tour manager, Major George Whitten, and Rene Racover, the fliers' personal representative, in a Verville monoplane loaned by the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce. The Verville will be piloted by Murray Hall. Following them will be a Douglas biplane placed at their disposal by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics, and piloted by Lieutenant Roland Hicks of the Army Air Corps. Henri Veron, Coste's mechanic, who arrived in this country yesterday aboard the French liner Lafayette, will be a passenger in the army ship.

Major Coste and Lieutenant Bellonte arose early yesterday and went down the bay before breakfast aboard a revenue cutter to greet Veron. They met the liner, bedecked with all her flags in honor of the occasion, at Quarantine and climbed aboard. The three Frenchmen were the guests of the captain of the ship at breakfast, but they ate little, so busy were they acceding to requests for autographs.

Veron, who tuned up the Question Mark for the transatlantic flight, and who has been mechanic for all of Coste's record-breaking ventures, said that at no time had he been in doubt about the outcome of the Coste-Bellonte venture.

"I knew that the plane was good," he explained. "I knew that the motor was good, and I knew that the men were good, so I did not worry." Then he qualified his statement a trifle and added: "Perhaps I did worry just a little, but not much, when I knew they were over the ocean."

Veron said that when the reports of the plane's landing at Curtiss Field reached Paris he was in a newspaper office with Mme. Bellonte, and when the news was flashed on a bulletin board, the crowd outside sang the "Marseillaise."

After leaving the liner at 9:30, the three men went directly to Curtiss Field, where without much pause Veron pulled the cowling from the

SHAMROCK'S TRIM MAY BE CHANGED FOR TODAY'S RACE

CAPTAIN HAS HIGH HOPES

Believes He Will Sail Lipton's Yacht to Ultimate Victory Over Enterprise.

TRIANGULAR COURSE TODAY

By JAMES ROBBINS.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 14.—When Shamrock V and Enterprise, two nimble craft, go out to sea tomorrow for their second race, the flower of Erin's Isle and of all Great Britain, in fact, may be a different boat than she was yesterday, when Enterprise, the defender, won the first race of the America's Cup series. Her trim may be different.

In yachting the contestant is a lively critter at times, but inanimate for consultation, and must be treated accordingly. So surgery must be resorted to improve her. That is where the trim comes in.

When a yacht loses, it is assumed she is too heavy or too light, or too fat or too thin. Trim means one of those two things, and Charles E. Nicholson, Shamrock's designer, decided tonight to hold a consultation on trim.

Nothing may be done, but if an alteration is made it will be under the supervision of Professor Harold W. Webb of Columbia University, official measurer of the New York Yacht Club, custodian of the cup.

Work Must Be Done Early.

If lead is taken out or more put in the challenger, she will be gone over at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning, five hours and forty minutes before the scheduled racing time, to ascertain her new waterline length. In any case, the change will not be sufficient to make her ineligible in size for the competition.

This proposed step was the only one taken by those in charge of Shamrock, Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth hope in his years of cup hunting across the seas.

The Shamrock's owner and afterguard are anything but a dejected or discouraged lot over Enterprise's victory. They took it, as a matter of fact, as little more than a lesson toward improvement. One yacht must win four races to be declared the winner, they pointed out.

The speed of a racing yacht never can be measured except in competition. A boat may appear to be a witch in light or heavy airs by herself and then be beaten badly in a race. The reason is that the wind and tidal currents never, on two different occasions, are exactly alike. Wind may be measured by an anemometer for velocity, but its weight may vary.

Shamrock, which came here with prizes over the fastest yachts in English waters, and Enterprise never had raced against the same boats, so there was no way to measure their comparative ability. Now with one cup race over, those on Shamrock feel they may make a great improvement in her as a match for Enterprise by taking a little weight out of her or putting in more.

Undecided About Lead.

They had not decided tonight which might be better. Their thought was that if they removed lead and she

Women Critical of Parties, But Vote From Sense of Duty

Women are conscientious about voting, but are dissatisfied with political organizations, according to replies to a questionnaire sent by the Republican Business Women, Inc., to its 600 members. The results were made public yesterday. Most of the women replying demanded higher standards in the party organization.

"My party owes me the best candidates," said one woman. "If I am not offered the best, I protest by voting otherwise. The district club still remains a club for men. As I do not play poker, there is little to interest."

About three-quarters of the women replying said they voted regularly from a sense of duty. There was a divergence of opinion as to the desirability of a large number of women holding public office. About 40 per cent replied that qualifications and not sex should be the determining factor.

GOLDSMITH RESIGNS AS PAROLE CHIEF

NEW BOARD'S AIMS GIVEN

Retiring Chairman Says All Paroled Prisoners Will Be Under Its Supervision by Jan. 1.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 14.—Judge Irving I. Goldsmith, chairman of the Division of Parole, has resigned and Governor Roosevelt announced tonight that the post had been offered to Dr. Joseph Waldron Moore, a leader in the psychiatric field.

Judge Goldsmith, in his letter of resignation said that neurosis from which he has been suffering for some time compelled him to relinquish the work. He will take an extended rest on the advice of his physician.

Simultaneously with the announcement of the resignation a report by Judge Goldsmith as the chairman of the parole division was made public. All prisoners paroled from State reformatories and prisons will be under supervision of the division by Jan. 1 Judge Goldsmith stated.

His letter of resignation follows:

My Dear Governor Roosevelt.

For reasons of health which I stated to you some time ago I find that I cannot longer defer my resignation as chairman of the division of parole. I had hoped that the neurosis from which I have been suffering would disappear, but quite recently it has become more pronounced.

My physician, Dr. D. C. Moriarta, has told me that this condition can only be corrected by a complete and extended rest. I am therefore going away to follow out his instructions before more serious trouble develops. It is obvious under these circumstances that I cannot continue to perform the immediate and exacting obligations of my office.

Organization Perfected.

At this time it gives me real pleasure to inform you that the scheme of organization for the parole work of the State has been perfected and the major policies of the department have been defined and established. The full staff authorized by law has been appointed and is rendering excellent service under competent direction. This accomplishment has been attained much earlier than could have been reasonably anticipated, and was made possible through the untiring and full cooperation of my colleagues, Commissioners Bernard J. Fagan and Frank I. Hanscom.

I feel certain that parole will profit from the new manner of approach developed by the present board. Greater success will undoubtedly follow with modification of the fourth offender law and the definite sentence law so that every prisoner may receive the benefit of the parole system.

It has been a privilege to me to serve as chairman during the organization of the division of parole and it is with deep regret that I sever my official connection with the work. My interest, however, will always remain. Believe me, cordially,

IRVING I. GOLDSMITH.

Dr. Moore was graduated from the Albany Medical College in the class of 1901, and thereafter was engaged in private practice until 1907, when he entered the State service in the Manhattan State Hospital as medical assistant.

He later accepted the appointment as pathologist at the Central Islip State Hospital, where he carried on many original investigations.

In 1913 Dr. Moore was appointed first assistant physician at the Matteawan State Hospital, later being promoted to the grade of assistant superintendent. During the period that Dr. Kieb was on leave of absence from the Matteawan State

McKee Moves to Curb Midget Golf Courses To Guard the 'Health and Peace' of Residents

Unregulated use of the thousands of miniature golf courses that have sprung up on hitherto vacant lots throughout the city constitutes a nuisance, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee declared yesterday. He wrote a letter to Bill Drafting Commissioner William J. Cahill, asking him to draw up an ordinance, for introduction into the Board of Aldermen, for the licensing and regulation of the newest popular amusement to insure "full protection of the health and peace of the people of our city."

Mr. McKee suggested a conference between Commissioner Cahill, Police Commissioner Mulrooney, Health Commissioner Wynne and License Commissioner James F. Geraghty, under whose jurisdiction the courses would be placed, to work out a schedule of playing hours that would prove unobjectionable to the residents adjacent to courses.

Mr. McKee in his letter said in part:

"I am in receipt of numerous letters and petitions from people in various parts of the city complaining of annoyances due to the operation of miniature golf courses which have recently come into such popular use. The writers complain that the courses are operated until the early hours of the morning, and that the glare of lights, accompanied by noise, makes sleep or rest impossible.

"I have personally observed some of the conditions complained of, especially where such courses are adjacent to apartments and private homes, and believe their unregulated use results, in many instances, in an annoying and irritating nuisance."

Mr. McKee's letter followed the unsuccessful attempt of the Department of Licenses to regulate the courses as "amusements." Commissioner Geraghty announced on July 22 that the courses were subject to license, and warned the proprietors that licenses must be obtained.

The first case came up several days later before Magistrate Haubert in Brooklyn, who ruled that since licenses were not required for the large golf courses, they could not be required for the miniature ones. A number of the courses are licensed, however.

The city's move to license the courses follows similar attempts, some successful, in Westchester, New Jersey, and in other parts of the country. In New Jersey and Massachusetts, attempts have been made to ban Sunday play under the old "blue laws."

INQUIRY ON EWALD WILL OPEN TODAY; COURT TO FIX SCOPE

Special Grand Jury, Ordered by Roosevelt, to Be Picked, and McCook Will Charge It.

TODD READY ON HEALY DEAL

CRATER CASE ON TODAY TOO

Crain to Put Mystery Surrounding Justice Before County Body—12 or More Will Testify.

Hiram C. Todd, special prosecutor, appointed by Attorney General Hamilton Ward to conduct the State's investigation into the Healy-Ewald case, completed yesterday final preparations for the convening today of the extraordinary term of the grand jury ordered by Governor Roosevelt. At the same time Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, attacked the Governor for hesitating to go to the core of official corruption and racketeering in New York City.

During the day the Socialist party, after a conference of all legislative candidates on the Socialist ticket, demanded the enactment of legislation making mandatory the advance publication of names of prospective appointees to the magistrates' courts, and providing for a public hearing at which arguments for and against the candidates might be heard.

This morning at 10 o'clock the inquiry into the charge that Martin J. Healy, Nineteenth District Tammany leader, received $10,000 from former Magistrate George F. Ewald as the price of his appointment, will commence when a special panel of fifty persons reports to the courtroom of Special Term, Part II, for the selection of twenty-three men who will comprise the grand jury.

May Hear Witnesses Today.

Although the selection of jurors under the supervision of Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook is expected to take much of the day, Justice McCook and Mr. Todd hope to be able to present the testimony of several witnesses.

Much interest has been manifested in the charge that the justice will give to the jury when it convenes and he is expected to define the scope of the inquiry and definitely to inform the jurors whether the investigation is to be limited strictly to the Healy-Ewald case.

Another issue which is awaited with keen interest is the selection of a foreman for the jury. The fifty names of the special panel selected on Aug. 22 include those of Harris A. Dunn, treasurer of the Fifth Avenue Association and of the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital and a vice president of the American Exchange Irving Trust Company; Edward E. Spafford, past national commander of the American Legion; William H. Barthold, engineer and an officer of several large utility companies; Saul F. Dribben, director of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York; William Bianchi, investment banker, and a number of other well-known men.

Waivers Must Be Signed.

More than a score of witnesses, among whom are Mayor Walker and George W. Olvany, former leader of Tammany Hall, are scheduled to appear before the grand jury either today or tomorrow. If Healy, former Magistrate Ewald, his wife, or Thomas T. Tommaney, alleged "go-be-

NEW COALITION IS LIKELY

Dr. Bruening Must Get Social Democrats' Aid to Save His Cabinet From Defeat.

By GUIDO ENDERIS.

BERLIN, Monday, Sept. 15.—Republicanism suffered a heavy blow and Chancellor Bruening's reform Cabinet a decisive defeat when 13,000,000 out of 36,000,000 votes went into the balance against the young republic and its champion in yesterday's election for the new Reichstag.

Fascism voiced its contempt for Parliamentary government by rolling up a vote of 6,000,000 and will send 107 Deputies into the new Reichstag, increasing its previous representation there nearly ninefold.

Coalition Parties Defeated.

Opposing these increased anti-republican forces is a defeated bourgeoisie represented by a group of four or five middle parties which, with the exception of the Catholic Centrist party, were heavy losers in today's balloting. They comprise the parties which make up the present minority coalition government which is functioning under the emergency decree of President von Hindenburg and which was determined to push its reform program through the new Reichstag.

The Bruening Government's fate now hinges on the Parliamentary line-up of the new Reichstag in which the Socialists, who also were among today's losers, will occupy a pivotal position so far as the formation of a working coalition is concerned. To this extent the Parliamentary situation for the present remains wholly obscured and the only solution reflected in the election returns at hand early this morning points to the compulsory formation of a Socialist-Bourgeois coalition as the only available defense against the uncompromising opposition of the three ultra-radical groups who enter the new Reichstag in a highly reinforced condition.

One of the disappointments in yesterday's voting was the loss to the Socialists of about fifteen mandates in which the German Labor party apparently surrendered to the Communists whose gains are accounted for by the manner in which the German reds exploited the unemployment situation.

Developments Held Disturbing.

The sensational gains of Adolph Hitler's National Socialist-Labor or Fascist party in yesterday's election constitutes one of the most upsetting developments of German post-war politics and, while predictions conceded it a five-fold increase over its previous Reichstag delegation, its vote of more than 6,000,000 and capture of 100 and more seats can be explained by the droit manner in which it exploited the post-war social and economic privations of the middle classes and such working classes as are not followers of the Socialists or Communists.

Herr Hitler also kindled the imagination of millions of young voters by the fiery nature of his oratory, while the more mature electorate was fed with anti-Semitic, anti-reparations and anti-parliamentary haranguing. Back of it all was the cry for a dictator who would lead Germany out of the slough of parliamentary despond.

Herr Hitler's meetings boasted the largest attendance of those of any party and his organization apparently was liberally financed, the assumption being that various big industrialists preferred to see the proletariat mobilized under the Fascist flag rather than under the red standard of Moscow.

As the political programs of Herren Hitler and Hugenberg agree on such cardinal points as opposition to rep-

SORRY TO LEAVE MEXICO

Retiring Ambassador Fits Parable of Pharisee and Publican to International Relations.

A plea for greater national humility in the interests of international understanding was made last night by Dwight W. Morrow, retiring Ambassador to Mexico, in a radio address from the United States Embassy in Mexico City, broadcast here by WJZ.

Mr. Morrow quoted the parable of the Pharisee and the publican to illustrate the danger of an arrogant and self-exalting attitude by one nation in its dealings with another.

"If we could all get clearly into our minds," he said, "that other men have as much pride in the dignity of their nations as we have in our own, the solution of international problems would be less difficult."

Mr. Morrow's plea was believed to refer specifically to the relations between the United States and Mexico.

In his address, put on the air in Collier's Hour, Mr. Morrow told of the pleasure he and Mrs. Morrow had experienced during their stay in Mexico and expressed regret at his prospective departure. Mr. Morrow is to return soon to New Jersey as the Republican candidate for United States Senator.

"Three years ago Mrs. Morrow and I came to Mexico," he said. "We have been very happy here. We

PARIS IS DISTURBED BY HITLER'S SUCCESS

PARTY IS SEEN AS MENACE

French Now Think Their Fears of Revisionist Campaign Were Fully Justified.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Monday, Sept. 15.—The results of the German election so far as they were known here early this morning have caused a certain anxiety in France. With two-thirds of the votes counted, dispatches to Paris newspapers indicate disquieting gains for the Hitlerites or extreme Nationalists, whose policy is looked upon here as one of war and revenge.

While it was still entirely possible that the outcome in the country districts would offset the success of the German Fascists, French commentators estimated that the Hitler party would have ninety or more seats in the next Reichstag, compared with a bare dozen in the old House.

Openly opposed to the Versailles Treaty, the Treaty of Locarno, the Young plan and the proposed European federation—in fact the whole framework of peace and conciliation as carefully constructed by France—the Hitlerites are regarded as a menace to the peace of Europe. What is even more disturbing to the French is the astonishing gains of the Hitler party in the towns and cities, hitherto considered to be safely conservative or of the Centre.

Without wishing to anticipate the final results, which may change the face of the situation as reflected in the returns received here tonight, French opinion is strongly inclined to the belief that the fears regarding the recent treaty-revisionist campaign have been justified.

Even though the Hitlerites, by virtue of a new coalition government, probably will be prevented from realization of their program, it is the belief here that the party's remarkable rise in strength may be taken as a reflection of how a very large and influential section of the German populace visualizes the future foreign policy of the country.

In some quarters fears are expressed over the possibility of Adolf Hitler and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg combining to form a party of revenge.

Treaty Revisionist Beaten.

BERLIN, Sept. 14 (AP).—Among the outstanding casualties of Germany's general election today appeared to be Gottfried Treviranus, Minister for Occupied Regions in the Bruening Cabinet, who upset the diplomatic applecart recently with election campaign comments upon the necessity of revision of the Polish frontier.

Not only was the former torpedo boat commander eliminated from the Reichstag but most of his Conservative party colleagues seemed to have been completely overwhelmed in the storm of opposing ballots.

Herr Treviranus's recent speeches calling for revision of the Treaty of Versailles evoked sharp protests in French circles, the German Ambassador in Paris being summoned by the Foreign Office to discuss them.

Anti-Government Meeting in Warsaw Ends In Fatal Riot; Clashes Throughout Poland

By The Associated Press.

WARSAW, Sept. 14.—One civilian was killed and four policemen and some twenty civilians wounded in a fight this afternoon following a meeting held by supporters of the new Parliamentary bloc of the Left and Centre which opposes Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, the Premier. At least 100 persons were arrested, many of them armed. One of the policemen later died of his injuries.

The Socialists allege that at Radom seven persons were wounded by the bayonets of the police and about thirty more in clashes elsewhere. Special editions of the opposition papers rescribing the clashes were suppressed here. Rival reports made it difficult to establish accurately what had happened in the provinces, as well as in Warsaw.

One version of the affair here is that a group of Communists joined the orderly political group as it left the hall and fired on police guarding the vicinity, but the government communiqué does not mention Communists. It says that the political group left the hall with the members singing revolutionary songs and shouting: "Down With Marshal Pilsudski!"

As women were in the front, the police attempted to disperse the gathering from the rear, the government statement says, whereupon some one threw a grenade, which wounded several persons, including an officer of the police. The latter then drew revolvers and fired.

The meeting originally was scheduled to be held outdoors, but this was forbidden by government orders. It had been widely advertised but attracted only 2,000 persons out of Warsaw's population of more than 1,000,000. Although it was intended to aid the formation of the Opposition bloc, the meeting really became a patriotic demonstration against alteration of the German-Polish frontier and changes in the Versailles Treaty. Several anti-government resolutions were passed.

Warsaw Socialists said tonight that clashes had occurred between police and Oppositionists today at Radom, Katowice, Czenstochowa, Poznan and Torun.

Marshal Pilsudski, who has never hesitated to show his contempt for the Polish Diet, discusses the recent arrests of former Deputies in an interview in the semi-official Gazeta Polska.

He declares that during the parliamentary session complaints of all kinds against the Deputies had been registered by the prosecuting attorney with the Speaker's office, but those accused benefited by their parliamentary immunity.

Believing that such immunity led to "a lowering of the ethical standards of citizens," the Marshal said he decided to avail himself of the period during which the Deputies became mere citizens in order that "justice may be normally meted out unhampered by exceptions and privileges." He expressed satisfaction that the "housecleaning" in the Diet had been completed, but added, "Personally I believe that one cannot do without some elective body satisfying the principle of responsibility."

arations payments and German foreign policies, it may be assumed that the two groups will cooperate in the new Reichstag while the Communists will prove a handy ally when it comes to blocking parliamentary procedure. German reds heretofore have invariably voted with the Fascists in opposition to every government step. These three groups will now jointly command 222 seats out of a total of 577 in the new Reichstag and it will require all the resources of a faultlessly functioning coalition of the Socialists and middle parties to protect the future of parliamentary procedure.

Of the middle parties, which heavily lost ground in yesterday's voting, the People's party, which since the death of Gustav Stresemann has been leaderless, lost nineteen seats, while the newly founded State party, which expected to absorb the entire liberal vote of Germany, captured only twenty-two seats. It was engulfed in the wave of apathy which seized the German bourgeoise, and which also affected the new conservative Peoples' party, which comprised secessionists from the Hugenberg Nationalist party. Although this new group, which is headed by Captain Gottfried Treviranus, a member of the Bruening Cabinet, had nineteen Deputies in the last Reichstag, its delegation was cut down to five in today's election.

Centrists Gain Slightly.

The Centrist party and its allied group, the Bavarian People's party, slightly improved their Reichstag strength. The Economic party duplicated its previous number of seats.

If these middle groups, with the exception of the Conservative People's party, can be pooled in a coalition with the Socialists, such a block would command 301 votes compared with 222 opposed tot it by the Fascists, Communists and German Nationalists. No other Parliamentary combination would command a permanent majority in the existing situation.

4,000,000 Rise in Total Vote.

All parties succeeded in getting out the stay-at-home vote, with the result that 4,000,000 more ballots were cast than in the Reichstag election in May, 1928, the total being about 83 per cent of the eligible voters. The new Parliament will have 577 Deputies against 491 in the last Reichstag. As the chamber has been seriously crowded the task of finding floor space for the eighty-six newcomers is already puzzling the Reichstag director.

Another prospect which is engendering bewilderment is where to place the 107 Fascist Deputies, who with the Communists will perform the functions of Opposition parties. In its political physiognomy the new Reichstag gives every promise of becoming a turbulent parliamentary arena.

While complete official returns will not be available for analysis before the end of the month, the present figures indicate that the increase in the Fascist vote has been uniform throughout Germany, although in some parts it was heavier than in others because of local conditions. In Greater Berlin the party's vote jumped from 16,000 in 1928 to 158,000. The Socialists lost 60,000 in the metropolitan area, while the Communists gained about that number.

There is deep gloom at government headquarters, where Chancellor Bruening and several Cabinet members were poring over the returns until early this morning. In the light of the election's outcome, it is reported, Dr. Bruening will go before the new Reichstag with his program for financial and other reforms and ask for its approval. If one of the Opposition parties thereupon proposes a motion of no confidence the government could be saved inly with the aid of Socialist votes.

Dr. Bruening may also present the Cabinet's resignation to President von Hindenburg, who would then open negotiations for the formation of a new government and probably invite the Socialists, as the strongest party, to explore the situation with respect to he prospects for a new coalition based on the new Parliamentary line-up. The Bruening Government would be promptly swamped in the new Reichstag if it risked its tolerance without having been assured of the help of the Socialists, and it is this realization that prompted Dr. Bruening, according to a report in political quarters last night, to abandon his previous intention of trying to force his program through the Reichstag, failing which he would threaten it with dissolution.

As the present government is functioning under authority of Article 48 of the Federal Constitution and decreeing its measures by its terms, the measures still await ratification by the Reichstag and to this extent the Cabinet's position now has become extremely complicated unless it succeeds in patching up a truce with the Socialists. Such a peace calls for a liberal policy of give and take on both sides, and to this extent the immediate political situation in Germany is fraught with numerous unattractive eventualities.

Government circles are primarily concerned in having Germany's integrity with respect to her reparations and other foreign commitments fully safeguarded and there appears tobe a determination to avoid anything in the nature of a Parliamentary impasse even if it be of only brief duration. Nevertheless, it will call for something more authoritative than ordinary party leadership to get the government out of some of the entanglements resulting from today's election.

Despite the heated campaign conducted by more than twenty parties, yesterday's election was one of the most orderly since the war.

More than 80 per sent of the voters went to the polls. In some parts of the Rhineland, where the populace enjoyed their first voting since its complete evacuation by foreign troops, the turnout of voters was exceptionally heavy.

Women Voters Increase.

Women voted in greater numbers than at any previous election, and this increase of new voters is believed to have gone to the Fascists because Herr Hitler is a political idol for women and young voters.

In Berlin the day passed without disturbances. The entire metropolitan police force was on duty, but was not called on for riot service.

One of the earliest Berlin voters was President von Hindenburg, who was accompanied by his secretary, Dr. Meissner. They motored to a polling place in a downtown restaurant. The President was saluted by half a dozen election inspectors. He retired with his ballot behind a curtain, where he marked it, and then deposited it in the ballot box, making room for the next voter in line.

At Potsdam, which once was a fashionable Hohenzollern citadel, the Socialists polled the heaviest vote. The former Crown Prince and his brothers, Princes Eitel Friedrich, August Wilhelm and Oscar were among the early voters.

Extremists Get 176 Seats.

BERLIN, Monday, Sept. 15 (AP).—A landslide of Fascist and Communist votes in yesterday's Reichstag general election shook the foundations of parliamentary government in Germany and threatened the life of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening's government. The two parties advocating overthrow of the young German Republic were shown, by returns early today, to have outstripped practically all other parties except the Social Democrats.

Of the great parties in the last Reichstag, only the Social Democrats held their ground. They loom today as the dominating force in any future government combination.

Observers had little doubt that efforts would be made to build up a new coalition and that the Bruening government as now constituted would be brushed aside.

The choice seemed to lie between a dictatorship, menacing Germany since Chancellor Bruening in July dissolved the Reichstag under the decree-law powers of Article 48 of the Constitution, and a wider coalition, in which the Social Democrats would again appear.

Such a coalition would include the People's party and possibly the People's Conservatives of Gottfried Treviranus, and so on through Centrists, State party, Bavarians and Economic party to the Social Democrats.

The Bruening Government failed completely in one of its main endeavors, namely to secure sufficient strength for the bourgeois parties in the present coalition to avoid Socialist domination of its successor. It remains to be seen whether the Social Democrats prefer a benevolent neutrality to responsibility for Bruening's unpopular financial reforms. They now stand aside from the ministry.

The sensation of the election has been the startling rise of the Fascists from 12 seats to 107. Adolf Hitler, Austrian author of the Munich putsch in 1923, has become overnight a political power of the first rank in Germany. Though prevented by his birth from sitting in the Reichstag, the young Austrian—he is only 41—will lead the second largest party in the Reichstag.

As had been widely predicted, both extremist parties gained heavily at the expense of the bourgeois groups. The Communists rose from 54 to 76, scoring a particularly heavy vote in Berlin, where they led all parties.

The Nationalists suffered a terrible defeat, ceding their position of second strongest in the Reichstag. Alfred Hugenberg's forces lost chiefly to Hitler's Fascists.

The Saxon district of Leipzig, embracing about one-third of Saxony, gave the Fascists eight times as many votes as at the previous election. This was the first of the thirty-five electoral districts of Germany to complete its returns. It gave the Social-Democrats 288,000 votes, the Communists 142,000, the Fascists 116,000 and the People's party 78,000. The Nationalists and others lost heavily.

Fascists Gain Everywhere.

Fascist gains were recorded without exception on a gigantic scale in every one of the thirty-five electoral districts. Typical figures were those of East Prussia, where they gained 227,000 votes over 1928; in Berlin, where the increase was 142,000; Potsdam (two districts), 366,000; Pomerania, 223,000; Silesia (three districts), 444,000; Magdeburg, 176,000; Saxony (three districts), 484,000; Westphalia (two districts), 319,000; Rhineland (four districts), 590,000. The Rhineland was considered an especially significant district, since it has always been a strong Centrist area.

Among prominent political persons elected to the Reichstag were Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and several other Cabinet members. Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, though unable to leave Geneva to cast his vote, was re-elected.

Hermann Mueller, former Social Democratic Chancellor, was re-elected, as were Premier Otto Braun of Prussia, Rudolph Breitscheid, Philip Scheidemann and Carl Severing, prominent Social-Democrats.

Finance Minister Hermann Dietrich of the State party, Mgr. Ludwig Kaas, Centrist leader in the Reichstag; Minister of Labor Adam Stegewald and Minister of Agriculture Martin Schiele were also re-elected.

Other prominent persons elected were Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the shattered Nationalists, and General Hans von Seeckt, former commander-in-chief of the Reichswehr, who will enter the Reichstag for the first time. This is the General's entry into active politics. He was candidate of the People's party.

Clara Zetkin and Ernst Thaelmann, two of the most noteworthy Communist leaders, were re-elected.

Extremists' Success Expected.

Success of the extremist parties, widely predicted before the election, was considered as a grave threat to the Bruening Cabinet, which has been a minority government from the start and was saved from defeat in July only through President von Hindenburg's sanction of the use of Article 48. Even with the decree-law powers of this article, the government was believed to be facing defeat.

The importance of the Fascist and Communist gains surprised even those who had predicted more seats for these parties and made government observers wonder what would happen next. In their view the government can continue only if it is assured of a more benevolent attitude from the Social Democrats. This is practically assured on matters of foreign policy.

But the difficulty between the Social Democrats and the parties on their right is entirely over domestic issues, such as taxation and unemployment doles. These forced the resignation of Chancellor Mueller's Government on March 27.

The loophole for the government is a possible new coalition, in which, as under Herr Mueller, the Social Democrats would be included. Chancellor Bruening and Premier Otto Braun of Prussia have been careful throughout the campaign to leave a way open for such a coalition.

The present Bruening Government, from which the Social Democrats have stood aside, has been put in an extremely precarious position by losses among its chief supporters.

The next Reichstag promises to be an unruly one, and President Paul Loebe, if re-elected, will have the most difficult session of his career.

Bitter opposition to the republic sent Fascist and Communist voters to the polls. The gains of either party were in effect expected to be a threat to parliamentary government.

Two Killed in Election Row.

Meanwhile their own rivalry provoked numerous clashes in Berlin and the provinces Saturday night. A truckload of Fascists passing Communist headquarters in the Buelowplatz was stoned by a crowd of Communists. Shots followed and then a general mêlée.

The emergency force of police was called out to suppress the riot and made 170 arrests. A bystander and a workman were killed. Other clashes and preventative arrests swelled the number of election prisoners at the police stations to 500.

Reports from the provinces showed that with few exceptions the day passed fairly quietly, especially at the State capitals of Munich, Stuttgart and Karlsruhe, where the election regulations were rigorously enforced. Hamburg, Bremen and Dresden were tranquil, and Koenigsberg and Weimar exceptionally so.

At Leipzig, where eight persons were injured Saturday night, fighting began but was quickly quelled. Clashes between Fascists and Communists were reported from Kassel, Emden, Hannover and Dortmund, but the total number injured amounted to only about a dozen. Several arrests were made.

At Traunstein, Bavaria, the election superintendent, Johann Hogger, was stabbed and fataly injured by a Communist.

ELECTION IS COSTLIEST FOR GERMAN REPUBLIC

$672,000 the Estimated Expense—Proportional Representation Is Basis of Balloting.

BERLIN, Sept. 14 (AP).—All German men and women more than 20 years of age, lunatics and criminals excepted, are entitled to vote in the Reichstag elections.

The candidates are elected on the basis of proportional representation, one member to every 60,000 votes. It is provided that elections must be held on a Sunday or a public holiday.

Today's election will probably go on record as the most costly in the history of the republic, though the cost will hardly stagger the American voter's imagination.

About 2,800,000 marks [$672,000] is the estimated public expense, including national, State and community outlay. This is a big increase over the last election expenses, which totaled 1,866,000 marks, and more than twice as much as either of the 1924 Reichstag elections cost.

A report of campaign expenditures by the various party organizations is not compulsory under German law. The figures voluntarily published by the Socialist party from time to time indicate what this powerful organization considers normal. The Social Democrats spent during the period of 1924-1928 a total of 8,500,000 marks [about $2,040,000] on election campaigns.

LUEBECK FIRST TO REPORT.

Fascists' Vote There Jumped From 1,200 to 15,000.

LUEBECK, Germany, Sept. 14 (AP).—The little Hanseatic republic of Luebeck, the first of Germany's seventeen federated States to complete returns from the Reichstag general election today, showed a big gain for the Fascists.

Though the Social Democrats held their own as the strongest party, with 35,000 votes, the Fascists jumped from 1,200 votes in 1928 to 15,000 today.

The Nationalists lost 5,000 votes. The People's party, weakened by the death of Dr. Gustav Stresemann, was also a heavy loser.

OCEAN PLANES TESTED; WEATHER IS STILL BAD

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Sept. 14.—Under lowering skies and amid intermittent showers, Captain Roy W. Ammel and Roger Q. Williams made flight tests today of the craft in which they hope to set up new transoceanic records. Ammel's Lockheed, in which he expects to fly alone and nonstop from this field to Paris or beyond, roared up and down the island at 140 and 150 miles an hour. After he landed Ammel said he was pleased with its performance. Instrument experts will do a little more work on the plane and a tail wheel will be put on in place of the present skid.

There is little prospect of a take-off before tomorrow or the next day. Dr. James H. Kimball reported a low trough containing two and perhaps three storms extending northeast across the Atlantic, cutting directly through the great circle course.

Williams flew the Emsco plane which Ted Lundgren brought here from Los Angeles and in which Lundgren, William Marcelis and perhaps Williams himself will start a flight around the world as soon as they are ready.

Arthur Goebel, winner of the Dole prize for a flight to Honolulu in 1927 and former transcontinental record holder, announced today that he had canceled his plans to break the transcontinental records now held by Captain Frank Hawks. Goebel will fly to Los Angeles for the installation of a larger oil tank before he attempts a record flight.

Work on the Roosevelt Field runway was continued today. Captain Ammel requested that several rough spots be smoothed out before he attempts getting into the air with a load of more than 9,000 pounds.

PROTESTS TO VATICAN.

French Embassy Objects to Words Attributed to Doumergue.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 14 (AP).—The French Embassy at the Holy See tonight lodged a protest with the office of the Vatican Secretary of State, Cardinal Pacelli, against publication of an alleged statement by President Doumergue that France was essentially a Catholic country. The statement was published in Saturday's edition of the Osservatore Romano. It said that the French President had made the statement in a recent conversation with Cardinal Verdier of Paris.

"We are a great Catholic nation and such we should remain," M. Doumergue was quoted as saying. "Your Eminence is a representative among us of that immense moral force, the Catholic Church. Do not hesitate to act freely, because the anti-clericalism manifested in France is only superficial."

STREET ROW VICTIM DIES.

New Brunswick Man Succumbs to Wounds—Alleged Assailant Held.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 14 (AP).—Edward Hayes, 24 years old, of 14 Railroad Avenue, died in St. Peter's Hospital today from pistol wounds received last night.

John Hayes, his brother, held as a witness, said the two were walking down the street last night when they were approached by Paul Blake, 24, of 152 Burnet Street. An argument followed and Blake pulled out a gun and fired, John told the police. Blake was held on a charge of murder.

Belgian Baby Prince Gets Title.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 14 (AP).—Little Prince Baudouin, baby son of Crown Prince Leopold and Crown Princess Astrid of Belgium, has by royal decree received the title of "Comte de Hainaut." The title is an ancient and traditional one. Baudouin may one day succeed his father as King of the Belgians.

FASCISTS GLORIFY PAN-GERMAN IDEAL

OFFER ECONOMIC PANACEAS

Hitler, Party Founder, "Man Without a Country," Came Back After Year in Jail for Coup in 1923.

The National Socialist party, or the German Fascist party, represents the extreme Pan-German ideal of a purely German State. Its platform includes demands for the immediate unification of Germany and Austria, annulment of the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain, equality in military force with every other country in Europe, the restoration of Germany's colonies, the nationalization of all trusts, the participation of workers in the profits of manufacturing, discontinuance of reparation payments, the socialization of industry and a nation-wide campaign to disfranchise or drive from Germany all the Jews.

Other planks in the party's platform, drawn up by its founder, Adolf Hitler, known as the German Mussolini, are the following:

The land shall be nationalized without compensation and exploited for the common good.

The death penalty shall be applied to usurers and persons who have made large profits out of their fellow men.

All non-Germans shall be expelled from Germany as long as unemployment exists and while it is impossible properly to nourish all German citizens.

No further immigration of non-Germans shall be permitted and all non-Germans who have entered Germany since Aug. 2, 1914, shall be immediately expelled.

The first duty of every citizen is to be physically and mentally at work; those who do not work shall not eat.

Unearned income is to be abolished.

All department stores shall be confiscated by the State, divided into small shops and rented at nominal prices to small shopkeepers.

All journalists must be German citizens, and all productions of art and literature contrary to the principles of true Germanism are to be suppressed.

Program Widely Distributed.

Herr Hitler, a one-time architectural draftsman, is, ironically enough, a man without a country. Born in Braunauon the Inn, in upper Austria, on April 20, 1889, he lost his Austrian citizenship when he volunteered in the German army at the outbreak o fthe war. He failed to apply for German citizenship when he was still a political nonentity, and since he has become the avowed enemy of the present republican form of government his applications for citizenship have been constantly rejected.

On Nov. 8, 1923, Herr Hitler, along with General von Ludendorff, staged the notorious Bavarian "Putsch" [coup] to overthrow the government, declaring himself dictator of Germany. The revolt was quelled the following day and next April Herr Hitler was sentenced to five years' imprisonment. He spent a year in prison, during which time his party deserted him. No longer considered a menace the Government took pity on him and released him.

As the Fascist party in Italy is the creation of Benito Mussolini, so is the Fascist party in Germany the creation of Adolf Hitler. His chief power lies in his oratory and he is ranked in this respect with Alexander Kerensky, Leon Trotsky, Aristide Briand and Signor Mussolini. So dangerous was his oratory considered by the authorities that for four years he was forbidden by every State in Germany, with the exception of Thuringia and Mecklenburg, to speak in public. The ban was first lifted by Bavaria in 1927, but Prussia did not lift it until this year.

Herr Hitler's sonorous, penetrating tenor, combined with his histrionic ability, makes him especially effective with audiences of young men and young women, the backbone of his party. He is also regarded as a remarkable organizer.

A Remarkable Come-Back.

Herr Hitler's come-back after the total collapse of his "Putsch" is considered one of the most remarkable in modern European politics. For a time after the collapse he had hardly a friend left. During his year in prison his party united, against his express command, with the German People's Freedom party. One month after his release he had won enough disciples to found his present party and, in the Reichstag elections of May, 1928, he polled a vote of 809,541, gaining twelve mandates to Parliament.

In their method and organization the German Fascists very closely resemble the Communists. One of the most effective instruments organized by Herr Hitler is the "storm squads," duplicates of the Communist "red front squads." These "storm squads" are thoroughly trained with weapons and are excellently equipped for street fighting with the Communists. The two parties have been held responsible for 90 per cent of the political killings and street brawls that have made German post-war elections the most violent in any European country.

MOTHER JONES STILL LOW.

100-Year-Old Labor Champion Retains Little Nourishment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Mother Mary Jones, labor crusader, who recently celebrated her 100th birthday at her home near Hyattsville, Md., and has been gravely ill, is said to be gradually growing weaker and her friends fear old age may soon take its toll. Her physician, Dr. H. H. Howlett, however, has not been called in for a few days, and it was said at his office tonight that there had not been any definite change in her condition within the last twenty-four hours. She has been experiencing difficulty in retaining nourishment, and if this continues her chances of recovery, it was said, would be slight. She is not suffering from any severe organic trouble and her heart action is fairly strong.

Within the last week her voice, which had been hearty and strong, has weakened, and she has lost weight rapidly. Mother Jones is living with Mrs. Walter E. Burgess, who is giving her every care.

SIXTH AV. EXTENSION OPENS THURSDAY NOON

Walker and Miller Will Cut Ribbons Releasing New Street to the Public.

Mayor Walker and Borough President Julius Miller will cut a white ribbon at Carmine Street and Sixth Avenue Thursday noon, thereby officially opening the Sixth Avenue Extension and providing the city with a new continuous thoroughfare from the Battery to Central Park. A second ribbon will be cut a few minutes later at Canal Street, the lower end of that part of the new highway which has been cut through territory where no street existed before.

The Central Mercantile Association and the Sixth Avenue Association will play a prominent part in the ceremonies arranged to mark the occasion. Other organizations that will participate include the Fourteenth Street Association, the Washington Square Association, the Thirty-fourth Street Midtown Association and the Lower Manhattan Industrial Association.

Plans for the ceremony call for a parade, to form at Sixth Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street at 11 o'clock. In it will be floats and decorated vehicles from the various stores and other concerns along the route of the new thoroughfare. It will be headed by the Street Cleaning Department Band and will have a police escort.

Proceeding south on Sixth Avenue to its present southerly terminus at Carmine Street, the procession will meet Mayor Walker and Borough President Miller. The ribbon, stretched across the street, will be cut and the procession will proceed along the new pavement to Canal Street, where the second ribbon will be cut.

The new section of the avenue, three-fifths of a mile in length, varies from 100 to 150 feet in width. The project was promoted by Borough President Miller at an aggregate cost of $8,000,000.

SHOES STOLEN, TRIES TO DIE

When some one stole his shoes while he slept on a bench in Central Park, it was the last straw in a harvest of misfortunes for Alwin Krammer, 41 years old, veteran of the Germany Navy, who tried three times in succession last night to end his life by hurling himself in front of a Second Avenue surface car at Seventy-seventh Street.

Hatless and coatless and in his stocking feet, he was first saved when Motorman Callahan applied his brakes with such suddenness that he shook up the passengers. In the crowd that gathered was Patrolman John Ronan.

Ronan helped Krammer to his feet, but as the motorman started the car the veteran wrenched himself from the patrolman's grip and again fell in front of the car. The car was quickly stopped and Krammer picked up. Krammer made a third attempt but was restrained by Ronan.

Dr. Milton of Metropolitan Hospital took Krammer to Bellevue for observation. Krammer said he was a gunner's mate on the cruiser Blücher, which was sunk in Scapa Flow. He came to the United States in 1925 and until about four months ago had worked as a seaman or a waiter.

His last money was spent for a new pair of shoes, which he said were tight. He took them off to rest his feet while he slept on a bench in Central Park, and when he awoke they were gone. It was then that Krammer said he decided to end it all.

SCHOOL BOARD BESIEGED.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERTOWN, Mass., Sept. 14.—Developments in the Watertown school strike continued tonight with secret and open meetings by various school and civic organizations. No settlement was reached in the walk-out of more than 500 students in protest over longer school hours.

The school committee went into secret executive session in the Town Hall, and its members after the conference eluded a crowd of more than 2,500 who stormed the building to learn the decision of the committee.

Tension was at such a pitch that Dr. Charles O. Chase, acting chairman, called for police protection. Chie fof Police Willmore stood at the committee room door to guard against intrusion. Reserves were stationed all around the building at intervals of ten feet.

Dr. Chase refused to tell what decision had been reached, and the waiting crowds swarmed into the square, blocking motor traffic.

While the committee convened in private, former Selectman Edward D. Holland mounted the Town Hall steps and addressed the crowd, advising the students to go back to school tomorrow without bringing or asking for notes of excuse from their parents, so that the school committee might have time to settle the differences of opinion over the hours. Mingled cheers and jeers greeted his remarks.

39 CARS OF OIL EXPLODE.

Train Jumps Track Ablaze In Nebraska—One Body Found.

EMERALD, Neb., Sept. 14 (AP).—One man was killed and fear was expressed by railroad workers that others may have lost their lives early today in the derailment of a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy freight train, thirty-nine gasoline and oil cars of which exploded and burst into flames. Railroad officials estimated the property damage at more than $70,000.

The dead man, who was unidentified, was uncovered after a third of the eighty-car train had been lifted from the wreckage. Wrecking crews worked diligently to clear the débris in the belief other victims would be found.

Belief was expressed by Burlington officials that friction of steel grinding against steel caused the cars to explode. They exploded one after the other, shaking the countryside and endangering a score of buildings and homes in this village. The train was east bound from the Casper (Wyo.) oil field.

The fire department from Lincoln, six miles away, fought the flames, but was helpless in the face of the constant shower of blazing gasoline and oil.

CHANGES IN TARIFF MAPPED IN CANADA

Ottawa Believes New Protective Rates May Be Announced Today or Tomorrow.

ABOUT 200 NEW DUTIES

Horizontal Increase Is Laid Aside to Deal With Individual Industries.

OTTAWA, Sept. 14 (Canadian Press).—It is the opinion in well-informed circles here that Canadian key industries and minor branches of trade and manufacture will receive more protection in tariff changes to be announced in Parliament this week.

The boot and shoe, cotton, automobile and woolen industries are likely to be included in the long list of duty changes, which will number around 200. Many of the other textile tariff items will be affected in the upward revision.

In all likelihood announcement of the expected changes will be made tomorrow or Tuesday. When the official statement is made, and it is understood it has yet to be finally drafted, it will come from Premier R. B. Bennett, as Minister of Finance.

The original plan for a horizontal increase in the tariff, with a long list of exceptions stipulated, is understood to have been laid aside, after consideration. Each industry affected will be dealt with on the merits of the particular case. In certain instances an increase of 5 per cent, in many 10 per cent, and in certain ones 15 per cent, may be announced.

"A Canada first" attitude is said to be the governing factor in the tariff alterations, and is in line with the election campaign of the new administration. The manufacture of such goods as can be made in Canada, equal opportunity and fair competition for Canadians, with a view to increasing employment among the workmen of the country, it is stated, will be the arguments which the government will advance in support of its tariff changes.

The week the House is now entering upon will doubtless be strenuous. The first order will be the continuation of the resolution to amend the customs act with respect to dumping. If that makes sufficiently speedy progress, the Prime Minister will announce his tariff changes tomorrow. If not, the announcement will be put off until Tuesday.

PLANE DIVES TO SEA; FLIERS LITTLE HURT

Bay State Laborers Rescue Two After the Engine Fails—Craft Is Saved.

Special to The New York Times.

KINGSTON, Mass., Sept. 14.—Forced down by engine trouble, two Fall River fliers who attempted to land on Bay Farm at the mouth of the Jones River overshot the mark and plunged into the ocean fifty feet from shore. Both were rescued, practically unharmed, by two witnesses.

The aviators were Oscar C. Parker, the pilot, and Albine Chabot, his passenger. They took off today from the Fall River airport at Portsmouth, R. I., carrying political advertising for Edward Cote of Fall River, a candidate for the Governor's Council.

Their rescuers were Charles McCarty of Kingston and Charles Winkler of Plymouth, who were digging a well on Bay Farm. Hearing the skipping engine, they ran to a knoll to investigate. Just as the craft was about to swoop down a puff of wind caught it and hurled it into the water.

McCarthy and Winkler raced to the water's edge and struck out for the plane, which was stuck in the mud, its tail high out of water. Chabot has been thrown clear and was floating near the craft. Parker was trapped in the tiny cabin. Both were hauled ashore by their rescuers. The plane was little damaged.

PLANS CANONIZATION FETE.

Auriesville (N. Y.) Shrine to Honor New Saints.

Special to The New York Times.

AURIESVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 14.—A celebration will be held here on Sept. 28 in honor of the recent canonization of Isaac Jaques and his companions, Reni Goupil and John de la Lande, Jesuit martyrs, slain by Indians. This place was the site of their labors, suffering and martyrdom.

The invitation was issued in the name of the Rev. Peter F. Cusick, S. J., director of the Auriesville Shrine, Fultonville, N. Y. Concerning the new saints, it says.

"They helped to ennoble the origins of the white man in the vast territory extending like a great arc back of our seaboard from Quebec to New Orleans. They contributed an element of our civilization which still prevails in all that region. To the scholarship and energy of these missionaries and their fellows we owe it that, through the Jesuit relations, much of our early history is not myth and legend but fact and reality."

MEXICAN CYCLE RACE FATAL.

Woman and Boy Killed in Nogales as Rider Is Thrown.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, Sept. 14 (AP).—Two persons were killed and six injured, some seriously, today during a motorcycle race in which a rider was thrown from his machine, which plunged at terrific speed into a crowd of spectators.

Francisco Pedroza of Phoenix, Ariz., was riding the motorcycle, one of several entered in a race down the Mexican side of International Street. He was thrown seventy-five feet and critically injured when his wheel struck a curbing. The machine, with its throttle wide open, careened half a block further before striking the crowd.

Señora Gertrude de Ibarra, 50, of Nogales, was killed when pinned against an automobile, and an unidentified Mexican boy selling doughnuts in the crowd died a few minutes after being struck by the motorcycle. Alfredo Salazar of Altar, Sonora, was believed to be fatally injured. Both his legs were amputated by the machine.

Governor Stresses in Report That With Aid the Island Will Solve Its Problems.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The serious plight of Porto Rico and measures needed or under way to make the island a model of prosperity and fine living are set forth by Theodore Roosevelt in his first annual report as Governor for the fiscal year ended June 30. The Governor took office in October, 1929.

The report discloses an appalling condition of public health and makes no effort to minimize serious economic conditions.

"The people of Porto Rico," Governor Roosevelt says, "are loyal American citizens and we believe that, desperate though the problems of Porto Rico may be at this time, there is a practical solution for them which can be supplied by work on the island and aid from without the island, which will create a proper and adequate economic condition.

"Furthermore our people here have a most important and useful rôle which they are perfectly capable of playing in the future. They are in an ideal position to interpret our aims and ambitions to the nations lying to the south and, in turn, to interpret and explain those nations' thoughts and ideas to us.

For Training in Diplomacy.

He suggests that "in the future" young natives be included in the American Diplomatic Service and that the university at Rio Piedras be developed into a pan-American institution to fulfill functions for all of Latin America much as those now performed by the School of Tropical Medicine on the island.

Asserting that when he took office "we ere struggling with three problems—disease, poverty and an island revenue that was insufficient to meet the budget then in force," Governor Roosevelt says:

"We were and are a prey to disease of many kinds. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, 4,442 of our people died from tuberculosis. Our death rate in this disease was higher than that of any other place in the Western Hemisphere, and four and one-half times the death rate in the continental United States. Our death rate from malaria was two and one-half times the rate in the continental United States.

"Phrasing it differently, some 35,000 people in our island are now suffering from tuberculosis, some 200,000 from malaria and some 600,000 from hookworm. Besides hookworm, there are a number of other intestinal parasites that cause great damage; among them are ascaris, bilharzia, trichuris, &c.

"This condition is all the more deplorable because the climate here is exceptionally healthy. We should be nearly free from such plagues as tuberculosis. We should be considered as a health resort. We have an excellent, hard-working Insular Department of Health, but the funds at its disposal have been, and are, entirely inadequate to face the problem.

"With the intestinal parasites such as hookworm, the whole matter hinges on soil pollution. In order to fight this effectively a costly and far-reaching campaign must be undertaken, which it is entirely beyond our insular revenues to finance.

Medical Attention Is Rare.

"In so far as the mountain districts are concerned, the mountain folk get little medical attention of any kind in seventy-five out of seventy-seven districts. There are two districts where mass work is being conducted against hookworm. I have ridden continuously through the hills, and almost invariably ask the farmers when a doctor has been there. So far, I have not found in those regions an instance where there has been a recent visit from a competent medical man."

When he took office more than 60 per cent of the people were out of employment, while the financial situation of the government was "desperate," and a deficit was being piled up which threatened to total $2,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year.

Then $1,500,000 was appropriated by the United States Congress for hurricane relief, non-essential expenses were eliminated from government operations, and a $4,000,000 bond issue was made, and as a result the floating debt was funded, banks were freed of loans they were carrying, and the budget for the coming year was balanced. The expected deficit was reduced by $500,000.

As for health conditions, a broad program was instituted with aid from the United States, notably the American Relief Association's Children's Fund, Inc., the Golden Rule Foundation and other American welfare organizations concentrated in the Porto Rico Child Health Committee. This assistance was and still is needed, Governor Roosevelt emphasizes, for without it the "frontal" attack cannot be made that will bring conditions to the point where Porto Rico probably will be able to handle the problem.

As a result of concentrated efforts, the infant mortality rate has been cut from 179 to 133 per 1,000, the toll of dysentery and other diseases has been restricted, and the general mortality rate has been reduced to 21.3.

A system of small ownership is being fostered by purchases of land from the big estates, the installation of an efficient vocational and rural school policy, and the teaching of farm methods through visual instruction. There are also to be inaugurated plans for producing more vegetables and for fostering produce-marketing cooperatives.

Governor Roosevelt pays tribute to President Hoover, Congress and the departments of the United States Government as well as to civilian agencies in this country for their sympathetic cooperation, but warns that such aid must be continued if Porto Rico is to come permanently into the station that is its due.

20 ARRESTED IN PLOT UNCOVERED IN LAHORE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LAHORE, India, Sept. 14.—Fourteen deadly bombs have been discovered at the bottom of the Ravi River in connection with a widespread terrorist plot which the police believe was intended to rescue prisoners in the Lahore conspiracy case.

The recoveries also included a large variety of chemicals and other materials for making bombs.

Twenty arrests, made so far, disclose the extent to which the terrorist movement has spread among Hindu youths of highly respectable families, for all but one of the twenty prisoners are Hindus.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, Sept. 14.—A mob of 3,000 surrounded a group of forty police at Saoner in the Nagpur district today and stoned them while they were superintending the issuance of liquor from a government warehouse.

Members of the mob lay on the road and placed obstructions in the way of the motor truck carrying the liquor away.

The mob grew so abusive and threatening that the police dispersed it with a charge, injuring seven of the demonstrators.

SPEAKER HITS GERARD LIST

He Calls Statement Stupid and Denies Those Named Fix Government's Policy.

Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., chairman of the Congressional committee investigating the Communist activities in the United States, was ushered out the rear door of the Azure Temple, Boston Road and East 172d Street, Bronx, last night, at the close of a meeting at which communism was the chief topic discussed. The meeting was under the auspices of the Bronx Free Fellowship Forum and was attended by three dozen Communists, about 200 Socialists, one Republican and one Democrat.

Mr. Fish's exit from the rear door was the result of an attempt by the Communist group to break up the meeting, after they had listened somewhat impatiently to his arraignment of communism. In a body they started toward the door, singing "Solidarity Forever," a few remaining behind to retain possession of the piano for accompaniment purposes.

Question Starts Trouble.

The exit was prompted, during the free discussion that followed Mr. Fish's address, by a question from a plain-clothes member of the Bomb Squad, seated in the audience, as to whether Communism was a "racket." The question was answered in the affirmative by James O'Neal, Socialist editor of The New Leader, another speaker at the meeting.

Mr. Fish began his address by denouncing lynching, and wound up by declaring that the list of sixty-four men declared by former Ambassador Gerard to be the real rulers of America was the "most asinine, unfounded, stupid statement made in the past generation by any public or semi-public figure." This came after Mr. Fish had had the Gerard statement cast up to him several times by the Socialist members of the audience who had remained after the Communists had left. One person present was identified as a Republican by the chairman of the meeting, and one cheer at a mention of "Al Smith" identified a Democrat.

Mr. Fish scathingly arraigned the Communist party. First, he denied its existence, and at the end, declared it was of no consequence. He declared that the Communist party was only a branch of the Third International, with headquarters in Moscow, and that is was not a real American party at all.

Attacks Soviet Dictatorship.

The so-called dictatorship of the proletariat is, in reality, in Russia, he said, the dictatorship of a few self-constituted revolutionists over the proletariat. The Communists had nothing to do with the overthrow of the old régime in Rusisa, Mr. Fish declared. Trotsky was at that time living in the Bronx, and Lenin in Switzerland. The government they overthrew was the "weak-kneed" Socialist government of Kerensky, he told the audience.

And when the Communists gained power he went on, they showed what they stood for—class hatred, hatred of God, and the Anti-Christ, destruction of all forms of private property, world revolution, and the dictatorship of the proletariat.

The representatives of the Communist party had already left when Mr. Fish, taunted by references to the unemployment situation, informed the audience that if "you don't like it here, why don't you go back to where you came from?"

Mr. O'Neal spoke before Mr. Fish in both periods of discussion. His concluding remarks were to the effect that the Congressional investigating committee was of little use or importance, as the Department of Justice, through the agents in the Communist party, knows every detail of the working of the Communist party in the United States.

In reply to the question as to whether communism was a "racket," Mr. O'Neal said it was to the extent that Communist leaders seized upon the case of every workingman who got in trouble on one charge or another, appealed for funds for his defense, as a victim of class "persecution," and then used the money for their salaries.

Mr. Fish, after his denunciation of the Gerard list, denied indignantly that any of the men on the list had any more influence on legislation, or on governmental policy, than any of his audience. They were all "stalwart patriotic American citizens," Mr. Fish said, and they "have more sense than to try and interfere where they have no chance whatsoever of success."

PRODUCES VITAMIN D BY AN X-RAY TUBE

University of Cincinnati Discovers Method to Implant Health Element in Food.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 14 (AP).—Discovery of a new method to make vitamin D by a peculiar kind of X-ray was made public at the University of Cincinnati today.

Its usefulness may be described as somewhat like getting your cod-liver oil out of an X-ray tube.

The development is in effect a wide extension of the field of "artificial sunshine," deep down into the zone of invisible rays that usually have far different effects than the sun. It was perfected in the basic science research laboratory.

In nature a large source for vitamin D is the effect of sunshine upon plants. Recently it has been found that the sun's invisible, ultraviolet, or "tan" rays, produce vitamin D in many foods such as olive oil, milk and cod-liver oil, and that the rays do this by changing a substance in the foods called ergosterol into the vitamin.

Artificially produced ultra-violet rays do the same thing and have been used to produce a whole new series of health foods.

X-rays have been considered too lethal for food making. Only about a billionth of an inch long, they frequently destroy the substances through which they pass, especially the living ones. Ultraviolet rays are much longer.

Between the ultraviolet and the X-rays is a zone of radiation called soft X-rays. These have lengths of about a millionth of an inch. These are the rays that make the new vitamin D. They operate apparently like both the sun and artificial ultraviolet. At any rate, the results on animal health thus far are the same.

Rats having rickets, which is a Vitamin D or sunshine deficiency disease common to children, were fed foods that had been treated with soft X-rays. In about three weeks the rickets were cured, according to the laboratory records. This is similar to the time of cures from Vitamin D made by the older methods.

The basic science research laboratory obtains the soft X-rays from a special tube made abroad. It resembles a rolled-up magazine. Its rays are shot out through an aluminum window.

ASKS IMMEDIATE FUND FOR FLUSHING SUBWAY

Third Ward Group Drafts a Petition for Submission to City Boards.

A petition will be filed with the Board of Estimate and Apportionment by the Third Ward Subway Extension League of Queens requesting that funds be appropriated for the immediate construction of an extension of the subway route from Manhattan to Main Street, Flushing, over Route 52 as adopted and legalized in 1913. The route would terminate in Bayside, according to an announcement yesterday by James M. Meehan, president of the league.

Route 52 was included in the proposed program of the Board of Transportation announced Sept. 16 last year, a resolution calling for the petition stated. The territory to be served from Flushing to Bayside has no transportation authorized by franchise except that provided by the Long Island Railroad, it added. The resolution emphasized that the league several times had informed the Board of Transportation that no objection would be raised to any changes the board might find necessary to make in the route provided it served the communities affected.

DIXIE DAVIS DIES IN CRASH.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 14.—John Dixon (Dixie) Davis, 35 years old, former member of the Canadian Royal Air Force and well-known Cincinnati commercial pilot, met instant death at the Muncie (Ind.) municipal airport this afternoon when his plane crashed to the ground from an altitude of 1,000 feet.

TOUR FLIERS FIGHT STORM TO WINNIPEG

DAVIS MAKES THIRD PLACE

Livingston Advances to Fifth, While Russell and Zeller in Fords Hold First and Second.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 14.—Wind, fog and rain caused some disorder in the orderly procession of the thirty-five planes of the sixth annual National Air Tour, which came from Duluth, Minn., across the international boundary by way of Grand Forks, N. D., and landed here today.

When the aerial argosy arrived all of the eighteen contesting planes were accounted for on the field, but four of the accompanying planes were missing, having been forced to earth en route.

The situation was somewhat more in disorder when it was discovered that one of the missing planes was carrying the tour officials as passengers.

The contestants also experienced difficulty in getting through and the night point standings showed several changes in the positions of the first six after the official plane, piloted by E. V. (Crazy) Jones, arrived with scorekeepers.

Mishap Imperils Haldeman.

George Haldeman, veteran pilot of the Bellanca Aircraft Corporation, was the principal sufferer from a day of misfortune. After he fought his way through the storm of the morning flight his engine suddenly dropped a valve while still more than 100 miles from his goal at Grand Forks.

He limped in on the remaining eight cylinders, realizing the while that the dropped valve might at any moment crash the steel shank through the top of the motor and wreck the plane.

After a hurried change of cylinders at the noon control point, he took off again for Winnipeg, but when less than half way there he was forced to land when two of his spark plugs, those in the newly installed cylinder, blew out of the motor entirely.

Despite his set-back, Haldeman managed to land before some of the others, who had been forced off their courses by adverse conditions in weather and visibility.

Arthur Davis and John Livingston, pilots of the two Waco entries, continued their advance on the two leading Ford planes and came through the bad weather with best averages for speed shown thus far.

Davis moved forward into third place, displacing Haldeman, who dropped back to sixth, while Livingston rested easily in fifth position tonight, with twenty-six more legs of the flight still to come.

Standing of the Contestants.

engine and went to work. The motor had flown more than 7,000 miles, including the transatlantic flight, since it was overhauled last.

The propeller of the Question Mark was returned yesterday from the Curtiss factory, where a tip crack had been repaired. A new propeller ordered from France will not arrive before the middle of the week, and it will be held here for orders from Coste.

While Veron worked on the engine Major Coste studied the course with Bellonte and C. S. Casey Jones, president of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, who has been advising the Frenchmen.

From Boston the Question Mark will start Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock for Cleveland, arriving there about 3 P. M., Eastern Standard Time. Wednesday morning the fliers will continue to Indianapolis for luncheon and in the afternoon fly to Detroit, where they will spend Wednesday night. They will leave Detroit Thursday at noon and expect to land Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Curtiss-Reynolds Airport, Chicago.

Friday they will continue to St. Paul and Minneapolis by way of Milwaukee. They plan to remain over Sunday in Minneapolis.

FLIERS' WIVES STAY IN PARIS.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Colonel William E. Easterwood left today from Cherbourg aboard the liner Leviathan for New York with Mrs. Easterwood to present to Major Coste and Lieutenant Bellonte the $25,000 prize for their Paris-New York-Dallas flight. The plans of the French fliers' wives to join them in America apparently have been abandoned, because their husbands' good-will tour of America will require several weeks and it would be impossible to accompany them.

Commissioner General Bascom Slemp and Commissioner Charles H. Burke, who had been in Paris for the last ten days organizing American participation in the French Colonial and Overseas Exposition, also left on the Leviathan. They will submit building proposals to President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson. These proposals already have the full endorsement of Representative J. O. Linthicum, member of the House committe on embassy building appropriations, who is another passenger on the same ship.

Among others aboard the Leviathan are Frederich Sackett, Ambassador to Germany; Hugh Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium; Charles Dewey, American financial adviser to the Polish Government, and Solomon Hurok, first American impresario to conclude an agreement with the Soviets for artistic exchange between Russia and the United States. He is taking with him a number of Russian artists, including a ballet, to appear in New York during the coming season.

FOG FORCES FLIERS BACK TO JAPAN

to the Mussel Rock station of the company here late today that the Japanese Government radio station at Ochiishi on Hokkaido Island had intercepted a message from the monoplane City of Tacomo at 5:10 P. M. Sunday [4:10 A. M. New York time], saying the plane was "proceeding 230 magnetic in dense fog and apparently in trouble."

The President Taft told the Mussel Rock station this meant the plane was heading southwest or returning to Japan.

"The report would place Bromley about 1,200 miles at sea," the President Taft's report said.

Pacific Coast Reports Messages.

Special to The New York Times.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 14.—Earlier tonight it had been believed the fliers were 100 miles south of Kodiak Island in the Gulf of Alaska. Faint radio signals, which were being picked up by widely separated operators and believed to be from the Bromley plane, had given indication the two fliers were still in the air, although little definite was known as to their progress.

Faint radio signals, too weak to be made out but coming in on the wave length assigned to Lieutenant Bromley's plane, were reported at 12:30 P. M. Pacific Time [4:30 P. M. Sunday in New York] by the operator at the naval radio station on St. Paul Island in the Bering Sea, according to the naval station at Bremerton. The St. Paul operator said he had been trying for nearly a half hour to copy the messages.

John Buffelen of Tacoma, backer of the flight, received a message this morning from an amateur radio operator on St. Paul Island saying that the Bromley plane had been heard at 2:30 A. M. "Making 103 miles," was all the amateur could copy from the weak signals.

Edward R. Stevens of Seattle, also an amateur, reported he had heard signals on the City of Tacoma wave length, 34.2 meters, beginning at 2:37 o'clock this morning. "Bumpy weather, moving along," were the only words Mr. Stevens could pick up. From the tone of the signals Mr. Stevens said he was confident they came from an airplane. They continued until 5:30 A. M., when they gradually faded out entirely.

The Seattle Harbor radio said it had been in communication early this morning with the American Mail liner President Cleveland, which was then 2,000 miles out from Seattle, and that the Cleveland had been listening in vain throughout the night for the City of Tacoma.

Many Waited for Word.

Lieutenant Bromley and Harold Gatty, if all had gone well, should have been somewhere near the half-way mark in the westernmost tip of the Aleutian chain and only a few hundred miles south of St. Paul Island. The naval ratio station at Cordova, Alaska, also reported the plane had not been heard. The Alaska cable office here likewise reported no news.

The Mackay Radio Company, in close touch with all ships plying the northern Great Circle course across the Pacific, which the City of Tacoma was to follow, said operators on all the vessels had been alert for a signal from the plane, but that none had come in.

There also was a report here that an amateur radio operator in Vancouver, B. C., had overheard an unidentified Japanese vessel reporting the fliers as sighted off the Aleutians. Two Coast Guard cutters were standing by in the Aleutian Islands, under orders to steam to the aviators' aid at a moment's notice if necessary.

The Coast Guard office here received the following message from the cutter Chelan at Unalaska at 1:45 P. M. today [5:45 P. M. in New York].

"Chelan and Haida standing by Unalaska to assist Bromley if necessary. Nothing heard from plane so far. Strong southwest wind, rain and fog prevailing here since noon Saturday. Will advise any information received."

Captain H. D. Hinckley, commander of the North Pacific division of the guard, said that the cutters Chelan and Haida, cruising with Unalaska, one of the largest of the Aleutian Islands, as their base, had been ordered to listen in and intercept any message that might be flashed from the City of Tacoma. A twenty-four-hour watch was maintained at the Coast Guard radio station at Port Townsend and in the offices of the guard in Seattle, Captain Hinckley said.

BOYD HELD BY WEATHER.

He Stays at Charlottetown, P. E. I., Delaying Hop to Harbor Grace.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Sept. 14 (AP).—Captain Erroll Boyd and Lieutenant Harry Connor, who planned to fly to Harbor Grace today to complete the first lap of a proposed transatlantic flight from Montreal to London postponed their departure because of unfavorable weather conditions.

The two fliers landed at Tea Hill, five miles from here, early last night after head winds and a low ceiling had so delayed them after their departure from Montreal that they would have been forced to make a late night landing at Harbor Grace. They turned back over Cape Breton.

Boyd was awaiting favorable weather reports before continuing on to Harbor Grace, and meanwhile kept his plane in readiness today.

It was raining here. The two fliers, who are attempting to pilot the Columbia, Clarence Chamberlin's old transatlantic plane, for a second time across the ocean, reported conditions yesterday more dangerous than any they expected on the ocean hop itself.

Boyd credited the Columbia's successful crossing of the mountains of Southern Quebec to Connor's fine navigation. They said they flew blind part of the time, and that the flat land of Prince Edward Island looked good as dusk fell.

SCORE SUBPOENAED IN RENDT LIBEL CASE

LYNCH TO QUIT, HE SAYS

Richmond Borough President Announces He Will Drop Politics at End of His Term.

Members of the judiciary, civic and county officials and men identified with local politics have been subpoenaed as witnesses to today's hearing into the charges of criminal libel brought by David S. Rendt, chairman of the Democratic County Committee, against the Staten Island Advance Company, Inc., publishers of the Staten Island Advance. The hearing will be in the magistrate's court at West New Brighton.

The libel case results from charges made by the Staten Island Advance in the primary election fight between Borough President Lynch and the county chairman for the leadership of the Staten Island organization.

He Recites Accusations.

In his complaint, Mr. Rendt alleges that on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, the Staten Island Advance published front-page editorial articles accusing him of dominating the Staten Island judiciary and the District Attorney's office. He further alleges that the articles linked him with racketeers and other undesirable persons in his fight against the Borough President.

Among those subpoenaed, in addition to Mr. Rendt, include:

Justice WILLIAM T. FETHERSTON of the Court of Special Sessions.
HENRY W. BRIDGES, city magistrate.

Lynch to Quit, He Says.

Much surprise was occasioned in political circles yesterday when Borough President Lynch announced that whether his primary election ticket was victorious or not, he would not run for public office again after he had served out his present term as Borough President.

"When I have completed my present term as Borough President, which will be in 1933," said Mr. Lynch, "I will turn the office over to a much younger man."

There were rumors yesterday that after the primary election the Borough President would ask for the resignation of County Chairman Rendt as Commissioner of Public Works. Rendt has held that post for the past five years. The salary is $12,000.

MRS. ROSS LAUDS WET IN ILLINOIS CAMPAIGN

The Democratic Women's Leader Assails Mrs. McCormick's Referendum Stand.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 14 (AP).—Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former Governor of Wyoming and chairman of the women's national committee of the Democratic party, yesterday entered the Illinois Senatorial prohibition controversy by congratulating J. Hamilton Lewis, avowed wet Democratic candidate, for his stand on prohibition, and criticizing the stand of Mrs. McCormick, the Republican nominee.

Mr. Lewis, in an address Saturday at Decatur, Ill., was quoted as saying that Mrs. Ross had proclaimed the prohibition question "a moral one and it should not be taken up as a political issue as it disconcerts women and leads them from other questions that are political."

Mrs. Ross said, in her telegram:

"I rejoice that you, as the Democratic candidate for the Senate in Illinois, take a stand upon prohibition that cannot be misinterpreted.

"I believe that there is no difference between the wet Senator or Congressman who votes dry and the dry candidate who is ready to vote wet if by so doing he or she may gain their election. It is my conviction that every candidate for political office and particularly for a position as distinguished and important as a seat in the United States Senate, should be ready to stand or fall by their convictions.

"I feel that if the majority of the people of Illinois are dissatisfied with present conditions in respect to the liquor traffic they cannot with safety send as their representative to Washington a woman who has to rely upon a referendum to know what stand she will take if she should be elected."

WATER CASE TO CONTINUE.

Rebuttal Starts Today in New Jersey's Delaware River Suit.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 14.—Charles N. Burch, special master for the United States Supreme Court, plans to complete taking of testimony this week in New Jersey's suit to restrain New York City from diverting 600,000,000 gallons of water a day from the Delaware River and its tributaries.

New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania have presented their cases at protracted hearings held here, in New York City and in Philadelphia. Last week was devoted to an inspection of the waterway, and rebuttal testimony will be started tomorrow at the State House here.

There have been reports that the case might end in a compromise, but Duane E. Minard, Assistant Attorney General of New Jersey, said tonight he was determined tot have the matter go to the court for decision.

CENSORSHIP STIRS CUBANS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 14.—Censorship of news from interior cities of Cuba to Havana newspapers was placed in effect today by General Manuel Delgado, Secretary of the Interior, and has started a bitter controversy between Cuban newspapers and the government over freedom of the press.

The chief of the Department of Communications has received drastic orders as to how to handle all news for newspapers in Havana. The orders are to refuse messages reporting alarming conditions in any section of the island and messages which might cause unrest or injure the proper functioning of the administration of President Machado.

KARLIN HOLDS WARD LAX IN PUBLIC DUTY

Attorney General Accused by Socialist Candidate of Favoring Public Utilities.

ELECTION ABUSES CHARGED

Nominee Also Says State Official Has Neglected to Investigate Tammany Corruption.

The administration of the office of the State Attorney General by its incumbent, Hamilton Ward, was attacked yesterday by William Karlin, Socialist choice for that office. Mr. Karlin charged that Mr. Ward had been derelict in his duty in enforcing the election laws, disclosing corruption in public office and protecting the public against the public-utility and water-power interests.

"Under the present administration of the State government, the Attorney General has completely gone to sleep and has failed to exercise properly the functions of his office," Mr. Karlin said. "There is a complete breakdown of public regulation of all public utilities.

"If I were elected Attorney General, I would exert all the powers of my office in favor of the direct distribution under public agencies of electricity generated under public authority from public water-power sites. Hitherto the Attorneys General of the State of New York, in utter disregard of their oath of office, have permitted the alienation of public power sites, which, under their very eyes, have passed into private hands. Legislatures gave over to the power interests properties worth hundreds of millions of dollars without protest from the Attorney General. Thus, the people were compelled by the private distributors of public power to pay three times as much for electric power as it cost to produce.

"Equally negligent is the present Attorney General with respect to other matters of public interest. In New York a Tammany leader is accused of accepting a cash bribe in return for which he secured the appointment of a typical Tammany henchman to the bench. As head of the law department of the State of New York, the Attorney General, a Republican, has failed to use his department to make a thorough investigation of the facts, but left it to a fellow Tammanyite District Attorney to whitewash the Mayor and the higher-up Tammany leaders who picked that magistrate.

"Even more wilfully negligent has been the Republican Attorney General in permitting his Tammany friends to violate the provisions of the election law. He has permitted Tammany to have floaters by the thousands in the city of New York and to deny the people in many districts the right to vote secretly, and to count out candidates who received a majority of the votes in certain districts.

"If I were elected Attorney General, I would use the power of the law department to insure the people the full protection of the law in every election district."

LOSER MAY BLOCK NOMINEE.

Michigan Governor's Recount Move Might Halt Certification.

DETROIT, Sept. 14 (AP).—Out of a combination of circumstances there appeared today the possibility—if not probability—that all the strenuous work of Alexander J. Groesbeck and Wilber M. Brucker in the primary election campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor might come to naught.

Should Groesbeck persist in his determination to demand a recount of the votes cast last Tuesday it appeared more than likely that certification of the nominee would be delayed so long as to make it impossible to get the successful candidate's name on the ballot by Nov. 4.

On the face of revised and corrected unofficial and official returns Mr. Brucker won the nomination by 5,555 votes. The poll tonight stood: Brucker 369,927, Groesbeck 364,372.

Every indication today was that the Groesbeck forces had not altered their determination to petition for a recount of the 800,000 votes cast. Mr. Groesbeck has until next Friday, ten days after the primary, in which to present his formal petition for a recount.

MURDER OF YOUTH, 19, LAID TO LIQUOR FEUD

Trenton Police Seize Two for Questioning in Battle of Still Operators and Hi-jackers.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 14.—One youth is dead and two men are under arrest as a result of what Mercer County authorities believe was a battle between operators of a still in Hamilton Township and hi-jackers.

Anthony Mazakis, 19 years old, of 201 Second Street, was found shot to death at 7 o'clock this morning on the Yardville-Windsor Road, several miles from this city. He had been shot in the left side by a shotgun held at close range, and the police believe that he was slain elsewhere and his body taken in an automobile to the point where it was found.

Jacob Kraus, 38, of Cedar Lane, and Joseph Deyak, 26, of Adeline Street, were arrested late today as a result of information given by the victim's mother, and they are being held for further questioning. They have admitted, the Trenton police say, that Mazakis went with them last night to a still on the William Murphy farm, about two miles from where the body was found, but they have refused to reveal what happened there or afterward.

The still, which was discovered during the investigation of the murder, was a 150-gallon affair, housed in a barn on the farm. The owner of the property told the police he did not know the barn was occupied.

Mazakis left his home shortly before last midnight with Kraus and Deyak after his mother had pleaded with him not to do so, she told the police. A friend had warned her some days ago that her son would come to harm if he went again to Hamilton Township as he knew too much about the bootlegging racket there, Mrs. Mazakis was reported to have said.

REPUBLICANS WAVER AS CONVENTION NEARS

Leaders Uncertain Whether Tuttle Will Take Nomination Unless Unity Is Promised.

DOUBT ALSO AS TO MAIER

State Chairman Under Fire as Many See Lack of Planning for the Fall Campaign.

KING URGED FOR THE POST

Reaction to Federal Prosecutor's Prohibition Statement Thursday May Determine if He Will Run.

The Republican party leaders of New York approach the State convention, which will convene in Albany a week from Thursday, in a state of uncertainty, it was learned yesterday.

They are uncertain as to whether United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, the most likely nominee and believed by many of them to be the only candidate with a chance to defeat Governor Roosevelt, will take the nomination unless harmony and a reasonable amount of unity on the prohibition issue can be brought about among the delegates to the convention and the members of the party.

Maier's Retention in Doubt.

They are uncertain also whether William J. Maier, whose leadership has been subjected to severe criticism, will be continued as chairman of the State committee.

Some of the party chieftains, dissatisfied with Mr. Maier's conduct of the party affairs, and particularly with his alleged failure to make adequate preparation for the coming State campaign, recently have put forward Clarence King of Syracuse as their choice for chairman. The candidate for Governor will be in a position to name a new State chairman.

Many of the friends of Mr. Tuttle are known to be dissatisfied with Mr. Maier's leadership. It has been learned recently that friends of Attorney General Hamilton Ward, the most likely nominee for Governor if Mr. Tuttle should not be named, feel the same way and that Fred A. Bradley, Erie County chairman and Mr. Ward's principal sponsor, would be likely to support Mr. King.

Mr. Tuttle's statement on prohibition probably will be made on Thursday. It is expected to be wet but, as far as can be learned, he had not revealed to his friends and political associates just what his position will be or whether he will go so far as to declare for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Mr. Tuttle's friends have no doubt that he can be nominated, regardless of how far he goes in his statement. He already has received assurances of the support of more than a majority of the delegates to the convention, it was said. Even in such counties as the Bronx and Albany, the leaders of which are in close alliance with Mr. Maier, a majority of the delegates are believed to favor the nomination of Mr. Tuttle.

Mr. Tuttle's Position.

He has taken the position right along that he is not a candidate for the nomination for Governor and that, if he were to become the party's standard bearer, the nomination must come to him. His purpose in making public his views on prohibition is to prevent the nomination coming to him through a misunderstanding and he is reported to feel that, if his nomination, after an expression of his prohibition views, would result in any considerable dissatisfaction in the party and among the delegates, he would not want it.

It also was learned that Mr. Tuttle does not wish to dictate terms of his nomination or a platform plank. If the delegates to the convention should wish to nominate him with a reasonable amount of unanimity after learning his prohibition views, he would be glad to accept the nomination and make the fight, it was said. If there should be no unanimity and his nomination should seem likely to result in a divided party, Mr. Tuttle, it was asserted by friends, would be inclined to withdraw his name from consideration and remain as Federal Attorney here.

Republicans here expressed interest in the wet bloc formed at a meeting in Syracuse Saturday and were inclined to interpret Mr. Bradley's announcement that Erie County would continue to press Attorney General Ward's candidacy as meaning that the campaign to nominate Mr. Ward would be renewed if Mr. Tuttle should not be a candidate. Mr. Ward is understood to have become convinced a week or more ago that Mr. Tuttle would be the nominee for Governor and has told friends that he did not desire renomination for Attorney General.

The movement to make Mr. King chairman of the State committee is a revival of one that failed when Mr. Maier was elected to succeed H. Edmund Machold. At that time Mr. Bradley, Mr. King and Harry J. Bareham, Monroe County chairman, were opposed to the selection of Mr. Maier, whose home is in Seneca Falls, Seneca County.

At that time the Buffalo, Syracuse and Rochester leaders pointed out that the Republican organization in the State was entirely in the control of men from small towns as distinguished from cities. They called attention to the fact that Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies was from Ripley, Chautauqua County, that John Knight, majority leader of the Senate, was from Arcade, Wyoming County, and that Eberly Hutchinson, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, was from Green Lake, Fulton County. They contended that the Republican State leadership had no appreciation of or interest in urban problems and that the State chairman should come from a city rather than from a comparatively small town like Seneca Falls.

There has been a marked revival of this talk within the last week, it was learned. It was said here that, although the possible candidacy of Mr. King might not have been mentioned in the Syracuse conference, the fact that such a gathering was held might have been the start of a movement to make him chairman, particularly as Mr. Maier is known to be opposed to such sectional conferences or to the formation of blocs such as has been formed by William H. Hill of Binghampton in the southern tier.

Drys Renew Flint Boom.

In the belief that Mr. Tuttle's coming statement may be wet and that it may result in a wet plank in the Republican platform, certain groups of drys decided to renew their attempt to get Chancellor Charles W. Flint of Syracuse University to become a dry candidate. Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, State president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, left last night to attend a dry conference at Syracuse, where it is expected that an effort will be made to get Chancellor Flint to permit his name to go before the State convention or to agree to run independently.

Well informed members of the dry group do not expect that Chancellor Flint will consent to run, and there is some doubt that the drys will run a third ticket, even if the Republican platform should be wet. The Anti-Saloon League officers have been opposed to the circulation of independent nominating petitions in advance of the convention, and other dry groups have talked of starting such petitions but have not circulated them because of the expense. There is a divergence of opinion among the drys concerning an independent nomination for Governor, the Anti-Saloon wing at present taking the position that this is not necessary, as a campaign to have drys refrain from voting would be as effective as the nomination of an independent ticket and would not necessitate a counting of the dry votes.

DELAWARE VOTE IN DOUBT.

Democratic Senate Choice Claimed for Both Bayard and Marvel.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 14 (AP).—The outcome of yesterday's primary contest for the Democratic Senatorial nomination between former Senator Thomas F. Bayard and Josiah Marvel, president of the American Bar Association, was still in doubt tonight. The primary was to elect 210 delegates to the nominating convention Tuesday.

Friends of Mr. Bayard claimed that he would have at least 118 delegates, twelve more than a majority. They said the indications were that forty-two delegates pledged to Mr. Bayard had been elected in rural Newcastle County, eighteen in Sussex, thirty in Kent and twenty-eight in the city of Wilmington.

The Marvel faction claimed forty-four in Sussex, thirty-three in Kent, thirty-two in rural Newcastle and two in Wilmington, a total of 111.

STATES' PRIMARIES WIND UP TOMORROW

DEMOCRATS CLAIM HOUSE

Predict Gains in Senate, but Republicans Say They Will Control Both Chambers.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Tuesday will mark the last of the State primaries, with Massachusetts, New York and Wisconsin holding these intra-party contests.

Under the New York law, candidates for Governor and other State offices are nominated in convention. Since it is assured that Governor Roosevelt will be renominated by the Democrats, and pretty well assured that District Attorney Tuttle will be the Republican convention's choice, interest centres in the Massachusetts and Wisconsin primaries, which have produced much heat and excitement. There are no Senatorial candidates to be nominated in New York and Wisconsin.

Only three States other than Massachusetts are yet to complete their Senatorial nominations, Rhode Island, Delaware and New Mexico. In each, the nominations will be made in conventions.

The home stretch of the intra-party contests finds officers of the Democratic national organization making confident claims that their party will control the next House. They have put forth no claim to control of the Senate, but it is apparent that they are now hoping to make greater inroads into the Republican strength there than heretofore.

Especially bitter in opposition to Mr. Butler is Mrs. Constance Williams, daughter of the late Senator Lodge, who recently denounced Mr. Butler for alleged rebuffs that her father received at his hands at the Republican National Convention of 1924. One of her assertions was that Mr. Butler had treated her father like a "pickpocket," and she challenged the veracity of statements accredited to Mr. Butler that he and her father were friends.

Former President Coolidge has not publicly taken any action to aid Mr. Butler in his fight.

The Democrats also are engaged in a party row, but it is expected that Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston will be nominated for Governor, and that Marcus A. Coolidge, a wealthy Fitchburg manufacturer, will obtain the nomination for the Senate. All the Democratic candidates favor repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Another La Follette Running.

There is no Senatorial nomination to be made in Wisconsin, but a bitter fight is being waged over the Gubernatorial nomination with Phillip L. La Follette, second son of the late Senator La Follette, attempting to wrest the plum from Governor Walter Kohler.

Young La Follette has the support of his brother, now Senator La Follette, and of Senator Blaine, and practically all of the followers of the late Senator La Follette, to whom Governor Kohler refers in his speeches as the "Madison ring."

Governor Kohler, once a follower of the late Senator La Follette, parted company with the "Madison ring" when he sought and obtained the nomination for Governor in 1928 in defiance of those leaders who had another candidate in mind. He is now receiving the backing of the Republican regulars of his State, who are determined to do what they can to wrest control from the La Follette forces.

The backers of Phillip La Follette are counting on the economic depression and the magic of the La Follette name to bring victory. The contest is considered a close one by most political observers.

Political leaders in Massachusetts are looking forward to one of the bitterest interparty fights on Tuesday that the Bay State Republicans have experienced. William M. Butler, former United States Senator and once chairman of the Republican National Committee, with the support of the Crane machine and the Coolidge followers, is making an aggressive campaign for the Senatorial nomination. He is backing the Hoover policies and espousing the administration's position on the prohibition issue.

Lined up against Mr. Butler is Eben S. Draper, who has rallied about him the Liberals by his declaration for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Supporting his candidacy are most of those leaders who were with the faction that followed the fortune of the late Senator Lodge.

It is generally agreed among politicians, Republicans as well as Democrats, that the Republican majority in the Senate will be materially curtailed and the administration forces there will be more impotent than ever through a numerical strengthening of the Democratic-Insurgent coalition, which had things its own way for a considerable part of the time given to consideration of the tariff bill and made frequent trouble for the administration forces during the two legislative sessions held since President Hoover took office in March, 1929.

At the outset of this year's political open season Representative William R. Wood of Indiana, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, conceded that there were forty Republican seats in the House that might be considered doubtful, in the sense that at some time they had been held by Democrats. He declined to concede, however, any danger that all, or even a majority of them, would be captured by the Democrats.

When Representative John W. Byrns of Tennessee, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, came back in an offhand interview with the assertion that his party stood a good chance to gain seventy seats now held by Republicans in the House, there was a disposition, even among his own party associates, to smile at this display of optimism, but it is now being contended by Democratic managers that Representative Byrns was nearer right than wrong. They are asserting that the Democrats stand to gain from sixty to seventy seats in the House.

Democrats Need 53 Seats.

To get a majority of one in the House, the Democrats must capture fifty-three seats now held by Republicans, or seats now vacant to which Republicans were elected in 1928.

According to some Democratic managers, there is a prospect that their party will obtain a fairly good working majority in the House. As they see, or profess to see, the situation, they will make substantial gains in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and Missouri, and capture seats in certain other States. They expect, they say, to win back nearly all the seats they lost in Southern and border States in the Hoover landslide of 1928.

There is a very general expectation among political observers that Democrats will be elected to seats now held in the Senate from Massachusetts, Rhode Island, West Virginia, Kentucky and Oklahoma.

The Democratic management so far has claimed only these five seats for the party, but men prominent in the national organization seem to be convinced that their candidates for Senator in Ohio, Illinois and Delaware stand a superior chance to win. All these Senatorial seats are held by Republicans.

The Democrats also contend that they have a good fighting chance to elect their Senatorial candidates in Colorado and Minnesota, and a fair fighting chance to be victorious in New Hampshire. A curious phase is that while the Democrats say they have merely a fighting chance to make a gain of a South Dakota seat now held by a Republican, the disposition among Republicans is to regard that seat as almost certain to go to the Democrats.

This seat is now held by Senator William Henry McMaster, who is only a nominal Republican, since he consistently aligned himself with the insurgent group in the Senate and was a member of the Democratic-Insurgent Republican coalition which brought so much unhappiness to the administration. His Democratic competitor is Governor W. J. Bulow, who has shown himself to be a great vote getter in a Republican State.

While it is conceded by leading Republicans that the off-year reaction of the electorate will be against their party, and that industrial depression and unemployment are contributing factors to almost nation-wide dissatisfaction, they intend to combat the Democrats vigorously in their attack on the new tariff, criticism of the farm-aid law and their contention that the party in power at Washington is responsible in part for the slump in business.

While reports reaching Washington indicate that there has been considerable recession in the popularity of President Hoover, his party supporters profess to see a change of sentiment toward him and his administration which will have a material effect in offsetting the prospect of Democratic gains in the Senate and House.

If the Republicans should lose Senators in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Delaware, West Virginia, Kentucky, South Dakota and Oklahoma, and the Democrats should lose Senators in Iowa, New Mexico and Montana, the next Senate would stand: Republicans, 52; Democrats, 43; Farmer-Laborite, 1.

This would give the Republicans a majority of eight over the combined party opposition, instead of the majority of sixteen in the present Senate. But the present majority is merely a paper majority because of the defection of the so-called La Follette group, and the Republican regulars would be even less able than they are now to put through party measures.

If the Democrats, as they are now inclined to claim, should gain Senators in Ohio and Illinois, the Republican majority over the Democratic-Farmer-Labor opposition would be reduced to four.

Brooklyn Dry Court Idle Again.

Arraignments in Sunday dry courts fell off yesterday. Thirty-eight alleged violators were arraigned before Commissioner Cotter in Manhattan and released in bail of $500 or $1,000. None was charged with possessing more than one quart of liquor. In Brooklyn, Commissioner Martin C. Epstein went home after waiting till noon for prisoners. None appeared. This is the second time that no cases have been called in the Brooklyn Sunday court.

SAYS 1931 CITY BUDGET WILL EXCEED BILLION

Allen Calls Official Estimate of $630,200,000 False and Urges Caution.

New York City's public expenditures will pass the billion-dollar mark next year, William J. Allen, director of the Institute for Public Service, declared yesterday in a statement. He added that until the public realized that the city would spend a billion instead of the budget total of $630,200,000, no serious steps would be taken by elected officials to check expenditures. Mr. Allen explained his estimate as follows:

"The officially admitted budget for 1930 is $630,200,000, according to pages 320 and 320A of the budget for 1930. To this Controller Berry added last week, in his attempted justification of a $792,113 increase for his own department, $270,000,000 for public improvements by the city and $61,000,000 for improvements by the Borough Presidents. These two total $331,000,000. With the admitted budget total, this makes an admitted spending of $961,200,000, which is under and not over the true amount.

"If not a dollar beyond mandatory increases is allowed for operation next year, and if no revolutionary cuts are made, of which there is not the slightest hint, next year's public improvement total will make the city's spending so far beyond a billion dollars that the city officers will begin to call anything under twenty millions too small to bother about."

Mr. Allen also attacked the $18,000,000 bill which he said was about to be presented for a five-mile public beach at the Rockaways.

"That bill is largely water and lawyers' fees," he said. "Every defect ever mentioned in condemnation gouging is illustrated by it. The special committee for improving condemnation procedure might head off several millions of unjustified cost. The Mayor could prevent it. So could the Controller. But it is only an $18,000,000 bill, and at best probably not more than $8,000,000 could be saved. How can a billion-dollar city worry over $8,000,000?"

BONWIT TELLER
FIFTH AVENUE AT 56th STREET
NEW YORK

September 15, 1930

TO THE PUBLIC:

The uptown trend of business has necessitated our removal to 56th Street and Fifth Avenue. I wish to state now that this change of address implies no change of policy. Throughout my thirty-five years as a merchant in New York I have been guided by one rule: to offer the public the best in fashion and quality that the money could buy.

I am convinced that right now as this country is coming through a readjustment to sound values and wise investments this policy is even more important, and it is being even more rigidly adhered to.

In preparing for the opening of this new building we have gathered in our collections the utmost in luxurious apparel that is available in New York or Paris today, but these collections are balanced as every intelligent woman's wardrobe must be balanced by smart clothes of fine quality at moderate prices.

In this new building we have considered the comfort and convenience of our patrons in every way, and now that it has been completed we hope they will like it.

MOTT ATTACKS NYE FOR MORROW CHARGE

Declares the Senator Should Read the Jersey Law on Campaign Expenditures.

E. Bertram Mott, New Jersey State Republican Chairman, yesterday allied himself with Senator Joseph G. Wolber and Douglas G. Thomson in charging with unfairness Chairman Nye of the Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures, according to the Associated Press.

Chairman Nye reiterated his statement that his agents had received reports that "more than $50,000 allowed by New Jersey law had been spent in behalf of Dwight W. Morrow, successful Republican Senatorial candidate, in the June primary.

Mr. Mott said Senator Nye "should have acquainted himself with New Jersey law before issuing statements regarding expenditures of the candidates."

"There is nothing in New Jersey law which prevents individuals or friends of any candidate from spending money for advertisements in their behalf," he said. "Mr. Morrow did not exceed the $50,000 limit, and in fact filed a disclaimer of such expenditures in accordance with the statutes. There is no question but that Mr. Morrow benefited by the local campaigns * * * but money spent in these campaigns cannot be charged against Mr. Morrow's expenditures."

Senator Wolber, who managed Ambassador Morrow's campaign in Essex County, said, "It is decidedly unfair for Senator Nye or others to imply that Mr. Morrow spent or authorized the expenditure of more than the items listed on his own statement."

Mr. Thomson, State campaign manager, said every legal requirement has been met.

ENDORSED BY SABIN GROUP.

A. C. Campbell, Assembly Candidate, Is Lauded for Repeal Stand.

OSSINING, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform of which Mrs. Charles H. Sabin is the president has endorsed the candidacy of Alan B. Campbell for the Assembly from the Third District of Westchester County. Mr. Campbell's opponent is Milan E. Goodrich.

The association's letter of endorsement, which is signed by Mrs. John S. Sheppard, New York State chairman of the association, says:

"We are delighted with your outspoken and fearless position on prohibition and with your assurance that you are unqualifiedly for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"As chairman of the New York State Division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, I wish to give you the hearty endorsement of the organization and to wish you all the success of your primary fight."

MORROW ADVISES U. S. TO BE MEEKER

have received many kindnesses at the hands of the Mexican Government and at the hands of the Mexican people. As the time comes for us to say good-bye, we feel how deeply we are going to miss Mexico. Those who have resided in Mexico for some time realize that the spell of the country enters into one's blood. It is partly the unexcelled climate. It is partly the charm of the oldest civilization in the western hemisphere.

"It is too often assumed that scientific inventions prevent misunderstanding. Machines, however, do not understand each other. Man may make a perfect machine, but it will still depend upon man himself whether the machine shall be an instrument of understanding or misunderstanding.

"It is the duty of every one of our diplomatic representatives to a foreign nation to defend faithfully the proper interests of his country and of his countrymen. That is his legal duty and his moral duty. If he fails in that duty, no other success can compensate for that failure. But it is also the duty of the representative of the foreign country to defend his country and his countrymen.

"We can best defend the rights of our own country when we understand the rights of other countries. It is upon that fundamental principle that international law is built.

"We were told before we came to Mexico that the essential thing in a foreign country is to try to understand how foreigners differ from ourselves. There is something of value in that advice. But at the end of three years it seems to us that the essential thing to do in a foreign country is to study the likenesses of men rather than their differences.

"When it comes to the profound experiences of life, the men and women on this small earth are not very different. When it comes to the death of parents or the birth of children, or the straining of eager eyes for needed rain, or the rising and standing uncovered of great groups of people when a national anthem is played, the men and women and children of this earth behave in much the same way.

"We are more like each other than we are willing to admit.

"There is an old story which might well be remembered by those who go to foreign lands. A religion grew up in Asia some three 3,000 years ago. A particular group of learned people devoted themselves to keeping that religion pure and undefiled. They observed its law. They subordinated themselves to its ritual. They carried the forms of that religion along until the appointed time had come when it might transform western civilization. And yet, by the arrogance of one man the sect of the Pharisees is popularly judged today not by the epistles of St. Paul, but by a single prayer.

"Could there be anything more tragic? A Pharisee and a publican pray side by side—for 2,000 years their prayers have come down to the people of the world wherever the story is known. The very word Pharisee has become a byword and reproach. In the pulpit, in the study of the scholar, in the market place, on the street, the Pharisee is condemned. And everywhere the publican is pitied or even praised!

"The Pharisee, who was educated, who was efficient, who kept the law and the statutes, dared to stand erect in the presence of his God and thank Him that he was unlike other men. The publican, who had broken the laws, lowered his eyes in the presence of his God and asked for forgiveness of his sins.

"One man exalted himself; the other humbled himself. The difference is a difference in standards. The Pharisee compared himself with other men, and boasted of his strength. The publican compared himself with his God, and asked forgiveness for his sins.

"It is our fundamental likeness to other men that enables us to understand them, and to live in peace and friendship with them.

"Is is too much to hope that some day the nations of this earth may pray: 'Lord God of Hosts, we give Thee thanks that Thou, in Thy wisdom and Thy mercy, hast made us like other men!' "

MORROW TO AVOID DRY ISSUE

Will Deal With Unemployment in Campaign Next Month.

E. Bertram Mott, State Republican chairman in New Jersey, announced through The Associated Press at Newark yesterday that Dwight W. Morrow, the party's candidate for the United States Senate, would open his campaign early next month and would confine his addresses to foreign relations topics and domestic problems, including the unemployment question.

The campaign would have no "wet or dry" issue, the chairman said, because both major parties have stood out for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

United States Senator David Baird Jr. was expected to preside at a meeting of the State Republican Campaign Committee in Trenton this week to map plans for district campaigns.

Mr. Mott said that a conference of Mr. Morrow with the party leaders would be held soon after the Ambassador returns from Mexico City on Oct. 3, and that the leaders desire that Mr. Morrow open the campaign with a mass meeting in Newark, where he opened the primary campaign with his speech urging repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Five or six addresses in the principal cities, and not a hand-shaking tour, was Mr. Mott's view of the Ambassador's prospective campaign.

WITWER, DRY, SCORES RASKOB LEADERSHIP

HE ATTACKS CURRAN ALSO

Says Ward Politics Were Tried on National Scale for First Time in 1928 but Failed.

Charles S. Witwer, dry candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative in the Twenty-fourth Congressional District, charged yesterday that John J. Raskob, Democratic National chairman, had planned to split the Republican party on the prohibition issue to help Tammany.

"In 1928, Mr. Raskob bolted the Republican party to help Tammany Hall fasten its grip upon the nation," Mr. Witwer said.

"Promised plenty of liquor, we witnessed for the first time Tammany ward politics tried out on a national scale. Fortunately the people were wide awake and the scheme did not work. The dry Republican candidate for President was elected by an overwhelming majority, prominent wet Congressional leaders were defeated and the new Congress was the driest in history.

"Raskob, however, seems to believe that while there is money there is hope. Having burdened the Democratic party with debt so that it would not eject him, he cleverly planned two lines of attack against the Republican party from without and from within.

"His attack from without consisted in the establishment of a publicity bureau with a $25,000-a-year man at its head for the purpose of discrediting everything attempted by the Republican administration, vilifying our President and doing everything possible to create discouragement, dissatisfaction, unemployment and hard times.

"His attack from within the Republican ranks has been led by Henry H. Curran, who admitted that a substantial portion of his $25,000-a-year salary was paid by Raskob. During the 1928 campaign Curran bolted the Republican party and urged his followers to vote for Al Smith. That's the kind of a Republican who is seeking to give advice to the great Republican party of New York State."

BUTLER DENIES PART IN WESTCHESTER FIGHT

Columbia President Says He Has Had No Hand in Primary Contest to Be Decided Tomorrow.

Reports circulated yesterday that Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler had offered his support to a wet Congressional candidate in the Westchester County Republican contest were denied last night.

"The reports are untrue," Dr. Butler said. "I have taken absolutely no part in the Westchester primary fight or in any other primaries."

Meanwhile all Republican leaders in the 218 districts of the Twenty-fifth Congressional District, which takes in upper Westchester and all of Rockland County, received strict orders yesterday to get out the full enrolled vote tomorrow in the interest of Supervisor Charles D. Millard of Tarrytown, organization candidate for Representative, against John Holzworth, his "insurgent and wringing wet" opponent. It is expected that the largest number of primary votes in the history of the district will be polled.

Mr. Millard, who has also come out for repeal of the prohibition law, has a committee of 1,000 prominent Republicans working in his behalf and a committee of women has also been active in his interest. Every effort also will be made to elect the full delegation of forty-five organization delegates to the State convention headed by William L. Ward, the veteran leader of Port Chester, it was said. The organization is opposed by Holzworth delegates in four Assembly districts.

The Anti-Saloon League is also active in the campaign, writing letters urging support of Robert Patteson, the opponent of Millard and Holzworth. The result of the primary will determine whether the Twenty-fifth District is wet or dry. The betting last night was reported 3 to 1 in favor of Millard and the whole organization ticket. Mr. Millard said:

"I feel certain that I will be nominated in the primaries. I have been in public life for thirty-five years and during that time I have always worked for the good and betterment of the county."

Mr. Holzworth said he felt sure he would be able to succeed over his two opponents.

Mr. Patteson said: "I am running on a dry ticket, which will support President Hoover and the government."

HOLD UP BRONX DRUG STORE

Two Men Threaten Owner With Pistol and Escape With $230.

Two hold-up men, one armed with a pistol, entered a drug store at 1,584 University Avenue, the Bronx, last night, held up the proprietor, Benjamin Miller, and escaped with $230, taken from the cash register.

EUROPE IS ALARMED AT ITALO-SERB ROW

ENVOYS CONFIRM DANGERS

FRANCE SHOWS PESSIMISM

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—A feeling of uneasiness over the present European situation which has been manifest in France for several weeks has been accentuated within the last forty-eight hours by disturbing reports from Yugoslavia and Hungary. Already much concerned over the outcome of the German general election and its probable influence upon the Reich's foreign policy, French public opinion is coming rapidly to understand that the most immediate danger of serious trouble, if not actual conflict, lies along the Italo-Yugoslav frontier.

Only a few radical newspapers have taken the trouble or the courage to point out the menace of the situation, but it can be stated with authority that several foreign diplomats stationed at Belgrade have forwarded confidential dispatches to their respective governments informing them that the relations of that country with regard to Italy appear to have reached the danger point.

Tells of "Feverish" Preparations.

Le Petit Parisien prints a special message from its Belgrade correspondent to the effect that reliable reports have reached there concerning "feverish" military preparations in Hungary. All reserve officers, including those at present abroad, have been summoned home, according to the message, while military authorities have just completed the examination of 200,000 young men to ascertain whether they are fit for military service.

In Belgrade the anxiety of the people is described as apparent, and this in turn is said to have caused a noticeable slowing up of business affairs.

While official comment is withheld, tonight's semi-official Temps, in a long editorial entitled "Scanning the Horizon," takes an extremely pessimistic view of the European position. Without actually naming countries, the newspaper says, "From the South war cries reach us above the Alpine crests," and then proceeds to draw the conclusion that there are entirely too many ominous clouds on the horizon for France to give serious consideration to further reduction of the French means of defense.

Le Temps asserts that there is a general feeling of uneasiness, due to the "exacerbated desires" of some countries and the justifiable apprehension they provoke among their neighbors. "Not satisfied with their lot," says Le Temps, they seek to overturn peace treaties and other agreements.

Among a number of instances, Le Temps takes the case of Germany as the best illustration of its point, and proceeds:

"Germany has created a new professional army and a professional navy. Germany possesses reserves of military stocks entrusted to her neighbors and her friends. Germany shows and obliging complacency to the Soviet and smiles upon Italy. General von Seeckt and his disciple, General von Hammerstein, do not want communism in Germany, but they maintain excellent relations with the Soviet Republics, where they have been received with honors on several occasions.

"These visits had to do, no doubt, with the manufacture of German munitions in Russia and the development of new war gases there by German experts, and the making of Junker airplanes.

"An agreement concluded a few years ago between Russia and Germany, the details of which are to this day a mystery, explains the mutual confidence and close relations between the two countries now separated by Poland."

The great secrecy with which the Anglo-French-Italian naval conversations are being conducted, it is suggested here, may very well be a reflection of the uneasiness apparent in well-informed quarters of France. Any improvement in Franco-Italian relations would almost certainly react favorably upon the Italo-Serbian situation, which in the opinion of competent observers requires the immediate attention of European powers.

New Formula Indicated.

French political writers intimate today that a new method of reaching Franco-Italian naval parity without affecting the French attitude in reference to her need of an adequate force to protect her far-flung colonies is now under consideration. The question is at most a delicate point, these correspondents explain, and for the moment no indication can be given.

The process whereby the United States and Britain were able to reach a parity agreement, although each had radically different problems to take into consideration, is being studied in connection with the new Franco-Italian proposals. For the moment, it is explained, France has not departed from the position she took at London, but readers are permitted to speculate upon possible departures from those broad principles should the current negotiations prove successful.

The status of Italians in Tunisia and the rectification of the southern boundary of Libya are not being discussed concurrently with the naval questions but will be taken up later at Rome.

GENEVA IS AROUSED BY CHINA'S DEMAND

Strategic Move Is Seen in Hint She May Withdraw if Denied Council Seat.

WU DECLINED PRESIDENCY

Leader Chose to Remain Unshackled in Order to Press Campaign Before League Assembly.

GENEVA, Sept. 14 (AP).—The Chinese demand for a seat in the League of Nations Council was arousing grave discussions in Geneva tonight as the Assembly prepared for a second week's consideration of world problems.

From certain Chinese quarters the suggestion went out today that China was prepared to withdraw from the League if her sister nations declined to satisfy her ambition for a more influential position in the League's administration. But C. C. Wu, Chinese chief delegate and generalissimo of the campaign to advance the aims of the Nanking Government, did not reveal his hand.

Some see in these reports of an alleged threat only a move to gain support for China's aspirations, but veteran observers of the League point out that loss of China at this stage, when a spirit of depression prevails, would be a grievous blow to the League's morale.

By some the Chinese attitude was put in these words:

"We are a populous nation of great importance in the Far East; we need recognition from the League of our importance in international affairs to help in strengthening our political position at home.

"If the League denies us this support in our time of need why should we waste our time and energies further in cooperating with an organization which would thus show itself as little more than a league of European powers?"

Certain friends of China, however, declare that Mr. Wu has no intention of taking extreme measures, saying that he will fight hard for a Council seat by the Stresemann method of conciliatory but consistent pressure.

Informed circles assert that he was offered the presidency of the Assembly or the chairmanship of any important committee if he would postpone his drive for a Council seat, but the Chinese leader chose to remain unshackled that he might carry on his campaign.

It is understood that five of the great powers, including Japan, have promised to support Mr. Wu when he asks the Assembly Tuesday or Wednesday to declare China re-eligible for a Council seat. China retired from the Council two years ago and the rule is that a non-permanent member is ineligible for re-election until three years have passed. The Chinese are believed to have the promise of about twenty-five votes if they can obtain this preliminary objective.

Tomorrow the Assembly will resume general debate on the work of the League and probably will conclude it Tuesday. Thereafter the elections of new Council members and of World Court judges will be held, following which the Assembly will dissolve into its six standing committees and make a detailed study of proposals put forth this year.

ITALO-FRENCH SHIFT IN RELATIONS LIKELY

Complete Change Indicated Begins to Dominate Minds of All at Geneva.

NEW NAVAL PLAN BROACHED

Scheme Said to Involve "Unitary Parity" for Rome, but Britain May Offer Objections.

By P. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—This, the eleventh Assembly of the League of Nations, which opened a week ago in the expectation that it would result in the formation of some kind of European federation or at least in another step in that direction, has begun to take a very different and curious turn.

As a first incident, last Monday there was the direct opposition of Britain in the meeting of European nations to the French conception of how the European federation should be formed. That was followed on the opening day of the Assembly by a somewhat vague and uncertain speech of Aristide Briand, recommending his federation plans, and by a terse and rather sharp speech by Arthur Henderson, recalling to the Assembly and the world that the League's business under the terms of its covenant and under the terms of the Treaty of Versailles was disarmament.

Since then the situation has seemed to remain undeveloped. There have been advances from the British side toward M. Briand seeking to assure him that there was no fundamental difference in aims. There has been an attempt of the French side to assure that when the federation idea comes to be discussed at close quarters its discussion will be limited to those powers interested.

No Direct Meeting Yet.

But there has been as yet no meeting between Mr. Henderson and M. Briand for a direct exchange of views as to what can be immediately accomplished in a practical way. That may happen tomorrow.

The difference between the English and the French has been indeed further emphasized by such a speech as that of William Graham yesterday, when the French attitude on tariffs and on gold, indirectly, of course, and very vaguely, was instanced as one of the contributory causes to the present economic situation.

All that, however, has for the moment become secondary in interest to speculation on the Franco-Italian situation and especially on the naval issue. M. Briand today saw Senator Scialoja, now acting as first Italian delegate for the second time, and hand an hour's interview. Afterward both delegations declared the conversations had to do only with the speech Senator Scialoja will make before the Assembly Tuesday, and especially with his references to the federation of Europe plan.

The fact that the Italian delegate at this time and at this status of the Assembly meeting should wish to consult his French colleague about the speech he is going to make, however, in itself marks a remarkable change in the whole political relations of the two countries. There was a time, and that not very long ago, when the two countries were far from feeling any necessity for a preliminary interchange of views.

There have been reports from Paris and Rome in these recent weeks that various experts were at work on the naval problem and were getting toward a solution. These reports, however, have been vague and all that can yet be affirmed is that while politically the aspects of the Franco-Italian situation are being discussed in Rome with little progress, a new and somewhat complicated formula for naval agreement with France has been presented by the Italian experts in Paris and again here.

That formula seems in some sort to correspond with that established between Britain and the United States, at least to the extent that it provides for rarity in units, that is that Italy shall have the right to build as many cruisers, destroyers and submarines as France, but that she will suit herself about their tonnage and not claim either global or category tonnage parity.

The whole idea behind the scheme is to obtain satisfaction for Fascist Italy's claim for parity with France, even if it be only in number and not in power. The scheme, such as it is, seems to have favorably impressed French diplomats who have considered it, and it has now been handed over to the naval experts and for the consideration of Premier Tardieu and Minister of Marine Dumesnil in Paris, while Premier Mussolini also is considering it in Rome.

Meanwhile, what is to be done here is to begin bringing matters to a focus in Franco-Italian relations, and that is apparently Senator Scialoja's job.

May Change British Position.

Where this unitary parity scheme seems to have struck its first complication was when the British naval authorities heard of it and apparently began calculations on their side as to what would be the effect on their positions and their claim to a naval standard equal to that of any two contiental powers. If France and Italy should agree that the latter should build ship for ship with the former, though of smaller tonnage, the situation for Britain in the Mediterranean might be considerably altered.

Furthermore, it is still to be seen whether this new and very clever formula would not result in modification of the figures of the London agreement.

It must be admitted, however, that for the moment no one outside the immediate circle of experts seems to have any precise idea either as to the nature or the practical value of the Italian suggestion. Its cause undoubtedly lies in Italy's economic situation.

How the French will regard it will be dictated by many considerations. How it will fit in with Mr. Henderson's demand for disarmament in fulfillment of the Versailles Treaty is yet another matter which must remain to be seen.

In that curious way that European situations seem sometimes to change overnight in kaleidoscopic fashion, there are indications of a complete alteration being possible within a quite short space of time in Franco-Italian relations.

If such an alteration is intended for and is contributory to peace, it will undoubtedly have every one's approval, and the possibility of such a result being achieved at this League Assembly meeting has begun to dominate the minds of all those interested, even to the exclusion of thought about the more distant scheme of the European federation.

PLEDGES ON TARIFF ASSAILED IN BRITAIN

SEES DANGER TO COMMONS

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.
Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—One of the first results of injecting a fourth political organization into the British party system has been to introduce this country to the American Anti-Saloon League's campaign device of demanding pledges from all Congressional candidates that they vote in the Senate or House as the league commands.

These tactics so far have been confined to Lord Rothermere's new United Empire Party, which, as the price of its newspaper and financial support, demands in advance the promise of each candidate that he will vote for a tariff against all foreign imports if elected to Parliament. But it is feared the practice will spread to other parties and, if it becomes general, that the House of Commons will lose all vestige of a national Legislature in which important issues are decided upon their merits by debate and become instead a mere agency for putting into effect the orders of party bosses.

Percy Assails Move.

Lord Eustace Percy is calling attention to such a possible result growing out of the new pledging method and has declared his intention of fighting it in his own campaign for re-election. He is one of the Conservatives who have been won over to a policy of putting a tariff even on foreign foods for the sake of improving trade relations between Great Britain and her dominions, but he balks at pledging himself in advance to vote blindly for every tariff question regardless of the circumstances.

In his declaration of personal independence, made to the chairman of the Conservative party in his constituency of Hastings, Lord Eustace Percy says that compelling a candidate to commit himself is entirely foreign to the British political system.

"The Parliamentary candidates who are being elected nowadays," he adds, "not only make their principles clear to the electors, which they are bound to do, but also enter all sorts of detailed pledges on subjects about which they can know very little and bind themselves to vote in Parliament according to the 'mandate' from their constituents and support a tariff measure in the name of empire free trade.

"Those who are elected on such pledges will come to Commons as mere delegates, appointed not always by their constituents but often by some irresponsible outside organization which will control their votes in Parliament.

"There is a real danger in this. That is the way to disaster. In these days, when we are facing dangers as serious as any which have confronted us in our history, there is one thing even more important than protection or empire trade. That is a strong self-respecting House of Commons, without which we can never have a firm intelligent industrial policy which alone can save the country during the prolonged crisis of the next ten years."

Refers to American Congress.

Lord Eustace Percy, who as a member of various British commissions spent much time at Washington, refers to what he saw and heard in Congress as an illustration of his present argument concerning British politics.

"No Englishman," he said, "who has listened as I have on many occasions to tariff debates in the American Congress could retain his self-respect for a moment if he gave these election pledges as the price of his election to the House of Commons."

Dominican Tug Found Sinking And Abandoned After Storm

HAVANA, Sept. 14.—The Cuban steamer Guantanamo, here from San Juan, Porto Rico, reported sighting the tugboat Hercules, owned by the Dominican Government, abandoned and sinking, probably as a result of the hurricane.

Sailors boarded the sinking vessel, reporting the crew had either abandoned the boat or had been lost.

Farmers' Group There Urges Plan to Reform Economic Structure.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 14.—A plan calling for an immediate study looking to a reform of the economic structure of Cuba by a commission of experts, to be headed, if possible, by Charles G. Dawes, Owen D. Young or Gilbert Parker, will be submitted to the Cuban Sugar Commission by the Cuban National Federation of Farmers tomorrow morning.

The plan calls for the adoption by Cuba of external measures in connection with the world sugar industry, which are designed to bring about a balance between consumption and production as early as possible. It also calls for measures to speed the development of the agricultural, industrial and commercial resources of Cuba.

CALLS TURKISH CONGRESS.

Kemal Sets Session for Sept. 22—New Party Believed Involved.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ISTANBUL, Sept. 14.—President Mustapha Kemal Pasha, acting on the government's suggestion, has called an extraordinary session of the National Assembly at Angora for Sept. 22. The Assembly was not due to meet before Nov. 1. There is much speculation regarding the government's action.

In a letter to President Kemal the government states that the Turkish exchange shows signs of appreciating in value, thus threatening to injure the export trade. Consequently the government wishes to pass new laws and to obtain the Deputies' consent and opinion.

It is unlikely, however, that this is the sole reason prompting the government to convene the Parliament. It is suspected here that the formation of Fethy Bey's new Liberal Republican party is behind the government.

POINCARE DEMANDS PEACE SAFEGUARDS

DEDICATES REBUILT TOWN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Standing upon ground which for four years was No Man's Land between the French and German armies at Verdun, Raymond Poincaré this afternoon solemnly informed the people of France what they must do to prevent another European war. The setting was one of the most dramatic of many war memorial ceremonies at which the former Premier and wartime President of the republic has officiated.

The little town of Forges, situated between the advance forts of the Verdun citadel, was one of the first in France to be completely wiped out by opposing shells. Its 460 inhabitants were killed, taken as hostages or scattered to the four corners of the country.

Now after ten years the town has been rebuilt and 180 of the former settlers have returned to their reestablished homes. Today's ceremony, therefore, had a twofold objective—to commerate those who had died and to celebrate the rebirth of the town which the war had reduced to ashes.

With all his old-time force and energy, M. Poincaré launched into a eulogy of the French army at Verdun—an army, he asserted, which personified all that was great in the French soul. But France, he said, now had a deeper interest in the preservation of peace than almost any other country and was the first to applaud and to support any and all movements for its consolidation.

"The French people must know, however," he continued, "that to prevent the return of a war of agression it is not sufficient merely to solemnly condemn war—they must render it at the same time impossible of accomplishment. To assure this result it is indispensable to develop in our people those virtues which make for salvation, virtues which were so much evident at Verdun—passionate love of country, absolute devotion to the national community, contempt of danger, physical endurance and moral courage."

Arnold, Constable & Co. will celebrate its 103d anniversary today with a ceremony to be featured by the cutting of a birthday cake by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the presence of officers of the store and a number of persons who have been customers of the store for years.

A delegation of the Hundred Year Club and officers of prominent women's societies and merchants' groups will be present. Messages of felicitation have been received by Isaac Liberman, president of the store, from Vice President Curtis, Mayor Walker, Thomas A. Edison, former Governor Smith, David Belasco, Representative Ruth Pratt, John R. Voorhis, Silas H. Strawn and many others.

Arnold, Constable & Co. was founded in 1827 by Aaron Arnold, who opened a small dress material shop at 156 Front Street. A few years later he was joined by James Mansell Constable, moving to Canal, Mercer and Howard Streets. From there the store went to Canal and Allen, and thence to Broadway and Nineteenth Streets. It now occupies six floors of a forty-eight-story skyscraper at Fifth Avenue and Fortieth Street.

FIND NEW TREATMENT FOR TYPE 3 PNEUMONIA

Doctors of Rockefeller Institute Say Substance Tried on Mice Gives Promise of Cure.

The discovery of a new substance, probably an enzyme, which promises to act as a preventive as well as a cure of one of the three types of pneumonia, has just been reported by Drs. Oswald T. Avery and René Dubos of the hospital of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

The new enzyme was extracted from a bacillus isolated from the organic matter found in the soil of the cranberry bogs in New Jersey. It attacks the outer coatings of Type 3 pneumonia germ, splitting up its specific kind of sugar content into smpler compounds, the Rockefeller investigators discovered, according to Science Service.

Pneumonia germs, know as pneumococci, are of three species, each having a specific kind of sugar in its capsule, or outer coating. The germ's ability to invade the tissues of the body depends partly on this outer coating. Hence, the investigators reasoned, a change in the composition of the germ's penetrating weapon should result in a difference in its effect on the body.

Experiments on mice with a view to proving this theory showed, according to the report, that the enzyme has a distinct and specific protective action in mice experimentally infected with pneumococci of Type 3 and that it also has a specific prophylactic and curative effect on mice infected with the same type of germ.

The enzyme, the report adds, is effective only against Type 3 pneumococci and its protective value is destroyed by heating. The capacity of any preparation of the new enzyme to protect animals against infection is definitely related to the preparation's power of decomposing the sugar of the living pneumococcus.

FAILS TO ASCEND INTO STRATOSPHERE

BATTED ABOUT BY WIND

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AUGSBURG, Germany, Sept. 14.—Everything was ready for the ascent into the stratosphere by balloon early today. Professor Auguste Piccard and his assistant, Charles Kipfer, had entered the cabin and screwed the airtight manhole cover fast and the balloon was straining at the anchor lines.

The balloon, however, failed to rise. Either the gas was insufficient or the longer preparations than had been anticipated had allowed the gas to cool off too much to gain the necessary buoyancy. An increasingly strong wind batted the huge yellow bag about dangerously.

Three hours after the time originally set for the start the order was given to abandon the attempt and let the gas out and the towering, straining balloon, which stands more than 150 feet high, collapsed slowly to the earth. The balloon's jerking before it was decided to abandon the attempt slightly damaged some of the instruments in the gondola and also tore a small hole in the fabric.

Professor Piccard declared later that the unsuccessful attempt had brought the undertaking into another stage. New calculations must be made if it appears necessary to use more than 2,200 cubic yards of gas or about a seventh of the total content of the balloon.

The date of the next attempt to rise 50,000 feet remains uncertain, but will certainly only be undertaken in the calmest weather. It may occur within a few days, and then again it may not come until some still clear Winter day.

AUGSBURG, Sept. 14 (AP).—Professor Piccard, a member of the faculty of the University of Brussels, hopes to reach the highest altitude ever gained by man and study cosmic rays, which he believes will furnish clues to great sources of energy. The gondola of the balloon is of aluminum and equipped with all sorts of scientific instruments.

"Had I been able to get away an hour earlier," Professor Piccard said after the attempted start, "everything would have been all right.

"The sudden down-pressing wind confronted me with a dilemma: Either of throwing off ballast or not starting. Had I thrown off ballast I could not have risen to the height desired. I therefore preferred not to start.

"When I try again it will be only during a long and continued period of high pressure, even if I must wait until early Winter."

News of the impending flight brought thousands of early risers to the Riedinger Balloon Works. The crowd seemed greatly disappointed when the balloon failed to rise.

to undersell, by at least 6%, the marked prices of those competitors who do not sell exclusively for cash. We are not infallible. Others may, on occasion, sell merchandise lower than we. But only until we find it out. This is how we do it:

We employ 70 shoppers who compare our merchandise daily with the merchandise of our competitors, in order to keep our prices right. We are not infallible. We cannot compare every single thing in every single store every single day. But we're pretty talented bloodhounds at that. We do compare all merchandise advertised by competitors, and mark ours 6% below the "sale" prices of theirs, if ours are not that low already. We do compare every item that we ourselves advertise, before we advertise it, to make sure we are selling it for 6% less. And we regularly compare long lists of staple merchandise so that our prices of every-day items will stay down where they should be. All this applies to equivalent as well as identical merchandise.

We're eager to undersell. We're enthusiastic about our business and our policy. It's made money for us and saved money for countless New Yorkers.

We're convinced that we have evolved the best way there is of running a store—namely, to constantly sell large quantities of fine merchandise all for cash, thereby keeping prices constantly low. All of which we believe has some bearing on the fact that Macy's is the largest store in the city and continues to grow steadily, year in and year out.

ACCUSED BANK AIDE RETURNED TO PARIS

FRIENDS FORESEE RELEASE

Think South Americans Will Drop Charges if Bank Continues to Refuse to Prosecute.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Laureano Carlos de Villanueva, erstwhile society man and diplomat connected with the Venezuelan Legation here, today was back in the French capital to answer the charges of three of his countrymen that he misappropriated 12,000,000 francs ($480,000) which they had entrusted to him as an official in charge of the South American department of the Paris branch of the National City Bank of New York. He will be heard by an investigating magistrate tomorrow.

Villanueva disappeared several months ago and his whereabouts would probably be still unknown if he had not written to his family and friends here informing them he was in the Spanish Foreign Legion in Morocco. He complained in his letters that the life of a legionaire was unbearable and expressed willingness to return to France and stand trial. Accordingly, the French authorities applied to the Spanish Government for his extradition and he arrived in Bayonne a week ago.

The dapper young bank executive was lodged in the Bayonne jail as a common prisoner and faced an indefinite wait until the vicinity of Bayonne should have two or three more prisoners to justify transportation expenses to Paris in a railroad prison car. After a week's waiting the Paris police accepted the offer of Villanueva's family to pay his transportation.

The Venezuelan insists he lost his compatriots' money on Wall Street marginal accounts, while his accusers declare that all such investments of their funds were unauthorized and regard the National City Bank as equally responsible for the losses with Villanueva because they regarded themselves the same as any other depositor.

The bank's officials here, however, say Villanueva's Venezuelan friends had a private personal arrangement with him regarding the handling of their money and they refused to institute a police search for or associate themselves with the prosecution of their former executive.

Among Villanueva's wide circle of friends in Latin-American society here it is predicted his three "victims" will drop the prosecution if the bank persists in holding itself aloof.

BAN MASS FOR SLOVENES.

Belgrade Police Also Prevent Outdoor Protest Against Executions.

BELGRADE, Sept. 14.—University students last night distributed leaflets inviting the public to attend a requiem mass at the Roman Catholic Cathedral for the four Trieste Slovenes executed by the Italians a week ago, but police this morning guarded all approaches to the cathedral, forbidding the public to enter.

The students, together with large crowds of citizens, then moved to the park to hold a protest meeting there against the executions, but the police again intervened, preventing demonstrations. The students thereupon held a meeting in the hall of the university, where it was decided to seek an audience with King Alexander in order to convey to him the indignation of the youth of Yugoslavia over the Italians' treatment of their Slovene minority.

Three demonstrations occurred today, at Spalata, which flew black flags everywhere; at Zagreb and at Krushevatch, but there was no disorder anywhere.

PERSIA SHIPPING ART FOR LONDON EXHIBITION

TEHERAN, Persia, Sept. 14.—Twenty-seven cases of priceless Persian art treasures, dispatched by the government in four planes over the week-end, will leave the coast today in a British ship for London. They are to form an exhibition of Persian art which will open at the Royal Academy in January as a sequel to the memorable exhibitions of Flemish, Dutch and Italian masterpieces. Before they were sent a private view was given in Gulistan Palace by permission of the Shah.

Among the most notable exhibits are a circular silk carpet of fabulous value which surrounds the tomb of Shah Abbas II in the Golden Mosque of Khum. There is also a large sixteenth century carpet in perfect condition from the Mosque of Imam Rexa Meshed.

Most romantic of all the exhibits to a lover of the "Arabian Nights" is a set of silver vessels believed to have belonged to Caliph Haroun-al-Raschid of Bagdad. Other treasures are a breastplate studded with an enormous cabochon of emeralds on an enamel background, swords and bucklers inlaid with jewels and three rifles of green ivory, inlaid with mother of pearl and gold chasings.

There is also a priceless collection of ancient manuscripts, including perfect specimens of the caligraphy of Sultan Mohamed Nur of the early tenth century. A manuscript copy of the "Shah Nameh," a half-mythical epic of the Achanean kings, is being brought in perfect condition from the imperial library at Teheran.

OLD BOSTON'S MAYOR LANDS

QUEBEC, Sept. 14 (Canadian Press).—A touch of Old World ritual was seen today in the port of Quebec when Mayor Reuben Salter of Boston, Lincolnshire, England, and other officials of that historic city landed from the Cunard liner Ascania en route to Boston, Mass., where they will participate in the tercentenary celebrations of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

A few minutes after the liner berthed Colonel Percy A. Guthrie, representing Mayor Curley of Boston, Mass., and Leo F. Greene, president of the Boston Typographical Union, boarded her and welcomed the civic officials of the Old World Boston.

The Lincolnshire Mayor expressed keen anticipation of the Boston tercentenary ceremonies. Speaking of his municipality, which lies a few miles up the Winthrope River from The Wash, Mayor Salter remarked:

"Although Boston is now outstripped in size by many cities in the Old Country, few people realize that four or five centuries ago we were one of the greatest ports of the British Isles. Conditions changed, however, and more southerly towns attracted the large volume of traffic, but we still carry on and last year had a most satisfactory volume of trade with European ports.

"This is the first visit that any of us has made this side of the Atlantic," he continued, "and as citizens of the Old Boston we are delighted at the opportunity of visiting the new metropolis which is our namesake on the occasion of its 300th anniversary."

T. Rene Meyer Inducted Into Lutheran Ministry at Fordham Church.

T. René Meyer was ordained to the ministry last evening in the Fordham Lutheran Church, 2,430 Walton Avenue, the Bronx, by his father, the Rev. Frederick H. Meyer, pastor of the church. The latter performed the ordination by special dispensation of the Joint Lutheran Synod of Ohio, only the presidents of the synods having power to ordain.

The ordination sermon was preached by the Rev. H. M. Meyer of Pittsburgh, an older brother of the candidate. The father and both sons are graduates of Capital Lutheran University and Capital Lutheran Theological Seminary, Columbus. The candidate is also the grandson of a Lutheran clergyman.

Other clergymen taking part in the ordination were the Rev. M. L. Baseler of the First Lutheran Church, Throgs Neck; the Rev. Otto G. Gerbich of St. Peter's Church, the Bronx; the Rev. Robert Datter of Clason Point. The newly ordained clergyman will become pastor of the Lutheran church, Ocean Side, L. I.

DEFY WETS TO GIVE POST-REPEAL PLAN

CONCERN AT LOSSES SEEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Following the defeat of three dry house leaders in the primaries last week and the declaration of Governor Roosevelt of New York in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the dry forces today challenged the wets to produce a constructive program to regulate the liquor traffic if the Eighteenth Amendment was repealed. The challenge was published in the Clip Sheet of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Public Morals.

"We challenge you to announce a program," said the statement. "How do you propose that the country shall deal with the liquor traffic if prohibition is repealed? What guarantee can you offer that prohibition territory will be respected by a trade nationally organized and hungry for profits? Why can you not agree among yourselves upon a system which you can advocate to the American people as a remedy for drink, lawlessness, vice, corruption and waste? The American people demand constructive proposals rather than destructive criticism."

Aggressive Campaign Expected.

This attitude is accepted by observers as indicative of the resumption of an aggressive campaign to arouse the drys to renewed efforts to work for upholding of the Eighteenth Amendment. The wet group construed the effort as showing a changed front upon the part of the board, which, heretofore, has taken the position that there was no move for modification or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment which gave real cause for worry.

The results of the recent primaries, the wets contend, have surprised the dry leaders and made them feel that a situation is developing which calls for renewed action by the temperance organization.

Some who have talked with the dry leaders declare that the losses in the Michigan and Washington primary elections have caused them real concern.

"While prohibition costs the United States in direct outlays for enforcement and in loss of revenue $1,000,000,000 yearly, Great Britain is reaping an annual revenue of more than $675,000,000 from its well regulated liquor traffic," Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, declared today.

Mr. Curran drew this comparison from a report on the English licensing system which has just been published in a pamphlet entitled "England's Solution of the Liquor Problem."

British Temperance Pictured.

The report, which is the latest of the association's studies of foreign liquor systems, presents the results of a survey of conditions in England, Scotland and Ireland. Some of the findings are:

"A rapid and steady decline in intoxication over a period of years; in the latest record, convictions dropped from 118,877 in 1913 to 65,166 in 1927 and 55,642 in 1928.

"The annual 'drink bill' has declined from £469,700,000 in 1920 to £288,200,000 in 1928, although the prices of liquor now are three to four times the pre-war prices.

"The consumption of spirits has declined from 31,660,000 gallons in 1914 to 12,881,000 in 1927; beer has gone down from 34,130,000 barrels to 20,819,000 in the same period; wine has risen from 10,630,000 gallons to 16,628,000.

"The number of public houses has been reduced, through a scheme of buying out licenses with funds paid in by 'the trade,' from 99,478 in 1905 to 78,803 in 1928, and this continuing process is accompanied by extensive building of model 'pubs.'

"While high prices of liquor and reduced hours of sale have been important factors, the great growth of temperance is due largely to improved living conditions, recreational facilities, outdoor sports and popular education."

CRACKSMEN'S HIDEOUT YIELDS $100,000 LOOT

One Man Shot Dead, Alleged Ringleader and Woman Seized by Police in Kansas City Raid.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 14 (AP).—The police killed one man and seized Liberty bonds and money orders valued at more than $100,000 in a raid today on what they described as a safe blowers' rendezvous.

Frank Reliser, 37 years old, the alleged leader of a gang whose activities, veiled by a photograph enlargement business, extended from Iowa to Colorada, and Mrs. Meda Graham, 37, his companion, were arrested.

B. H. Thurman, chief of detectives, said that evidence in the Relisers' residence definitely linked the band with robberies in Stilwell, Kan., and Frederick and Central City, Col.

Reliser, who has served three prison terms, refused to identity the man shot dead by detectives when he resisted arrest on his arrival at the house.

The raid was made on information from officers in Topeka, where Ray Sawyer and J. A. Haynes, alleged members of the gang, were arrested yesterday.

Liberty bonds valued at $8,300 were identified as part of the loot from the Stilwell State Bank, robbed about two weeks ago. At Stilwell the robbers abandoned an automobile bearing an Iowa license. Chief Thurman said the gang apparently had operated about Sioux City.

ANOTHER, AGED 2, A VICTIM

Two Youths and Two Girls Are Fatally Hurt After Three Crashes on Roads of New Jersey.

Molly Shapiro, 2 years old, of 316 West Thirtieth Street, was mortally injured last night when she was pinned beneath an automobile driven by Mrs. Sarah Rottman of 314 West Thirtieth Street as it mounted the sidewalk and crashed into the front of 308 West Thirtieth Street. The child died soon afterward in the French Hospital. Both Mrs. Rottman and her brother-in-law, Jacob Rottman, owner of the car, were arrested charged with homicide. Rottman is said to have been teaching Mrs. Rottman to drive at the time. She had no license.

Rita Doof, 2, of 215 Fifth Street, was standing in front of Beethoven Hall, opposite her home, watching guests arrive there for a wedding celebration last night, when a taxicab conveying two guests ran her down. She died on the way to Bellevue Hospital. Morris Friedman, 32, of 243 Troy Avenue, Brooklyn, driver of the cab, was arrested charged with homicide.

Milliage Burton, 32, a Negro, of 54 East 101st Street, was locked up in the East 104th Street station last night on charges of homicide, grand larceny and operating an automobile without a license, after a car operated by him collided with a taxicab at Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street. Guy Henson, 41, also a Negro, of 56 East 101st Street, riding in the car driven by Burton, suffered internal injuries that resulted in his death. The grand larceny charge was lodged against Burton by Max Schiff of 305 East 118th Street, owner of the car the Negro was driving.

Three members of the Ipana Troubadours, an orchestra known for its radio broadcasts, were injured early yesterday morning in an automobile collision in Yonkers. Thomas Morton, leader of the orchestra and driver of one of the automobiles, suffered a possible skull fracture and is in a critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

KEYPORT, N. J., Sept. 14.—Two youths were killed and a third was injured shortly after last midnight when the automobile in which they were riding was in collision with a truck at South Keyport, on the main shore road. The three were on their way home from Asbury Park, and policemen who investigated the crash believe the driver of the auto must have fallen asleep.

The dead are Arthur Parker, 20 years old, of Kenilworth, Union County, driver of the car, who was instantly killed, and Harry L. Cretly, 17, of Cranford, who died soon after admission to Matteawan Hospital. Theodore Martinovich, 19, of Kenilworth received cuts and bruises and was taken to the hospital. The driver of the truck was uninjured, despite the fact that the entire side of the vehicle was ripped off. He is William Simpson of 201 Van Nostrand Avenue, Jersey City.

The automobile, according to the police, was on the wrong side of the road, whereas the truck was proceeding along the extreme right of the road.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 14.—Etta Gigli, 9 years old, of 67 Wayne Avenue, here, died in Barnard Hospital tonight of burns suffered when an automobile in which she was riding last night skidded to the side of the road, turned over and caught fire.

The child was one of a group of boys and girls whom August Fiordanci, also of 67 Wayne Avenue, was taking for an automobile ride to Preakness. Fiordanci managed to pull all the children from the burning automobile and submerge them in a creek at the side of the road. Etta was the only one who was seriously burned.

UNITED FIGHT URGED ON ANTI-SEMITISM

SCORE COLLEGE 'PREJUDICE'

Dr. Wise Criticizes "Wealthy, Polo-Playing Jews"—Trade Bias in America Alleged.

Concerted action by American Jewry to combat anti-Semitic manifestations both abroad and in the United States was urged by speakers at a conference of the New York Council of the American Jewish Congress yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Delegates were selected for the fifteenth annual convention at Washington, D. C., on Oct. 19 and 20, and resolutions were adopted urging active participation by American Jews in world economic affairs affecting the Jewish people. Herman G. Robbins, president of the New York Council, presided.

More than 300 Jewish organizations were represented at the conference. Among the speakers were the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Gustave Hartman, Bernard S. Deutsch, president of the American Jewish Congress; Nathan D. Perlman and Leo Wolfson, president of the Rumanian-Jewish Federation of America.

In an address directed against "wealthy, polo-playing Jews," Dr. Wise asserted that the wealthy Jew who was a member of a Long Island polo club, "where a Semitic ancestry is something to be concealed," was not the sort of person the American Jewish Congress wanted in its ranks.

"We are coming nearer to a clear and concise judgment of Jewish affairs in America," he said, "and in doing so we have no desire to further the fortunes of Jews whose highest purpose is to gain admission to the more exclusive social sets."

Sees Criticism of Britain Vindicated.

Dr. Wise also asserted that a perusal of the minutes of the recent report of the Mandates Commission of the League of Nations revealed that the delegates to the League believed that the Palestine administration of Great Britain was responsible for the disorders in the Jewish homeland. "We of the congress were criticized because we were alleged to be critical of the British Parliamentary Commission's report on affairs in Palestine," he said, "but the minutes of the Mandates Commission vindicate our attitude."

Both Mr. Perlman and Mr. Wolfson urged in their addresses that the American Jewish Congress take steps to alleviate the economic distress of the Jews in Rumania. They charged that the Rumanian Government was guilty of anti-Semitic persecutions and that it was the duty of American Jewry to protest these persecutions. American public opinion, they said, was the only thing which could stop both the physical violence and economic discriminations not only in Rumania, but in Poland and Russia also.

Mr. Perlman was also of the opinion that "industrial discrimination against the Jew in America, while not countenanced by the government," was a problem of equal importance. He urged also that the congress make a study of the alleged discrimination against Jewish applicants to American universities and colleges, and recommend consequent reforms based on their findings.

Problems Viewed as Acute Today.

Other speakers, who included Mr. Hartman and Bernard Richards, secretary of the congress, said that while American Jewry was confronted today by essentially the same problems as in previous years, they were more acute at present, and as such, merited serious contemplation. They cited the problems as involving questions of intolerance, organization, education and economic forces.

The council selected 125 delegates to attend the convention at Washington. Among those selected were:

Carl Sherman
Louis Lipsky
Nelson Ruttenberg
Max D. Steuer
Aaron J. Levy
Sol Bloom
Bernard L. Shientag
Dr. G. A. Kohut
Nathan Sweedler
Louis B. Brodsky
Samuel Dickstein
Rabbi Louis I. Newman
Bernard S. Dickstein

The delegates were instructed to present the resolutions adopted by the council at the convention next month. The resolutions included, besides the protests against anti-Semitic agitation in Central Europe, pledges of renewed efforts to make Palestine secure as the Jewish homeland and a suggestion that the congress champion economic equality at the forthcoming labor convention in Berlin.

MAN FOUND SLAIN IN CAFE.

Another Who Reported Case Is Charged With the Shooting.

John Thompson, 38 years old, of 305 West Twenty-second Street, a house painter, was found dead at 6 A. M. yesterday in an alleged speakeasy in the basement of 238 West Twenty-second Street. There were bullet wounds in his head and in his chest.

After several hours of investigation the police arrested William Killian, 51, proprietor of the rooming house above the establishment where the body was found. He is charged with homicide. His wife, Mrs. Justine Killian, and Albert Nelson of 233 Eighth Avenue, are held as material witnesses.

Killian came up to Patrolman John McCoy at 6 o'clock yesterday morning and reported that a man was unconscious on the basement floor. McCoy found that the man was Thompson and that he was dead. He took Killian to the West Twentieth Street station for questioning.

Killian then admitted, according to the police, that Thompson was in the basement at 4 A. M. drinking. He added that Nelson and another man came in and that they got into an altercation with Thompson, but that he did not witness the end of it because he left. He said that he returned at 6 A. M. and found Thompson on the floor.

Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner, said that Thompson, at 6 A. M. had been dead about six hours. Nelson, according to the police, established an alibi.

DEWEY SUPPORTS VLADECK.

Election of B. C. Vladeck, Socialist candidate for Representative in the Eighth Congressional District, Brooklyn, "to break the boss control of the House of Representatives into a mere rubber stamp of the Republican machine" was advocated by Professor John Dewey, chairman of the League for Independent Political Action, made public yesterday.

"Not the slightest hope remains of accomplishing any fundamental change through either of the two old parties," the letter read. "Both are dominated by corrupt political bosses and selfish business interests. The time is at hand for honest people to rise up and declare that they have no more votes for such politicians. Great problems wait to be settled while grafters, racketeers and privileged business interests reap their rich harvests."

The league announced that it had endorsed Samuel Orr, Socialist candidate for Congress in the Twenty-third District, and A. I. Shiplacoff, Socialist candidate for Congress in the Twelfth District, in addition to those previously endorsed.

CRAIN BEGINS TODAY INQUIRY ON CRATER

BUT HE WITHHOLDS NAMES

Another effort to discover the reason for the mysterious disappearance of Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater will start this morning when District Attorney Crain will present to the county grand jury the testimony of professional, social and political friends of the missing jurist.

The investigation, in which testimony will be taken behind closed doors, was ordered when John Doe proceedings proposed by Mr. Crain last week were declared to be illegal by Chief Magistrate Corrigan. Mr. Crain refused to divulge the list of witnesses, but he said he hoped to examine "twelve or fourteen persons" during the day. He will be aided by his chief assistant, Albert B. Unger. Mr. Crain promised last night to go thoroughly "into the whole thing."

There was considerable speculation yesterday as to whether Mr. Crain would be hampered by the limitation imposed upon him when Governor Roosevelt turned the Healy-Ewald case over to Attorney General Hamilton Ward. It was pointed out that any testimony relative to Martin J. Healy, Tammany leader, or to former Magistrate George F. Ewald, should properly be adduced in Mr. Ward's investigation and should not be included in the scope of Mr. Crain's, despite the fact that Mr. Healy and Justice Crater are known to have been close friends and Ewald and the missing jurist were acquainted. Justice Crater formerly was president of the Cayuga Democratic Club, the Tammany organization of Mr. Healy's district.

Police Hunt Still Fruitless.

Though the police continued their activity yesterday in tracing various "tips," the day was again a disappointing one, and last night Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan admitted his men were still without any definite clues.

The identity of the cab driver who picked up Justice Crater outside Haas's restaurant in West Forty-fifth Street on the night he disappeared was still unknown last night, although detectives were concentrating on this phase of the search.

Detectives Martin Owens and Edward Fitzgerald were still in the Adirondacks working from Elizabethtown. Another detective was sent to investigate a futile "lead" at Southampton, L. I.

In the city, Inspector Sullivan admitted that police were "working" on the report that Mrs. S. Marcus, who lives in the Hotel Embassy at Broadway and Seventieth Street, was an acquaintance of Crater's and had a supper engagement with the jurist on the night of his disappearance. Mrs. Marcus is said to have been disturbed and worried about the failure of the judge to keep the alleged appointment, but it was reported that she could shed no light on the disappearance or on Crater's whereabouts. Despite the fact that the police said they were investigating the Marcus angle of the case, Mrs. Marcus denied yesterday that she had known the jurist or had ever heard of him. Representatives of the hotel management said they could not recall seeing Crater there. Mrs. Marcus, they said, had lived at the Embassy about a year.

Sent $50 Check to Church.

The Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reisner, pastor of the Broadway Temple Methodist Church, in a sermon last night to his congregation, revealed that Justice Crater had sent a check for $50 to the treasurer of the church on Aug. 5, the day before the jurist's disappearance. The check was pinned to a monthly statement of the church, Dr. Reisner said. Judge Crater and his wife were married by Dr. Reisner fifteen years ago, the clergyman declared, and for a time were constant in their attendance, but of late years had not attended services.

A circumstance which rendered the jurist's disappearance still more inexplicable and tended to cast doubt on the theory of a voluntary disappearance was revealed yesterday. Crater apparently had made preliminary plans for conducting his campaign for election to the Supreme Court for a fourteen-year term in the Fall. In his desks in his judicial chambers were found copies of pre-campaign letters written by other judges in previous elections and copies of speeches he had made during his few months on the bench. The speeches were labeled, "speeches that may be useful."

Against this evidence the police have set the four portfolios of papers which Crater is believed to have taken with him from the court house on Aug. 6, and which apparently have disappeared with him.

LA FETRA CONSIDERED TO TAKE CRATER'S POST

Tammany Leaders to Nominate for Bench Places Sept. 25—Backing of Mullan in Doubt.

The nomination of Chief Judge Edward B. La Fetra of the City Court for the place on the Supreme Court bench now held by appointment by the missing Justice Crater, is under consideration by leaders of Tammany Hall, it was learned yesterday. The nomination will be made at a judiciary convention to be held on Sept. 25. The nomination of Justice John F. Carew and Bernard L. Shientag, appointees of Governor Roosevelt, is regarded as certain.

The uncertainty over the judical nominations results from failure of the Tammany leaders to decide whether to renominate Justices Richard H. Mitchell, Democrat, and George V. Mullan, Republican, whose terms will expire this year. The only objection to the renomination of Justice Mitchell is that he will reach the age limit within a few years. His renomination, however, is believed to be likely.

Presiding Justice Timothy A. Leary of the Municipal Court has been suggested for the nomination for Justice Mullan's seat, and his nomination, as well as that of Justice La Fetra, would be in line with the policy of John F. Curry, leader of Tammany, to make promotions of elective officials when possible.

Strong influences are at work to get Tammany to renominate Justices Mitchell and Mullan. The New York County Lawyers' Association and the Bronx County Bar Association have gone on record in favor of the renomination of the two jurists.

Governor Visits Camp Smith on Negro Regiment's "Harlem Day."

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The 369th Infantry, New York's "Fighting Fifteenth" Regiment, composed of 1,100 Negro Guardsmen, passed in review before Governor Roosevelt at Camp Smith here today as part of the regiment's annual Harlem Day activities. Colonel William A. Taylor is in command.

Harlem Day is set aside for the entertainment of their friends by members of the regiment. Arrangements are made to seat the guests for meals. Early this morning guests who were prepared to stay throughout the day arrived for their breakfast. The day began with Chaplain Garner, only Negro clergyman in the division, officiating at divine services. At 4:30 P. M., when Governor Roosevelt arrived, there were about 6,000 visitors in camp, including many of the most prominent figures of Harlem.

Governor Roosevelt and Brig. Gen. Franklin W. Ward, Adjutant General of the State National Guard, were met by Major Gen. William N. Haskell, commander of the State National Guard, who occupied the Governor's automobile during the review. Immediately after the review the Governor returned to his home at Hyde Park.

INQUIRY ON EWALD WILL BEGIN TODAY

tween" for Healy in his transactions with the magistrate, wish to testify they will be required to sign waivers of immunity, Mr. Todd announced. The Healy-Ewald contention is expected to follow the line already indicated in previous testimony, that the $10,000 was a loan to Healy and not a bribe by Ewald. Counsel for the two include Frederick L. Hackenburg and Albert E. Schwartz, I. Nick Gordon and Irwin Isaacs.

J. Edward Lombard, former assistant to two United States Attorneys, has been appointed by Mr. Todd to assist him, and other assistants are expected to be named shortly. Thomas Penney Jr., First Assistant Attorney General, has conducted much of the preliminary investigation and is expected to be of assistance to Mr. Todd.

The attack of Mr. Thomas on Governor Roosevelt was made at Huntington, L. I., yesterday when he addressed the Men's Bible Class Forum at the Baptist Church there on the subject of "Racketeering and Respectability."

Any steps which the Governor may now take toward a complete investigation of New York City will be prompted by political expediency, Mr. Thomas declared.

"Sooner or later there is bound to be an investigation into New York City," he said. "But the time has gone by when either old party can take credit for the investigation. The stench has become too great even for American nostrils. The time for courageous, respectable citizens to have investigated was several years ago."

Mr. Thomas charged that "no racket in any city could last a year if the Police Department and other agencies of justice meant business," but added that they do not and that politics "as played by both old parties is a racket and gangsters are allies of the political machines or factions."

"So much is this true that even respectable politicians, consciously or unconsciously, are cowards, afraid to probe deep into the facts for fear of what will be found," Mr. Thomas continued.

"Governor Roosevelt, himself a gentleman, but a gentleman with some very strange bedfellows, has now waited until Tammany cannot effectively knife him for nomination or election. If he now takes steps leading to a thorough investigation, it will be a good thing, but it will not be a brave thing. On the contrary, he will be taking advantage of a situation made by other men in which to investigate is good politics for a Presidential aspirant who, if he comes from New York, must somehow or other dissociate himself from the Tammany-McCooey label. Lest this seem partisan let me assure you that the Republican record is no better. In New York City they have usually been an annex to the Democratic machine, as Koenig is today in Manhattan and as Harvey of Queens is in the Board of Estimate. The reform of politics in America means a new philosophy, a new vision and a new goal.

United States Attorney Tuttle, who is still investigating the income tax status of Healy for 1928 and 1929, declined again yesterday to comment or answer in any way the demand of Dr. George F. Ryan, president of the Board of Education, for a retraction of the "innuendoes" in his statement charging that Healy sold his "influence" with school officials for $200 a month to the American Book Company. Healy has been indicted for failure to file an income tax return for 1927.

District Attorney Crain also declined to say yesterday what his next step would be in the proceedings which his office started to get permission to exhume the body of Magistrate Andrew Macreary, Supreme Court Justice Hammer denied the motion of Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers on Saturday. Mr. Crain is expected to make further investigation this week of the reports of the alleged beating to death of Magistrate Macrecy before taking any action.

OFFICIALS WILLING TO WEIGH DAHL PLAN

BUT DEMAND SAFEGUARDS

State and city transit officials are ready to discuss with Gerhard M. Dahl, chairman of the board of directors of the B. M. T., his plan for a comprehensive unification of all rapid transit lines, it was learned yesterday. They are determined, however, to reject any scheme involving an operating contract which fails to remove the many alleged disadvantages under which the city labors in the existing dual contracts with the B. M. T. and the Interborough.

They are also opposed to any method of financing the proposed single operating agency which fails to protect the city's huge investment of more than $2,000,000,000 in old subways, new subways soon to be in operation and subways whose construction is contemplated.

Mr. Dahl, as spokesman for the protective committee of Interborough voting trust certificate holders, has discussed the outlines of his plan with Samuel Untermyer, special counsel for the Transit Commission, and has been told that the plan will not be acceptable unless it definitely meets these requiremnts. It is undrstood that Albert H. Wiggin and Charles H. Hayden, who are serving on the committee with Mr. Dahl and who are among his fellow directors on the boards of the B. M. T., the Interborough and the Chase National Bank, are in thorough accord with his views as to the best method of achieving real unification.

Plan Calls for New Contract.

The Dahl plan contemplates city ownership and control of all subway and elevated lines, but instead of a Board of Transit Control as authorized in the special legislation of 1921, it calls for a railroad corporation which will be financed by the city, the companies and the banking interests behind the companies. The plan contemplates that the city will contribute not only its entire independent subway system but also a substantial sum of money to be raised by the sale of corporate stock. The present dual contracts are to be replaced by a new contract, retaining the five-cent fare and also the provisions whereby operating deficits will be met by city funds.

It is understood that Mr. Untermyer and Mr. Dahl, even at this preliminary stage, have clashed as to the treatment to be given the city's investment as compared with the treatment to be accorded B. M. T. and Interborough security holders. The Dahl plan, like the tentative plan submitted to the Board of Estimate in 1928 by Mr. Untermyer, calls for refunding of all outstanding rapid transit bonds except the Interborough's 5 per cent obligations.

Although Mr. Untermyer has made no formal study of the Dahl proposal it is believed that he will insist that the city have a controlling interest in the new corporation which would be set up to operate the unified transit system. Mr. Dahl, in outlining his scheme, made it clear that it was only tentative.

To Resume Price Parleys.

The Transit Commission and the Board of Transportation will confer again this week on the value to be set on the B. M. T. rapid transit properties. There is a strong probability that they will not be able to reconcile differences amounting to at least $20,000,000. If the Dahl group, by lining up nearly 80 per cent of Interborough certificate holders in favor of unification, had not gained virtual control of the Interborough, this deadlock would mean complete failure of the proposed unification of city and B. M. T. lines. Now, however, it may mean that the pending negotiations will merely be enlarged by including the Interborough properties. With the Interborough in the picture it is possible that the failure to agree on a price to pay for B. M. T. properties may not be an insuperable obstacle.

It is undestood that Mr. Dahl in future conferences with Mr. Untermyer and other representatives of the Transit Commission and with the Board of Transportation now plans to act in his capacity as head of the Interborough protective committee. If, after the annual meeting of the Interborough on Sept. 24, the Dahl-B. M. T.-Chase National Bank group swings the company's management into line for unification parleys, he may then act as official spokesman for the company. James L. Quackenbush, general counsel for the Interborough, will confer with Mr. Dahl soon after returning from his vacation on Sept. 25. It is understood that Mr. Quackenbush may acquiesce in unification proceedings if he is convinced that the financing proposed by the Dahl plan will give Interborough security holders adequate protection. Mr. Quackenbush has steadfastly maintained that the bonds of the Board of Transit Control contemplated in the Untermyer plan would be nothing but "stage money."

WARNS PASSENGERS OF PIER SWINDLERS

Merchants' Group Reports Double Charges on Baggage Deliveries by Fake Agents.

A warning to shipping men and to all passengers entering New York harbor to be on their guard against a new form of swindle which has been worked at certain steamship piers will be carried in the forthcoming issue of Greater New York, official bulletin of The Merchants' Association. The warning will read:

"Evidence has been brought to The Merchants' Association of a new form of racket recently worked at certain piers. A gentleman who arrived in New York with his family Sept. 6 was approached inside the pier gate by a man who solicited delivery of trunks to the traveler's home in Westchester County, claiming to represent a forwarding company. The traveler thereupon paid $4.50 and was assured the trunks would be delivered the following morning, Sunday.

"The trunks were not received as promised, nor on the following Monday. The traveler thereupon undertook an investigation, but was able to obtain little information about the so-called forwarding company. On the following Tuesday the trunks were delivered at the gentleman's home by a delivery concern, which collected $7.50 C. O. D. charges in addition to the $4.50 previously paid. The company that made the delivery was not the one the solicitor claimed to represent.

"The association is informed that a fair charge for the delivery of the trunks would have been $6. Another gentleman living in New Jersey had a similar experience, and was forced to pay $8 for the delivery of trunks on which the charge should have been $4. There is some evidence that the same scheme has been worked on at least four different piers."

QUESTION DAUGHTER IN DEATH OF JOYCE

MRS. JOYCE CHARGES PLOT

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Investigation by the State's Attorney's office into the death of Senator John T. Joyce, which a coroner's jury attributed to hydrocyanic poisoning, continued today in secrecy.

Miss Isabelle Daly, 19-year-old stepdaughter of Mr. Joyce's widow, Mrs. Mary Daly Joyce, remained hidden in the custody of the prosecutors. She was taken from the Joyce home on Saturday evening, with the announcement that she was not under suspicion, but for questioning on information the prosecutors had discovered.

The girl is said to have denied that Mrs. Joyce had quarreled with her husband because of her presence in the home. She is also said to have maintained that Mrs. Joyce knew nothing of the affair.

At her home, Mrs. Joyce declared that no undue intimacy had existed between Isabelle and Joyce. "Johnny was nothing more than a kind foster father to her," she said. "They are trying to make out that I poisoned John Joyce because he had been too friendly with Isabelle. That's not true."

She asserted that the questioning of Miss Daly was a plot by her political enemies to obstruct her campaign to secure the seat her husband had occupied in the State Senate.

Miss Bernice Webb, a clothing model and friend of the Joyce family, also was held today for questioning.

Mr. Joyce was found dead on Aug. 16, and his widow charges that he was murdered by political enemies.

LAUDS NEGRO MISSIONS IN 3 FOREIGN FIELDS

Dr. Graham Reports to Baptist Meeting on Work in Liberia, Nicaragua and Africa.

Reports from foreign missions, including Liberia, Nicaragua and South Africa, featured the fifth day of the National Baptist Convention of America at the Salem M. E. Church, Seventh Avenue and 129th Street. Negro delegates from all over the country are in attendance.

The Rev. Dr. A. A. Graham, secretary of the convention's board of foreign missions, who presided, spoke of the careers of Negro missionaries to Africa and other countries, citing cases of many who died "in the field of action." Too many of the Negroes of America, he said, are ignorant of the traditions of Negro mission work.

Africa, according to Dr. Graham, offers the best field for Negro missionaries. He referred to the continent's richness in natural resources, and to its 300,000,000 people—"my kinsmen and your kinsmen, who are looking for us to come over and help them."

The Rev. O. A. Simpson, missionary to Nicaragua, told of his return to that country after a period of training in the United States. Dr. Simpson declared that he had converted and baptized more than 500 Nicaraguans.

Other speakers included the Rev. Samuel Stubblefield, in charge of the mission work in Liberia; the Rev. D. B. Mdodana of South Africa, another missionary, and Mrs. M. A. B. Fuller, president of the women's auxiliary of the convention.

Tomorrow's session, which will close the convention, will also end the deadlock as to the election of a president for the coming year. The election has held the attention of the convention for the past three days, and has disrupted the scheduled program. The candidates for the post are the present president, Dr. John W. Hurse of Kansas City, Mo., and Dr. S. S. Jones, present corresponding secretary.

ADMITS DE PRIEST PLOT.

Chicago Police Say Prisoner Has Confessed Extortion Attempt.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP).—Indictment by the September grand jury will be recommended tomorrow for two men arrested last night on charges of having attempted to extort $10,000 from Representative Oscar De Priest, Negro.

One of them, Solly Lason, was said to have confessed his part in the plot to extort the money from the Representative under threat of death, and to have named Julius Link, a minor politician in De Priest's district, as a partner in the scheme. Detectives also hunted Joe Gladstone, a confederate named by Lason.

Representative De Priest received a letter last Wednesday to the effect that the writers had an offer of $5,000 to assassinate him. The note said De Priest's "enemies in Alabama" had commissioned them for the killing, but if he would deliver $10,000 in easily negotiable bills they would not execute the plot.

Police later said they had learned that "Gladstone" was in reality Joseph Goldstein, a minor racketeer, who formerly was closely affiliated with Aaron Moshick, known, the authorities said, as a master forger, who is now believed to be in New York. They recalled, too, that Link ran for State Representative on the "anti-De Priest" ticket in the Spring primary and was defeated. Lason was an unsuccessful candidate for a minor ward office.

Representative De Priest took the note to Robert I. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and chairman of the "Secret Six" crime investigating committee. Working also with Walter Walker, attorney for the Employers' Association, the Representative complied with the demand to signify his assent by running a notice in the personal column of a newspaper. Through a decoy package of marked bills, Lason and Link were arrested.

HOOVER TAKES REST AT CAMP ON RAPIDAN

LURAY, Va., Sept. 14.—President Hoover spent a quiet Sunday at his fishing camp at the headwaters of the Rapidan River today with only members of his family and close personal friends.

It was the first time this Summer that he had been able to spend a day in complete rest, free from official conferences and without guests outside his own family and personal circle.

The President faces a particularly busy week, during which he must complete the reorganization of the Tariff Commission and set it to work on some of the "inequalities" which he has promised to straighten out in the Smoot-Hawley bill.

He has four members of the commission yet to name, but it is understood that he has already settled upon them and has merely to announce their appointment. Under the terms of the bill he must name them before midnight of Tuesday.

The President is expected to confer tomorrow with Henry P. Fletcher, whom he has named as chairman of the reorganized commission.

In the group, besides President and Mrs. Hoover, were their son, Herbert Jr.; George Barr Baker, long a friend of the Hoover family; Mrs. Stark McMullin of Palo Alto, Cal., a friend of the Hoovers since college days at Stanford, and Captain Joel T. Boone, the President's personal physician.

The party will leave the Rapidan camp soon after sun-up tomorrow, expecting to arrive in Washington at about 10 A. M.

STUDIES GRAFT COMPLAINT.

Erie County Official Investigates Road Construction.

BUFFALO, Sept. 14 (AP).—District Attorney Guy B. Moore announced tonight that he had started an investigation of complaints of graft in Erie County highway construction work.

A member of the Board of Supervisors already had announced that he would move this week for an investigation by the board, but the District Attorney, in announcing his opposition to such an investigation, said evidence which he had in his possession indicated that charges of graft might lead to the Board of Supervisors itself. He proposes to take the matter to the grand jury.

"If the investigation develops evidence of corruption," he announced, "I shall prosecute regardless of where the trail leads."

The allegation has been made that inferior material is being used in the road beds and that highways laid only a short time ago already are breaking up.

ROUGE STAINS CLUE IN CHICAGO KILLING

SHOT AS SHE CALLED HIM

Victim Fired On From Room in Which Cigarette Ends, Tinted by Lipstick, Are Found.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP).—Gangland guerrillas sniped another member of the rapidly thinning Moran gang early today, chose a busy night-life section of Sheridan Road for their work, and, the police believe, used the victim's sweetheart to lure him to his death.

Jack Costa, whose string of cabarets offered an outlet for floods of Moran beer and liquor, was the target of the latest underworld vengeance. He was shot down as he walked across the courtyard of an apartment building next door to a large motion picture theatre at the buzzing intersection of Sheridan and Irving Park Boulevards.

Confronted with a mass of circumstantial evidence, the girl, Margaret Reardon, 23, repeated time and again to Police Captain Hugh McCarthy:

"I didn't. I knew he was going to be killed, but I didn't have anything to do with it."

Authorities said the girl had told them she had rented an apartment across the court from that occupied by her and Costa, so that Costa and a man she knew only as "Fred" would have a place to stay while she and her sister gave a party. She did not want Costa at the affair, she told officers. The apartment occupied by the assassins was directly above that rented by Miss Reardon for Costa and "Fred."

When the party was over, police said they learned, Miss Reardon called Costa and his companion. As Costa appeared in the courtyard, he fell in a stream of fire from above. The girl was ten feet in front of the victim, they said, and "Fred" as far behind, both out of range.

Detectives reported finding many cigarette stubs in the assassins' rendezvous, indicating the slayers had lain in wait for hours. They said that some of the stubs bore lip-rouge stains, indicating at least one woman had participated in the gun vigil. The lip sticks of Miss Reardon and her sister were taken for comparison.

Police attempted to link the slaying with the murder last May of Frank Plescia, in which Costa and "Ashcan Pete" Inzerra were suspected.

but whose "best" is it?

The market is flooded with men's suits featured at $50. Naturally, you are after the best $50 will buy.

Everything put forward under a $50 price-tag, comes down to this: each represents simply "the best somebody can do for fifty dollars."

Confronted with so many "bests" you are inclined to ask "whose"? Consider this:

Hart Schaffner & Marx are the world's largest producers of fine clothes for men. Their resources are world-wide in scope. Their corps of style observers cull the best from the fashion centers of the world. Their textile experts, artists, designers are the best available in the field of clothing.

So that when Hart Schaffner & Marx sponsor *Gordian Worsted suits at $50, it expresses a leadership that is a model for the entire clothing industry.

For Gordian Worsted is a $50 suit but it's more than that—it's the supreme achievement of these nationally famous makers in their many years of "doing the unusual."

BARKLEY BELITTLES TOURIST REVENUE

NO AID TO WORKERS HERE

Kentucky Senator Also Assails Administration for "Concealing" Fall in Postal Receipts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Replying to the criticisms made by Ogden L. Mills, Under-Secretary of the Treasury, of his statement regarding the effect of the tariff on foreign trade, Senator Barkley, Democrat, of Kentucky, today ridiculed a point made by Mr. Mills with regard to aid to Europe in paying its war debt to the United States by money left in European countries by American tourists. Senator Barkley also said that the loss of foreign business meant increased unemployment in the United States.

The administration was charged by Senator Barkley with concealing all the facts with reference to our foreign trade relations and of omitting statements on postal receipts, which he indicated would reveal, if published, the sharp effects of the business depression.

"This is in line with the policy of keeping from the people the real facts concerning unemployment and business depression," Mr. Barkley said.

"I am, of course, familiar with the fact that many factors enter into international financial relationships, but every one must concede that one of the most important factors is trade. Mr. Mills does not deny, because he cannot deny, that the figures of the Department of Commerce issued a week ago show that our exports have fallen off in the past six months at the rate of $1,000,000,000 a year.

He Cites July Decline.

"The statement issued by the Department of Commerce on Sept. 11 shows that our exports declined for the month of July alone in the sum of more than $136,000,000, as compared with the same month in 1929.

"Mr. Mills seeks to create the impression that this loss is of no consequence, because it can be made up by sending American tourists abroad, and that the economic doctrine is to be advanced that the debtor nations will pay us what they owe us out of the money that the American tourists spend abroad. In other words, for export goods manufactured by American labor we are to substitute tourists.

"The trouble with this theory is that even tourists fell off in number this year to such an extent that European hotels and steamship lines have constantly complained at the decline of American tourists for 1930.

"But if it were true that tourists could be substituted for American goods, it would be ridiculous to assume that this exchange would absorb the deficit in our export trade.

"Tourists are not produced by American labor and very few American laborers under present conditions can become tourists, but American goods shipped abroad are produced by American labor and help to give employment to millions of American workmen; and it will offer poor consolation to the American working man to offer him a tourist for the goods which he has been manufacturing for foreign consumption.

War Debts Still an Issue.

"Mr. Mills made no attempt to deny the tremendous loss. Neither did he deny the statement published in the newspapers on the same day on which I made my statement, to the effect that there was a movement on foot among certain European nations to secure a reduction in their war debts to the United States. I am in no way responsible for that situation. I merely called attention to it.

"It is perfectly evident that the Treasury Department does not desire to repeal the whole facts with reference to our foreign trade situation; and I might add the Postoffice Department is following the same policy, for it has discontinued for some time the issuance of monthly statements showing the postal receipts of the fifty largest cities in the United States."

Mr. Barkley concluded with the comment that he did not blame the administration for wishing to conceal the real facts, because they constituted "a record which it is not pleasant for the American people to contemplate."

"In proof of the recent statement which I made concerning the effect of the Hawley-Smoot tariff upon our foreign trade," he said, "the President of the United States was yesterday visited by a delegation of English and American business men and warned that the people of England would not continue to buy grain from the American farmer if unreasonable and indefensible tariff rates were to be maintained against their own country."

PLANS GEOGRAPHY SCHOOL.

The founder is a geographer and explorer and will become professor of geographical exploration in Harvard, as well as director of the new department.

STATE SHOWS A DROP IN MORTGAGE TAXES

Collections Were $6,952,441 for Fiscal Year, Against $10,304,386 in the Preceding Year.

FILINGS DECREASE 69,861

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 14.—Mortgage tax receipts in the State dropped off about $3,500,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30, according to the annual report of the Mortgage Tax Bureau made public today by Thomas M. Lynch, Commissioner of Taxation and Finance. Recording officers collected $6,952,441.95. During the preceding year the total was $10,304,386.65. In 1928 it was more than $12,000,000.

For the year only 161,341 mortgages were filed, a decrease of 69,861 from the 234,202 of a year ago, and 113,700 from the 278,131 for 1928.

The net tax return for the fiscal year just closed was $6,845,992.37, after necessary expenses and refunds had been deducted, so the State received $3,422,996.19, or one-half, as revenue from this source.

Commissioner Lynch said the sharp drop was not unexpected.

"The economic depression and unemployment," he said, "are not factors that combine to make a booming real estate market. During the past year the severe slackening of business and resulting unemployment effectually retarded building operations in many quarters. The real estate market was almost at a standstill. In addition, many large corporations did their refinancing through stocks and not bonds, so that it was not necessary to obtain security by mortgages."

New York County showed a decrease of 2,350 mortgages; Bronx, 5,462; Kings, 16,100; Queens, 11,866; Richmond, 2,379, Suffolk, 991; Westchester, 6,355; Nassau, 5,459. The only counties which showed an increase were Columbia, Cortland, Delaware, Dutchess, Franklin, Fulton, Greene, Hamilton and Otsego. These amounts ranged only from $200 to $3,800.

In Albany County the receipts were $49,000 less; in the Bronx, $522,000 under a year ago; New York, $119,000; Kings, about $826,000; Queens, $603,800; Richmond, $71,000; Suffolk, $35,000, and Westchester, $404,000.

The total of real estate transactions in the State for the year ended June 30 have been estimated at $3,475,000,000. The mortgage tax is at the rate of 50 cents on each $100 secured, and the total indicates that about $1,390,488,400 was borrowed on mortgages during the year.

It cost to collect the tax $102,996.52, or an average of 62.6 cents for each mortgage. The average tax was about $42.24, a decline from last year, while the cost of collection went up 17 cents a mortgage.

The State acts only in a supervisory capacity in the administration and collection of the mortgage tax, clerks and registers of each county doing the collecting. After expenses or refunds have been deducted, these officers turn over to the county treasurers the net total. The half retained by the counties is allocated to the cities, villages and towns on the basis of the location of the real property covered by the mortgages filed. In the five counties of Greater York, half goes into the general fund and half to the State.

ILL GET SHOW'S FLOWERS.

Ambulances Carry Atlantic City Exhibit Blossoms to Hospitals.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 14.—"The first national Atlantic City flower and garden pageant, which closed officially last night, has not only proved that a Fall show on a gigantic scale is possible, but that it is practical as well," declared J. W. Johnston of Philadelphia, director of the flower pageant, at the Municipal Auditorium tonight. A total attendance of 100,000 was reported. The exhibit was unofficially open today for the benefit of week-end visitors.

The exhibits were dismantled late tonight and carried away in ambulances to hospitals and other public institutions. It was estimated that more than 1,000,000 blossoms had been exhibited during the week and that $1,500,000 worth of shrubs and flowers were shown.

A realistic note was injected into the show this afternoon when the Koster Company of Bridgeton found it necessary to mow the lawn of its prize garden.

WHAT if an accident like this should happen to you? The crash shown in this picture made a hospital case and a mighty big hole in somebody's pocketbook. No matter how careful a driver YOU are, you never know what "the other fellow" will do. Be protected. Keep out of court. Have on your side a big strong insurance company like Liberty Mutual to save you from crushing loss.

THEY were sitting in the club, looking through a window at the cars streaming past on the Avenue. Talk drifted to auto insurance.

"By George!" said Benson, "I certainly don't like these high insurance rates. They make the cost of protection pretty stiff."

"Not so bad if you insure with Liberty Mutual," answered Williams. "Liberty's 20% saving is a mighty big help."

"Well, several years ago, our treasurer told me that Liberty Mutual had saved our company thousands of dollars on workmen's compensation and truck insurance. It has always paid its policyholders a yearly cash dividend of at least 20% of their premiums.

"I'm a business man and I didn't see why I should be a babe in arms when buying auto insurance. I decided not to throw money away, out of mere habit. I looked into Liberty Mutual, found it OK, and I've been cutting one-fifth off the cost of my premiums ever since."

"Solid as a rock. They have been established 18 years and have written over $131,000,000 in premiums. On these premiums they have paid to policyholders over $27,000,000 in dividends. Their board of directors includes many of the leading business men of the country.

"I especially like their fair and speedy settlements—995 out of every 1,000 cases are settled out of court."

"What do you do if you have an accident?"

"Simply phone the nearest Liberty Mutual office and forget it. Their local adjusters take over the entire case and relieve you of every worry. Chances are you'll hear no more about it. They certainly got me out of a scare last August. By the way, Benson, who insures you?"

"I don't know what company I'm in now, but it's going to be Liberty Mutual from now on."

It will pay you, too, Mr. Reader, to join the 75,000 policyholding owners of Liberty Mutual. Phone the nearest Liberty Mutual office or send coupon.

URIBURU ADDRESSES AMERICA BY RADIO

SAYS COUP WOKE COUNTRY

Patriots Are Now Working to Rid Nation of Graft and Inefficiency, He Tells His Hearers.

The revolution in the Argentine Republic which overthrew the Irigoyen Government on Sept. 6 was a spontaneous rising of the whole people against a régime of graft, incompetence and sensuality, declared General José Francisco Uriburu, Provisional President of the republic, in an address delivered in Buenos Aires last night and broadcast throughout the United States by Station WEAF and the National Broadcasting Company's network.

The Provisional President said all the live forces in the nation, ranging from the students to the financiers, had manifested their faith in the new government and that he and his aides earnestly hoped for the early return of normal conditions.

General Uriburu spoke in Spanish and his deep voice came clearly through the 5,300 miles which lie between Government House, where he spoke, and New York.

When the President had finished, W. H. Repp of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company broadcast an English translation of the address from Buenos Aires.

President Uriburu spoke in part as follows:

"The Argentine Republic has awakened from sleep. The government which has just fallen amid the execration of public opinion allowed all the institutions of my country to fall into the most absolute disorder and destroyed all sense of morality in our public officials by the bad example set to them by those in authority over them. Even the populace was feeling the decadent effect of the pernicious political party, individualized in the person of its leader."

President Uriburu then asserted that "a rude awakening was necessary, therefore, for the nation to recover its lofty ideals. The chaotic state of affairs which had existed for the last two years called for the reestablishment of the rules of conduct laid down by the Constitution, and a group of patriots resolved to throw themselves into the fray so as to put an end to the afflicting situation which threatened us with chaos and ruin."

"We have assumed the government by the will of the people, the army and the navy," he continued, recapitulating that on Sept. 8 the provisional government was established, composed of some of the most capable men in the country. In the historical Plaza de Mayo, in the presence of more than 400,000 citizens of this great city, without distinction of age or sex, the new government took a solemn oath, he recalled, to re-establish justice, public integrity and order.

Justices Support Régime.

"The National Supreme Court of Justice has hastened to recognize the provisional government, which is a great honor to the provisional government, since it proves," General Uriburu continued, "that the jealous guardians of the legal integrity of the republic have confidence in the provisional government's integrity because when pledging its word it enjoys the confidence of the whole populace and of the army and navy, all of whom, in one splendid community of ideals and actions, rose one day in anger against the hordes which, under the cloak of government, exercised a power of which the only motives were graft, indolence and the lowest kind of sensuality."

The Provisional President then explained that following the example of the Supreme Court of Justice, the Courts of Appeal and the other judicial departments have given the provisional government their support and that a majority of the Senate and the Left and Right groups of the Chamber of Deputies have expressed themselves as being in accordance both as regards ideals and actions with the provisional government which dissolved both Chambers.

Also, said General Uriburu, with the exception of the party which has just been overthrown, all the political parties, the Student Federation, trade unions, railway companies, shipping companies, the leading banks who have spontaneously placed at the disposal of the government a credit of 100,000,000 pesos, Argentine currency, with the rate of interest to be fixed by the debtor; the national and foreign chambers of commerce—in a word, all the live forces of the republic have proclaimed their faith in the provisional government and have lent it their unequivocal support.

Sacrifices for Patriotism.

"They have done this," said General Uriburu, "because they know that the honorable men who compose the provisional government, some of whom have sacrificed the peace of their later years, while others have neglected the private occupations which provide them with their means of subsistence, have all undertaken the burden of obligations inseparable from a laborious task—they know, I say, that these men will not allow their efforts to be a failure nor much less will they allow to be dimmed that great page of Argentine history which was written on the 6th of September by failing to meet the solemn promise made to the people, that the provisional government proclaims its earnest wish to return to normal conditions as soon as possible, and it offers the public the most absolute guarantees so that the nation as soon as possible will be enabled to elect its new and legitimate representatives."

The first measures adopted by the new régime also were in line with the announced intention of proceeding to purge the government of all that was unwholesome and to punish all persons guilty of official misconduct with the utmost severity, "while defending the liberty of the innocent and facilitating the work of the laborer," continued the President.

"The inflexible purpose of the provisional government," he went on, "is the upholding of reciprocal international interests, the traditional friendship with all other countries in the world and brotherhood with the nations in America, and it was precisely the government which the Argentine people overthrew on the 6th of September that ignored these rules of conduct.

Good-Will of Foreigners Seen.

"Even during the first week in which the provisional government was constituted this inflexible purpose was recognized by the majority of nations, which have made us cognizant in a most unequivocal manner of their good-will toward us. The main object to which we aspire is respect for our Constitution, for our institutions, for our laws and, above all, for Argentine and foreign citizens. These are the bases on which the provisional government of the Argentine Republic has been constituted."

The broadcast was from 7 to 7:10 P. M., New York time. A group of members of the Argentine colony in New York, headed by Dr. Alejandro T. Bollini, Consul General, listened to it in the National Broadcasting Company's studio at 711 Fifth Avenue.

After the President's address Dr. Bollini spoke briefly, complimenting the newspapers of the United States for their fair presentation of the news of the revolution. He expressed the opinion that wireless telephone and radio conversations would promote closer relations between the two peoples.

By The Associated Press.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 14.—Circles close to the Foreign Office expect a complete severance of diplomatic relations between Peru and Uruguay.

Soon after the military junta headed by Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sánchez Cerro took the reins of government in Peru away from Agusto B. Leguia, Uruguay recalled its diplomatic representatives from Lima.

It is believed that Colonel Sánchez Cerro will retaliate by abolishing the Peruvian Legation in Montevideo.

PREDICTS RECOGNITION OF ARGENTINA SOON

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 14 (AP).—Foreign Minister Ernesto Bosch of the provisional government, declared today that he expected to hear from London and Washington in the next few days regarding recognition of the new Argentine regime.

"One of the greatest ambitions of the provisional government," he said, "is to maintain cordial relations with all foreign powers in accordance with the Argentine tradition.

"We are most anxious to enter into official relations with the White House in order to be able to contribute with positive acts of cooperation and good-will toward mutual advancement.

"This wish is fostered by the desire to deflate the impression caused in the United States by some acts of the late government, which, if not unfriendly, at least lacked the cordiality that has marked Argentine-American relations in the past."

LIKENS CHRIST TO ANCHOR.

Rev. Johannes Arndt of Germany Says Jesus Saves Man From Sinking

The Rev. Johannes Arndt, who arrived Saturday from Hamburg, Germany, spoke yesterday on "Proofs of the Saving Power of Christ," before a congregation of the Second German Baptist Church, 407 West Forty-third Street. The sermon was delivered in German.

"In his mighty power to save, Christ stands where others sink," the Rev. Mr. Arndt said. "Christ mightily helps those who call upon Him when in danger of sinking."

He took as an example the use of the anchor, which, in spite of all modern improvements, he said, still remains the same for the same purpose.

"Thus in the face of all scientific progress we cannot do without the anchor of our hope in God through Christ Jesus," he said.

Mr. Arndt is a graduate of the Hamburg Baptist Theological Seminary and has come to this country for a year of post-graduate study at the Northern Baptist Theological Seminary, Chicago. He will leave today for Chicago.

ENDS LIFE WITH SHOTGUN.

NEWTON, N. J., Sept. 14.—Jonas Struble, 60 years old, a recluse, reported to be wealthy, was found dead today in his farmhouse at Lafayette Township by a relative who had called to pay a visit. The body was riddled with shot. At the foot of the cot was a shotgun strapped to a post. A string led from the trigger to the bed.

State policemen said they believed the man had rigged up the weapon and taken his life last Monday. A trooper who passed the house on that day recalled today that he heard a sound similar to that of a gun being discharged.

Struble studied law, and some years ago practiced in this vicinity. He gave up his practice suddenly and retired to his farm, where he lived alone.

ARGENTINA FORGETS REVOLT FOR SPORTS

SOLDIERS IN BACKGROUND

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 14.—One week after the sudden overthrow of Hipólito Irigoyen's Government by a one-day revolution the people of Buenos Aires spent today amusing themselves with their usual Sunday pastimes as though nothing unusual had happened.

The football championship series was renewed, thousands attended horse races, other thousands jammed the fields of sports clubs and the street cars did a good Sunday business, carrying those who could not afford taxicabs, which were also busy all day. There was even a noticeable lack of curiosity to see the marks left by the revolution on several public buildings and there was nothing to remind the city it still was under martial law except the sight of posters bearing the edicts of the provisional government.

There is no display of troops and those who wanted to see soldiers had to go where they were unostentatiously encamped out of sight of the frequented traffic lanes.

Former President Irigoyen spent the bright, sunny Sunday as a prisoner on the cruiser General Belgrano, anchored in the River Plate out of sight of the Argentine shore. The newspapers now dispose of him with one paragraph daily, saying the cruiser's position has not been moved.

One of the most aggravating causes of dissatisfaction against Señor Irigoyen's administration was the manner in which he allowed decrees and executive orders to accumulate awaiting his signature while he devoted his principal attention to politics and to interviewing applicants for government jobs.

The provisional government's investigation shows there were 1,159 piled up awaiting Señor Irigoyen's signature when the revolution put an end to his administration. Of this number 527 concerned matters of public works, in which there was colossal graft during his entire administration. His régime was characterized by the breaking down of diplomatic relations with other countries, and the fact that the Ministry of Foreign Affairs had practically ceased to function was disclosed by the discovery that only five decrees from that Ministry had been sent to Señor Irigoyen for signature in the time that 527 accumulated from the Ministry of Public Works, 560 from the Ministry of Marine and some 60 to 150 from the other Ministries.

The police have found documents, however, which show that in less than two years a high official in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, who was penniless when appointed to his position, accumulated and sent abroad 7,000,000 pesos—$2,972,000.

José Francisco Uriburu, the Provisional President, has received hundreds of letters from people of humble position, especially among the working classes, expressing a desire to contribute toward the solution of the difficult situation of public finances, offering their small savings as loans without interest.

"The Corporation of Bond and Share Holders" has addressed a note to General Uriburu saying their figures show Argentina's public debt totals 4,200,000,000 pesos and asking for an audience to discuss the situation of the holders of bonds of several provinces which have not paid interest in several years.

An investigation by the Minister of Finances has shown that after Señor Irigoyen dismissed government clerks by the thousands just after his inauguration with the announcement that the measure was necessary to cut down expenditures, he then proceeded to take on nearly three times as many new ones as he had dismissed, until salaries amounted to more than the national revenues, and there was never a month in which the government had funds to meet the payroll without drawing illegally on the Bank of the Nation.

Police activities are now being devoted largely to running down members of the Klan Radical, which drew its name and inspiration from the Ku Klux Klan, and which was a secret society of ward politicians organized to terrorize every one opposing Señor Irigoyen by shooting at all opposition meetings. Various shootings of this nature in the streets and plazas of Buenos Aires in the last two years resulted in several deaths and many wounded. No investigations were made.

Investigation has disclosed that it was members of this Klan, armed with machine guns belonging to the Government, who fired on cadets and the populace from the Congressional Palace last Saturday, causing several deaths and many wounded among the revolutionists twenty minutes after a flag of truce had been run up on Government House. The breaking up of this Klan is expected to sound the knell of what little still remains of Señor Irigoyen's Radical party.

ROGERS LIKELY TO GET HARTFORD NOMINATION

Gov. Trumbull Favors Him for Successor as Connecticut Republicans Convene Today.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 14 (AP).—Connecticut Republican delegates to the State convention will assemble in Foot Guard Armory here tomorrow night to draft a platform and select nominees for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, State Treasurer and Controller. Senator Frederick C. Walcott will deliver the keynote address at the opening session, while adoption of a platform and nominations are scheduled for Tuesday.

Preconvention speculation was that Lieutenant Governor Ernest E. Rogers of New London will be the party's choice for Governor. Governor John Trumbull, three times Governor, has repeatedly declared he is not a candidate and is expected to make the nominating speech for Mr. Rogers.

In the event Mr. Rogers is named to head the State ticket, the November elections in Connecticut will present a clear-cut wet and dry issue to the voters. Mr. Rogers is a militant dry and Dr. Wilbur L. Cross, dean emeritus of the Yale Graduate School, the Democratic nominee, will run on a platform calling for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

LEWIS HITS REFERENDUM.

Calls Illinois Dry Poll a "Fraud" and Questions McCormick Stand.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP).—The prohibition referendum, with its threefold proposition—repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the Volstead act and the Illinois liquor laws—to be voted on in Illinois in November, was denounced today in an address by James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for the United States Senate. It was his first speech of the campaign made in the metropolitan area. He called the referendum a "fraud and a trick."

Referring to Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, the Republican nominee, who has announced she will abide by the verdict of the referendum, Mr. Lewis said:

"But what can be the verdict? There are three propositions, one set of votes for the first, another set for the second and another for the third. There can never be a plurality or a majority. They've made it so such a thing can never happen.

"As to Mrs. McCormick, we know not whether she is dry, as she was, or whether she is half wet or half dry and we know not one from the other."

Hospital Dr. Moore was the acting superintendent of that institution.

During the World War Dr. Moore was in the neuropsychiatric service with the rank of major and served a number of months overseas.

Judge Goldsmith in his report praised the work done by various religious organizations, which he said will now be taken over by the new board. The religious agencies have carried on parole work at large expense and have helped and cooperated with the board in its task of reorganization, he noted.

One of the most important phases of the work, Judge Goldsmith stated, is the assignment to each institution of parole officers whose duty it is to take a personal interest in the social or family problems presented by the prisoners.

"Very often," he said, "men confined in an institution become troublesome because of trouble in their homes. Sickness among members of the family, knowledge that there is a lack of money properly to support the family and countless other family troubles cause these prisoners to worry.

"This condition we hope to overcome by constant attention to the individual prisoner while he is confined, and in cooperation with social agencies, provide for the necessary needs of the family. In addition, the board has arranged so that all women on parole will be under the supervision of women parole officers.

"Regular courses in this advanced parole work are now being given to all parole officers. Some are assigned to the work of supervision exclusively, while others conduct the investigations which are made before the man appears before the board.

Social Agencies to Cooperate.

"It is in these investigations that the records and information of the social and religious agencies will prove very valuable."

The purpose of the board, he pointed out, is to adhere to acceptable standards of social case work.

"Before any individual is paroled," Judge Goldsmith explained, "a preliminary or pre-parole investigation will be made.

"In all communities maintaining a social service exchange or central index, cases will be registered and agencies listed as having had contacts with the man or his family will be consulted in advance of the parole hearing.

"The board, particularly in cases where there are family problems, will seek the cooperation of social agencies in working out a plan of treatment."

Judge Goldsmith brought out that one of the rules of the board is that no officer shall do any proselyting or interfere in any way with the religious beliefs or practices of a parolee, but shall aid and encourage the parolee in the observance of his own creed.

The State is divided into three supervisory districts. Greater New York is under Commissioner Fagan, Albany is in charge of the chairman and the Buffalo district is under Commissioner Hanscom. These districts are subdivided and parole officers assigned to the separate smaller districts.

ZWEMER SEES FEAR AS A MAJOR PROBLEM

SAYS SIN ENDS IN SLAVERY

"Suicide is not the road to moral freedom, nor an avenue of escape from slavery," said the Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer, of the faculty of Princeton Theological Seminary, in his sermon yesterday morning at the Collegiate Reformed Church, West End Avenue and Seventy-seventh Street. "Yet, to have our minds freed once and for all from fear of men and of self, from fear of death and the future," he continued, "is an old problem, and many minds have sought its solution.

"Men and women are driven all day long by fear," continued Dr. Zwemer. "We fear ourselves, we fear the police, we fear the great law of God. Seneca the Stoic once advised a young man, who wanted to find the pathway to freedom, to commit suicide. Seneca said, 'Do you see your neck, your throat, your heart? They are avenues of escape from slavery.'

"Freedom from restraint does not enlighten nor create new capacities," the pastor pointed out. "It only lets loose what is already there. To give a child or a nation freedom without other gifts is a tragedy. Independence without self-control means disaster. The freedom we all need and seek is freedom from and in ourselves—moral freedom; and a man's greatest foe is often himself.

"Political freedom is as nothing compared to freedom of the soul. Mere political liberty cannot enlighten the world. It is a matter of fact that every one, inside and outside the church, is engaged in a battle for moral freedom, because moral freedom is eternal freedom; all other is merely transitory and passes away.

"Jesus was, in a way, the only free thinker that ever lived. His words have enough dynamics to shatter many of the things we think are real and true. In His teachings there were neither Jew nor Christian, bond nor freemen, male nor female; yet, it is common knowledge that our Churches are shot through with those things that Jesus did not acknowledge.

"It was Jesus who first tried to picture a life without fear," concluded Dr. Zwemer. "His is the royal road to the moral freedom we seek, and not suicide. Freedom through regeneration was what He suggested, and not the method of Seneca the Stoic. Christ will give you that freedom which the world does not give, because through Him you will recognize sin. Every one who commits a sin becomes the slave of sin. To recognize sin we must know Christ, because we need a standard of rectitude. Christ is the only antidote to the sting of this scorpion, whose touch is death. Be a disciple of Christ. Then you will be free."

STRAY SHOT STRIKES GIRL.

Paterson Man, Firing at Pigeons Condemned by City, Is Held.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 14.—When James M. Molenoro, 45 years old, returned to his home at 782 River Street here yesterday, he found a Board of Health notice inspired by his neighbors which told him that he must get rid of the pigeons he kept in a coop in his back yard or face charges of maintaining a neighborhood nuisance.

Molenoro promptly picked up a .22-calibre rifle, stepped into his dooryard and commenced shooting pigeons on the wing.

At his third shot a scream sounded from beyond the wooden fence at the rear of Molenoro's coop. He went to the fence and looked over. A bullet had pierced the wood and struck Lillian Clinto, 5 years old, of 39 East Eighteenth Street, in the right ankle.

The child was taken to General Hospital and Molenoro was arrested, charged with illegal use of firearms and assault and battery.

No "fuss and feathers" about OUT-OF-TOWN TELEPHONING

There was a day when father, home from his work at the office, boastfully related to mother and the children the details of his feat in telephoning to a customer several hundred miles away.

But, nowadays, the home folks themselves make calls to out-of-town relatives and friends as a matter of course.

What has happened to bring this about? Many things—conspicuously among them the greatly increased ease and speed of out-of-town telephoning. No "fuss and feathers" about it to deter the shyest member of the family.

MASEFIELD ON RADIO IS HEARD IN AMERICA

Poet Laureate of England Hopes Broadcasting Will Become an Aid to His Craft.

SEES PRINTING AS HANDICAP

He Thinks It Has Put Verse-Makers Away From Public and Decreased Interest.

In a talk on "the possibilities of poetry in modern life," broadcast yesterday from London and heard in the United States over WABC and the Columbia network, John Masefield, poet laureate of England, expressed the hope that radio broadcasting would remedy the evil which printing had done to poets in putting them away from their public.

"I speak in a place haunted by poetry and by the possibilities of poetry and the memories of poets," Mr. Masefield said. "However, we are not conscious of those ghosts at the present time. We are only conscious of two young friends who keep telling me that if I sneeze, fifty thousand people will be immediately deafened. I shall try not to sneeze.

"Perhaps I had better define poetry. Poetry is an art in which the artist by means of rhythm and great sincerity can convey to others the sentiment which he feels about life. Poetry is infinitely various, and this generation, through various contrivances and discoveries of man, should produce an infinitely greater variety of poetry than any generation of man which has existed on this planet before. We look to America to produce poets greater than any Europe has known.

"In times part, poetry was the delight of every member of the community. The poet sang or spoke to all and was listened to with rapture by all.

"Then came the printing press, which at first was thought to be of great benefit to poets. I think it has become a detriment to the poetical art though priceless as a distributer of knowledge. It has had this result—it has put away the poet from his public. Since the printing press came into being, poetry has ceased to be the delight of the whole community of man; it has become the amusement and delight of a limited few. People have given up listening to poetry.

"I speak to you this afternoon in the hope that poetry will again become one of the main delights of life and really compete once again with the other delights of the market place. It may be that broadcasting may make listening to poetry a pleasure again, though this can only come about with difficulty and with a great deal of hard work, because I feel that poets will work better at verse if they work before an audience whom they can see, so that they may know when their work fails and why."

Mr. Masefield recited his poem "Sea Fever," and it was noted that he made the opening of each stanza read, "I must go down to the sea again," inserting the much-disputed word "go," which does not appear in the printed version.

FALL KILLS SLEEP-WALKER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP).—Manuel Gonzales Revilla, 23 years old, the son of a Panama physician, died today as a result of a fall from his third-story apartment, which was attributed to sleep-walking.

Revilla, a Georgetown University student, was found in an unconscious condition early today. He died three hours later without regaining consciousness.

Gabriel Velazeuez, his room-mate, said Revilla was a somnambulist, and when found he was clutching a sheet in one hand.

Julian B. Chevalier, secretary of the Panama Legation, took charge of the body, which probably will be returned to Panama for burial.

RADIUM POISONING KILLS 16TH VICTIM

AUTOPSY FIXES DISEASE

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 14.—With the death yesterday of Mrs. Anna Stasi of 515 Morris Street, Orange, the sixteenth fatality traced to radium poisoning occurred. Mrs. Stasi, like the fifteen who had died before her, was employed by the United States Radium Corporation when it was located in Orange.

The existence of a secret list, a kind of "doom book," was revealed by Dr. Harrison S. Martland following Mrs. Stasi's death yesterday. Dr. Martland, who is Essex County medical examiner, said that in 1925, when the fact that numbers of women were suffering from radium poisoning incurred by employment in the shops of the United States Radium Corporation, he had a list made of all the women who had been so employed. Mrs. Stasi is the fifth woman so listed to die of radium poisoning since the list was made, Dr. Martland said tonight.

"I naturally don't like to talk of it, as this list would hardly bring pleasant thoughts to those whose names are on it," Dr. Martland said tonight. "I am happy to say, however, that, so far as I know, no other women on the list have as yet shown symptoms of the disease."

Mrs. Stasi, then single, worked at the plant from 1918 to 1922, painting watch dials. The radium entered her system, it is believed, when she would moisten the tip of the brush in her mouth. This was a habit among many of the plant's employes.

Dr. Henry Devincentis of Orange said this morning that death was directly due to radium poisoning, that the bones of the hip, chest and head were affected.

Mrs. Stasi's case, according to the doctor, closely resembled that of Mrs. Quinta McDonald, who died some time ago in Memorial Hospital, New York, from radium necrosis. Mrs. Stasi went to Orange Memorial Hospital for treatment, the doctor added, but the disease was too advanced for successful treatment. An autopsy was performed last night by Dr. Martland. The latter is regarded one of the country's foremost authorities on radium necrosis.

Another victim of radium poisoning, Miss Catherine Schaub, is in Orthopedic Hospital, Orange, where she is reported recovering from a fractured leg.

MASONS AT BOSTON CHURCH

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Marching in a body to Copley Square, 400 members of the Supreme Council, Thirty-third Degree, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, for the Northern Masonic jurisdiction of the United States, attended services at Trinity Church this morning as a prelude to the annual meeting of the council.

Grand Sovereign Commander Leon M. Abbott, with Mrs. Abbott and Frederick W. Hamilton, deputy for Massachusetts, led the procession.

The sermon was delivered by the Right Rev. David L. Ferris, Thirty-third Degree, of Rochester, Bishop of Western New York. Today marked the last day of the rectorship of the Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, who will be consecrated Bishop of the diocese on Oct. 14.

KIDNAPPERS RELEASE IOWAN FOR $10,000

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 14 (AP).—James Sheridan, retired Des Moines business man, abducted on Sept. 2, returned home today following his release by kidnappers to whom ransom estimated at $10,000 was paid. He is known to have been driven in an automobile from Illinois, but few details of the case were revealed by the authorities.

Sheridan's release was attributed to efforts by Sheriff Park A. Findley, who traced the kidnappers in four Illinois cities. Payment of the ransom money terminated negotiations begun Sept. 4, when a messenger was sent to Des Moines with a note penned by Sheridan in which he directed that a ransom price of $50,000 be paid for his release.

Sheridan, a former owner of a cigar store, disappeared on Sept 2 with a man who had mentioned something about St. Paul. He is known to have been transferred between Galesburg, Aurora Springfield and Peoria, Ill., during the period he was held.

SAN MARINO BURIES REGENT

Entire Population at Funeral—Hoover Sends Wreath.

REPUBLIC OF SAN MARINO Sept. 14 (AP).—A wreath from President Herbert Hoover was among the many floral tributes at the funeral today of Marino Lonferini, one of the two Regents of the world's smallest republic.

The tiny republic of San Marino, in Italy, between the Provinces of oFrli and Pesaro-Urbino, near the Adriatic coast, has an area of only thirty-eight square miles.

"The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers"

If you delight in the works of world-famous composers, listen to Stromberg-Carlson's radio program this evening. . . . Listen to the "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers", one of the selections to be played, and imagine yourself in any of the countless European and American theatres wherein this piece proved a sensation.

And as you listen, bear this thought in mind: Just as Stromberg-Carlson sponsors the finest in its weekly broadcasts, so, too, Stromberg-Carlson instruments provide utmost beauty in the reproduction of such offerings. They give you that deeper rhythm and coloring which are the soul of good music. Their preference among critical purchasers everywhere is proof enough that "There is Nothing Finer Than a Stromberg-Carlson!"

Your nearest Stromberg-Carlson dealer will gladly prove to you, by a demonstration in your home, the superior quality of these Receivers.

The Stromberg-Carlson Hour is presented Monday evenings at 10 P. M., Eastern Daylight Saving Time in a Coast-to-Coast Broadcast over the N. B. C. Blue network and Associated stations.

SOMETHING ELSE TO REPEAL.

Nearly every day brings an added piece of evidence that the United States tariff has become a great trouble-maker. At home it has thus far been a disappointment and delusion. All the glib predictions that it would immediately stimulate trade recovery have been left looking more ridiculous in the result than they were in the utterance. Abroad, our new lurch into high protection has led to our selling fewer goods but acquiring many more enemies. In South America, in Europe, in Australia, in Canada, the effect has been the same and in all cases bad. Throughout the whole international field, in fact, our new high tariff is thought of as a disturber of the peace.

This appeared plainly in the address made to the Assembly of the League of Nations on Saturday by Mr. Graham, president of the British Board of Trade. He was the more severe on America for scarcely mentioning her by name. What he deplored was the general swing back to protection, the growing provocation of high tariffs, and the resulting economic unsettlement all over the world. Mr. Graham has been himself a convinced free trader. His inclination would be to stand with Mr. Snowden, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, in resisting the beginnings of a protective tariff, especially tariff reprisals, in Great Britain. But he gave fair warning that if this pronounced tendency in all other nations to exclude foreign goods by means of customs taxes is not checked by February of next year, the Labor Government in England will no longer be able to keep out of the tariff war into which it is being so irresistibly drawn by the action of other countries. This is in line with the representations just made to President Hoover by a visiting delegation of British business men. They expressed their strong desire to keep on making large purchases of American products, so as to remain along with Canada the very best customer of the United States, but frankly stated that our fiscal legislation was making this so difficult as to be almost impossible.

Whence relief is to come the Washington oracles do not say. They still speak hopefully of amending our tariff law here and there through the action of the Tariff Commission. But it did not need ex-President Coolidge to emerge from his retirement to tell us that this is a broken reed upon which to lean. If things go from bad to worse, we may yet see the President calling upon Congress to repeal or recast various parts of our tariff. The process would be immensely difficult, of course, very much in some cases like robbing the protective bears of their whelps. But it requires only a little more time, and further disastrous experience, to convince the American public that enactment of the new tariff was a gigantic blunder. There will be but one recourse in the future—namely, to confess it and to undo it.

AN ARKANSAS TRAVELER.

On a certain occasion a political orator, having made claims for his candidate rather forward of the facts, was challenged by an auditor who had been included in the list of endorsers. "I ain't fer Zeke," he shouted, "onless Jim cain't git it." "Wal," responded the nominator, "as I was sayin', Zeke is everybody's second ch'ice." Ex-Governor Brough of Arkansas, long known on lecture circuits and as confirmed a rider of the Pullman cars as Senator Moses of New Hampshire, in his speech before the State Democratic Convention gave a similar description of Senator Robinson's position among the 1932 Presidential candidates. He also has been challenged. Governor Roosevelt of New York, who was quoted by Mr. Brough as saying that he is for Mr. Robinson if he cannot be named himself, limits what he said to an expression of "very warm regard" for the Senator from Arkansas The Chief Justice of Maryland was more severe. It is an "absurd untruth" that he pledged to Mr. Robinson through Mr Brough the 1932 delegate strength of Governor Ritchie.

At this distance all of the Arkansas oratory makes very little difference. Gathered for the purpose of launching a native son boom, the warm-hearted sons, as if in imitation of their famous watering-place, turned into individual hot springs. Senator Robinson is an able man, with a personality which has endeared him to his neighborhood and to his associates in national politics. Though a Southern Dry, he played the game all the way with Alfred E. Smith in 1928. Coming from a section where religious prejudice against his running mate was manifest, he denounced it forcefully and courageously. His distinctions in the Senate and in London have filled his State with justifiable pride. He will neither achieve nor lose the nomination in 1932 because of any enthusiastic errors which may creep into the utterances of his supporters.

In many respects the Arkansans are, however, a little premature. Senator Robinson himself protests that his friends, about whose intention to boom him he knew nothing, are acting far "too soon." The Fall elections will determine in an important degree who will be the eligibles and what the issues two years hence. Wet sentiment is rising, and already Washington is predicting a repeal candidate and platform for the Democratic party in 1932. That would not describe Senator Robinson. Meanwhile, the agreeable American game of hanging festoons of future-blooming laurel on the brows of native sons might as well go on.

OTHER LISTS.

The greatest change that has come over Europe since the World War, as an observant citizen of New York remarked upon his return from several weeks abroad, is suggested by the number of impersonal memorials to those who had part in the great conflict. The monuments, almost exclusively, are not to the leaders but to the citizen soldiers, either in some ideal figure or symbolic group, or in tablets with so many names that they cease to be personal except to the acquaintances and loved ones of those who bore them. Tens of thousands of names of unburied dead are inscribed on the Menin Gate and other like memorials. It is Britain's Unknown Soldier and not a Field Marshal who lies in the Abbey. It is an unknown poilu who rests in the shadow of the Arc de Triomphe. Nearly every European country has paid its homage in like manner. Field Marshal Haig's equestrian statue does, to be sure, stand in a corner of the esplanade on the Rock of the Castle, but it is a young Highland Scot, with a bronze frieze of kilted soldiers behind him, that stands by the great street of the city with Scotland's great of the past.

We are reminded by Einstein that it is the scientists who have made possible this "true democracy" which is gradually possessing the earth in spirit and in daily life. If they are charged with having made war more terrible, they have, on the other hand, enlarged the agencies that make for the enjoyment of peace. They have "awakened the "nations from their sluggish dull-"ness," and by their inventions have enabled the peoples of differing traditions and tastes, loves and hates, to see one another in "the liveliest "form and in the main from the "most lovable sides." The list of those who have contributed to the evolution of one of these agencies, the wireless, has in it names which are not associated with the "ruling" of democracy, and yet have had more to do with making and maintaining it than many of those to whom this honor is given.

Einstein's list which appeared in The Times has in it several names strange to American ears, though it omits several that we would add; but it reproaches us that we, in making use of their discoveries, do so in almost utter ignorance of the mechanisms and of the men who gave them to us. Remember Oerstedt and Reis and Bell and Maxwell and Hertz, he says; think especially of Lieben and Fleming, and then do not forget the army of technicians. The lengthened list, which should certainly include Henry and not omit Faraday, would tax memories that are not well electrified.

Mr. Watson Davis of Science Service has added thirty-five names of living men and women who are remaking our civilization, beginning with Edison, Wright, Mme. Curie, Marconi, and Lee De Forest. They are all inventors or scientists whose work has been translated into industrial effects. They are "rulers of America" in that they have laid hold, like Prometheus, upon a force of nature and turned it to man's use and his social development, lifting the many to the enjoyment of the sometime prerogatives of the one or the few.

But there are "rulers" greater than all these whose names will never get into the lists. They are those who themselves, obscure or wholly unknown, have by inspiration of deed or word given the known their inheritance of the mind of diviner pattern, their genius.

ANALYZING GRAFT.

Yesterday's Times contained two estimates of municipal progress. One was largely quoted from the pages of The American City, celebrating its twenty-first anniversary. The other was from the pen of Professor Munro. He notes a considerable improvement. "The dishonesty and the "unholy alliances with the under-"world which have been uncovered "in our cities in the past year would "not have caused a ripple of indig-"nation in the good old days of the "Tweed Ring, the Gas Ring and the "Forty Thieves." Our municipal standards are higher; cities are better governed than they used to be in the days when Lord Bryce turned on them his penetrating eye. But progress is slow, with lapses into corruption. "These reformers are like queen hornets," said a Tammany heeler quoted by Professor Munro. "They sting you once and then die."

Their sting may soon be felt again, in more than one American city. Chicago will not forever brook her racketeers and swaggering politicians. New York is even now being aroused. The professor thinks that corruption is harder to uncover than it used to be. "It is of a more refined variety." Bribes for street railway franchises and thefts from the treasury have given way to what George Washington Plunkitt used to call "honest graft." City contractors generally deliver the goods. The politicians standing behind them look for their returns elsewhere. Connolly went to jail for the manipulation of sewer contracts, but his sewers were good sewers. The twentieth century city politician wears a high hat and carries a brief case under his arm. What he sells, however, as Mr. Munro points out, is generally not his legal skill but his influence.

It is somewhat striking, therefore, to find him reaching the conclusion that the "chief cause of "municipal corruption, chicanery, "inefficiency and extravagance" is the form of government. That may be true of Chicago, which has an extraordinarily complicated and cumbersome system. It is less true of New York, where, save for hack Aldermen and useless county officials, elective officials are comparatively few and comparatively responsible. A determined electorate could compel them, even under the present dispensation, to give it more for its money. No change in the form of government, however commendable, would be likely of itself either to destroy the machine or to regenerate it. The evil lies deeper. A community like this, long inured to favoritism and special privilege, will find it particularly difficult to throw off the yoke. Some day it may, but first it will need to be thoroughly stirred.

QUESTIONABLE FIGURES.

In this way the tendency to understate the volume of unemployment will be largely corrected by the periodic census totals.

This statement occurs in the extremely painstaking and elaborate inquiry into the arithmetic of unemployment which forms part of Paul H. Douglas's volume, "Real Wages in the United States." Elsewhere there is reference to official census of unemployment as the "bench-mark" from which all the expert calculations must set out and by which they must be checked. This adds irony to the sharp attack now delivered by the experts against the figures on unemployment registered by the Federal census enumerators on April 1. The yardstick by which earlier scientific speculations were to be measured is now denounced as grossly defective. The number of idle persons recorded in the census, 2,508,000, is equivalent to 2 per cent of the total population. That way of stating it is in itself unsatisfactory, since the statisticians do not measure unemployment against total population but against that part of the population gainfully employed. But the census ratio can be brought into line with practice by multiplying it by 2½. It would make the ratio of unemployment last April just 5 per cent.

Either this rate grossly departs from the facts or else the experts in their studies of unemployment have been just as seriously in error on the other side. Their figures, of course, are not guesswork. They are based in the present century on various limited censuses, State or national, and on counts conducted by special bodies. Before that the Federal censuses of 1890 and 1900 made an enumeration of unemployed In the most prosperous years the unemployment rate has not fallen, in any calculation, below 3.5 per cent. This would mean that if the present year were one of high prosperity, there would still be a million and a half unemployed, a number which has come to be accepted as the minimum. To suppose that in the present instance of a major depression the idle are only one million above the minimum is not permitted either by logic or facts of common observation.

As against the implied 5 per cent rate of the census figures for 1930 we have, in the same expert tables which go down to 3.5 per cent for very good years, an unemployment rate of 12 per cent in 1908, of something less than 15 per cent in 1914-1915, of 21 per cent in 1921, of 15.4 per cent in the following year. President Green of the American Federation of Labor reports for union workers an unemployed rate of more than 20 per cent. Allowing for the probably higher rate of unemployment in the unskilled trades, the difference between 20 per cent and 5 per cent is too great to be explained away. One or the other must be seriously in error. We shall hear a good deal more in the way of expert analysis of the census findings. One obvious explanation is the omission of workers temporarily laid off. In Great Britain these constitute a third of the unemployed. The same vote here would bring our figures close to four million.

LEAKY VESSELS.

We seem to be getting unusually early in this year's campaign what must be called betrayals of confidence. Private conversations are repeated in public. Information given under seal is more or less blabbed. It would appear that many men and women active in politics are going about stuffed with secrets which they feel themselves unable to keep entire. In Massachusetts, in Illinois, political ladies are peddling out gossip. In Arkansas, a political orator makes half disclosures which at once bring down upon his head full and indignant repudiations. In Brooklyn a Republican leader spoke darkly of a tale which he could unfold about a certain city magistrate, whereupon the said magistrate rose angrily to say: "You mean me; and there is not a word of truth in your story."

Such blurting out of knowledge gained confidentially is not peculiar to American public men. There has been quite a run of it in England during recent years. Mr. J. M. Keynes was severely blamed, and it is said that his political career was ruined, on account of disclosures which he made regarding negotiations at the Paris peace conference, in tacit violation of his official undertaking to print nothing without permission. Later on Mr. Lloyd George was heavily censured for making too free use of confidential material in his post-war articles written for the press. Only a little while ago Mr. Winston Churchill was arraigned in the House of Commons for having betrayed a Cabinet secret. In the course of the controversies within the Conservative party, Lord Beaverbrook has not hesitated to make public what Mr. Baldwin said to him in a private interview, while Mr. Baldwin himself has made great play with the secret demands upon him by Lord Rothermere.

By comparison, it is only fair to point out, reputable newspapers come off very well in such matters. They know how to keep secrets and to respect confidences. It is true that some publications make a specialty of printing wild rumors and sensational stories, but they are exceptional. It does not necessarily argue superior virtue to keep pledges, but the habit of doing so is coming to be more and more established as a part of the basis of the appeal which the press today would make to the community. Certain it is that just now, amid a flood of cleansing of bosoms of perilous stuff by public men, the newspapers appear to be almost models of reticence.

CHILD HEALTH AND MILK.

A small part of the work being done by President Hoover's White House Conference on Child Health and Protection is the present survey of milk consumption among families having children of pre-school age. Yet it is of great interest and importance, for the data gathered will give the answers to a number of questions which parents, social workers, educators and public-spirited citizens have found puzzling. One of these is the relation between poverty and milk consumption of the children in poor families. This city and some sixty others have been divided into sections, according to the average income of the residents as estimated by school officials. It may be supposed that the groups having the lowest income will not use as much milk for the young children as modern care recommends, but there is not now any definite information on this point. Welfare workers have performed a valuable service in educating mothers to their children's nutritional needs, and it is possible that the survey will show a large proportion of the lowest incomes spent for milk.

They have also spread knowledge of smallpox and diphtheria inoculation, but no one knows whether it has "taken." This branch of preventive medicine is the subject of one part of the questionnaire which nurses are taking from house to house. In homes of the first economic grade of the survey it is expected that most of the pre-school children will have been protected against these dread diseases, but many parents who should know better have failed to have their children vaccinated or treated with diphtheria antitoxin. In the poorer homes, where children are inoculated free or for a small fee by the physicians of the local child health clinic, there may be a larger proportion of protected children than among the families of larger income.

The amount of milk used may be taken as a safe guide in judging the parents' knowledge of modern care for children and their application of what they know. In addition, the data supplied by answers to the preventive medicine section of the questionnaire will enable welfare workers to direct their efforts more intelligently. Since all information gathered will be tabulated according to the economic standing of the families, a comprehensive view of this aspect of child health will be made available.

GEOGRAPHY RECOGNIZED.

A decade ago Dr. Wallace W. Atwood, in his inaugural address as president of Clark University, spoke of ourselves as an "illiterate people" so far as geographic knowledge is concerned, and announced plans for the development of a school of geography "unique in "America and pre-eminent in its "special field." It was to have the whole world for its laboratory and was to give study and research in this subject the dominant place in the scientific and cultural interests of the university, which, with limited funds, could not be supreme in all. The sheaves of the other sciences were to make obeisance to it in that they would so dispose themselves about it as to make it the central subject, having to do, as it has, with the earth and man's relation to it.

While no such predominance is to be given to the new school of geography at Harvard University, it is significant that it is to have a coordinate place with the other long-recognized schools of sciences. The founder of this school, Dr. A. Hamilton Rice, who is also to be its director and its professor of geographical exploration, has himself organized and conducted as many as seven different expeditions and has thus acquired an experience which should be of great value in stimulating and directing the researches of others in areas that have not yet told all they have to tell to the human race. Perhaps he will again himself as leader "smite the sounding furrows." Then, too, this school, sitting "in the midst of Harvard's scientific departments," will be at hand to share in their expeditions, so that wherever a geologist or archaeologist or physicist or chemist or biologist or astronomer goes out over the surface of the earth or descends into the sea the geographer may accompany him. And where the geographer goes, not only the merchant but the economist will follow, and the philosopher and the international statesman will find in him the precursor of a world order.

According to the Greek mythology, Ge, the Earth, was the mother of the stars as well as the fertile fields, the stony plains, the sea and plants and animals and man. The stars have in the intervening centuries been given over to the astronomer, the fields to the agriculturist, and all organic and inorganic nature to the several scientific specialists. But while the old Greek myth has been discredited by modern science, in our daily human relations the Earth is still the mother of all. We do not know what happens to us as beings when we get beyond her geography. It is gravitation which holds us to her and geography which ties us all together and makes our concern as common as our mortality.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Skyscrapers, but Not the Model. London's new building code certainly does not reflect the dreaded effects of Americanization. Instead of surrendering to the skyscraper the new English regulations actually reduce by ten feet the maximum building height of ninety feet established forty years ago. Other reasons are cited than the British aversion to change. London seems to have taken note of doubts lately stirring in the native home of the skyscraper concerning the effect of tall buildings on traffic congestion.

Even where the many-storied structure is making its way outside of the United States it is almost never in what architects might call its "pure" form. With us the skyscraper has come to be more and more an athletic synthesis of height and window glass, with the very minimum of stone or brick to frame the windows. Elsewhere the tradition of bulk continues to assert itself. In such close proximity to us as Montreal one handsome new building easily qualifies as a skyscraper by sheer height, but refuses to go in for flat surfaces and starkness. Wide spacing between windows, deep insets and heavy stonework rendered superfluous by steel-frame construction show British conservatism operating even on the St. Lawrence.

Improved Railway Engines. Thirty-five years have elapsed since the Baltimore & Ohio drove its first electric trains through the Baltimore tunnel, but of the 250,000 miles of trunk railways in the United States only 1,900 are electrified. What has retarded the electrification of steam railways? Mr. R. B. Morton supplies an answer in an analysis presented before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The best "full-jeweled" steam engine of today will haul a given load with but half the fuel required by its predecessor of only ten years ago. To be sure, all steam locomotives are not so efficient. Still, the introduction of such refinements as superheaters and mechanical stokers has reduced the average fuel consumption in freight service from 170 pounds for 1,000 gross ton miles in 1920 to 127 pounds in 1930.

As steam locomotives have been improved the highway and the automobile have made their inroads on railway revenues. In ten years the railways have lost at least 33 per cent in passenger traffic. "More automobiles bring more paved roads," Mr. Morton reminds us, "and more paved roads bring more mileage of automobile travel, year by year." Now comes the airplane to cap the climax. It is not easy to predict the possible growth of travel by air in the next decade nor its effect on the railways. The mere fact that two great trunk systems are prepared to carry passengers by both air and rail shows at least how the railways regard the needs of the day.

The Philatelists' Convention. Collecting absorbs many members of the human race. But the only collecting which appeals equally to all ages is gathering postage stamps. Few small boys have never known the fever. In nearly every attic in the country lie the once-treasured books of the family's young, reminiscent of the days when the upper right-hand corner of every arriving envelope eventually showed a small rectangular excision.

Most boys and girls abandon stamp collecting in their early teens. But the philatelist convention now in session in Berlin is an adult affair. There Arthur Hind's one-cent magenta of British Guiana is on display; and only King George has a duplicate of the Utica collector's two-penny Mauritius. Valuations of $25,000 are not unusual; the British Guiana magenta is priced at $50,000. Those who gather pictures or first editions, Indian arrowheads or ivory elephants will lift their eyebrows at such fantastic appraisals on small colored bits of paper. But the real philatelist would rush by an Italian primitive without a glance on his way to behold a true issue of the Bavarian cholera stamp.

Lips Truly Cherry-Red. A new use for the cherry has recently been announced by the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils of the United States Department of Agriculture. The oil obtained from the cherry stone has been satisfactorily tested in the manufacture of cosmetics.

Anything affecting that large industry, such as this discovery of a new ingredient, assumes immediate importance. Consider the limitless advertising possibilities for any beauty preparation made from the cherry tree, with its exquisite blooms and luscious fruit!

The cherry tree was first introduced into Europe from Asia by Lucullus after his defeat of Mithridates. Possibly it was the oil from the stone which was used to make "balanos," known only as an "extract from the shell of some unidentified fruit," which was an important ingredient in the oils and unguents used in the art of beautification as practiced by the women of ancient Egypt. The maraschino industry of Dalmatia, which employs the "Prunus mahalat," a perfumed cherry grown in Central and Southern Europe, for flavoring this highly valued liqueur, may discover a rival in the cosmetics industry. For what could be more appealing to a modern woman than a lip rouge made from this exotic perfumed cherry?

Historical Corrections.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I point out two historical errors in today's issue of The Times:

The title to the news from Rome announcing the abolition of the date of Sept. 20 as a national holiday calls this celebration a "Garibaldian Fête." The taking of Rome on Sept. 20, 1870, was effected by Italy's regular troops. Garibaldi and his volunteers had no participation in that military operation.

In another section, the announcement of the death of the last survivor of Garibaldi's "One Thousand" is followed by a comment to the effect that this was the force with which the great Italian patriot planned a raid on Rome in 1862. The "One Thousand" were the volunteers whom Garibaldi led from Quarto, near Genoa, on May 5, 1860, to Sicily, starting that wonderful military campaign which culminated with the annexation of Sicily and Naples—in fact, the whole of Southern Italy—to the new Italian Kingdom.

The march on Rome in 1862 was not made by the "One Thousand," although many of them followed Garibaldi in his attempted dash on Rome when he and his heroic men were checked by the King's troops at Aspromonte.

Dr. ALBERTO C. BONASCHI.

SEA-GULLS.

Across my heart they go, unraveling
White music beating with each swerving wing
That holds the gold of sunrise and the flare
Of sudden sunsets, and the dust of stars;
Their silver rhythms on a shining quest
Beat at my heart and leave me lyric scars;
No pale moon lovelier than their white breast!

They are a dream to break the quivering heart,
A glory that will blind beholding eyes,
Their wings like roses shattering apart,
Frail petals fluttering along the skies.
Across my heart, too lovely for a name,
Flying, flying, flying in a long white flame!

MOVING FOR BETTER TIMES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Going home in the subway yesterday I heard an interesting conversation between two men and think it is worth telling to the world. One of them told the other that he and his wife had decided they could now afford to quit renting and buy a home, so he had made a first down payment the day before, and they were getting quite a kick out of visiting the stores to select furniture. The second man told him that this is no time to buy, as there is a very serious business depression; that it would be well for every one to save money and wait to see what was going to turn up. He also asked his friend if the boss had increased his forces yet to what they had been before the Wall Street panic of last year, and if he had as yet restored to him the 10 per cent cut he had made in his salary. When told that forces had not been increased and the 10 per cent cut had not yet been restored, he said that any man who spent money under such circumstances was a fool. The reply of the other should become a classic.

He said: "I am looking at it this way. I am reading the papers, and it appears that for some time business has been scraping along the bottom of the depression. It simply cannot get any lower, because there is now no big speculative element in it, and it is the speculative element that makes things drop. There is only one of two things that can now happen to business. It can either run along for a time as it is running, or it can improve. Either way I am O. K. My boss cannot conduct his business with any fewer people than he now has, so I feel that my job is safe. I took a 10 per cent cut in salary and told the boss that as long as he is willing to keep me on the payroll I am willing to take whatever pay he feels he can afford to give, knowing that he will treat me right when things improve. Business appears to be very slightly better with us this week, and when all the people get back from vacation it will be much better. Yesterday the boss said that he hoped he would soon be able to improve our pay and thanked us for the way we had stuck by him when things were rotten. That made me feel that I am out of danger, and if I am going to buy things we need this is the time to buy, before business takes a decided upturn and prices go up."

A bit more of that spirit is all that is now needed to improve business conditions. Men who have been kept at work should feel that as business is slightly on the upgrade they are out of danger of losing their jobs. They can now get some of the things at bargain prices of which they have been depriving themselves. When the buying movement starts it will gather impetus as a snowball increases in size when rolling down hill. Hand-to-mouth buying on the part of retailers has left very small stocks with jobbers and manufacturers, so that a very small impulse given to the buying of goods should result in larger payrolls very soon.

CONSERVATIVE OPTIMIST.

NEW YORK APPLES.

The State Could Do Much to Remedy Marketing Conditions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"Some New York apples, please." When you say that to a grocer, what do you get? He shows you some large, highly colored tissue-wrapped things. You look at the fancy case and see the familiar Siwash names and lithographs. And you recall the pulpy tastelessness of them. "Did you want some eating apples?" had been his first question. "Here are some nice cooking apples."

Governor Roosevelt has not made a complete answer to Mr. Legge. The New York apple grower has been crowded out from the cream of the business through the merchandising methods of the Western chambers of commerce, commercial clubs and the real estate agents dominating them.

There is also the State of Borah. Through superior merchandising the Idaho potato is getting the cream of the business from New York and Maine. And there is either the poor crops or the poor merchandising of Florida oranges responsible for us having to buy dry sweet California oranges. Thank God nearly all the grapefruit that are grown in California are forced down the throats of those who live there. Thus we get aplenty of good Florida grapefruit.

Like Mr. Legge, a Westerner, I have always preferred New York apples. But it is not made easy to get them. Last week a man just returned from a vacation up State told of the quantities of luscious fruit being allowed to rot upon the ground. Marketing, or forming their own marketing organizations, is not a task for which the farmers are adapted. This should be done for them.

It seems to me that the Governor should appoint a New York apple growers' commission on the style of the Port Authority. This commission should set standards for grading and packing. From the standpoint of the retailer and the consumer, one should not be compelled to buy too much. A dozen apples of equal size and quality should, on picking, be placed in cardboard cartons like egg cartons but of better material. The clerk should be able easily to find out what he is selling and the customer what he is buying without undue handling. The spread between the New York City consumer and the State producer could easily be less than what is assumed when buying Yakima apples—unless there is "dumping."

There is too much sulphite in the Western apple. Apples and trees are hardy and free from pests when the soil has the proper mineral content without spraying sulphur and arsenic. Medical journals of recent date tell of apples being made hardy by adding potash to the soil when it is deficient in this element. Of course, storage depots should have right temperature and humidity. And any other measures that might reduce what goes out in the garbage can should be adopted. And one way to do this is to sell the citizens New York apples, as they are the least perishable and the most edible.

Of course, politics was undoubtedly back of Mr. Legge's remarks. There was a good opportunity to fire a shot into the camp of his enemy in return for the criticism that has been hurled at his party for the manner in which it has handled the farmers' problems.

WILLIAM McDOWELL.

BEGINNING AT THE ROOT.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On Aug. 8 The Times printed an article dealing with the project of the Roerich Museum to protect artistic and scientific treasures in time of war, in which it was stated that the International Commission on Intellectual Cooperation of the League of Nations expressed complete advocacy of the "Roerich pact." Subsequently, I believe, the newspapers carried a story concerning the design of the flag of truce to be used—I presume in the imminent next war, which is gruesomely set by Professor Delisle Burns for 1935—over educational, scientific and artistic institutions.

On reading both news items I, who am a member of several art and literary organizations and a worker and writer for the cause of international peace, suffered a good deal of annoyance, if not positive irritation. This annoyance was considerably increased by this morning's mail, which brought a letter from Roerich Museum with a reprint of The Times article of Aug. 8.

From both items it would seem that the prominent artists, writers and scientists who have endorsed Mr. Roerich's plan are thinking of nothing but the guardianship of their so-called works of art, literature, education and science in the next war. This appears to me to be highly ridiculous. It behooves artists, educators and scientists to give thought, not to the protection of their egomanias, as expressed in their so-called great works—as if this were the only factor in our civilization—but to the actual preservation of that civilization itself which may well be destroyed in the next war. In other words, it is of first importance for artists and scientists to work untiringly for the prevention of the next war.

The point is that the next war, if it comes, will probably reduce those who dare to survive to a condition of barbarism. Rising from the débris of pulverized cities, a slant-browed, bewildered savage, once a man, will prowl about and perhaps he will light on a canvas by Mr. Marin or a shred of a score by Deems Taylor, or a mathematical equation by Professor Einstein. What will he make of it? According to the Roerichites, he will build from these a new civilization. But will he? And for whom will he rear it? Your children and mine will be phosgene-fodder by then.

The pretentious egocentricity of the Roerich Museum, which spends its time devising "pacts" to protect works of art instead of trying to prevent the next war, is typical of the unimaginative temperament of the romanticist-as-artist or art-lover. The activity of the museum presupposes a belief in the coming war. Should not then your headline have read: "Artists, Prepare for War!"? And what a preparation it is! Shall the "flag of truce" be a Maltese cross in red and silver, in red and black, hemstitched or purfled?

All civilized men and women, whether artists, scientists or laymen, must devote themselves to the urgent need of circumventing the insane forces that make for human slaughter by the cruelest engines. Especially the artist should never give over uttering his protest and acting upon it, if only because he is articulate and has command of an audience. There is no hope for mankind, and no place for works of art and science, unless the concept of humanity is saved—and now.

HOUSEWORK GOING BEGGING

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Recent statements concerning 200 unfilled housework positions, although the City Free Employment Agency has been literally swamped with applicants for work, seemed to require an explanation. The reasons were soon ascertained.

In the first place, many of the women who have applied to the agency for positions are willing and anxious to work, but their experience has been along office, store or factory lines; they are not qualified by previous experience for housework. Among applicants who can do housework there is another stumbling stone: they are, for the most part, married women who have homes of their own and many of whom have dependent children; the calls for houseworkers offer from $20 to $80 a month, with room, board and bath; the applicants cannot leave their homes—they are listening intently to volunteer for housework in cases where the words "sleep out" are substituted for "room." Many of the women in line have been forced to seek work because of their husbands' long enforced idleness; naturally enough, they are hoping they can hold out a little longer and that the pressing emergency will not bring about a disruption of their homes and families. With the opening of schools many of the mothers feel that, more than ever, it is incumbent upon them to be at home evenings to watch over their children; the knowledge that there are housework positions open, but that they cannot accept them because of family ties, must certainly add to the mental distress of such women.

Knowing that space is limited in most city apartments, one might expect to learn that the houseworker for whom a room did not have to be provided would be the more desirable; requests prove otherwise.

Women who wish assistance with their housework can do much to alleviate the misery of experienced houseworkers and of others who wait in line day after day if they will express willingness to accept applicants for work during specified hours, permitting of home lodging; call upon the city agency for houseworkers by-the-day or specify that they will accept untrained help where the actual requirements are such that inexperience will not work a hardship on either employer or employe.

Six Cities and Troops Help Fight as Factory and Homes Burn.

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 14 (AP).—A general fire broke out in Nashua early today for the second time within five months and burned a large barrel factory, a warehouse and thirteen dwellings before it was extinguished. Deputy Fire Chief Albert C. Meleney estimated the loss at between $400,000 and $500,000 and said the fire was of suspicious origin.

Like Nashua's great fire of May 4, which swept several hundred houses, today's fire started on a Sunday, but early in the morning instead of in the afternoon. It broke out in the Proctor barrel factory, on the edge of the old fire area. The barrel factory and a large warehouse belonging to the Osgood Construction Company were destroyed.

Aid was summoned from six cities and towns in two States as the flames spread with great rapidity and threatened the Nashua Memorial Hospital and Nursing Home. Every available ambulance in the city and all doctors were rushed to the hospital to prepare for the evacuation of the patients, but the fire was brought under control in time.

National Guardsmen patroled the fire area, where the Red Cross set up an emergency station to care for the homeless.

Mayor James Sullivan ordered an inquiry by police into the origins of the fire since all information received at his office indicated that the blaze, like that of May 4, was of incendiary origin.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Cornell's mysterious benefactor, who last year sent the university a cashier's check for $20,000 and requested that no effort be made to find out his identity, has made another anonymous gift.

A typewritten letter, signed "L. H. Anon" and containing a cashier's check for $10,000, has been received by President Livingston Farrand, with no clue to the identity of the sender. This time the letter specified that the money was to be used for the Engineering College.

"The wishes of the donor as to anonymity and the use of the funds will be carried out," President Farrand stated in making public acknowledgment of the gift.

At the same time Cornell has received a gift of $1,500 from Myron C. Taylor, '94, of New York, for the purpose of completing, down to current issues, all publications of the League of Nations for the university library.

GENERAL BOLS DIES; BERMUDA GOVERNOR

SPENT 40 YEARS IN ARMY

Organized Famous Campaign in Holy Land—Won Honors in India, South Africa, Syria and Flanders.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Lieut. Gen. Sir Louis Bols, Governor of Bermuda since 1927, died in a private hospital at Bath today at the age of 62. Before he entered upon his Governorship, he had a brilliant military career, culminating in 1917, when he became Allenby's chief of staff and organized his historic Palestine campaign.

Before receiving his appointment in February, 1927, as Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Bermuda, General Bols had been Colonel of the Devon Regiment for six years. He was born on Nov. 23, 1867, a son of L. G. Bols. He was married in 1897 to Augusta Strickland, second daughter of Captain Walter Cecil Strickland of Devon. They had two sons.

The period of about forty years that General Bols spent in the British Army included distinguished service in India, South Africa, France and the Near East. He started in 1887 with the Devon Regiment, the same organization in which he held his last commission.

In Burma in the early '90s he won a medal with a clasp. He was with the Chitral Relief Force. In the war with the Boers he was mentioned in dispatches three times, and the Queen's medal with five clasps and the King's Medal with two clasps were awarded to him. During the World War he went first to Flanders, then to Palestine and Syria for the last year of the conflict. He was mentioned in dispatches twelve times, was made a Companion of the Order of the Bath in 1915, and later promoted to the rank of Major General. In 1918 he was made a Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George, and in 1919 a Knight Commander of the Order of the Bath. The Distinguished Service Order had been conferred years ago, in 1900.

General Bols was also a Commander of the Legion of Honor and Grand Commander of the Order of St. Sauveur and also of the Rising Sun. In addition he was entitled to wear the Orders of the Nile and St. Vladimir.

RIDES SURFBOARD HERE FROM ATLANTIC CITY

Brooklyn Aquaplaner Claims the Record on Reaching Coney—Made Overnight Stop.

Something new in the way of aquatic records was announced at Coney Island yesterday by Lieut. Commander Frank W. Sterling, U. S. N., retired, of 3,715 Atlantic Avenue, Seagate, sponsor of a surfboard trip from Atlantic City to Coney Island.

The trip was made, Commander Sterling said, in the interest of stimulating aquatic sports. The rider of the surfboard was Arthur Mahony, 25 years old, of 198 Logan Street, Brooklyn, and the skipper of the sixteen-foot outboard motor boat towing the board was Ricky Darwick of Atlantic City.

Commander Sterling rode in the motor boat as passenger. Mahony is a professional surfboard or aquaplane rider.

The expedition, Commander Sterling said, left Atlantic City early Saturday morning. As they were approaching the end of their journey they began to encounter rollers too heavy for the surfboard, which is little more than a two-foot plank, and they put in at Long Branch, N. J., for the night.

Yesterday afternoon the expedition got under way again, making the twenty-three miles from Long Branch to Seagate in just one hour. Mahony suffered no ill effects. Commander Sterling said neither he nor the aquaplane rider intended to capitalize the feat in any way.

SEES AMTORG PLOT TO WIN RECOGNITION

LAYS POLICY TO BOGDANOV

MAMAEFF MAKES DENIAL

Asserts Orders Were Shifted to Europe Because of More Favorable Conditions There.

An attempt by the Stalin régime in Russia, inspired and directed by the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Soviet commercial agency in this country, to "blackmail" the United States into recognizing the Soviet Government by withdrawing trade from American firms was charged yesterday by B. W. Delgass, whose resignation as vice president of the Amtorg became known last week in dispatches from Moscow.

The dispatches said Mr. Delgass, who had been associated with the Amtorg for four years, has been sentenced to death for resigning his position and refusing to return home.

At his home at 1,335 Madison Avenue yesterday Mr. Delgass charged that the Amtorg Trading Corporation, of which Peter A. Bogdanov is chairman, is engaged in a policy of what he termed "blackmail."

Policy Changed, He Declares.

"Ever since the beginning of the financial crisis in the United States there has been a change in the policy of the Amtorg," he continued. "The heads of the Amtorg have taken it into their minds that because of the business depression they could squeeze American firms and get better terms. This was an unwise attitude and showed a lack of knowledge of the situation. How could a manufacturer grant better terms when he had to look for money himself? I raised my voice against this foolish attitude. Soon after, Mr. Peter A. Bogdanov came to the United States and brought a bunch of Communists with him. It was decided by him to 'teach Americans a lesson.' Telegrams were sent to Moscow with the request to divert orders from the United States to other countries.

"Ardent advocates of this policy were Mr. Bogdanov himself, Mr. Markov, vice president in charge of the metallurgical and machine tools department; Mr. Konovetz, now vice president in charge of the export department, and others. The voices of such as myself were not listened to. The Amtorg persuaded the Soviet Government to direct orders to Europe, also with the idea that if the United States, being in a state of business depression, would be deprived of Russian orders, political recognition of the Soviet régime by the American Government could be forced."

Denouncing this as a shortsighted policy, Mr. Delgass also accused Mr. Bogdanov of being "wholly dominated by the Communist organization existing in the Amtorg."

Worked for Rapprochement.

"Business ethics do not permit me to name the American firms which have been deprived by the Amtorg of orders originally assigned to them by Moscow," said Mr. Delgass. "Voicing my objections to Mr. Bogdanov, I hesitated to resign, as I was still hopeful that this policy might change. After having worked for four years for the rapprochement between American manufacturers and Russian technicians, having taken active participation in the negotiations of most of the important contracts concluded by Americans, among them contracts with Ford and du Pont, one can readily understand my reluctance to participate in the work of destruction started by importees from Moscow."

Mr. Delgass charged that in addition to embarking upon this policy Mr. Bogdanov decided to dismiss competent and experienced engineers in the Amtorg organization, men working ardently for the promotion of trade relations between Soviet Russia and the United States, and to supplant them with Communists brought from Russia.

"This policy meant absolute disorganization," Mr. Delgass said. "I protested again and also pointed out that it would be unwise in this period of unemployment in the United States to discharge American citizens and to replace them with employes from Russia. Even stenographers were brought from Russia under the guise of wives and relatives. In fact, I wonder why the Immigration Bureau of the United States never paid attention to the fact that the Amtorg was not only breaking the law but was deceiving United States consuls and immigration authorities. More than 160 employes were dismissed.

"My ideas being unacceptable to the officials of the Amtorg, my old coworkers being dismissed, I, therefore, tendered my resignation. I decided not to return to Soviet Russia, as criticizing the policy of the Soviet Government or its officials is a criminal offense in Russia, especially if one does not belong to the Communist party. Had I returned to Russia a series of accusations would have been invented against me, and the rest is evident to every student of Russian affairs."

Issues Denial by Bogdanov.

In the absence of Mr. Bogdanov, a reply to Mr. Delgass was made last night by A. S. Mamaeff, president of Amtorg, in collaboration with G. S. Konevetz, vice president.

"It is untrue,' said Mr. Manaeff, "that Amtorg attempted to bring pressure on the United States Government by diverting Soviet orders to Europe. Mr. Delgass should know that the movement of orders depends entirely on price and on credit conditions. During the past few months European conditions have been particularly favorable and have attracted orders. In England, for instance, the re-recognition of the Soviet Government was attended with the setting up of export financing credits; in Italy the renewal of the trade agreement with the Soviet Government set up certain advantages, and in Germany, where unemployment caused active bidding for orders, the prices offered were particularly low. The Amtorg did not send these orders to Europe; the Amtorg lost them to Europe.

"The last page of the Delgrass statement announces that he is setting himself up as an agent to procure Russian business for American manufacturers," Mr. Manaeff concluded. "Please let it be known that Mr. Delgass exaggerates the importance of the position which he held with Amtorg; and also that it is not the policy of the Soviet Government to have any intermediaries between Amtorg and the American firms with whom orders are placed."

Mr. Delgass emphasized that when he resigned from the Amtorg he had no intention to resort to publicity in the matter.

"I am compelled now by the decree of the Soviet Government sentencing me to death, for no other reason than I refused to abide by an irresponsible and harmful policy, to give an explanation of my step to my American friends," Mr. Delgass said. "I also wish to express by gratitude to the American people for their hospitality. They have treated me better than my former country.

"In my opinion, Russian economic resurrection depends upon the adoption of American methods. The former chairman of the Amtorg, Mr. S. Bron, was of the same opinion."

Mr. Delgass announced that he has opened a consultant bureau for Russian-American trade in the Chrysler Building. Associated with him is N. C. Antonov, a former assistant, who also resigned from the Amtorg, with which he had been connected since its inception. Several engineers dismissed by the Amtorg under Mr. Bogdanov also will be associated with the new organization.

Flies to San Francisco to Pay 50-Year-Old Debt of 50 Cents

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14 (AP).—A 50-year-old 50-cent debt was paid today when Ernest M. Ledden of New York flew to San Francisco and handed a half dollar to Municipal Judge Fritz.

Ledden borrowed the 50 cents from Fritz to get a bathing suit to go swimming when he was a student at St. Ignatius College here in 1880.

SOVIET CARGO SAILS TODAY.

First Shipment of $40,000,000 Order for Farm Machinery to Leave.

The first shipment of the $40,000,000 order for farm machinery recently placed in the United States by Soviet Russia is scheduled to leave Staten Island today on the freighter Hopatcong, which was recently acquired by the newly organized Jersey American Line. The company obtained the contract from the Amtorg Trading Corporation.

The Hopatcong's cargo will be made up of tractors, harvesters, threshers and other farm machinery valued at $3,00,000, including part of a previous contract. The vessel will call at various Black Sea ports and the cargo will be distributed to Soviet farms. The next sailing has not been fixed, but the company expects by next month to start operating weekly sailings to Russia.

The $40,000,000 order is believed to be the largest contract of its kind ever placed in this country and will keep several American manufactruing firms busy for months.

1,557 FLY ON AIR LINE IN ITS FIRST TEN DAYS

New York, Philadelphia and Washington Hourly Service Is Said to Set Record.

The new New York, Philadelphia and Washington Airways, which opened an hourly service between the three cities on Sept. 1, carried 1,557 paying passengers in the first ten days of operation. This is a world's record, according to officials of the company.

"Americans are apt to think of the air-passenger movement across the English Channel as a high-water mark in air transport," a representative of the company said yesterday. "According to statistics, the total passenger movement across the English Channel for 1928 was 43,179, an average of 118 a day, as compared with the 155 a day on the New York, Philadelphia and Washington line."

Planes of the company flew 39,000 miles and completed 95 per cent of the scheduled flights. Seven flights were canceled and two were not completed because of bad weather.

"The ten-passenger Stinson planes have given a good account of themselves," Paul Collins, vice president in charge of operations, said. "Only once in 3,900 flying hours have we had any motor difficulty, and that was a matter of a nut breaking loose and falling into the crank case. The plane completed its trip from Philadelphia to Washington on two engines.

Officials attribute the initial success of the operation to a number of factors, among them the fact that at each airport on the system a plane takes off hourly.

Miss Amelia Earhart, vice president in charge of public relations, is particularly pleased that so many women are using the service.

"We know pretty accurately that a little less than half the tickets so far have been sold to women," she said. "I know one woman who came up from Washington on an early plane, completed her shopping in New York and returned to Washington in time for dinner."

Another official of the company, C. T. Ludington, chairman of the board, said it was too early to say whether passengers were traveling for curiosity or for business. Later in the year, he said, bad weather may cut down schedules, but he saw no reason why the ten-plane-a-day schedule cannot be kept during the Fall months.

SUICIDE HERE A FUGITIVE.

H. E. Gero Was Wanted in Detroit Bankruptcy Case.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 14.—Harry E. Gero, or Geraux, 30 years old, of Detroit, who committed suicide in New York on Thursday by locking himself in a closed automobile and inhaling fumes from the rubber tube leading to the motor exhaust, was wanted in Detroit on a bankruptcy fugitive warrant.

Gero, who had been married four times, formerly operated a radio store here under the name of Geraux, Federal authorities said tonight. He vanished in April with about $3,000 of the company's assets. The last trace of him before his suicide in New York was in Toledo, where efforts to arrest him failed by a few minutes.

The body of Gero was claimed here yesterday by Mrs. Gero, who ordered it shipped to Gaylord, Mich.

Jack (Legs) Diamond may have a reputation as a "gunman" in New York's underworld. He may also have been the owner of the arsenal of gangsters' weapons—bombs, hand grenades, machine guns and fountain-pen pistols—that police seized recently at 201 Sixty-first Street, Brooklyn, after trailing Diamond's wife's sedan to that address. But the officers of the Red Star liner Belgenland, on which Diamond went abroad recently and which has just returned to this port, are unanimously of the opinion that he is a dud where firearms are concerned.

One of the pastimes provided for the amusement of passengers aboard the Belgenland is clay pigeon shooting. When, on the last trip over, word got around among the passengers that the mild-mannered, flashily dressed young man occupying cabin 50 on A deck was none other than the notorious gangster, Legs Diamond, every one was somewhat awed to see him join the pigeon-shooters. A man with such a reputation, they figured, would find clay-pigeon shooting mere child's play. And the gallery of onlookers, including many young women, who already had asked Diamond for his autograph, expected such an exhibition as Buffalo Bill might have given. Imagine their dismay when Diamond fired shot after shot and never hit a pigeon. "For in all the times he tried that sport, and they were numerous," said an officer, "he never once was seen to make a target."

Passengers Liked Diamond.

All in all, however, the officers said, the passengers rather liked Diamond. He was affable and courteous and a liberal spender and, though he spent much of his time in the smoking room playing poker, his winnings, if any, were small. Although he appeared on the passenger list as "John Nolan," they said, he went by the name of Jack Diamond on shipboard and never attempted to hide his identity. And his baggage, they added, all bore his right name.

He told them repeatedly, officers said, that he was "the most harmless fellow in the world," and added: "Every time any one gets killed in New York they arrest me for some reason or other. To tell the truth I never hurt any one in my life."

Diamond's stewards said that he was terrified of Al Capone and that he trembled so much at times that when he went to sign a wine card he had to grip his right wrist in his left hand.

If the Belgenland's passengers were surprised at Diamond's miserable exhibition of pigeon shooting the Antwerp police were no less amazed at his appearance when he landed there. From reports they had received of him they expected to find a true desperado of the dime novel type, bristling with every variety of firearms. Confident that he would never submit quietly to arrest, they had blocked all streets leading to the dock and stationed an extra heavy police guard there. They were quite overcome when the soft-spoken man in a dark suit and panama hat pointed out to them as Diamond made not the slightest show of resistance.

Diamond is now on his way back to this country on the North German Lloyd freighter Hanover, due to dock in Baltimore in about a week.

Saw Whale in Battle.

Passengers who returned aboard the Belgenland reported seeing a huge whale attacked by a swordfish and thresher shark while the liner was off the Grand Banks last Thursday. Officers of the ship said that a shark and swordfish frequently traveled together and attacked whales, the shark striking from above and the swordfish from below. The outcome of the fight is not known as the ship was out of sight before it finished.

Among the passengers was Colonel Robert H. Morse, vice chairman of the Fairbanks Morse Company of Chicago, who returned from a two months' tour in Europe accompanied by his wife and their son, John, and daughter, Barbara. Colonel Morse was optimistic about business conditions in America and said he had received a report from the statistical department of the company in Chicago that orders were now flowing in steadily and that its business would be back to normal before the end of November.

BALL TEAMS EVADE JERSEY BLUE LAWS

Play in County Parks Beyond the Reach of City Police—Methodist Nine Changes Its Name.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Sept. 14.—The New Jersey blue law of 1750, the enforcement of which resulted last Sunday in the arrest of four amateur baseball players, charged with participating in a game at Mack Field here, was circumvented today when two amateur teams played a game in Green Brook Park, a county park not within the jurisdiction of the city police. Still another game in Cedar Brook Park, also a county park, was played without the interference of the police.

At a meeting today of the Joy Bible class of the First Methodist Episcopal Church in Plainfield it was decided that the name of the baseball club playing as the Joy Class Team should be changed to the Tri-City Club, as a result of protests by members of the Bible class that not all members of the baseball team were students in the class.

The game between the Tri-City Club and the army A. C. at Green Brook Park was the first in the city baseball championship series.

Decision in the arrest of the four amateurs last Sunday has been reserved by Judge William G. De Meza. Winfield Angleman, counsel for the defendants, contended that the immorality law of 1750 applied to townships and not to Plainfield, which is a city. This was denied by Corporation Counsel J. Henry Crane.

Survey Finds Workers Are Spending More For Comforts as Living Standards Advance

A steadily increasing demand for bath tubs, radio sets and automobiles by workingmen's families whose annual incomes are well under $2,000 annually is noted by the National Industrial Conference Board in the report of a comparison of a pre-war budget used in its computation of changes in the cost of living, with a budget recently compiled by the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics from a systematic investigation of 100 Detroit workingmen's families. The report was made public yesterday.

The average income, practically all derived from factory earnings, of the 100 Detroit families was $1,711.87. This income under the pre-war budget would have been divided in the following percentages: food, 43.1; housing, 17.7; clothing, 13.2; fuel and light, 5.6 and sundries, 20.4. The Bureau of Labor investigation showed that the income is now divided according to these percentages: food, 32.3; housing, 22.6; clothing, 12.2; fuel and light, 6 and sundries, 26.9.

"The outstanding fact in this comparison," the Conference Board explains, "is the demonstration of a steady advance in living standards as indicated by the decreased proportion of the income required for food and the marked increase in sundry expenditures. There has been a slight decrease in expenditures for clothing and a material increase in the cost of housing.

"The latter item probably indicates that bath tubs, said to be a peculiar mark of American civilization, are not to be obtained without price and that new standards of comfort are demanded by the working classes. The percentage of expenditure attributed to miscellaneous purposes is considerably greater than that found in the characteristic workers' budgets of other countries. The nearest approach to it in foreign lands is found in Canada and Australia.

"It is interesting to note that 47, or nearly half, of the 100 families owned automobiles and that these automobiles were used in the main for pleasure purposes, since only eight of the workers used their machines regularly to carry them to work. Forty-three of the families reported telephone expenditures, mostly through pay stations, and thirty-six families owned radio sets. In one form or another, as many as eighty-seven families were carrying life insurance at an annual expenditure for all families of $59.16 or 3.4 per cent of the total living expenses.

"One who is in any degree familiar with the mode of living of the workers in European countries," the Conference Board concludes, "or indeed in our own country fifty years ago, must be deeply impressed by the contrast between the privations of those lands and of those times and the comparative degree of material comfort which at present the enterprising and energetic wage earner is able to attain in his family life."

DEVISES NEON LAMP FOR GENERAL USE

WORKED ON IT FIVE YEARS

Explains That Necessity of Using a Transformer Has Been Eliminated —Cost Greatly Reduced.

The perfection of a new type of neon tube, which may supplant the electric bulbs now in use for home and office illumination, was announced yesterday by Raymond R. Machlett, 30-year-old engineer who developed the first practical luminous-tube signs in 1921. The new tube obviates the necessity of expensive transformers and dangerous high voltage required to actuate the tubes now in use throughout the country in electric signs.

Describing the difficulties of five years of work in order to achieve this result, Mr. Machlett said that while the present neon tube would remain lighted on a low voltage, a preliminary "kick" of high voltage was necessary to get it to light in the first place. This voltage is obtained through bulky transformers.

"Efforts up until this time to eliminate the transformer have resulted in methods requiring other auxiliary apparatus with moving parts—all of these methods being so costly, intricate and difficult to maintain as to offset the advantages gained," he said. "After more than five years of study and experimentation, we have solved this riddle through the introduction of a third element of a very specialized and peculiar character in the structure of the tube itself, which automatically performs the function of starting the discharge without the use of auxiliary apparatus or moving parts of any kind. This completely alters the electrical characteristics of the neon lamp, making it adaptable for operation directly from service lines and indefinitely expanding the field of neon lighting.

"The new lamp preserves the inherent advantages of neon lighting, such as efficiency, long life, high economy and cold light, and at the same time reduces the cost enormously. This lamp may be screwed into a socket just as incandescent lamps are now used. It will lend itself to use for interior lighting, carrying with it a therapeutic value because of the presence of ultra-violet in its discharge. By proper combination the present lamps may be applied as a source of light more nearly approximating daylight than is practicably possible with incandescent lamps.

"Because of its low surface brightness, as compared with the brightness of an incandescent filament, it may be used as a direct source of light without the usual diffusing means. Wherever colored light is required it represents a considerably more efficient medium than the colored incandescent lamp. Its effect upon the neon lighting industry itself will be very extensive, as the new lamp may be manufactured in a standard form, lending itself to quantity production at low cost, as compared with the present 'tailor-made' tubes. Furthermore, the local service facilities now required will not be necessary for the new lamp. Instead of requiring an expert to repair defects, the user may do his own repair work, because the failure of a single lamp will not affect the operation of the whole."

The neon tube is a development of the Geissler tube, invented by a German glass-blower, which has been the subject of intensive study in laboratories for many years. The value of various gases in these tubes was pointed out in 1898 by Sir William Ramsey. These gases, all inert, are neon, argon, helium, krypton and xenon. The type of tube now in use is a long piece of hollow glass bent into the shape of letters.

SEVEN MEN SEIZED AS KIDNAPPING RING

FREED FOR $7,000 RANSOM

Pasquale Gandolfo, reputed wealthy baker of 1,805 Eighth Street, Brooklyn, paid $7,000 for the release of his son, Louis Gandolfo, 22 years old, after kidnappers had held him captive from May 30 until June 13. Threatening notes warned him to keep the affair secret and he refrained from reporting it to the police.

On Aug. 21, however, the kidnappers, who had demanded $10,000, wrote requesting the $3,000 balance and the elder Gandolfo reported the case to District Attorney George Brower. Investigations were started by Police Captain John J. Ryan and yesterday Detective John Osnato arrested six men in Brooklyn. A seventh was held at Trenton, N. J., at the request of the Brooklyn police.

When Louis Gandolfo was near his father's home at midnight on May 30 an automobile drew up along the curb, three men jumped out and bound him in a blanket. He later told his father that he had been taken for a drive, calculating the distance as about two miles, dragged into a house where, in a small upper floor room with the windows boarded up, he was held prisoner until June 13. Occasionally two men had brought him food and had forced him to write notes to his father begging him to pay a ransom of $10,000, otherwise he would be killed.

The father sought advice from his brother-in-law, Peter Mandala, salesman, of 1,846 Ninth Avenue, Brooklyn, and the latter agreed to be the go-between—with suspicious alacrity, Gandolfo told the District Attorney. On June 13 Mandala was entrusted to deliver the $7,000, and that night Louis Gandolfo was blindfolded and released at Avenue P and Coney Island Avenue after warnings to "keep his mouth shut."

Mandala, according to the police, receives a salary of $75 a week, but investigations showed that he had deposited $10,000 during the last few months and $1,300 since June 13. The police say he would give no explanation of the money.

Mandala's financial affairs, the police say, are being investigated. The activities of the seven accused, their antecedents and the possibility that they, and perhaps others, have been making a regular business of kidnapping and terrorism is also being investigated, according to the police.

Killed Repairing a Clothes Line.

James Fenando, 43 years old, of 2,334 Hughes Avenue, the Bronx, died in Fordham Hospital yesterday of injuries received when he fell from a first floor window of the building at 623 Crescent Avenue, the Bronx. Fenando was repairing a pulley for a clothes line when he lost his balance.

Of greater significance, however, is the high quality of the advertising in The Times. A careful watch excludes false and misleading announcements. The Times welcomes information from readers in aid of its efforts to keep the advertising columns up to highest standards.

The Times will pay a reward of $100 to any one causing the arrest and conviction of a person or firm obtaining money under false pretenses through fraudulent advertising published in its columns.

5 FIREMEN TRAPPED IN SMOKE ARE SAVED

Rescued at 19th Street Blaze When Fumes and Flames Cut Off Their Retreat.

Five firemen, overcome by smoke, and two others, cut by flying glass, were rescued by their comrades yesterday morning at 4 o'clock when they were trapped by a fire that burned for two hours on the eleventh floor of the twelve-story loft building at 11 West Nineteenth Street. The damage to the building and stocks of goods was estimated at more than $80,000.

An automatic alarm, sounded when the sprinkler system was set off by the fire, brought fire apparatus under Deputy Chief John Waldron to the loft building, which extends 200 feet through the block and has a frontage on West Twentieth Street. The firemen arrived in a heavy shower and saw smoke pouring out of the windows of the eleventh floor.

Deputy Chief Waldron ordered the high pressure lines into service on the front of the building and ordered Hook and Ladder Company 3 to ventilate the eleventh floor. Firemen Dennis Hayes and Frank Sheldon of Engine Company 16 and Joseph Sissel of Engine Company 5 were sent with the hook and ladder.

Three Trapped on Eleventh Floor.

Firemen Harry William and Edwin Erickson of Hook and Ladder Company 3, accompanied by Hayes, separated from the other firemen at the eleventh floor and started to cross to the Nineteenth Street side of the building. Sheldon and Sissel remained on the Twentieth Street side after the five had forced windows and reached the eleventh floor.

By the glare of the fire itself the firement searched for electric light switches in the dense smoke and intense heat. The firemen became separated in the darkness and confusion of the smoke-filled place. Hayes and Erickson were overcome. Williams, nearly suffocated by smoke, staggered to a window and climbed to a narrow ledge.

Meanwhile Deputy Chief Waldron turned in a second alarm, bringing Acting Chief John McElligott and additional apparatus. When the firemen sent to the eleventh floor failed to reappear promptly their comrades organized a search party as a searchlight company and the rescue squad arrived.

The impromptu recuers, who were not equipped with smoke helmets, were turned back. The searchlight was trained on the face of the building and raised higher until it disclosed Williams, gasping for air, on the edge of the eleventh floor ledge.

Spectators who stood in the rain gasped when they caught sight of the fireman. Suddenly they saw an arm encased in the sleeve of a rubber coat thrust through the window and snatch the fireman to safety.

Watchers Shout Orders.

The watchers were so excited that they shouted orders at the firemen to raise the extension ladders and take the men off the eleventh floor. Some of them insisted that the firemen raise the extension ladders, even after it had been explained that they would reach only to about the seventh or eighth floor.

Sheldon and Sissel had worked their way unaided from the Twentieth Street side of the building. The three firemen still inside were trapped by flames on one side and balked by a drop of more than 100 feet to the street on the other side.

Acting Chief McElligott gave orders to his men to concentrate the high pressure lines in such a way that they would afford a curtain of water to the rescue squad going after the three trapped men. The rescue squad climbed to the eleventh floor and scrambled through the windows behind and below the cataract from the hose and presently emerged, bringing Erickson, Hayes and Williams.

The rescued men were taken to the street, where gas company crews worked over them with inhalators. It was raining heavily and it was necessary to put them in an ambulance and the emergency crew worked over them while they were taken to the quarters of Hook and Ladder Company 3 at Thirteenth Street and Fourth Avenue. Sheldon and Sissel collapsed when they reached the street and were treated also.

Drs. Fallon and Berston of New York Hospital and Dr. Selig of the Fire Department, aided by Rabbi Edward Lissman, Fire Department chaplain, gave first-aid treatment to the firemen.

THE REV. G. C. RICHMOND.

Correction of Misstatements Regarding Him in a Past Publication.

On April 26 last THE NEW YORK TIMES, in referring to the Rev. George Chalmers Richmond of Philadelphia and England, made mention of him as an ex-minister and as "not in holy orders." These statements were incorrect.

The Rev. Mr. Richmond, who, at various times in his career, has been involved in controversy with authorities of the Episcopal Church over expressed views of his own which certain of these authorities did not endorse, but against whom no charge involving his personal or ecclesiastical integrity has ever been brought, resigned his ministry in December, 1918. This resignation was accepted by the then Bishop of Pennsylvania without affording to Mr. Richmond the prolonged period of reflection required by the church law, and later, when Mr. Richmond, under that law, withdrew the resignation, he was reinstated by the Archbishop of York, England, within whose jurisdiction Mr. Richmond at that time was residing. This was done with the full concurrence of the Bishop of Pennsylvania and the standing committee of that diocese.

Since that time, the Rev. Mr. Richmond has continued his ministry in Hull, Yorkshire, in the diocese of Glasgow and in various other Episcopal jurisdictions in Great Britain. In July last year he preached in the famous Episcopal Church of St. Martins-in-the-Fields, London. He is in no sense an ex-minister of the church, and THE NEW YORK TIMES regrets that he should have been so described in its columns.

Mr. Rogers's Visit to Russia And What He Learned There

CAMP RICHARDSON, Cal., Sept. 14.—Me and my destitute friend Arthur Brisbane can't seem to get together on Russia.

There is a thousand things I talk about that I don't know any more about than a Senator, but I did take an airplane three years ago and flew from London to Moscow and Leningrad, stayed there a couple of weeks, went with no delegation, and wasn't personally conducted. Saw everything, didn't even belong to Hoover Committee, and I don't know any more now about Russia than Brisbane does.

If I wanted to start an insane asylum that would be 100 per cent cuckoo, I would just admit applicants that thought they knew something about Russia.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PLANES WILL GREET FIDAC PARTY TODAY

PROGRAM HERE COMPLETED

Mayor's Committee Will Welcome 125 Delegates to International Convention.

The Cunard liner Lancastria, with 125 delegates to the eleventh annual congress of the Federation Interalliee des Anciens Combattants, known as the Fidac, on board, is expected to arrive in Quarantine about 7 o'clock this morning. The visiting notables will be welcomed down the bay by the Mayor's committee of arrangements, headed by Major William F. Deegan, Tenement House Commissioner. They will leave the Battery on board the Macom early this morning. A flight of army and navy planes will join in the greeting.

Finishing touches were placed yesterday on the three-day program of festivities here prior to the departure of the visitors for Washington on a special Pennsylvania Railroad train Wednesday night. The congress will convene Thursday in Washington and the visitors will be received by President Hoover at the White House later in the week. The party on board the Lancastria includes statesmen, soldiers, members of the nobility and newspaper men from Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Portugal.

The foreign veterans, together with members of the American Legion, who make up the Fidac, will be received by Mayor Walker on the City Hall steps at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. There also will be exercises at the Eternal Light in Madison Square, a dinner at the Army and Navy Club tomorrow evening and another by the Mayor's committee at the Hotel Roosevelt Wednesday evening.

Dinner Tonight for British Group.

Tonight at the British Commonwealth Club, 35 West Forty-ninth Street, the delegates from Great Britain will be guests at a dinner given by the forty-one World War veterans among the members of the club. Sir Harry Armstrong, British Consul General, and Mrs. Armstrong will be present.

The delegates who will attend include Lady Edward Spencer Churchill, chairman of the woman's section of the British Legion; Mrs. E. Smee, member of the central committee of the woman's section; Mrs. W. J. Harris, vice chairman; Lieut. Col. Fred W. Abbott, president of Fidac; Colonel John Brown, chairman of the British Legion; General Sir Ian Hamilton, national vice president of the British Legion; T. F. Lister, Colonel E. C. Heath, Major Gen. J. Beauchamp Doran, vice president of the Irish Free State area; J. H. Hayes, Major S. H. Smith and Captain S. W. Slatter.

After the dinner the guests will attend a special performance at the Roxy Theatre. There also will be a midnight theatre party for all the visitors at the Capitol Theatre tonight.

Although business sessions of the congress are to be held in Washington, it will be officially opened at 9 o'clock tomorrow in the Seventh Regiment Armory, Park Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street. An address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Walker. The New York State Department of the American Legion will give a reception at the Seventh Regiment Armory at noon. At 1 P. M. the delegates will be luncheon guests of Henri Prince, of the Mayor's Committee, at the Ritz Tower Hotel.

To Visit Site of War Memorial.

Wednesday morning automobiles will take the visitors to Pelham Bay Park where ground will be broken for the new $500,000 war memorial. Luncheon will follow on the roof of the Hotel Pennsylvania at 1 o'clock with the American Legion as host.

Among the visitors will be M. George Scapini, known as the "blind deputy of Paris," a member of the French Parliament. He is president of the National Union of War Blind of France and a writer and sculptor of note. Although blinded during the war, he has learned to find his way about with as great facility as the normally sighted person, to ride horseback and take part in other activities usually impossible for the blind. He visited the United States during the annual convention of the American Legion at San Antonio.

During their visit in New York members of the Rumanian delegation will be at the Hotel Sulgrave, Park Avenue and Sixty-seventh Street, instead of at the Langdon, as was incorrectly reported.

"GRANDMA" WISSNER 102.

Aged Bloomfield Woman Will Observe Birthday Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., Sept. 14.—Mrs. Barbara Wissner will be 102 years old on Tuesday. "Grandma" Wissner, as she is known to hundreds, is believed to be the oldest woman in Essex County.

In the last two years her health has failed, and she now recognizes none of her friends or children. Her daughter, Mrs. Rose Koeber, wife of Fire Chief George Koeber, with whom she lives, has planned a short auto trip for the day.

SCHOOL PART TIME REDUCED ONE-THIRD

BIGGER ENROLMENT OFFSET

Seating Problem Now Viewed as Near Solution—Other Needs Studied.

BEHAVIOR CLINIC PLANNED

Practical Aid for Backward Pupils Is Aim of New Policy of Educational Leaders.

Following prolonged efforts to provide sufficient facilities for the city's school population, which has reached the record figure of 1,078,468 pupils in the day division, the Board of Education announced yesterday that this semester's increase in seating capacities has made a deep cut in part-time schedules, reducing them to the lowest level since the war.

The opening of eighteen new school buildings at the beginning of the Fall term has helped to deplete short-time lists by nearly 22,000 students, or nearly one-third of their size a year ago, despite an increase in day school registration of 18,009 over last September's register of 1,060,459 pupils.

The city-wide elementary school enrolment has been decreased by nearly 2,000, but the part-time situation was eased more considerably than that fact would indicate, as one-third of the pupils formerly on shortened time schedules are now on full-time lists. Last September there were more than 38,000 pupils on part time, but the number has been reduced to 26,523 this year.

Although junior high school population has risen to more than 102,000 pupils, an increase of 7,400 pupils over 1929 figures, part-time has been entirely eliminated. Last September the junior high schools placed 1,271 pupils on abbreviated schedules.

Even more impressive, according to the Board of Education's spokesman, is the depletion of short-time ranks in the secondary schools, which, continuing their tradition of rapid growth, added more than 13,000 pupils to an already large register of nearly 170,000 students a year ago. Approximately 31,500 pupils were on short-time lists in September, 1929, and the corresponding figure this semester is 22,400, a cut of nearly 30 per cent.

Problem Seen Near Solution.

With the Board of Education's announcement that buildings providing accommodation for more than 51,000 pupils are now under construction, it appears that at last the long standing problem of brief school schedules is fast aproaching solution, ending a critical problem which has been in the forefront of educational difficulties in the last decade.

School needs which were shoved into the background by the paramount necessity of housing adequately the pupils, will now come to the fore and receive more attention, it is pointed out. A step in the direction of attacking other than building problems is being made now with the initiation of several surveys and a behavior clinic to deal with maladjusted, backward children. Retardation, already studied for an entire year by a special committee, will press for early solution as the next big advance in educational policy.

From now on it is expected that with the physical plan brought into nearly stable equilibrium, educational and professional needs rather than material problems will claim more generous financial treatment than has heretofore been considered possible. The resources of the system, it is believed, will be brought to bear more directly on the improvement of educational methods.

Manhattan's educational population shows the usual drop, the island having lost nearly 7,000 elementary pupils during the last year, while the Bronx gained 5,000, Brooklyn lost more than 2,000, Queens gained as many and Richmond added 750 pupils to its register. Te upshot is a loss of nearly 2,000 in the city-wide elementary register.

Manhattan, again, was the only borough losing junior high school pupils to the number of more than 600. In common with other areas, Manhattan gained in secondary school enrolment, which, throughout the city, reached an increase of 13,364 pupils. Each of the training schools lost in register, more than 400 pupils on the average.

50% Short Time Drop in Brooklyn.

"In the elementary schools short time is less than at any period within the available records of the Board of Education back in 1900," George J. Ryan, president of the board, declared. "In the Borough of Brooklyn elementary school short time was reduced by more than 50 per cent, from 20,000 to 9,000 pupils.

"Another feature of the short-time figures is the fact that elementary and junior high schools had a decrease of 7,345 pupils in Manhattan and an increase of 13,270 pupils in the other boroughs. This figure indicates clearly the magnitude of the task of eliminating short time, because the seats left vacant in Manhattan by the decreased registration there are of no value in supplying accommodations in the other parts of the city."

Of the thirty-four buildings now being elected, six are expected to be ready for occupancy next month, effecting a further decrease in part-time schedules. The entire program, when fully completed, will add 2,600 to Manhattan's sittings, nearly 12,000 to those of the Bronx, 17,500 sittings to Queens facilities, 18,000 to those of Brooklyn and 2,400 to the total sittings in Richmond.

Brooklyn Retains Enrolment Lead.

The registration figures indicate that Bronx and Queens are the fastest growing boroughs, but Brooklyn still remains substantially in the lead. Brooklyn elementary and junior high school enrolment is 361,000 pupils, or more than Manhattan's by 70,000 pupils. The Bronx and Queens figures are respectively 169,000 and 139,000 pupils. The situation in the high schools is much the same, with Brooklyn, Manhattan, Bronx and Queens registers, respectively, 71,000, 40,000, 38,000 and 28,000 students.

Vocational and industrial high schools have a register of 6,300 pupils, an increase of 500 over last year. Manhattan schools lead with a majority of 4,300 students.

SEES LINGLE SLAYER IN CAPTIVE BANDIT

LINKED TO ZUTA'S DEATH

Dead Moran Gang Chief Said to Have Hired Him to Kill Reporter, Then "Welched."

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP).—The Herald and Examiner said tonight that five men were captured near London, Ky., during a hijacking attempt today and that one of them may be the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter.

The paper said that Ted Geisking, one of those reported arrested, has been sought by Chicago police for weeks after having been identified by a dozen persons from a picture taken five years ago, as the man who fired the fatal shot into the reporter's head as he walked through a crowded pedestrian subway last June.

Hitherto no mention of Geisking as a suspect in the Lingle killing has been made public.

The Herald and Examiner described Geisking as the leader for five years of a gang of Indiana terrorists, and said he is reputed to have engaged in hijacking, bank robbery, kidnapping and shootings. It termed him a suspect in the death, May 20, of William Simons, former Chicago broker, who was found dead on a lonely road near his Kentland (Ind.) home, and whose death was ascribed by a coroner's jury to suicide.

The paper said it had information that Jack Zuta, slain Moran gangster, had hired Geisking to kill Lingle and that Geisking then had killed Zuta because the latter withheld full payment for the shooting."

The Herald and Examiner said its reporters had made an intensive investigation of the Geisking angle and had found that Geisking came here after Federal authorities had broken up the notorious Joe Traum gang in Indiana. Geisking, the paper said, received $5,000 in advance for the Lingle killing and was to have received $5,000 more, which was not paid.

It said that Traum himself was questioned during the early Lingle inquiry and later released. Traum, according to the paper, seemed quite willing to be sent back to Leavenworth, from which he was paroled.

The paper said Geisking was a suspect in the killing of Orlando Horton, "lone wolf" bootlegger, near Lafayette, Ind., and in the death of Kentucky Hall, who died in an Indianapolos hospital last May 31.

CONEY ISLAND SEASON ENDS

A downpour dispersed the crowds that waded ankle-deep through confetti on Surf Avenue, Coney Island, at 3 A. M. yesterday as the official season of the resort drew to an end. In the afternoon the warm weather brought more than 200,000 to the beach and many persons went in the surf.

Only five arrests were made as the annual Mardi Gras ended. This is probably a record, for in other years the crowds have become unruly in the closing hours and as many as 400 were arrested.

The sixteen winners in the baby parade that was held on Saturday received their awards yesterday afternoon in the circus ring in Luna Park. A few hours later workmen began to board the park for the Winter.

Steeplechase Park will remain open until Tuesday. Today will be Catholic Day and the entire gate receipts will be turned over to the Church of Our Lady of Solace on West Seventeenth Street, Coney Island, as provided for in the will of the late George C. Tilyou. Some of the large restaurants and some of the rides will keep open.

Merchants at the resort said that despite good weather most of the season and large crowds, business on the whole was poor. Crowds of the same size in more prosperous times spent much more, they declared.

ROBS BOARDWALK OFFICE.

Crowds Pass By During Hold-Up in Atlantic City.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 14.—A well-dressed middle-aged man stepped from the crowded Boardwalk at 9:30 o'clock tonight into the Western Union branch telegraph office in the Haddon Hall Building at North Carolina Avenue. He held a pistol half-concealed in his right hand and motioned gently with it to Mrs. Margaret Blair, the only clerk then on duty, directing her to go to the back of the place and behind a partition.

As she obeyed he walked behind the counter, opened the cash drawer and took $25, all there was in it. At that moment Frank Conold of Brewster, Ohio, came in to write a telegram. He asked the hold-up man the date and the man answered that it was the 14th.

Hearing Conold's voice, Mrs. Blair screamed from behind the partition. Conold ran toward the sound and the robber walked away from it. When Mrs. Blair had managed to explain to Conold what had happened the thief had disappeared.

LEGION FAIR NETS $4,000.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, L. I., Sept. 14.—The four-day carnival of the American Legion post ended early this morning, and Ferdinand Wisner announced that more than $4,000 had been realized and would be used to reduce the mortgage on the Legion Club on Maple Avenue. The fair grounds were at Sunrise Highway and Morris Avenue.

Winners of the various prizes were as follows: Dr. R. H. Dixon of 51 Lincoln Avenue, an automobile; Mrs. Edward Dalton of 40 North Village Avenue, a hope chest; Miss Ruth Latus of 12 Amherst Court, a clock; John Schroeder of Oceanside, a live pig.

GIRL IS KILLED TRYING FIRST PARACHUTE LEAP

Fails to Pull Rip Cord on Leaving Plane—Falls 2,000 Feet Into Binghamton Street.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Attempting her first parachute leap, Clara Lechner, aged 16, of Johnson City, failed to pull the rip cord and fell nearly 2,000 feet to her death here late today. Her body struck the roof of a house and bounded into a residential street.

The Stinson Detroiter cabin plane from which the girl made the leap was piloted by Richard Bennett, manager of the Binghamton flying field. Tom Demann, a professional parachute jumper, was a passenger. Demann was to have followed the girl in a second jump from the plane.

Authorities have started an investigation of the fatality and also plan to stop stunt flying over the city.

Miss Lechner is said to have signed a release, accepting full responsibility if anything went wrong in her jump.

Mr. Bennett, unnerved by the tragedy, was taken to his home after landing his plane. He said Miss Lechner had made repeated requests to be permitted to realize her ambition to become a parachute jumper.

SUFFOLK FAIR TO OPEN.

Extensive Program of Events to Begin in Riverhead Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 14.—The seventy-eighth annual fair of the Suffolk County Agricultural Society will open at the fair grounds here on Tuesday and continue for five days. The record list of entries for the poultry show totals more than 3,000. Automobile, flower and live-stock shows will also be among the features at the fair.

THEATRE COMPANY LOSES.

An unusual accident was described in Henry v. Publix Theatres Corporation in which it appeared that Jean Henry, attending an evening performance at a picture show operated by the defendant, was struck and injured by the body of a young woman falling from the balcony. The trial court gave a preliminary instruction in favor of the defendant, but on appeal by the plaintiff to the Texas Court of Civil Appeals a new trial was ordered by Chief Justice Jones.

One of the claims of negligence of defendant was to the effect that the balcony rail was too low when considered in connection with the narrowness of the aisle beside it. The question as to the presumption of negligence arising from the mere fact of the accident was also raised. The Court of Civil Appeals held that the proximate cause of the accident involved questions of fact as to negligence in maintaining the aisle and railing, but that the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur was not applicable. As to this the court says:

"We cannot indulge a presumption of negligence from the happening of the accident, and the burden of proving such negligence rests upon appellant. The falling of a person from a balcony in a public theatre is such an occurrence that does not happen in the ordinary course of things, if the management has used ordinary care to guard against such an occurrence. Such an occurrence could be brought about by an occupant of the balcony attempting to use the narrow and darkened aisle for exit, and in such attempt is suddenly precipitated against the railing, and is unable to protect himself in such an emergency from falling on account of the railing being too low for such purpose."

LIGHTNING BURNS BARNS.

Many Farmers Lose Crops in Wake of Canadian Storm.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 14 (Canadian Press).—A series of freak storms struck Central Ontario over the weekend and left behind a trail of wrecked buildings, burned to the ground when struck by lightning.

Heavy rains accompanied the electrical disturbance, and, although the moisture was of great benefit to late field crops and Fall wheat, much of which has been planted, many farmers suffered the loss of their entire season's harvest when their barns burned.

The storm struck with unusual severity near Lindsay, where six barns were struck. Trainmen reported seeing nine other buildings burning.

Major Stedman Rests Easily.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP).—Major Charles M. Stedman, veteran Representative in Congress from North Carolina, today was reported "resting comfortably" in the hospital where he was taken after being stricken with apoplexy last week.

His condition is still precarious, however, and physicians declined to predict the outcome of his illness. Major Stedman, the only Civil War veteran remaining in Congress, has served the Fifth District of his State as a Democrat for twenty years.

Parachutist Killed on Rocks.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Sept. 14 (AP).—Falling on a pile of rocks at the end of a parachute jump, Earl Miller, 36 years old, of Canton, was injured fatally tonight. He fractured his skull. With Captain Jack Adams of Wheeling he had gone up to entertain a small crowd of spectators.

KILLS YOUNG GIRL ASLEEP IN HOME

BOY SUITOR IS SOUGHT

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 14.—Alice Waltman, 17, a student in St. Mary's Parochial School, was murdered with a razor some time last night while she slept at her home. Police, after a hurried investigation, were inclined to attribute the killing to a jealous suitor.

Alice was sleeping with her 8-year-old brother, Richard. In the same room, in a bed close to her, were sleeping her sisters, Henrietta, 20, and Evelyn, 19. Neither of them nor the boy was awakened.

To reach the bed in which Alice was sleeping the murderer climbed a rear porch, crept through a bedroom in which her brothers Harry, 14, and Henry Jr., 15, were asleep. Without awakening them, he passed through a hall and into the bedroom of the girls.

After nearly decapitating the girl, the slayer left as he had entered, as was shown by fingerprints—dusty when he entered and bloody when he departed, imprinted on the window sill. A neighbor who happened to be awake saw a shadowy form fleeing through the alley.

Probably without regaining consciousness, Alice struggled upright, stumbled to the bed where her sisters were sleeping, groped her way out of the room and fell dead at the stairway.

Her mother, Mrs. Kate Waltman, sleeping in a first floor room, heard the fall, which also awakened Evelyn. The mother fainted when she saw the body of her daughter, but Evelyn immediately called the police.

The officers found in a bureau used by Alice, some letters from a rejected suitor who was insanely jealous. The man who signed these letters was vaguely identified as a vagrant with no permanent address. Recently he was dismissed from a position here and announced that he was going to Florida, but the police have learned that he was seen here last week.

The murder, following closely the fiendish slaying of 8-year-old Marverine Appel, has wrought the community to a high pitch of excitement.

"We think we know the identity of the murderer," said Detective Captain Hamilton tonight. "Every train, bus depot and roads are being watched. We are confident the man is still in South Bend and that we will soon have him in custody."

OFFERS TO FIND GEM LOOT.

BOSTON, Sept. 14 (AP).—William Howard, a Negro, walked into Police Headquarters here tonight and asked for the address of Sidney E. Hutchinson, wealthy Philadelphia banker, whose Summer home at Beverly Farms, Mass., was robbed of gems valued at $200,000 in August, 1929, because, Howard said, he wanted to return part of the loot and receive a reward.

Police questioning elicited the information that Howard, while serving a term in the Charlestown State Prison, had become friendly with Byron Jones, alias Beaucaire, also a Negro, who had confessed to the Hutchinson break.

Howard said Jones had told him where a ring, valued at $2,400, a part of the Hutchinson loot, was hidden and that he, Howard, was prepared to return it to its owner for a reward.

Dr. Stephen Wise Speaks at Floral Park Dedication Ceremony.

Special to The New York Times.

FLORAL PARK, L. I., Sept. 14.—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York City was the principal speaker at dedication exercises this afternoon for the new home of the Floral Park Jewish Centre on North Tyson Avenue. The building, embracing recreational rooms, religious rooms and a kitchen, has just been completed at a cost of $35,000.

Dr. Wise in his address expressed the hope that the centre would prove to be a common meeting place of the people. He said the religious teachings of the Jewish faith developed a better type of American citizen, and that the better Jew a man was the better citizen he would be.

Others on the program included Mayor John McNeil, District Attorney Elvin M. Edwards, Dr. Aaron Brown, president of the centre; Rabbi Morton Berman of the Jewish Institute of Religion and Rabbi Rudolph M. Rosenthal, acting rabbi at the centre. All creeds were represented at the exercises.

STATE PAVING RECORD SET.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 14.—By laying 41.15 miles of new pavement during the week ended Sept. 9, highway contractors in the State hung up a new record, according to a statement issued today by Arthur W. Brandt, Commissioner of Highways.

The best previous record, of 39.96 miles, was made in 1928.

Good weather and plenty of labor made the record possible, it was pointed out. Thus far this season the Division of Highways reports that 512.5 miles of new pavement have been put down.

At present there are 216 contracts in various stages of construction throughout the State. The contractors are employing 9,433 men and the State has a maintenance force of 5,790.

In 1925, during the corresponding week in September, 22.03 miles of new pavement were completed; in 1926, 20.03; in 1927, 27.89; in 1928, 39.96, and in 1929, 28.30.

ANCIENT ADRIANOPLE CITY OF VICISSITUDES

Recent Destructive Storm Put the Turkish Centre Founded by Hadrian in News Again.

The tornado-like storm during the past Summer which caused extensive damage in Adrianople, in European Turkey, recalls the many vicissitudes of destruction and changes of national ownership which the city has been through in its long career.

"The destructive wind, which left Adrianople's windows without glass, leveled buildings and toppled lofty minarets, added another disaster to the history of the venerable city," it is noted in a descriptive bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society.

"Since Hadrian rebuilt the city in the second century, Adrianople has risen to envious heights among Turkish cities in commercial importance. It also has been engulfed in periods of distress.

"The city lies on the banks of the Maritsa and Tunja Rivers, 137 miles northwest of Constantinople on the railroad which connects the famous old Turkish capital with Belgrade, Sofia and Saloniki. Commerce that passed between the Balkans and other portions of Europe and Turkey made Adrianople a great market and distributing point. Tariff barriers set by the Balkan States and emigration of the city's population—the Turks eastward and the Greeks westward—have been charged with the more recent depression of the city's commercial importance.

"If visitors to Adrianople were unaware of its location on the map, a tour of the city would lead them to believe that they were east of the Bosporus, for a marked Oriental atmosphere prevails.

"Caravans arrive as they do in Damascus. Dusty, ruddy-skinned camel men mingle with the street crowds, peering into windows where a colorful array of Oriental carpets, shawls, bric-a-brac and other Eastern merchandise predominates. Lofty cypress trees poke their uppermost limbs above the conglomeration of red roofs, and mosque domes dominate the irregular skyline much as they do in Brusa, while muezzins call the faithful Moslems to prayer from tall, white minarets which point fingerlike to the sky.

"As one peers into Adrianople shops, guides decry the fact that their city is not what it once was. Before the World War, they will tell the visitor, Adrianople shops displayed handsome pieces of Austrian crockery, artistic German iron pieces, fancy French jewelry and English textiles. And during a shopping tour the tones of an American phonograph competed with the loud bickering of shopkeepers and purchasers and the boisterous calls of street vendors.

"Although the city now is quieter, its population has diminished from 85,000 to 56,000 since 1905, and things Turkish appear to be moving eastward. Adrianople continues to hang on to a certain commercial prestige. Raw silk from near-by mulberry tree plantations, cotton, opium, rosewater, attar of roses, wax and Turkey red dye are exported, and the city still has a pride in fine wines produced from grapes from neighboring vineyards.

"Adrianople came into its own in 1361, when Murad II took residence there, and for a century it remained the seat of Turkish Sultans. Then Constantinople fell and Adrianople was shorn of its political importance. Bulgarians, Turks and Greeks have all had a hand in governing the city from time to time since 1913, but in 1922 it was returned to Turkey."

POLICE PSYCHOLOGY A FACTOR IN NEWS

SOME ARE BORN NARRATORS

A Few Are Made Loquacious by Wiles of Reporters, but Some Lack Will to Enthuse.

The sense of drama of individual members of the police force varies greatly, and on this variation depends, to a greater extent perhaps than might be expected, how the news of crimes and accidents frequently "breaks."

There are some policemen who, when on duty at the information desk at headquarters, or at the desk of a district precinct, quickly come to be relied on by reporters as news sources. Such men are tacitly blessed by members of the news-gathering fraternity, who feel assured that whenever anything happens which warrants a "story" they will not only be promptly informed, but that the interested tones of the officer in describing the incident will automatically convey to them the "high lights" of the story and give them a basis on which to work.

To many other policemen, unfortunately, battle, murder and sudden death have become such an everyday commonplace that their imaginations can no longer pause to contemplate such things with interest. To get news from them is like getting blood from a stone, and frequently a reporter, becoming chilled himself by the matter-of-fact recital of an event, mumbled monotonously, decides there is "nothing to" a story which related by another policeman would have fired him with instant enthusiasm.

Sometimes, however, a little adroit questioning will work up a tired desk officer's interest in a case in which he had taken none and elicit from him all sorts of unusual facts concerning which he at first appeared to know nothing. At others the recital of a joke or a story entirely unconnected with the matter at hand will stir him into loquacity and result in his eventually parting with the desired information.

Detectives who have made arrests seldom need prompting, but where the arrests are important they are frequently so surrounded by reporters eager for information and find themselves deluged with so many rapid-fire questions that an accurate retailing of the event becomes difficult. On the other hand, the reporters realize that if they wait to get the information from the "blotter" much of the story's freshness will have departed—as it will, too, after the detective has been asked to recite it half a dozen times over.

The Police Department has not yet become expert in the accurate telephoning of names, with the result that owing to the number of letters in the English language which sound almost the same names telephoned from a district station are not infrequently misspelled in headquarters' records, while if the scene of the occurrence is tapped still a third spelling—generally the correct one—is obtained. Newspaper workers qualify the letter C as "C for Charlie" to distinguish it from B, G, D, E and so on, but the police force as a whole has not learned to do this.

Policemen are frequently astonished over the amount of space given an occurrence which appears to them of very minor importance. But sometimes the opposite is the case. A matter may be reported by them as "John Smith, shot during altercation with an unknown assailant, D. O. A. (dead on arrival)," but to the newspapers it may be a front page story, another link in a chain of gang killings.

Again a "confidence man" may be arrested by a dectective who is able to recite not only details leading to the arrest which would fill columns, but most of the man's life history and string of aliases, but the charge is petit larceny, and the newspapers promptly forget it.

Street names mean a great deal in judging the importance of an occurrence, both to the police and to the press. Recently a report was received at police headquarters that a man had been shot on Madison Street. The officer who gave out the report showed interest, and due to the notoriety of the street as a gang section a score of reporters sped at once to the scene in several cars. But in contrast to the usual gang killing scene on the lower east side, there was no bloodstained corpse "laid out" on the sidewalk, no swarm of east side children, no clanging ambulances and only one police emergency crew, which quickly departed.

DENIES ITALY HOLDS REINS OVER ALBANIA

CLAIMS MANY ADVANTAGES

Envoy Says Treaty With Rome Has Been of Great Benefit to Both Countries.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Albania, once the westernmost wing of the Ottoman Empire, but since 1913 an independent State, was described, its history reviewed and its present international relationships explained in a radio address delivered this afternoon by Faik Konitza, Albanian Minister to the United States, over a national hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Discussing the relations existing between Albania and Italy, Mr. Konitza defended the treaty of alliance between Italy and Albania and denounced as a "curious misconception" the impression of "some people" that "Italy has gripped Albania in a strangle hold."

"Of course, in this modern world of ours," the Minister said, "almost all the nations are in a chain of partial interdependence, economic or political, one to the other, and those States of Southeastern Europe who criticize Albania in this respect are in the same position as Albania, though they do not like to acknowledge it, forgetting the shrewd English proverb that people living in glass houses should not throw stones.

"The treaty of alliance between Italy and Albania is very similar to the treaty between England and Portugal, and while Italy has thereby gained many advantages, it is inaccurate to say that Albania has gained none. I could name some very important advantages gained by Albania as a result of this arrangement with Italy.

"Some contended that it would have been better for Italy and Albania as well as for the rest of Europe if Albania, in view of her important strategic position, had been given an international status of permanent neutrality when she was still free to make a choice. But, then, Albania has documentary evidence of having tried to reach that neutrality status internationally guaranteed, and failed through no fault of Italy."

Such criticism and counter-criticism, however, according to Mr. Konitza, is "academic," since "nothing will ever happen to disturb the peace; all governments and nations are acquiring every day more wisdom and self-restraint."

MADRID BULLS STRIKE AGAINST SUNDAY SPORT

Six Demand Green Pastures and Refuse to Fight Until Forced by Fire Darts.

MADRID, Sept. 14.—Madrid saw the strangest bull fight in seven years today.

All afternoon bulls who showed a greater longing for green pastures than a desire to charge came out to a crowded bull ring. The fifth bull, mottled black and white, ambled peacefully into the ring and refused to be baited.

The crowd howled. Then the crowd howled again. The bull tried to jump a fence and get away. The angry roar of the crowd was heard in the heart of Madrid.

A red handkerchief was waved in the president's box and a pair of the lately repermitted exploding fire darts of burning sulphur were thrust into the bull's shoulders. The animal bellowed and the crowd applauded madly. The red handkerchief waved again and another pair of torturing darts pierced the bull.

The handkerchief was waved a third time and a fourth and a fifth. The bull began to resemble a porcupine in the number of darts that protruded from him. Blood rolled down his sides and the burning sulphur mixed with it. The crowd went wild with excitement as the animal pawed in agony.

Finally a seventh pair of darts drove the bull to desperation. He lowered his head and charged. A matador killed him.

The fourth bull, the best of six, killed four horses.

One critic was heard to say on leaving the ring:

TED HEALY RETURNS WITH HIS 'RACKETEERS'

No less waggish fellow than Ted Healy wanders in and out of the bill that has newly arrived at the Palace, which is to say that the situation in variety's old maternal house is about as perfect as you are likely to find it in a season or two of journeying to Forty-seventh Street. Even if the rest of the program were less good than it is, you know that the astute Mr. Healy would make everything all right. The fact that an afternoon or evening of more than ordinary talent surrounds the headliner is, therefore, so much velvet, or something to the good.

He comes back from Hollywood and his session in the pictures, jocular and smiling from beneath a still battered hat. The flawless imitation of Al Jolson is working, the banter with the patient Palace orchestra is as informal and pleasant as ever, and in one way and another you see a good deal of him before he gets around to his own act, which closes the show. It is to be noted, but not with alarm, that a new aggregation of the ruffians quaintly called the Healy "Racketeers" has been enlisted. They are, at the moment, less menacing than Shemp Howard and his associated malefactors, but they are learning fast, and before you can drop a sand bag out of the flies they will be thugs of the first order.

Among those whom Mr. Healy introduces (with everything else, he is master of ceremonies) is Harriet Hoctor, who returns after a week's intermission. Miss Hoctor, in a routine that is new except for the "Ballet of the (St. Louis) Blues," receives a Palace stand-by's reception, and concludes with a sweet and simple number in which she first appeared upon the stage. Another rousing welcome is reserved for Gus Van, who returns as a "single" in a selection from the character songs that he and the late Joe Schenck made famous in their partnership of eighteen years.

From the night clubs to her Palace début comes Ethel Merman, a comely ballad singer, accompanied by Al Siegel, who is not so new. Miss Merman's torch singing première turns out to be an auspicious event in lyric celebration of the broken Broadway heart, and promises well for her début later in the season on the musical comedy stage.

The Three Sailors, who made comedy out of corporal punishment in Mr. Carroll's "Sketch Book," go through their droll exercises, and if there are laughs in falls and face-slapping, they can and do find them. There are also three dancers, Wilson, Keppel and Betty, and some sagacious canines grouped under the title of Carlton Emmy's Mad Wags. But when the falls, face-slapping and torch singing are over, there is Mr. Healy back aagin for a last stand. Perhaps in celebration of his gala return, he calls upon Lou Forman's orchestra to make one of its infrequent trips from the pit to the stage. Then Mr. Healy, of course, conducts them with a fine, an uproarious insouciance. It is his week.

"Solid South," the play by Lawton Campbell, of which Richard Bennett is the star, will make its Broadway appearance on Tuesday, Oct. 14, at the Lyceum Theatre following a preliminary week at the Flatbush Theatre, Brooklyn. "Solid South," a comedy satirizing the Southern traditions, has already been tried out in Chicago. Among those who will appear in Mr. Bennett's supporting cast are Jessie Royce Landis, Elizabeth Patterson and Owen Davis Jr. Alexander McKaig is the producer of the play.

The week of Oct. 13 now looms as one of the most important of the Fall theatrical season. Besides "Solid South," productions already scheduled for that period are "Elizabeth the Queen," the first Theatre Guild play, with Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt heading the cast, and "Hello, Paris," the Chic Sale show, on Monday, Oct. 13; "Scarlet Sister Mary," the Barrymore vehicle, and Jane Cowl in "When Hell Froze," on Tuesday; "Three's a Crowd," the Clifton Webb, Fred Allen, Libby Holman revue, on Wednesday, and Miss Cowl's second repertory production, Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," on Friday. Possibilities for the week are the new Cohan play, "A Well Known Woman," and the latest Lonsdale comedy, "Canaries Sometimes Sing."

WIMAN TO PRODUCE 'THE VINEGAR TREE'

Will Give Paul Osborn's Comedy of Smart Long Island, With Mary Boland as Star.

Dwight Deere Wiman, who last week ended his producing partnership with William A. Brady Jr., has purchased for early production "The Vinegar Tree," a comedy by Paul Osborn, who has been represented on Broadway by "Hotbed" and "A Ledge." "The Vinegar Tree," described as a play of smart Long Island, will serve as a vehicle for Mary Boland, which means that "Mrs. Cook's Tour," the play which Miss Boland tried out and was scheduled to experiment with again, has been abandoned.

Mr. Wiman will spend a fortnight's vacation on his yacht, the Moanin' Low, before beginning rehearsals of "The Vinegar Tree" about Oct. 1.

By MORDAUNT HALL.

A Murder Mystery in German.

DER TIGER VON BERLIN, with Charlotte Susa, Harry Frank, Hertha von Walther, Trude Berliner, Max Wilmsen and others, written by Rudolph Katscher and Egon Eis, directed by Johannes Meyer and audible short subjects. At the Eighth Street Playhouse.

The latest Ufa talking film in the German language, "Der Tiger von Berlin," which is now on view at the Eighth Street Playhouse, is an admirably recorded and ably acted murder mystery. It is far ahead of any other European audible production so far presented here. The tonal quality of the voices is wonderfully lifelike and the players speak their lines with the necessary spontaneity.

It is a picture that may be appreciated to some extent even by those who are unfamiliar with German, for it has been directed with skill and imagination. The events leading up to the capture of a mysterious slayer are pictured with a full measure of suspense. In fact, it is one of the outstanding murder mysteries, for, in telling the story, the director does not try to point the finger of suspicion at every person before exposing the real criminal.

The principal feminine character, that of A Lady in Evening Dress, is impersonated by Charlotte Susa, a beautiful actress who resembles Vilma Banky. Her portrayal is excellent and her voice is as pleasing as her presence.

Several clever ideas are set forth in this film, which is sufficiently subtle to merit little being told of the story. It can, however, be written that as the chronicle proceeds a wrestler is humbled by a stalwart young man who knows a thing or two about jui-jitsu. This same individual teaches a pickpocket a lesson and he also reveals himself to be a man of considerable cunning. Perhaps he does have the director on his side during a few of the interludes, but not enough to spoil the drama of the film.

The Tiger, as the murderer is alluded to in this yarn, makes it a point of shooting each victim through the forehead and taking the unfortunate person's valuables. At the opening of the story the police are discussing the Tiger's most recent crime. The scene then switches to one inside a cabaret, which harbors some suspicious-looking persons. A man in dress clothes enters the place and because he offers a 100-mark note in payment for his drinks he is suspected by at least one patron of being the Tiger. The police commissioner is notified and a detective appears in the cabaret. He examines the 100-mark note given by the well-dressed stranger and observes that it is not one of those listed as having been taken from the Tiger's victims.

Following an apache dance exhibition and a song rendered by a girl, a pistol shot is heard from one of the compartments. A middle-aged woman, who had attracted attention through her display of gems, is found dead, a bullet having pierced her forehead! A banker, who was sitting with this latest victim of the Tiger, is apprehended and searched by the police. He is in possession of an automatic pistol, one cartridge of which has been fired. Just when one imagines that this highly excited person is going to be held for the murder, a telephone message comes to the Police Commissioner, and the banker is released.

It is not until the closing episode that the identity of the Tiger is revealed. It is an adroitly conceived surprise, which causes one to admire the clever work of a police official.

Besides the alluring Fräulein Susa, others who contribute to the success of this subject are Harry Frank, Hertha von Walther, Trude Berliner, Max Wilmsen, Max Maximilian, Erich Kestin and Henry Pless.

This feature is shrewdly photographed. During one sequence the screen is dark, but the voices of two of the characters are heard and also the periodical reports of a pistol, the flashes of which serve to give an outline of the person firing the weapon.

IRENE RICH AT HIPPODROME.

She Plays Role of Domineering Mother in "On Your Back."

ON YOUR BACK, with Irene Rich, H. B. Warner, Raymond Hackett, Marion Shilling and Ilka Chase; directed by Guthrie McClintic; from the story by Rita Weiman; program of film shorts and vaudeville. At the Hippodrome.

The story of a woman's attempt to plan her son's life without consulting his wishes is that of "On Your Back," the talkie in which Irene Rich is featured at the Hippodrome.

As Julianne, she rises from an east side dressmaking establishment to the dignity of an exclusive Fifth Avenue shop which has become successful because she makes it the rendezvous for the young and beautiful and the old and wealthy. The son, away at college for some years, returns and falls in love with a chorus girl. This is against the wishes of Julianne, who attempts to dissuade him first by words and then by persuading the girl to resort to borrowing the money she owes the modiste from an elderly gentleman. The boy, of course, misunderstands, but things are explained.

The film is neither good nor bad and succeeds in running along its mediocre path with some degree of suspense. Its variety is probably its saving grace, for the scenes include night clubs, fashion salons and rich interiors.

Miss Rich's performance is somewhat indeterminate. Whether she is liberal in permitting her son to have his way at last or a hard woman who knows when she is beaten remains a matter of speculation. Her overacting in the earlier sequences was in part responsible for a sense of wishy-washy characterization.

By far the best performance in the film is that given by a blonde switchboard operator who answers only "Yop" or "Nope" to any question put to her.

NEWSREEL, a compilation of Fox Movietone and Hearst Metrotone Newsreels, shown continuously at the Embassy Newsreel Theatre.

Major Maurice Campbell, former prohibition administrator, described in one of the newsreel "clips" at the Embassy the evils of the law he had tried to enforce.

"First of all, prohibition is at all times a crime," he says. "In other words, prohibition has put crime and criminals into business. Profits to criminals through prohibition violations have made it possible for these organized gangs to bribe public officials and contribute to political campaign funds staggering sums of money for protection and favors after election.

"Politics is politics, and prohibition and politics will not mix. This is why I consider the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States a greater evil than the condition it was meant to remedy."

Charles M. Schwab gives an optimistic forecast on the economic situation. He says that fifty years of business life in this country has taught him that the trend must always be onward and upward.

"It is true," he adds, "that we are going to have periods of depression and bad business, but it will but accentuate the great prosperity as the natural condition of this country. The real prosperity must be a proper return to the farmer for his products. Industry has learned, thanks to the wisdom and foresight of Henry Ford, that real prosperity can come to the country only when its great mass of working people, constituting the greater part of the population, are prosperous in themselves."

Other Photoplays.

"Outward Bound," the motion picture version of the play by Sutton Vane, will be presented on Wednesday evening at the Warners' Hollywood Theatre. The cast includes Leslie Howard, Beryl Mercer, Dudley Digges, Helen Chandler, Alec B. Francis and Montagu Love.

Sokoloff to Give "Passion of Judas" at Cherry Lane in October.

"The Passion of Judas," a play by Ivan Sokoloff, is scheduled for presentation at the Cherry Lane Theatre in October by a company called Dramawrights, which Mr. Sokoloff is directing.

The play is described "a portrayal of the tribulations of Christ's favorite disciple and a revelation of the emotional crisis of the man who, seeking assuagement of a mortified conscience, hungers for the spiritual ultimate."

Mr. Sokoloff, a Little Theatre worker, plans to make five other productions at the Cherry Lane after "The Passion of Judas."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Three plays will open on Broadway tonight. They are "Insult," at the Forty-ninth Street Theatre; "The Rhapsody," at the Cort, and "With Privileges," at the Vanderbilt.

"The Love Boat," instead of "The Night Owl," is now the title of the musical comedy which George W. Lederer is producing. In the cast of the show, opening in Baltimore on Sept. 29, will be Lester Allen, Barbara Newberry, John Barker, Lytell and Fant, Mark Smith and Richard Keene.

Leo Bulgakov announces that the Bulgakov Theatre Associates, who made a production of Gorky's "The Lower Depths" under the title of "At the Bottom" last Winter, plan two productions during the coming season. The first is expected to be ready late next month.

The Erlanger offices have taken a long lease on the Ohio Theatre, Cleveland, from the Loew Circuit. Ollie Alger, formerly manager of Henry Miller's Theatre here, will be in charge of the house, which will begin its season on Oct. 13 with the Theatre Guild's "A Month in the Country."

A French production of "The Last Mile," under the management of Mouezy-eon, is planned for next month, according to Herman Shumlin, who is presenting the play here.

Joan Carr, English actress, has arrived here to play in Molnar's "One, Two, Three," opening at Henry Miller's Theatre on Sept. 29 with Arthur Byron in the leading rôle.

"Bad Girl," the dramatization of the novel, will be presented tonight at the Windsor Theatre in the Bronx. Sylvia Sidney and Paul Kelly will head the cast.

"Air Mail," a play about the air service, is announced for production by Henry Jay Cobbs, heretofore connected with vaudeville. The author of the play is not named.

"Young Sinners" will move tonight from the Shubert Theatre to the National.

The Ziegfeld show, "Smiles," in which Marilyn Miller and the Astaires will be co-starred, will finally go in rehearsal today.

ORDERS $25,000 IN OYSTERS

Long Island Farms' Purchase to Provide Jobs at Northport.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHPORT, L. I., Sept. 15.—Men engaged in the oyster business here, numbering more than fifty, were elated today when Captain James F. Seymour, manager of the Long Island Oyster Farms, announced that his company had placed an order with local dealers for from 10,000 to 20,000 bushels of oysters, having a retail value of from $25,000 to $50,000.

Captain Seymour said the Long Island Farms' oysters were not up to standard this year and that the order was necessary to complete some order his company had to fill in the New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Massachusetts markets. Oysters are plentiful along the Northport, Centreport and Duck Island shores, and the filling of this order will help those engaged in the shell-fishing business in this village.

Many of the men have been out of employment for more than six months and have felt the depression that has prevailed throughout the State.

TRUTH AND FREEDOM HELD GIFTS OF FAITH

CHRIST SEEN AS LIBERATOR

"Truth and freedom are the two cardinal things we demand of a religious faith," said the Rev. Dr. Donald B. Aldrich, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street, yesterday in his first sermon since his return from Europe, where he saw the Passion Play at Oberammergau. Positive and practical faith in Jesus should satisfy these needs and thus broaden our lives, he declared.

"We want above all else, whatever it may be, for religion to tell us what is true," Dr. Aldrich continued, "and because most of us are all bound up with stress and change of circumstances and binding habits, we know that there is much of which we would be freed.

"Now, what is this truth which religion has to give to us and which shall set us free? It is this—that God has done something for us; that power which is behind life and at the heart of it has given our planet Jesus. However much or little we may think about Him, whatever we may declare Him to be, this fact is indisputable. Something happened for which we are not responsible. We gave no gift to ourselves. God gave life to Jesus.

"Learn of the quality of Jesus's nature, the sheer beauty of it, and what happens? The quality of that life betters the quality of our lives in some intangible and invisible way. It makes us better, something beyond ourselves comes in. So fact is turned into truth. The fact that the historical person of Jesus's calibre of character lived suddenly becomes the truth about life. That is, for us—the truth about what we are and can be. Once we set ourselves within the reach, we want more of it, more life, the truth about life, of its contagion. And why? Because suddenly we find, as never before, we are free.

"No one of us could be loyal to a number of freedoms. We cannot be loyal to an unrestricted freedom of our bodies or our minds. The latter especially can run away with us. We have to limit the things we think and we say and we do if we are to have the freedom we desire. Paradoxical as it may seem, there is only one kind of freedom, that is a freedom that is linked to a loyalty, the relieving power of which many of you have seen. You have seen it living in the person of the Christus of Oberammergau."

BIBLE IS HELD UP TO DATE.

The World Cannot Outgrow It, Says the Rev. Will H. Houghton.

Getting rid of the Bible is like getting rid of the ocean, and "the attempts of men to destroy God's word are about as successful as Mrs. Partington's attempt to sweep back the waves with her broom," said the Rev. Will H. Houghton in his sermon yesterday before the Calvary Baptist Congregation worshiping in Pythian Temple, 135 West Seventieth Street.

"The Bible is still far ahead of the times," he said. "Some people seem to think the world has outgrown the Bible, but it still outsells all other books.

"The world will never outgrow the Bible, because it is God's revelation of himself. Without it, He is still unknown. Men call God 'Father.' Unless the Bible is His word He is a dumb Father. But God has spoken.

"The world will never outgrow the Bible because it is a universal book. It fits every age. It fits every man.

"There is not any difference between the man who a generation ago took several weeks to cross the ocean in a sailing ship and the man who just crossed it by plane or Zeppelin. The mode of transportation changed, but man is the same.

"The heart needs of our generation are the heart needs of every generation. And the Bible is the book of the heart. Because it is God's word and it meets man's needs, it will never be outgrown."

ASKS CHANCE FOR RELIGION

Rabbi Newman Says We Have Experimented With Everything Else.

Asserting that "indifference to religion is a menace to our national character," Rabbi Louis I. Newman in his discourse yesterday before the Congregation Rodeph Sholom, Eighty-third Street near Central Park West, declared yesterday that "the decline of religious interest in the American outlook within the last generation has been accompanied by grave decline in our national personality."

"In prosperity men have imagined themselves superior to the need for religious ministrations; in adversity, they have economized first in religious and philanthropic affairs," he said. "Religion should not be a sporadic, sensational concern, but a steady, continuously effective factor in the life of the whole family.

"Americans of today have experimented in everything except religion; it is time they gave religion an opportunity. The attitude of many young 'moderns' is expressed vividly by the remark heading a recent cartoon: 'Let's go to church for the devil of it.' When Americans go to religion for the good of it, rather than for the fun or the thrill of it, many of the evils to which our national life has made itself heir may vanish."

Houck Returns to Pilgrim Pulpit.

The opening Fall services of Pilgrim Congregational Church, Grand Concourse and 175th Street, the Bronx, were held yesterday, with the pastor, the Rev. John Walter Houck, who spent the Summer in South America, again in the pulpit. He said there is no greater justification for the existence of any Church than that it serves men, and that through its regular services, human beings find a realization of their deepest spiritual needs.

Mgr. Lavelle Warns Against Discontent; Holds Curb on Wants Brings Happiness

Discontent and worship of money bring worry and diminish the resources of happiness, leading thereby to certain wants which destroy the beauty of living, said Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, in his sermon at high mass there yesterday morning.

While the storms of life may rage, we must build our happiness on our resources and avoid making our lives miserable by unnecessary wants, said Mgr. Lavelle. "If we realize the beauty of confidence and contentment, our lives would be better fortified," he added.

Prescribing a formula for happiness, Mgr. Lavelle said: "Our happiness is equal to our resources divided by our wants. We must diminish our wants so as to increase our quotient." The sea of life gets more turbulent because people go beyond their grasp in their demands, he added.

Citing Pope's "Essay on Man," he called for not only self-confidence but also hard work and unflinching faith in God. "Work as though everything depended on yourself," he urged. "Pray as though everything depended on God alone."

Maintaining that discontent is not always undesirable, Mgr. Lavelle said that only the form of it that leads to the power of darkness by tearing down and making life unbearable must be shunned. Another kind, which is of the building-up sort, is derived for us from the power of the angels of light and "builds both life and the world," he added.

The duties and functions of life must not be neglected, he said. "We cannot go to sleep. We must till the soil and make it available."

The anniversary pontifical mass of requiem for Cardinal Farley will be held on Wednesday at 10 o'clock, he announced.

DR. MYERS SAYS BIBLE IS THE BASIS OF LAW

Without It There Can Be No Christianity and No Sane Humanity, He Declares.

CALLS IT BREATH OF GOD

California Preacher Asserts Here That It Contains More Wisdom Than Any Other Book.

The whole law of the civilized world is based on the Bible, declared the Rev. Dr. Cortland Myer of California in his sermon yesterday morning at the First Baptist Church, Broadway and Seventy-ninth Street.

"There can be no Christianity," he said, "without the Bible." You can have no Christ as a Saviour without knowledge of the Bible. You can have no saneful humanity without the Bible. From the first book of Genesis to Revelation, God breathes. The declaration of all the Scriptures is given by inspiration and that means God breathes into man.

"Lord Bacon, undoubtedly one of the greatest intellectuals of his age, lifted the Bible above his head and said it is the word of God. No other book compares with its wisdom. All other books have received their wisdom from the Bible. The Bible begins by saying, 'In the beginning God created the heavens and earth.' Only God can say that. No science has ever printed any such word about the revelation. Every line of the Bible has been fulfilled throughout the ages.

"Certain people are determined that the boys and girls shall not know this book. And yet the greatest morals, ethics, poetry are to be found in the Bible. The worst calamity that has come to American life is that the Bible has not been read in public schools. It will be a day of real value when the book is put into schools. It will educate our future citizens."

DR. STEIMLE LAYS GRAFT TO SELFISHNESS

Declares Corraption in Public Life Will Not Pass Till People Undergo a Change of Heart.

The sin of selfishness, run rampant among the people as a whole, is the main reason for the grafting politicians and corrupt judges whose misdeeds are being exposed, the Rev. Dr. Augustus Steimle declared yesterday in a sermon at the Lutheran Church of the Advent, Broadway and Ninety-third Street.

Dr. Steimle warned that no reforms in the machinery of government would alleviate the evils unless the people purged their own hearts of selfishness and greed. The desperate struggle to keep up with one's neighbor and the disastrous plunging in the stock market are some indications of the selfishness of the electorate which makes possible the corruption of its officials, he said.

"No matter what changes are made in the machinery of government, whether magistrates are appointed or elected, it will not remedy the situation," he asserted. "It is not such defects that cause these things. Don't look askance at those caught in an exposé, but look in your own heart.

"It is selfishness that makes a man buy a big sedan when his neighbor buys a small machine, that makes people speculate in the stock market. We have seen that even the stock market may go wrong. I don't mean that it is not right to ride in automobiles or to buy stocks; rather it is the attempt to speedily possess these things that make sin, that make selfishness. And there is not one of us altogether free of it."

Flynn Reports That Much in Unclaimed Deposits in State.

ALBANY, Sept. 14 (AP).—About $1,000,000 is in New York State banks without assignment to depositors whose addresses are known and awaiting rightful claimants, according to Secretary of State Edward Flynn, who tonight finished studying bank deposit figures in the current issue of The New York tSate Bulletin. The lists of unclaimed accounts are published each Fall and they lengthen yearly.

The financially absent-minded are not all individuals. The list contains names of social clubs, boards of trade, a Horsemen's Protective Association, the Metropolitan Concert Company and several civic leagues. The last known place of residence of the depositors dot the globe; they live, or did live, in Morocco, England, Italy and other distant lands.

DR. RUSSELL DECRIES SCOFFING AT CHURCH

Second Presbyterian Pastor Urges All to Aid Work for Kingdom of God.

SEES ENTHUSIASM NEEDED

He Says Prayer Has Become Almost an Unknown Responsibility to Many Persons.

As in the time of Nehemiah when idle persons stood around and jeered the efforts of the rebuilders of the walls of Jerusalem, so there are those today who laugh at the work of those seeking to build up the kingdom of God, the Rev. George J. Russell, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, Central Park West and Ninety-sixth Street, told his congregation yesterday morning.

In beginning the work of a new year, Mr. Russell asked the members of his Church to bear with him the responsibility of building zeal and enthusiasm.

"There are those who do not wish to see the Church prosper," Mr. Russell declared. "Because some people will not do their part, others must do twice theirs. After all, the history of any organization is merely a composite of the histories of the various individuals within the group."

The pastor declared that some times we lose sight of individuality and personal responsibility. The person who does his part in building the power of his Church must feel a certain amount of personal responsibility, Mr. Russell said.

He declared that praying has almost become an unknown responsibility to a great many persons. As the men in an army must go to their superior for instructions, so every individual must go to God. Together with a sense of personal responsibility, a practice of praying, wholehearted cooperation of all members must be had in building the power of a Church, Mr. Russell concluded.

SAYS GOD REMEMBERS ALL.

Dean Gates Asserts Creator Has Given Hope to Mankind.

"God the great Creator is also the great Rememberer, for He gave Hope to all mankind when He answered the prayer of the thief on the cross, 'O God, remember me!'" said the Very Rev. Dr. Milo H. Gates, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, preaching to the congregation at the morning service yesterday after returning from a Summer tour of New England churches. In a preface to his sermon on "The God of Hope," Dr. Gates said that he had occupied pulpits in eleven different churches in the past Summer, but none proved so attractive to him as that of the cathedral.

Pointing to the fact that even mortals remember all their own creations, Dr. Gates said that he was talking with one of Thomas Alva Edison's assistants this Summer, who told him that Mr. Edison apparently remembers every one of his inventions, just as Luther Burbank remembered minute details of the discovery of 1,302 different species of plant life.

"We all remember the things that we create just as God remembers each of us," said Dr. Gates. "Being forgotten is the saddest of all things, but when God left us Hope, He proved that He remembered us all."

CHURCH PAINTING UNVEILED

Judge Schmuck Speaks at Services in Strangers' Edifice.

The unveiling of a painting of the Ascension of Christ marked the services yesterday at the Church of the Strangers, 309 West Fifty-seventh Street. Following a sermon by the Rev. Dr. Paul Mansfield Spencer on the significance of the Ascension in the Church's creed, Judge Peter Schmuck of the Supreme Court and chairman of the board of trustees of the church delivered a short speech eulogizing the artist, Vadim Chernoff, and expressing his "personal gratification at the consecration of a high ideal, marking the beginning of a new life for the Church of the Strangers."

"This unveiling marks the completion also of an edifice which may seem to some a strange departure in ecclesiastical construction," the judge said, indicating the almost residential design of the interior, with only two plaques on either side of the altar as religious symbols. "This church, however, brings to you the realization of the omnipotence and the glory of God."

"The Church of the Strangers does not sympathize with the modern trend to humanize religion," Dr. Spencer said in his sermon. "The strict conception of the Ascension is not a modern one. Understanding of it does not come through theology but through understanding of the work religion must accomplish, and it is a truism that many churches of today are losing their real grasp of religion, with the result that the world as a whole is losing the truly religious attitude of past times."

ST. LUKE'S OBSERVES 80TH ANNIVERSARY

TIMES SQUARE THEN SUBURB

Dr. Koepchen Reviews Growth of Congregation and Its Service to Thousands in City.

A description of what is now Times Square and its environs when that whole section consisted of truck gardens was included by the Rev. Dr. William Koepchen, the pastor, in a discourse yesterday morning in St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Forty-sixth Street, west of Eighth Avenue, in celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the church. Until seven years ago the church was in Forty-second Street.

"Eighty years have passed since, in this 'suburb' known as Bloomingdale, the gospel was first proclaimed in St. Luke's Church," said Dr. Koepchen, who has completed thirty years as the pastor, during which he built the present Gothic church.

"Many churches and other organizations which were here in the early days have moved away or gone out of existence forever, but that little band of original gardeners who made their living by tending the truck gardens which then occupied this whole section has grown and grown until St. Luke's Church is now known the civilized world over and its members are in society. God has been with us through these eighty years. The gardeners who started the parish were insignificant people in the community, but they have grown to wealth and prominence.

"We must thank God after these eighty years that we have what we have and that we can worship in this beautiful building, which is an ornament to the city. The thousands who have worshiped in St. Luke's know what they believe, and they believe in the Scriptures. In these eighty years more than 22,135 children have been baptized in our midst. And our records, which are intact, further show that more than 6,000 have been confirmed at the altar of St. Luke's. And thousands have been led to Christian burial.

"For the last years St. Luke's has been one of the most liberal Lutheran churches in the country in its contributions to hospitals, old people's homes and missions of the Lutheran communion."

Dr. Koepchen read a letter of congratulation from the Rev. Arthur Brunn, president of the Atlantic district of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and Other States, with which St. Luke's is affiliated.

"It is indeed a rare privilege which you have enjoyed during these many years of sound Lutheran preaching by consecrated pastors," wrote Dr. Brunn. "Being placed in the midst of the teeming mass of humanity, you have had many opportunities to lift high the cross of your Redeemer and to be a light unto many who otherwise would have stumbled in the darkness of sin and death.

"Particularly do I rejoice that you have so generously contributed in many ways to the work of our Lutheran Church at large, both in respect to our many benevolent institutions as well as in respect to the work of the synod."

Dr. Koepchen also read a telegram of felicitation from St. Luke's Church in Elizabeth, N. J., a daughter of the Manhattan congregation, signed by the Rev. Henry L. Koepchen, pastor of the Elizabeth flock, who is a son of Dr. Koepchen.

DECRIES A FORCED FAITH.

Rev. S. M. Shoemaker Says Will Power Is Not Asked for by Religion.

The heart of Christianity is relationship with God, not ethics—they follow, said the Rev. Samuel M. Shoemaker Jr., in his sermon yesterday on "Our Need of Christ's Cross," in Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street.

"The Cross is the cure for overemphasis upon human effort in religion," said Mr. Shoemaker. "It would be a sorry case if we could do nothing to forward the work of God in our lives. But it yet remains true that the very chief danger of the religion of our day is that our our Christianity be only a creation of our own making, a disguised humanism, with a thin veneer of Christian sentiment on the outside. There is a widespread notion that to be a Christian means using your willpower to live up to the ideals of Christ. Nothing is further from the truth. The heart of the Christian Gospel is not a human effort after moral self-improvement; it is the love of God in the Cross of Christ asking for response, and meeting that response with more grace given through the Holy Spirit. The heart of Christianity is relationship with God, not ethics—they follow."

MAN'S POWER GAUGED BY HIS FAITH IN SPIRIT

Dr. Freas Says Human Agencies Alone Cannot Equip Him to Complete Life's Tasks.

Not by the human agencies of might and power but by the spirit of the Holy Ghost in man's body will he complete the task that God has set for him, declared the Rev. Dr. William Freas, executive secretary of the Inner Mission Board of the United Lutheran Church in America, in his sermon yesterday morning at the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 3 West Sixty-fifth Street.

"In this day when bigness is identified with greatness and small things are despised, much spiritual work of great value is being neglected," Dr. Freas said. "But despite our puny material resources, if we let the Holy Spirit flow through our lives, our tremendous spiritual powers would bring to a glorious fruition the divine purpose of Christ."

Dr. Freas also described the fifth vision of Zechariah and declared that the seven-branched candlestick continually burning without having its fuel replenished symbolized the never-failing, continuous glow of spiritual power.

Counsels Men Not to Make Decisions When Despondent

One ought never to make an important decision when he is in the blues, a condition which vitiates man's reasoning as does drink, said the Rev. Thomas H. Whelpley in his sermon yesterday in the Chelsea Presbyterian Church, 214 West Twenty-third Street.

"We are not always competent to tell the difference between success and failure even under the best of circumstances," he said. "There are some seeming successes that in reality are failures and there are some of the supreme failures that have turned out to be most glorious successes.

"God never fails, and the man who walks with him will never be a failure. You may not realize many of your great hopes in life. You may not be adjudged a great success. But by keeping in constant touch with the Most High you will not have walked in vain."

JUDGE REIT ASSAILS THEATRE SERVICES

URGES REVERENT WORSHIP

Judge Hyman J. Reit, president of the New York branch of the United Synagogue of America, addressed a statement to the Jewry of the city yesterday, warning that the true observance of the coming high holy days necessitates attendance at a real synagogue, organized and maintained for Jewish religious and educational purposes. He urged Jews to keep away from what he termed "mushroom" synagogues and places of worship set up by private individuals for their own gain.

"The high holy days have been set aside by divine command for the intensification of Jewish religious life," Judge Reit declared. "To permit them to pass by without utilizing their inspirational value is to waste the holiness of their spirit. Unfortunately, unthinking and unreasoning men and women, by attending services conducted by men for personal gain, not only fail to revitalize their own religious feeling but strike a death blow against the welfare of congregations established for the purpose of maintaining a healthy religious life for young and old.

"These mushroom services conducted in halls and theatres for the sole purpose of adding to the income of men who do not contribute anything to the enrichment of Jewish life are a caricature of the noblest institution that the Jew has created—the synagogue. It were a pity if any Jew or Jewess lent strength to such selfish and greedy undertakings.

"The synagogues constituting the New York branch of the United Synagogue alone have been built at the combined cost of approximately $20,000,000. They spend annually more than $2,000,000 for the strengthening of Jewish life, providing religious education of Jewish children, adolescents and young people. Compare the fine religious atmosphere of such institutions with the drab, crass associations of the halls and theatrical auditoriums. I am not against the theatre, but I believe that services should be conducted in buildings dedicated for the purpose."

In Farewell Sermon He Urges St. Clement's to Stay in 46th Street Location.

The Rev. Thomas A. Sparks, rector for the past ten years at St. Clement's Protestant Episcopal Church, 423 West Forty-sixth Street, in his farewell sermon there yesterday said that a Church should conform to conditions around it and do God's work in its own neighborhood.

The Church should not appeal to class, color or race, but should minister to all God's children, he asserted. Increased activity from year to year, he said, had marked the ten years of his ministry there, and he expressed the hope that St. Clement's might always remain in its present neighborhood.

"Various critics prophesy from time to time that the Church will finally die," the pastor declared. "There is nothing strange in this. We have had these schools of thought down the ages saying that the Bible would be forgotten, church buildings turned into museums and teachers of the gospel put to some useful work. Yet the Church has gone forward.

"A Church must always conform to the conditions which she finds and do her Lord and Master's work where she is located. The Church must not appeal to class, color or race, but to all. I hope St. Clement's will always be in this neighborhood. It need not be forced out. Resources are such that it can stay here. The Church does not desert a neighborhood because in the opinion of some that neighborhood has become less desirable.

"I have tried to be a good steward. A minister does not minister to please himself, but God; and so I have tried to minister. I don't mind if you say to the next rector that Father Sparks did not do this or that thing. I do ask, however, that you don't do the converse and say, 'You don't do as Father Sparks did.' Give him the trust and confidence you have given me."

The Rev. Mr. Sparks has accepted a call to the Church of the Good Shepherd in Rosemont, Pa.

SOCKMAN PREDICTS NEW RELIGIOUS ERA

Hard Times and Disaster, He Declares, Turn Men to Spiritual Life.

CITES RECORDS OF CHURCH

Membership Gains Noted in Business Slumps, He Says in First Sermon Since His Vacation.

An increased religious interest as the result of the business depression and the recent disasters of nature, such as the drought and hurricanes, was forecast yesterday in his sermon by the Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman in the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church at Sixtieth Street. The sermon marked Dr. Sockman's return to his pulpit from his vacation.

It might seem that when life moves along smoothly and unbrokenly the belief of men in a beneficent God would be strongest," he said. "But not so. It is the eras of hardship and discomfort which turn men's thoughts to the questions of destiny and the total result for a reaffirmation of religious belief. This is reflected in church statistics, which in the past have shown gains in so-called 'hard times.' Further evidence is seen in the fact that book sales at such times indicate an increase of serious reading.

"Cynics may say that this turning to religion in times of calamity or reverses is merely man's childish way of seeking compensation for his troubles. When the conditions of this world lose some of their attractiveness, then he thinks of the felicity in a future sphere. There may be some of this in man's thinking, of course, but it is too superficial an explanation. The deeper reason for the reawakened religious interest in times of disaster is that men are reminded afresh of unpredictable and uncontrolable elements of life. They discover anew that the calculations of science and the plans of men are, after all, but ships traversing a sea of mystery.

"The re-emphasis of the mysteriousness of life helps to refute the popular mechanistic theories of the universe. The smug little interpretations of man as a cog in a vast universal machine are shattered by the sudden and inexplicable changes of circumstances. Ours is a world of unpredictable hurricanes and earthquakes, of unexplained droughts which destroy man's food. But the recognition that life is a mystery does not imply that it is a muddle. The more deeply we look into human nature, the more we see that the seeming maladjustments of the universe to man show its fitness for his nature."

HONORS RECTOR'S MEMORY

St. Simeon's Episcopal Church Holds Service for Late Rev. R. J. Walker.

The Rev. Frank R. Jones conducted memorial services yesterday at St. Simeon's Protestant Episcopal Church, 165th Street and Sheridan Avenue, the Bronx, for the late Rev. Ralph Jervis Walker, who died on Sept. 8 in Maine. Mr. Walker was the founder and rector of St. Simeon's Church.

"'I am the resurrection and the life, saith the Lord,'" Mr. Jones quoted. "'He that dwelleth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live, and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die.'"

"There can be no topic but the resurrection," he said. "We know not where, or when, or how that resurrection is, but we know that it is. Into this temple Ralph Jervis Walker put a great deal of his physical substance. He conceived this to be a place of worship, of meditation, calm and inspiration. Other men may produce works of art, but the man who, in magnificent altruism, builds a church for the people that they may worship is the man whom we revere."

FOR NEW SOCIAL ORDER.

Rev. R. J. Clinchy Calls Present System a "Law of the Jungle."

Religion must set its face to the task of changing our social system so as to make truly possible the application of Christian principles in everyday life, the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy told his congregation in the Broadway Tabernacle Congregational Church, Broadway and Fifty-sixth Street, yesterday.

Characterizing the existing social system as based upon the law of the jungle, upon the principle of survival of the strongest, the Rev. Mr. Clinchy declared that as long as present social and economic conditions prevail it will be impossible to translate the ideals and ethics of Christianity into practical reality.

"We have evolved a brotherhood in the small family circle where the strong shares with the weak and the young are protected," he said. 'But outside of that group we must engage in competitive battle with men who should be treated as brothers, and we must seek to destroy their business in order to bring profit to ourselves. We obtain our happiness and security at the expense of our brothers.

"Religion must set its face to the task of changing the system of our social order from those of the jungle into those of intelligent good-will and humanitarian considerations, or as religion terms it, a world of brotherhood. This is the task not for our religion but for all men who believe that mankind was intended for brotherly relations. All religions should unite upon this task and call all men of good-will as partners and aids in the task."

Calls Christ Religion's Epitome.

The intangible influence of the spirit of Christ is the very essence of religion, the Rev. Dr. Raymond L. Forman said in his sermon yesterday morning in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, West End Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street. Taking for his text the phrase, "And Jesus Passed By," Dr. Forman said that all true and sincere religious experience was summed up in these words.

ELLIOTT HERO ON MOUND

Holds Cincinnati Scoreless After Thurston Yields Three Runs in Opening Inning.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

With the most wildly enthusiastic crowd of the season, numbering nearly 30,000 and jamming every inch of seating and standing room at Ebbets Field, cheering them on, the Robins yesterday came from behind to beat the Reds, 8 to 3, for their third straight over Cincinnati and their tenth consecutive triumph in their high-powered pennant dash.

Brooklyn went into first place in the National League race by half a game by virtue of the Boston Braves' victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game of a double-header at Boston. Yesterday's defeat was the tenth in succession for the Reds.

Hollis Thurston started for the Robins, but promptly spotted the visitors three runs in the first inning and had to be rescued by Jumbo Jim Elliott. The big southpaw's work was highly effective, as he scattered only six hits throughout the remaining innings, in addition to stopping the Reds completely after replacing Thurston in the first frame.

Singles by Walker, Stripp and Cuccinello, with an intervening force play on Crawford and Harry Heilmann's double, accounted for all the Red tallies and drove Thurston from the mound.

Moore Bunts Perfectly.

But in the opening home half the Robins regained two of the runs off Eppa Rixey on a perfect bunt by Eddie Moore, a pass to Gilbert, Herman's double and an infield out, and in the third they almost drove Rixey to the showers and soared into a commanding lead by accumulating four more tallies.

Only two hits, an opening double by Moore and Gilbert's scoring single, were made in this frame, but Rixey walked both Herman and Bissonette and a disastrous error by Stripp on Hendrick's bounder let in two more runs. The fourth was brought home by Bissonette on Mickey Finn's short sacrifice fly to Bob Meusel in centre.

Lopez sent Rixey to the clubhouse with his opening single in the fourth, and Ray Kolp, loser of the first game, relieved him. Kolp was helped out of trouble by the first of five double plays turned in by the Reds.

The second twin killing in the next frame came too late, however, as Gilbert, Herman and Wright blazed out successive singles to count one run and Herman scored while Bissonette was hitting into the double play.

Fine Catch by Hendrick.

Harvey Hendrick, playing left field at the time, came up with a fine catch that prevented Red scoring in the third, and an unusual double play resulted. With Stripp on first following his single, Cuccinello slapped a terrific drive toward the left-field seats far to Hendrick's left. Stripp started with the ball and put his foot on second as Hendrick raced for the ball near the barrier.

The Red first baseman, already back off the bag as he saw Hendrick would get the ball, scampered back to first, but was called out when Wright took Hendrick's throw and relayed it to Bissonette. Stripp, of course, had failed to retouch second on his return trip.

Elliott, who registered his tenth triumph of the year, never was in serious difficulties and breezed through to the end.

Luque Likely to Pitch.

Señor Adolfo Luque, victor in his last three starts, may pitch the final game today against his old teammates unless Wilbert Robinson decides to hold the Cuban for the series with the Cards, in which case Ray Moss will finish with the Reds.

Eddie Moore, starting the game in Frederick's place in centre, had to leave after racing around the bases in the third. He aggravated the old injury to his leg, suffered recently in Philadelphia. Hendrick again went to centre and Boone to left.

Johnny Frederick's return to the line-up before the end of the important series with the Cards is uncertain. Dr. Fred Hart, club trainer, working diligently on the pulled muscle in Frederick's right thigh, said he couldn't tell how soon Johnny would be able to play. With Moore also out, a heavy responsibility is placed upon Hendrick and Boone.

Keeps 11 Hits Scattered While Douthit, Blades Aid With Homers —Richbourg Also Connects.

BOSTON, Sept. 14 (AP).—The Braves pushed the Cardinals from first place today by splitting a double-header with them while the Robins were winning. A crowd of 30,000 fans watched St. Louis win the first game, 9 to 2, and Boston take the second, 7 to 4, in a game limited to eight innings by the Sunday baseball law.

Grimes made Boston's eleven hits ineffective in the opener while his mates were bombarding Brandt and Frankhouse. Douthit and Blades each hit home runs, while Mancuso hit a double, a triple and a single.

Ben Cantwell pitched steady ball for the Braves in the second game and held the lead which the Braves piled up for him in the first three innings off Johnson, whom they nicked for six of their seven runs. Richbourg's home run with Neun and Maranville on base gave Boston three runs in the first inning.

GIANTS LOSE TWICE BEFORE 45,000 FANS

Succumb to Pirates, 8-6, in 10 Innings and 7-3 in 7 Frames, Darkness Ending Game.

TERRY DRIVES HOME RUN

Four-Bagger Fails to Help Mates in Nightcap—McGrawmen Overcome Six-Run Lead in the Opener.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Surrounded by 45,000 onlookers who seemed strangely eager to be convinced, the Giants removed themselves still further from where the National League pennant race is raging fiercest by deftly dropping both ends of a double-header to the Pirates at the Polo Grounds yesterday.

They lost the first one in ten innings, 8 to 6, after having gone to all the trouble of making an energetic uphill climb to tie the score, and then, with scarcely any effort at all, tossed off the second engagement, 7 to 3.

Only seven innings were played in the nightcap, which appeared to be altogether sufficient, for when the umpires called the game on account of darkness most of the crowd already had taken itself elsewhere, while the Giants seemed too bewildered to comprehend what was going on.

Somewhat resigned to their fate after their luckless efforts in the first game, the McGrawmen went under completely in the second affair and contrived ot get exactly four hits off the combined pitching of two left-handers, Charlie Wood and Larry French.

Wood Hit on Elbow.

The only reason it took two left-handers to beat the Giants was the fact that an inaccurate pitch by their southpaw, Willie Walker, had cracked Wood on the elbow in the fifth, and this brought about the young man's retirement in the sixth after Bill Terry had pumped him for a homer.

But by that time the game already had been lost beyond repair by Walker himself, who fell two runs in arrears in the third on three singles, dropped another in the fourth when Traynor tapped him for a homer and went down for three more in the fifth when a misplay by Terry plunged him into more difficulties.

The opener provided the great gathering with another one of the painful exhibitions in which the Giants rallied magnificently to overcome a six-run lead and then allowed their attention to become diverted by other matters while the Pirates slipped two runs over the plate to capture the game in the tenth.

The first six Pirate tallies came across all in a lump in the fourth, when the Buccaneers routed Clarence Mitchell with a five-hit barrage and Bool greeted Hub Pruett, Mitchell's immediate successor, with a homer.

Giants Score Four Runs.

But this substantial margin Ray Kremer, who was seeking his twentieth victory of the season, found impossible to hold because the Giants seldom lose games so easily. In the seventh the McGrawmen scored four runs on singles by Ott and O'Farrell, a triple by Roettger, Traynor's misplay and Leach's single, and in the eighth the few remaining straw hats of the season sailed out on the field when the Giants tied the score on a double by Jackson.

This finished Kremer, but it also marked the end of the Giants activities, for Spencer became the Pirate pitcher, and this young man not only quickly silenced the New York bats, but pushed the first Pittsburgh tally across in the tenth with a single. A one-base thump by Comorosky drove in the other.

ROCHESTER TRIUMPHS TO CLINCH PENNANT

Beats Montreal, 7-6, to Settle International League Race, Then Loses, 6 to 4.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 14 (AP).—Rochester clinched the International League pennant today by winning the first half of a double-header from Montreal, 7 to 6. The contest marked the 103d victory of the year, more than Baltimore can turn in if the Orioles triumph in all of their remaining starts, while Rochester loses the rest of its games.

Ray Pepper's single in the ninth scored Joe Brown from third base for the final tally after George Grant had worked out of several bad holes. He allowed fifteen hits, while the victors made only nine. Rochester bunched its blows, however, to better effect. Montreal took the second game, 6 to 4, in seven innings.

The victory marks Rochester's third straight pennant in the International League.

Announcement was made that the attendance of 13,000 today enabled Rochester to pass Baltimore's mark of 315,000 for a total season attendance. Rochester has two more games and expects to pass the 325,000 mark for the year.

RUFFING, YANKEES, TAMES THE TIGERS

Hurls 10 to 3 Victory and Helps Own Cause by Batting in Four Runs.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.
Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Sept. 14.—Charlie Ruffing, ace of the Yankees' staff, threw himself into his work with such zest today that the Yanks, after losing their first three games here and stretching their losing streak to four straight, won, 10 to 3, with no trouble at all.

Ruffing, to the grief of 22,000 fans, whose appetites had been whetted by the three Tiger victories over the Yanks, gave only seven hits. But that was only half of his performance. He tripled with two on bases his first time up and slapped a pair of doubles in the fourth and fifth, driving home four runs altogether and twice personally carrying a run across the plate.

Whitehill Is Batted Hard.

Sam Byrd, with a homer over the left-field wall and a double and a single besides, was the second best hitter of the day, but the Yanks collectively hammered Whitehill for nine hard hits before Ruffing's two-bagger knocked Jorgens home and Whitehill out of the box with none out in the fourth.

Lazzeri's double began the profitable second inning, which yielded the Yanks enough runs to win. Ruffing's triple to the end of centre field climaxed the flurry, with a Texas Leaguer double by Combs to send Ruffing home.

Byrd's homer came in the seventh with the bases empty and Sullivan pitching. In the eighth Gehrig hammered home two runs with a double over third.

Lary, Injured, Out of Game.

The Yanks are picking up a plump casualty list this trip. Pennock and Henry Johnson have foot injuries which have incapacitated them temporarily. Today Lary bruised a thumb and had to retire.

Byrd has been a decided success at bat in Detroit. He has been up seven times, has hit two homers, one double and two singles and has drawn two bases on balls.

Arndt Jorgens, stocky catcher, who spent most of this season with Jersey City, handled Ruffing's shoots today and clouted a double and single.

Robins to Accept Requests Tomorrow for World Series

Coincident with the arrival of the Cardinals at Ebbets Field tomorrow for the vital series with the Robins, Brooklyn club officials will begin accepting applications for world's series tickets, it was announced yesterday. This is not because of undue optimism, but the action is taken "as directed by the commissioner of baseball," the announcement reads.

Prices will be $19.80 for a set of three box seats and $16.50 for a set of three grand stand seats. All applications must be made for three games and no applicant will receive more than two sets of tickets.

NEWARK WINS TWO FROM JERSEY CITY

MOORE POUNDED IN OPENER

Bears Also Gain Through Losers' Errors—Zitzmann's Catch in 9th Saves Nightcap.

The Newark Bears began their farewell appearance in Newark yesterday by taking a double-header from Jersey City. They won the first, 6 to 1, and the second, which went nine innings, 4 to 3.

In the opening game the Bears pounded the offerings of Cy Moore and took advantage of the misplays of Jersey City.

The nightcap was a thriller. Jersey City scored three runs in the first. The Bruins tied the game in the sixth with two. In the ninth, with one out, Stevens doubled and Catcher Benny April brought him home with a double. Zitzmann saved the game by a great running catch which robbed Selkirk of a triple.

KASHDAN IN A TIE FOR LEAD AT CHESS

SAEMISCH WINS HIS MATCH

FRANKFORT, Germany, Sept. 14.—A tie for first place between I. Kashdan, champion of the Manhattan Chess Club of New York, and Aron Nimzowitsch of Copenhagen in the international masters' tournament at the Anderssen Chess Club resulted from the nine games decided today. Each of the leaders has scored 6½ points out of 8.

Kashdan, who remains undefeated, won his adjourned game with Mieses of Leipzig after 78 moves, and also finished his game with Pirc of Yugoslavia from the third round, which resulted in a draw after 59 moves. On top of that the New Yorker sat down with Karl Ahues of Berlin for the regularly scheduled game of the eighth round. Kashdan had the white side of a Ruy Lopez and drew an ending with knights and pawns on the board after 33 moves.

Nimzowitsch, in addition to scoring his game with Pirc, adjourned from the seventh round, defeated Mieses in the eighth. These two points enabled the Danish representative to come up level with Kashdan.

Saemisch of Germany won from Dr. Mannheimer, Germany, in the eighth round. The games between Orbach, Germany, and List, Germany, between Sir George Thomas, England, and Colle, Belgium, and between Pirc and Przepiorka, Poland, remained unfinished. Pirc lost his sixth round game to List. Drawn games were also recorded in the seventh round between Saemisch and Orbach and List and Przepiorka.

LIPTON IS HOPEFUL OF VICTORY TODAY

TAKES STROLL IN NEWPORT

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 14.—Quite a different spirit was in evidence today on board the steam yacht Erin, flagship of Sir Thomas Lipton's little flotilla at anchor in Newport Harbor, than was so apparent after the finish of the first contest for the America's Cup yesterday.

Disappointment was the natural corollary of the defeat of Shamrock V. Doubt as to the outcome of the remaining clashes was to be expected. These had come at the end of a day of disappointments as to weather, wind and fog and at a time when every one was weary with the uncertainties of the whole affair and with nerves not a little frayed.

Today it is different. Fog and low-hanging clouds concentrated into a downpour which lasted a good part of the night, but by noon the sun was shining with almost Summer warmth in a sky lightly flecked by fleecy clouds, a lazy breeze blowing in from the South that held much of promise for tomorrow's contest over a triangular course.

Improvement in the weather was reflected in the spirits of supporters of Shamrock V., in none more than Sir Thomas himself. Shamrock's owner, despite the long day on Erin's deck and bridge, was never more chipper than when he appeared early on deck this morning. He had stood remarkably the strain of entertaining a large company and of going through a close contest which had ended in the defeat of the ship he has so fondly hoped would crown his yachting career with its most desired victory.

Goes Over the Details.

Sir Thomas, however, had had an opportunity to confer with Designer Charles E. Nicholson and Captain Ted Heard and go over the details of the first contest—details which were not possible to note by those aboard the Erin, which held positions in the spectator fleet on both legs of the course that were anything but favorable.

Sir Thomas was particularly interested in what happened at the start and today expressed the opinion that under the conditions Shamrock's showing was better than generally conceded. She was defeated over the full course of thirty miles by less than 3 minutes. When it is taken into consideration that Shamrock lost considerable time to Enterprise at the start, it is readily understandable that there was not a great deal of difference between the two yachts on the day. The Shamrock folk expressed the opinion that a different start will make a different race of it tomorrow.

With this in mind, Sir Thomas was decidedly hopeful today of the result of the triangular course contest. His enthusiasm was contagious and was communicated to Shamrock's followers aboard the Erin, the challenger and her tender. Sir Thomas not only was up early but was afloat as well. He came ashore, which he seldom does, at 9:30 o'clock, to bid adieu to Mr. and Mrs. Willard U. Taylor of New York, who had been his guests and were departing on a motor trip to Cape Cod in Massachusetts, after having viewed the first race from the Erin.

Before returning to the Erin Sir Thomas took a short walk about Newport, this being curtailed in order that he might be back aboard for lunch and prepare to receive a large company of guests. Among the first of his callers was Captain Corson of the Heliotrope, which is the official representative of the Royal Navy at the America's Cup races.

Pleasure Craft Circle Harbor.

The morning otherwise was most quiet aboard the Erin. The big yacht swung idly at her moorings, the cynosure of the eyes of great numbers of pleasure-seekers in small craft which circled the harbor all day, hoping to get a glimpse of Sir Thomas. They also had a look at the Green Cup yacht, anchored only a short distance in shore.

This afternoon and evening Sir Thomas entertained a considerable company of friends, many from the Middle West, notably Omaha. It was there that he established one of his first industries in this country and nothing delights him more than to receive old friends of times when he had no title to his name and little cash in his pockets. Therefore he was in his most jovial mood when he greeted them at the gangway, anticipating the delights of recalling old days and ways, which have changed so astonishingly since he first came to the United States as a poor boy.

One problem has become continuous on the Erin and that is the never ending stream of letters, telegrams and cablegrams that keep piling in from all parts of the globe. Notwithstanding that it was Sunday, another big batch was delivered today, to be dumped on top of the pile received Saturday evening after Erin came back from the race.

These are still messages of good luck for the first race—eleventh hour words of encouragement that had been delayed in transit. Most of them are still unopened.

Erin's launches will take aboard another large company of guests for the second race tomorrow morning, the last of the guests to leave the New York Yacht Club dock at 8:45 o'clock.

BETTING ODDS UNCHANGED.

Still 3 to 1 on Enterprise for Today —5 to 1 for Series.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 14.—There was very little betting today on the second race for the America's Cup, so far as could be learned. The clubs were almost deserted this afternoon, every one taking advantage of the Summer-like weather to get out of doors.

The general opinion is that there should be no change from the quotations after the first race of 3 to 1 on Enterprise for tomorrow's race and 5 to 1 for the series. Many of those who like to wager believe that it will be four straight for Enterprise.

MANY VISIT FLEET IN NEWPORT HARBOR

EXCURSION BOAT GROUNDS

Runs Onto Sandbars, but Is Released Quickly—Hard Task Confronts Coast Guard Today.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 14.—This was visitors' day in Newport. In and out of its busy harbor, filled with the hundreds of motor and sailing craft gathered here for the America's Cup Races, streaked boats with guests taking advantage of the warm afternoon sunshine.

In the harbor itself, the tall masts of the schooners and sloops topped with burgees and house-flags stood out in the sun as a breeze whipped their pennants.

Countless launches plowed back and forth carrying visitors from the New York Yacht Club wharf to the anchored craft. Practically every motor boat in the harbor that was for hire was rented by its owner at least once during the day, and out-of-town visitors were bundled in and went off on a tour of inspection, not only of the cup yachts but of the fleet that remained idle, waiting for another ocean trip tomorrow.

Rescue Soon Accomplished.

A small excursion boat ran aground on the sand bars off Groats Island late in the afternoon. It carried a party of sightseers, but the rescue was soon accomplished when a tug pulled the boat off.

The spectator fleet and the challenger and defender were viewed by hundreds of others from shore. All day a steady automobile procession, with only a few feet separating the cars, wended its way down Thames Street, carrying visitors from neighboring towns out on Ocean Drive to view the boats in Brenton Cove.

Additional sightseers came by way of the Jamestown Ferry, and officials stated the traffic over the route was heavier than on other Sundays, while still others walked to the edge of the wharfs and with a pair of binoculars surveyed the ship-filled harbor.

Weather conditions will play a major part in determining the size of the spectator fleet tomorrow, for a great many smaller craft undoubtedly will join the armada, if there is none of yesterday's threatening fog.

Coast Guard Officers Meet.

Officers of the Coast Guard met aboard Captain W. H. Munter's flagship Mendota this morning to discuss the duties of the fleet which will patrol the spectator craft tomorrow. The Coast Guard expects a greater task, inasmuch as the race will be over a triangular course.

They will have the same forty ships in the convoy, but inasmuch as the cup yachts will be off on different tacks and spread over a wider course, the manoeuvres of the patrol will consequently follow the movements of the yachts, as compared to the more or less parallel cordon they formed in the leeward-windward course of yesterday's race.

A telegram of congratulations was forwarded from the New York Yacht Club to Captain Munter, extending compliments for the patrol performed by the Coast Guard yesterday.

SHAMROCK'S TRIM MAY BE CHANGED

By JAMES ROBBINS.

One admission was made by them. It was that just after the start in the run off the breeze, when Enterprise had jumped into a short lead, Shamrock should have luffed out after her. Harold Vanderbilt, Enterprise's skipper, began heading up his yacht. Luffing up is heading into the wind. Luffing out is to diverge from the course.

With a yacht in the lead down the wind, another may have a chance to blanket her by getting astern of her, and to pass her by blocking her wind. Also there is the game of luffing with her and carrying her off the course.

But Shamrock, ignoring her opponent, was headed on a bee line for the outer mark. It was admitted by those aboard her that they threw away what might have been turned into a golden opportunity.

The contention also was made that Shamrock's big balloon jib, which buckled and almost folded up at times in the light air, was not too large. The English belief in kites is that the pull of the large one, when it does pull, is more than enough to overcome what is lost when the wind weight will not hold it out and it sags.

Enterprise's System Different.

On Enterprise the system is the opposite. She has an assortment of ballooners and spinnakers of all sizes, to use according to the conditions. She had a lightweight ballooner on her yesterday, much smaller than Shamrock's, but which pulled steadily.

When Enterprise was running out into her lead yesterday, Charles F. (Bubbles) Havemeyer was at her wheel. Skipper Vanderbilt was at the helm for the start. After he had shot her over the line in the advantageous position and had her going faster than the challenger, he turned the wheel over to Mr. Havemeyer, who relieves him and usually sails the defender off the wind or running and reaching.

Mr. Vanderbilt watched Shamrock during that leg of the race and waited to take the wheel on the windward thrash back. He always has the helm against the wind. Just before the outer mark was reached and the wind hauled so that sheets had to be trimmed in, Mr. Vanderbilt went to the wheel. He sailed the defender around the mark and back across the finish line.

The second race tomorrow will be over a triangular course and an endeavor will be made to make the first leg of ten miles to windward, with the second a run and the third a reach. The wind is the determining factor in course direction.

Two Legs May Be Reaches.

Frequently, with a switch in the wind after the windward thrash is started, the last two legs, or twenty of the thirty miles, become reaches. Shamrock may prove fast, with her sheets started in a real breeze and her rail down, but, because of Enterprise's initial performance, she is expected to take the measure of the challenger.

The crews of the yachts spent a quiet day of rest, some coming ashore for a while. America's Cup competition is a mental as well as a physical strain.

Skipper Vanderbilt was happy over his victory yesterday, but bore in mind that he has three more races to win.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 14.—Two hundred and fifty newspaper men and photographers representing the United States, England and Australia, who are here covering the international yacht cup races, were guests at a clambake tonight given by the city of Newport in their honor.

William H. Vanderbilt, chairman of Newport's cup committee, acted as toastmaster, and Mayor Sullivan extended an official welcome to the guests.

ENGLAND MAINTAINS FAITH IN SHAMROCK

CREW'S HOMEFOLK STIRRED

Rumor Has Nicholson Replacing Heard—Press Stresses Mechanical Devices of Victor.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—England is sad but not at all down-hearted because the Shamrock V lost the first race of the America's Cup series yesterday. Everywhere, disappointed Britons are reminding each other that Sir Thomas Lipton has several more chances and may yet bring the cup to England.

Even in Tollesbury, Essex, where the crew of the Shamrock live, nobody has given up hope, although in the village church prayers were offered this morning for the safety of Captain Heard and his men.

"Better luck next time" was the word which went around Tollesbury, as if to echo Sir Thomas's own optimism. "America hasn't got the cup yet."

Mascot of No Avail.

Captain Heard's daughter is unhappy only because the mascot she gave her father failed to work its charm yesterday.

"I bet dad was disappointed. He did so well while over here. Before he went away I gave him a green stuffed monkey as a mascot, but I am afraid it was no good," she said.

When the news of the Shamrock's defeat first reached them, the citizens of Tollesbury were angry over a rumor which later was proved to be untrue. The story was that Heard had been displaced in the first encounter with the Enterprise and that the designer, Charles Nicholson, had taken the helm of the Shamrock.

"What do you expect?" was the outburst from one disillusioned yacht captain. "The designer of a craft should never be allowed to take the helm, especially in a first race."

Report Found Untrue.

Later, however, when more complete reports arrived, the story was found to be incorrest, and indignation melted into hopes for tomorrow.

Gosport, where the Shamrock was built, was a town of disappointment this morning. No sporting event ever meant so much to the south coast town which had watched the Shamrock take shape at the Camper & Nicholson yard. Electric signs lighted the outside of the shipyard last night, while hundreds crowded in the street and watched the progress of the race from bulletins. Today the Shamrock's builders are downcast, but, like Sir Thomas, their motto is "Try again."

The first race has confirmed the belief of some newspapers here that the series is a contest between the seamanship of the Shamrock's crew and the mechanical efficiency of the Enterprise. Last week, during the controversy over the boom of the Enterprise, suspicion of the Vanderbilt yacht was concealed beneath a layer of the usual British sportsmanship.

Press Mentions Contrast.

Today none of the commentators mention the contrast openly, but headlines in the press include "Gadgets vs. Manpower," "Mechanism vs. Manpower" and "Enterprise's Mechanical Marvel Prove a Success."

Yachting writers also emphasize the importance of Enterprise's mechanical sail hoisting devices in long accounts cabled to British newspapers.

But there are no complaints, no alibis—only tremendous hope from one end of Britain to the other that Lipton may in the end win the victory he has sought so long.

British yachtsmen who followed the first race are satisfied that Enterprise's victory was clean-cut and decisive.

"It was a perfectly simple and fair trial," writes Major B. Heckstall-Smith in The Daily Telegraph. "Shamrock had more lead than she carried in her English races and this may have had the effect of giving her too much stability. Although Enterprise was very slightly faster nearly all day, I am of the opinion that Vanderbilt won the race at the start."

Lipton's well-wishers all over the British Isles will be able to follow tomorrow's race by radio. The British Broadcasting Corporation has arranged to pick up a running commentary on the contest which, owing to the convenient difference in time, will begin just when mililons will have come home from their offices and factories.

ACTUAL TIMES DECIDE.

No Allowances Provided for First Time in Cup Series.

The Shamrock V and Enterprise series mark the first time in the long history of America's Cup races, since boat-for-boat series were adopted in 1871, that no time allowances have been allotted.

Twice challengers have crossed the finishing line ahead of the American defenders only to lose on corrected time and, curiously enough, both have been Sir Thomas Lipton's boats. In the final race of the 1901 series Shamrock II finished two seconds ahead of Columbia, but, inasmuch as she had to allow the defender 43 seconds, she was beaten by the slender margin of 41. In the fifteen-mile run before the wind the green-hulled craft gained 49 seconds, but on the beat home she lost 47.

The third race of the 1920 series proved the closest ever sailed in the history of the cup, for both yachts actually covered the course in exactly the same elapsed time. Shamrock IV was over the starting line 19 seconds ahead of Resolute and she had the same margin at the finish. But the Lipton yacht was allowing the defender 7 minutes and 1 second, and this decided the winner Had there been no time allowance, Sir Thomas would have taken home the cup, for Shamrock IV had won the two previous races.

LIPTON GETS RADIO SET

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 14 (AP).—A radio set, especially adapted for marine use, was presented today to Sir Thomas Lipton aboard his yacht Erin, so that he will be able to hear about as well as see the remaining races for the America's Cup.

The presentation was made by Mayor Mortimer A. Sullivan of Newport, and Sir Thomas, in accepting, replied:

"You can't understand how much I appreciate this gift. I have never had a radio either on the Erin or in my home in London."

In three six-round bouts the principals will be: Herman Wallace vs. Sammy Casuto; Davey Adelman vs. Frankie Gallagher; Jackie Adelson vs. Al Friedman.

Skipper Vanderbilt Foregoes Rest and Plays Tennis Match

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 14.—Granted a day of respite from his arduous duties as skipper of the America's Cup defender, Harold S. Vanderbilt hurried ashore this morning as soon as the weather had cleared sufficiently to permit tennis and played at the Casino.

For a couple of hours he forgot about international yachting as he engaged in a lively doubles match with Roger Cutler, Francis Bacon and Henry G. Gray. Later he returned to his Diesel-engined yacht Vara, where he spent a quiet evening.

ONLY THREE RACES WON BY CHALLENGING BOATS

On Two Occasions Accidents Played Part in Defeat of Defending Cup Yachts.

Only three times in the history of America's Cup competition have challengers been successful in defeating American defenders and on two of these occasions accidents played a part in enabling the foreign boat to gain the victory. This is a record to which Corinthians on this side of the Atlantic can point with pride, for with thirty-six races in all having been sailed, it is fairly good proof that American skippers and designers have set the pace for the rest of the world.

The first time that a challenger succeeded in gaining a victory was in 1871 when James Ashbury's schooner Livonia defeated Columbia in the third event of a five race series by the decisive margin of 15 minutes and 10 seconds. On actual time this was increased another 4 minutes and 23 seconds, for that was the time allowance the English craft was allowing the defender.

In all justice to Columbia, however, it is only fair to point out that her captain was injured in the second race and, while on board in the third encounter, was unable to steer. Furthermore, early in the race the defender's flying jib stay parted, letting the sail stream out to leeward and six minutes were lost before the crew could get it in and put the yacht on her course again. Finally, her steering gear broke on the way back, so that she became unmanageable and her mainsail had to be taken off. Thus she ran up the harbor under forward canvas only.

It was not until 1920 that a challenger again won a race and it proved to be the opening event of the series, Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV having a sailover against Resolute when the latter's throat halyards parted, the defender dropping out of the contest.

In the second race of the series the green-hulled sloop gained on every leg of the course to beat Resolute by 10 minutes and 5 seconds. On corrected time this was reduced to 2 minutes and 26 seconds.

VICTOR LEADS FROM START

Has 1:50 Margin at End of 9-Mile Course—Jester Disqualified for Beating Gun.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Alberta, owned by Albert Marx, won the eighth race in the series for the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club trophy for Long Island Sound Interclub Class yachts conducted under the auspices of the New Rochelle Yacht Club in Long Island Sound today.

Alberta finished at 4:47:34 P. M., 1 minute 50 seconds ahead of A. F. Broderick's Bozo, which was second. Six minutes 13 seconds astern of Bozo came Wild Cat, owned by H. Lovejoy and W. H. Lynn.

Starting at 2:30 o'clock off Execution Light, the craft set out on the nine-mile course, which gave them a beat into the wind to Parsonage Point and a run before the wind back to Execution Light. There was quite a heavy sea and a fairly strong east by northeast wind. All of the boats used their spinnakers on the second leg.

The winning craft led throughout and at the halfway mark the Marx boat had an advantage of 1 minute 10 seconds over Bozo. It increased the lead by forty seconds on the way back.

Jester, owned by Egbert Moxham, crossed the finish line ahead of Cornelius Shields's Aileen, which was sixth, but the former boat was disqualified. In an attempt to get away to a fast start, Jester crossed the line before the starting gun. The craft was recalled, but it did not go back far enough to recross the line and the disqualification followed.

FAY, 18, HOME FIRST IN CANOE MARATHON

FIELD OF 40 COMPETES

Victor, With 50-Minute Handicap, Timed in 5:21:30—Many Fail to Finish in Event.

Charles Fay of the Island Canoe Club of City Island yesterday won the fourth annual 29½-mile marathon canoe race around Manhattan Island, sanctioned by the American Canoe Association and conducted by the Island Canoe Club, starting from and finishing at the Metropolitan Rowing Club's clubhouse at 161st Street and Harlem River.

Participating in the event for the first time, the 18-year-old youth set out at 9:20 A. M., along with a number of other starters, who also were given a handicap of 50 minutes, the highest allowance. He immediately shot into the lead and never relinquished it at any time during the long paddle.

Fay piloted his canoe, Bee, over the required distance in 5 hours 21 minutes 30 seconds, finishing the course at 2:41:30 P. M. Fay's time was 10 minutes 20 seconds behind the record of 5:11:10, made by Julius Krauer, also of the Island Canoe Club, in 1927. Second was George Bertko of the Black Hawk Canoe Club, who also had a 50-minute allowance. Bertko finished at 3:15, 33 minutes 30 seconds behind Fay.

Winner Gets Cedar Canoe.

In third place was Charles Holt of the Island Canoe Club, 1 minute 14 seconds astern of Berkto. Holt started with a handicap of forty minutes. The winner received a sixteen-foot all-cedar canoe of the cruising type, and other prizes were awarded to the next fourteen finishers.

A number of the forty starters failed to finish the race for various reasons. Among those who did not complete the distance were Ernie Riedel of the Pendleton Canoe Club, world's one-man senior doubles champion and winner of the race last year, who was the only scratch starter; Bill Krauer of the Island Canoe Club, brother of Julius and runner-up to Riedel last year; Charles Robinson of the Pendleton Canoe Club, who was third last season; John Kuhnast of the Wanda Canoe Club, who placed fourth last year; E. Kunz of the Knickerbocker Canoe Club and Bill Gaehler of the Pendleton Canoe Club.

Kuhnast, Robinson and Krauer had fifteen-minute allowances, and Kunz and Gaehler started twenty-five minutes ahead of Riedel. The latter dropped out at the Battery because of illness, as did also Kuhnast.

From the starting line the canoeists proceeded up the Harlem River through Spuyten Duyvil into the Hudson River, down to and around the Battery into the East River through Hell Gate, under the Willis Avenue bridge into the Harlem River and back to the Metropolitan Rowing Club.

Fay Takes Lead Early.

Fay proceeded to get a commanding lead on his rivals at the start and did not meet with any difficulty because of tidal conditions until he was well down the Hudson. Whereas Fay only had to buck the tide from about Eighteenth Street down to the Battery, the late starters and those who took it easy in the early stages ran into harder conditions for a longer stretch in the Hudson.

Quite a stiff breeze was blowing and the waters were somewhat choppy as Fay also proceeded through the Hell Gate section of the East River, but otherwise he had fairly easy going.

Y., Sept. 14.—Widely known golf professionals from many sections are on hand for the start of the second annual Glens Falls open tournament, which will start tomorrow over the Glens Falls Country Club course. The event, which carries prize money totaling $3,500, will close on Tuesday.

Billy Burke, former New York State open champion, who won the first tournament here last year in a nine-hole play-off with Bill Mehlhorn, has signified his intention to defend his laurels. But he will find his journey over the seventy-two holes a harder task this year because of the quality of the field.

First in the group of challengers will be Tommy Armour of Detroit, who, at Fresh Meadow on Saturday, won the national P. G. A. title by defeating Gene Sarazen in a sterling battle. Armour thus established himself as the outstanding professional golfer of the year, since he added the title to the Canadian open, which he captured from Leo Diegel.

Many Amateurs in Field.

Sarazen also will be among the competitors as will Horton Smith, Willie Macfarlane, Johnny Farrell, Johnny Golden, Bobby Cruickshank, Charles Lacey and skillful amateurs, including W. R. Pond Jr. and C. A. Henrotin.

Still others who have filed their entries with Ben Lord, professional at Glens Falls, are the Turnesa brothers, Joe, Mike and Phil; Tom and George Kerrigan, Dan Williams, Tony Manero, Walter Kozak and Craig Wood.

Horton Smith battled Eddie Schultz, Troy Country Club professional and entrant in the open, in an eighteen hole exhibition match in preparation for the two-day event and met defeat, 3 and 2. Smith had a 74 and Schultz a 75.

135 to Start Play.

As scheduled at present, about 135 will comprise the field when the first group tees off tomorrow. Thirty-six holes will be played each day, and the only competitors ranking within the first sixty places, including ties, at the end of the first day will continue the second day.

The first to tee off will be Henrotin, Pond and Jerry Dwyer, at 8:30. Other threesomes will follow them at five-minute intervals. The first of the favorites to leave the tee will be Horton Smith and Craig Wood, who will start as 10 o'clock.

Cruickshank, with Cox and Pat Doyle, will start on the journey at 10:20 and ten minutes later Burke, who will play with Macfarlane and Lord, will start. Bill Mehlhorn, who will be in a threesome along with Jim Barnes and August Nordone, will leave the tee at 10:40, and ten minutes later Armour will strike out along with Farrell and Lacey.

Sarazen will be with Al Espinosa and Joe Turnesa and is scheduled to start at 11:05.

Observations on Recent Stirring Events Afloat and Ashore.

AN adventurer who made the perilous sea voyage down to Newport in an excursion boat to witness the big race on Saturday has returned to town. Fired with enthusiasm for the noble sport of yachting, he was ready and willing to give a first hand report of how and why the Enterprise sailed to victory. He said in confidence:

"There was some delay at the start. I understand when the anchors were weighed the Shamrock anchor was found to be four pounds over the limit and they had to get a new one. Then when they got to the line, the Enterprise beat the barrier and nosed ahead, moving rapidly east by west. In an endeavor to overhaul the American boat, the skipper of the Shamrock took a hitch in his tops'l boom and broke out three binnacles. That forced the Enterprise to list sharply to port and seaboard, during which operation two balloon jibs were punctured. Still, Shamrock couldn't gain . I believe the lee scuppers were leaking."

That must be a terrible handicap in a big race.

"It is. But the captain clewed them up with a couple of struts and a running bowline on a bight. Well, they turned the corner and both spread a lot of sheets, shrouds and forestays. In a sudden puff of wind, Shamrock's afterguard was dented in, but the ship's carpenter battened it down. It was evident when the boats were heading home that Enterprise would win. An old sailor told me that it moves very fast to port. In a triangular race, I think the Shamrock will have a better chance. That Enterprise will probably be going so fast it won't be able to take the turns."

That should be some comfort to Sir Thomas in his moments of doubt.

Fresh Every Hour.

To a man in an open barouche it might seem that the Cubs, Cardinals, Robins and Giants have been playing leapfrog rather than baseball. It's a confusing situation, and, to keep up with it, fresh standings should be issued every hour. The boys are now fighting for decimal points. Nobody seems to be directing traffic. The contenders have been dashing in all directions, bumping one another in passing.

Pitching held the Robins up and let the Giants down. The Cardinals have been getting good hitting and good pitching, which is a fairly valuable combination in a tight race. In three games in Flatbush the Cubs made fifteen hits and one run. The hits were deliberate, but, after twenty-five scoreless innings, the run seemed accidental.

The Robins and Cardinals have been playing great ball in the past two weeks. That's why Manager Joe McCarthy thinks that a change is due. He thinks it's Chicago's turn to win and the Robins and Cardinals are due to lose a few.

The Law of Averages.

That may be the law of averages, but it's better to bank on base hits in a hot dash down the stretch. The law of averages works fairly well through a season, but it often cracks under the strain in the last few weeks of a pennant race.

On the law of averages, the Robins were counted out two weeks ago. There were statisticians who could demonstrate with pencil and paper that Uncle Wilbert had no more chance to win this race than he has of winning the junior bantamweight boxing crown. But Uncle Wilbert is right up there now and the statisticians are engaged in burying the Giants.

It was great pitching that pulled the Robins up. When fellows like Hack Wilson, Kiki Cuyler and Gabby Hartnett are held in subjection through an important series, the opposing pitching staff is entitled to line up and take a bow from right to left. What happened to Joe McCarthy's pitching staff is a mystery. Root couldn't get anybody out in Flatbush and Malone was whacked hard in Philadelphia. These fellows are rated with the best right-handers in either league.

A Possible Tie.

This race may end up in a tie and a play-off, in which case the world's series won't start Oct. 1 as planned, and there will be all sorts of difficulties with carpenters and printers. Perhaps the four first division clubs—give the Giants the benefit of a forlorn hope—should dress up their parks for a world's series and have series tickets printed. Just in case.

It was last Winter that Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, remarked that he was planning to make certain changes in world's series arrangements at Sportsman's Park. "In what year?" he was asked. "This year," said Sam. He said it with a smile and everybody thought he was joking. But the Cardinals have been playing as though Sam meant it.

Then there was Uncle Wilbert Robinson. When Babe Ruth and other baseball authorities were picking the Robins to finish seventh, Uncle Wilbert was exploding with indignation and insisting that his boys had a fine chance to win the pennant. That was back in April, and they haven't yet proved him wrong.

Johnny on the Spot.

Switching to the courts, where there is less confusion: Johnny Doeg deserves a triple crown of laurel for his successive victories over Frank Hunter, Bill Tilden and Frank Shields. He played great tennis all week. So did Shields, for that matter, and the great match between the youngsters in the final round should cheer up the pessimists, who think that France has a long-term lease on the Davis Cup.

There's no nicer lad in any game than John Hope Doeg, the big, good-natured, modest chap who gained the national tennis championship at Forest Hills on Saturday. But winning the championship may upset all Johnny's plans. He said during the week that he was going to give up tournament tennis this year and go into business. Perhaps he still has that same idea. But it's hard for a champion to quit.

It's doubly hard when a fellow gains a national title at 21 years of age. There will be all sorts of pressure on Doeg to stick with the Davis Cup squad next year. Certainly he will be expected to be in shape to defend his title in the next championship tournament. It's a tough problem for a youngster, but the big boy with the shock of blond hair has common sense as well as a ferocious service. He'll find an answer to the puzzle one way or another.

In the meanwhile, it was a fine tournament all the way through, and the play of half a dozen youngsters indicated that our tennis prospects are brighter than they have been in several years.

RAY RUDDY RETAINS MILE SENIOR TITLE

LEONARD SPENCE SCORES

LONG BEACH, L. I., Sept. 14.—Victories by Raymond Ruddy of the New York A. C. and Miss Dorothea Dickinson of the Women's S. A. in Metropolitan A. A. U. senior free-style swimming championships; a protested victory by Robert Walker of the New York A. C. in another title test; a record-breaking feat by Leonard Spence of the latter organization, and a brilliant performance by Miss Eleanor Holm of the Women's S. A. were the outstanding features of a water carnival in the fifty-five-yard pool of the Lido Club today.

Ruddy and Miss Dickinson retained titles they already held, the former winning the one-mile event in 23:33 and the latter the 880-yard fixture for women in 13:22 2-5.

Protest Walker's Victory.

Walker, a member of the Michigan swimming team last season, led home the field in the 100-meter senior free-style classic in 1:02 2-5, but before the start he was protested on the ground that he has not been registered in this district for the required time to be eligible for metropolitan championships.

Spence created a new American long-course record in capturing a 200-meter breast-stroke handicap from scratch. He covered the distance in 2:53 4-5, disposing of the listed mark of 2:55 1-5 hung up by his brother, Walter.

Miss Holm Close to Record.

Miss Holm was timed in 1:23 2-5 in a 100-meter back-stroke handicap, narrowly missing the national standard of 1:22 3-5 by Miss Sybil Bauer, but she finished third. Miss Elizabeth Kompa, her clubmate, won the event from the 14 second mark in 1:37.

BOBBY JONES CARDS 70 IN ATLANTA GOLF

LEAVES FOR MERION TODAY

Will Play Exhibition at Washington Tomorrow, Then Move On for Sept. 22 Title Tourney.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 14 (AP).—Bobby Jones played a final round over his home course today before leaving tomorrow for the national amateur golf tournament and turned in 70, one under par.

Playing on the No. 2 course at the East Lake Country Club, Jones's score was equaled by his 17-year-old partner, Berrien Moore, one of the most promising of Dixie's younger threats.

More than 2,000 spectators attended the match played for the entertainment fund of the Eighty-second Division which holds its reunion here shortly.

Bobby scored three birdies on the out nine for a 33, two under par, but took 37, one over, coming home.

With few exceptions Bobby's driving and iron shots were up to form, but the putter, Calamity Jane, was recalcitrant. Jones nearly always found his approach leaving him a fair putt, but five of these, which should have reached the cup, halted inches away.

Bobby, together with several close friends, leaves at noon tomorrow by train for Washington where he will play an exhibition match Tuesday. He will arrive in Philadelphia Wednesday and plans to get in several practice rounds before the amateur starts on Sept. 22 at the Merion Cricket Club.

Return of Nine Regulars to Line-Up Bolsters Football Chances at Rutgers

AMPLE RESERVES ON HAND

Smoothness and Polish Evident as Rockafeller Guides Men Toward Coming Campaign.

This is the sixth of a series of articles on Eastern football teams and their prospects for the season.

By ARTHUR J. DALEY.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 14.—A sophomore Rutgers eleven that found its strength and power in its final contest against N. Y. U. a year ago has had the fire of experience mold it into a Scarlet combination that Coach Harry Rockafeller believes will be the best Rutgers team since the banner days of 1924. There is more smoothness and polish to the team in training here at Neilson Field than there was at this time last season, and the keenly attuned attack is working with far more drive than was evident in 1929.

The reson for this is the fact that nine of the Scarlet regulars have returned and a flood of new talent has come up from the freshman ranks. Even at this, though, Rockafeller can't afford to be too optimistic in the face of a schedule that includes Syracuse, Holy Cross, Lafayette, Lehigh and N. Y. U.

But his team should be stronger by far than it was a year ago, when the Scarlet came within an ace of furnishing one of the most startling upsets of the campaign by tying N. Y. U. As a matter of fact, Rutgers did have the Violet 7 to 7 in the final period, only to have Dave Myers and Beryl Follet gallop off with two long runs that converted the final score into 20 to 7.

Beneficial Effect on Team.

That keen exhibition of strength certainly will have a beneficial effect on the team this season, especially in view of the fact that it is practically the same as it was in 1929. Bernie Crowl is lost at centre and Bennie (Murphy) Greenberg in the back field.

Rockafeller has moved Harry Karakas from guard to the pivot post to put in an equally strong man in the middle of the line, and Don Coursen has been shifted from end to Greenberg's place. Naturally, this still leaves two berths to be filled, and this has been accomplished by inserting Nick Prisco, hard-tackling freshman halfback, at end, and Milt Anderson, a regular at the start of the 1929 campaign, at guard.

So to all intents and purposes Rutgers is standing pat with its team of a year ago and with the added advantage that the experience gathered last season will make it stronger on attack and defense. The offense has one feature that should be of immeasurable aid to it. And that is the lateral pass.

Helped by Lionel Conacher.

In 1927 and 1928, Lionel Conacher, manager of the New York American hockey team and one of the best of the Canadian Rugby football players, came down from the north to properly instruct Rutgers in the fine points of lateral passing. He is no longer assisting here, but the principles that he laid down have remained and the sideward flip of the pigskin from one back to another is still a spectacular part of the Rutgers attack.

Jack Grossman is the key man in the Scarlet drive. Whether it is lateral passes, straight forwards, off-tackle slants, end runs or punts, it is the 190-pound James Madison star who bears the brunt of the work. And it is the powerfully built Jerry Cronin who paves the way for Grossman's runs or who is generally at the receiving end of his accurate tosses.

Another husky, the 192-pound Les Horton, also is in that back field together with the 185-pound Coursen to give Rockafeller one of the heaviest sets of secondaries in the East, the average being over 190 pounds. Added to this quartet will come from Whitey Stager, a semi-regular for three years; Jack Liddy, freshman fullback and triple threat man last year; Archie Dunlap, another freshman back and Jack (Red) Waldron, substitute in 1929.

Supplied With Good Reserves.

Rockafeller has his team pretty well lined up. Besides his array of backs, he has Prisco, the ex-freshman, at one end, together with Joe Julien, regular last year, while Irving Resnick, former freshman, and Max Krafchick give him two strong reserves.

Two first-string tackles are back again in the persons of Tom Smoyer and Dick Knauss, while George Knabb, 1928 cub captain and 1929 ineligible, and Bud Wiley, sophomore, are fighting it out with Eli Fisher for the extra tackle posts.

Bert Harris is back at guard. Anderson, who was out of competition with injuries last year, has apparently clinched the other guard position, with his strongest opposition coming from Snyder Volk, a 195-pound product of the yearling team.

Assisting Rockafeller is Don Storck and Dennis Mulligan, both from West Point, and Al Neuschafer and Dave Bender of Rutgers.

Sept. 27, Providence.

Oct. 4, George Washington University; 11, Syracuse, away; 18, John Hopkins; 25, University of Delaware.

Nov. 1, Holy Cross; 8, Lafayette; 15, Lehigh, away; 22, New York University at the Yankee Stadium.

YALE ELEVEN HOLDS FIRST DRILL TODAY

MANY VETERANS TO RETURN

Captain Vincent, Booth, Snead and McLennan From Last Season's Team Ready for Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 14.—Football practice will start at Yale tomorrow with a squad of 145 candidates, the largest on record for an opening day, scheduled to report to Head Coach Mal Stevens. The Elis will have only two weeks of daily practice before their opening game with the University of Maine.

An intensive program is planned by Coach Stevens and his assistants before the first game, with morning and afternoon practice sessions carded at Anthony Thompson Field, the same gridiron used last year. Bill Webster, captain two years ago, will be unable to return this Fall as assistant coach, and his successor as mentor for the guards probably will be made known tomorrow.

Among the varsity players from last season expected to answer the opening call are Captain Fay Vincent, right tackle; Herster Barres, right end; Kempton Dunn, fullback; Charley Snead, left halfback; Albie Booth, quarterback, and Don McLennan, right halfback. Booth, one of the outstanding backs of the country, is reported to have reduced about twenty pounds during the Summer and will be close to 140 pounds again.

The squad will be without the services of Ed Rotan, prominent guard candidate, who sustained an injury to his leg in wrestling and therefore will be on the sidelines. Outstanding candidates for the eleven will include Al Beane, Mark Tyson, Johnny Lindenburg, Truston Hare Jr., Johnny Walker and Jim Stewart, linemen, and Tommy Taylor, Ned Austen, Sandy Weiner and Harold Cruikshank, backs.

N. Y. U. BAND JOINS CAMP.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., Sept. 14.—New York University's sixty-five-piece band is in camp as the Violet football candidates begin their third and final week of pre-season training tomorrow.

COLUMBIA RESUMES TODAY.

Columbia's football squad enters its last two weeks of pre-season training today at Baker Field and, barring injuries and further illness among an already depleted aggregation, the Lions will speed up their daily sessions to a high point. The day of rest yesterday is expected to have helped the Blue and White candidates to recover from the bumps and bruises received in the intensive scrimmage of Saturday morning.

PRINCETON STARTS TODAY.

Squad of 55 Will Report for First Football Workout.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 14.—A squad of fifty-five Princeton football candidates will report at University Field tomorrow for the first training drill of the season. Head Coach William W. Roper will continue the custom of two drills each day for the first week before school opens.

John Doeg—New National Tennis Champion.

JOHN DOEG.

HE has the build of a young Goliath and the bronzed complexion and tawny locks of a true son of the Pacific. He has a grin that reaches from here to the Golden Gate and a southpaw service that brings out the roar of the crowd as unmistakably as does the crack of the Babe's fungo against a fast one on the inside.

He was born to the purple of tennis, and now, five years after his arresting physique first caught the eyes of Eastern galleries, sits, at the age of 21, on the throne which no other American save William Tilden has occupied for the last ten years.

The first time John Doeg stepped on a court in the East, a spectator in the stands was heard to remark: "What a champion he'd make."

Standing straight as an arrow, more than 6 feet tall, proportioned like a young Hercules and with the self-possession of a past master at the game, the then 16-year-old giant from the Coast captured the public fancy with his home-run service and boyish grin, in the same manner that did that other flaming native son, Maurice McLoughlin, the Californian Comet.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, on her first appearance in the East in 1921, created no more of a stir than did the arrival of this strapping scion of a family long famed in lawn tennis, nor was her future painted in more glowing colors.

Comes From Tennis Family.

Reared in an atmosphere of tennis from the cradle, imbibing its precepts from such illustrious forebears as his mother, Mrs. Violet Sutton Doeg, and his aunt, Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, and blessed with a magnificent physique and natural gift for the game, John Hope Doeg was born to rule the courts.

The road of this heir-apparent to the throne, however, was a tortuous path, strewn with the thorns of disillusionment such as few princes of the blood have to travel. Indeed, so labored had become his progress along that road, so many checkmates had he encountered that his stanchest adherents had begun to abandon hope for him and to turn to other idols of the clay and grass courts.

There were only two people who continued to maintain their faith in the manifest destiny of this strapping young Californian. One was Doeg himself. The other was his mother, and of the two Mrs. Doeg was decidedly the more unalterable in her conviction.

His Determination Won Title.

John was beginning to lose some of his keenness for the game as he weighed its glory against the demands it imposed and he decided it was time for him to think of his business career. It was not so much faith in himself that carried him to the crown as it was his loyalty to his mother's unswerving confidence in him and his dogged determination to confute those who began to say he never would be champion.

A year ago last July his critics were sounding a requiem over his career. That was after Doeg had been beaten twice in succession by Eddie Jacobs. The season before he had failed to gain a place on the Davis Cup team, making a disappointing showing in the trials at Augusta, Ga.; and these setbacks at the hands of an unranked player on his return to the East in 1929 apparently pointed to his definite eclipse as a member of the tennis elect.

A few days after his second defeat by Jacobs in the intercollegiate championship at Haverford, Pa., the writer was talking with Mrs. Doeg at the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club at Glenhead, L. I. With her eyes kindled in resentment, Mrs. Doeg demanded to know why many seemed to have lost faith in the 20-year-old boy.

"John's ground strokes are not weak," she insisted emphatically. "No one in California thinks so. There's a big difference in playing on asphalt and grass. Why don't they give him time to adjust himself to the difference? After all, he is only a boy."

Achieved Fame Last Year.

While Mrs. Doeg was speaking, John was playing only a few miles away at Glen Cove. Before three days had passed his traducers were beginning to recant, as he won the Nassau Country Club tournament, and for the next three weeks he was the outstanding player of the American season, as he captured the Rhode Island championship and the Longwood and Seabright bowls.

Almost overnight, Doeg had become a different player, and the chief reason was that he had discarded the forehand drive he had been trying to master and had gone back to the chop that he had used on his first visit to the East.

With this chop he developed an accuracy in picking off openings that was almost uncanny, and this correction of a weakness that had hopelessly handicapped him had a tonic effect upon his whole game, energizing his service and volley again and dissipating the blight of doubt that had robbed him of his aggressiveness.

When the 1929 national championship was held Doeg was so vastly improved over the player who had lost to George Lott in three sets in the 1928 tournament that he smothered H. W. Austin of England and extended Tilden as did no other player in the championship, leading him 2 sets to 1.

Gained Davis Cup Berth.

Last Winter the Californian compiled a splendid record in the Southern tournaments and won his first berth on the Davis Cup team.

His trip to Europe with the team, his initial visit abroad, was in the nature of a return of the native, for his antecedents are British. His grandfather on his mother's side was an English sailing captain and the fame of his mother and aunts, the celebrated Sutton sisters of a generation ago, was as cherished abroad as it was in this country.

Needless to say, Doeg received a warm reception when he made his début at Wimbledon on the turf, where his aunt, Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, twice had carried off the English championship. His play there helped to swell the paean of praise for America's representatives and it was only by a narrow margin that he failed to defeat Wilmer Allison, the conqueror of Henri Cochet.

In spite of the excellence of his tennis, he was not used in the cup matches and upon his return home he and the other members of the team were eclipsed in the public eye by the deeds of a younger crop of players—Wood, Shields, Sutter and Vines.

Was Conceded Little Chance.

When the draw for the championship was made, both Wood and Sutter were seeded ahead of him and the name of Doeg was scarcely mentioned among those who were conceded a chance of defeating Tilden.

In spite of his showing against the champion in 1929 and his fine record for the past two seasons, the Californian's lack of a forcing forehand drive continued to foster skepticism. No one who depended upon a chop, it was felt, could be considered seriously as a championship contender, regardless of the fact that he had the most dreaded service in tennis and an affinity for net play.

But with that chop Doeg fully held his own against Tilden's immaculate drives, though it was his service and volleys that won the match, and against the hard-hitting Shields that chop again stood up beautifully to break up the young New Yorker's advances to the net and to keep him rushing headlong across the court in vain pursuit of a spinning ball that skimmed the tape and barely rose from the turf.

Extremely few players in the history of the game have risen to the top with a chop stroke. That Doeg should have done so makes his victory all the more notable and praiseworthy, and in the face of the adverse criticism and discouraging setbacks he experienced it testifies to the stout heart and perseverance of this unaffected, self-reliant young giant of 21 years.

Intends to Limit Play.

Winner of both the national singles and doubles and assured of first place in the next ranking, Doeg sits in the seat of the mighty at an age when his best years are before him, and has put the scoffers to rout.

It is his intention to confine his tennis in the future to two or three tournaments at the most and to forsake Davis Cup play in order to make a start in his life's career.

Those who know him for the level-headed youth that he is, with an admirable sense of proportion and values, do not doubt his sincerity in planning to restrict the time he gives to tennis, nor will they take issue with the wisdom of his course.

If he should yield, however, to the pressure that undoubtedly will be brought to bear upon him as a national champion to make him postpone his withdrawal from the tennis courts, there are thousands who will be so selfish as to rejoice.

It is not every year that the game produces a champion of the arresting physique, spontaneity and boyish grin of this young Hercules with the service of the century and the greatest grin since the day of Huckleberry Finn.

HAKOAH ALL-STARS REPULSE NEW YORK

GRUENFELD NODS IN GOAL

The Hokoah All Stars won a keenly contested American Soccer League game from New York team at Starlight Park yesterday, 1 to 0, before a crowd of 4,500.

The one goal was scored mid-way in the second period after Mulcahy had saved on a penalty. Erno Schwarz put over a centre which Gruenfeld met squarely with his head to nod the ball into New York's net.

Both teams set a terrific pace from the opening whistle, the ball traveling up and down the field with lightning-like speed. Hakoah had the best of the opening exchanges, only the sterling defensive play of Moorhouse and Glover preventing several Hakeah goals.

101ST CAVALRY FOUR BEATS 1ST DIVISION

LOSERS' RALLIES FAIL

After conceding its opponents three goals by handicap, the first division Class A polo team was defeated, 7 to 6, by the 101st Cavalry four in an exhibition match at the Fort Hamilton army reservation yesterday. About 7,000 were present.

The match was played on a heavy field which hampered the play of the teams. Once in the third period and again in the fourth the first division came within one point of tieing the score but each time rallies by the cavalry players dimmed the first division's hopes. In the final period Lieutenant Gene Scott and Captain Don Scott scored for the first division to put it only one goal behind, but the game ended a minute later.

The line-up:

Ramblers (10).	High Hats (8).

An Interesting Anniversary—The Middle of September, 1929, and Subsequent History.

This week is an interesting anniversary. It was a few days after the middle of September, 1929, just twelve months ago, that prices on the Stock Exchange, having risen almost uninterruptedly and with the greatest violence during four successive months, on top of a spectacular and all but unbroken three-year advance, began to crumble. The decline, at first irregular and intermittent, presently attained such a pace that, less than two months later, the averages had reached the lowest level since July, 1927, and 47 per cent below the high mark of Sept. 19. Almost coincidentally, $4,500,000,000 was squeezed out from the inflated structure of Stock Exchange brokers' borrowings; a reduction of 53 per cent in three months, bringing the total down to the lowest figure since October of 1927. No such contraction of credit, no shrinkage in values of such scope as this, so rapid, so general and so sweeping, had occurred in the memory of financial markets.

These particulars, as Wall Street looks at things, are now themselves in the nature of ancient history. They are worth repeating, chiefly because remembrance has already begun to grow obscure regarding the sequence of events and the immediate cause for each. To recall to mind exactly what happened in those agonized eight weeks, and why, has become almost as difficult as to describe the precise order of events in the first half of August, 1914. So many things of startling significance occurred almost simultaneously, the entire picture was so utterly unbelievable to those who saw it, that successive events obscured the memory of one another.

In one respect, we have been fortunate. Notwithstanding the unprecedented violence of the fall in stocks, and notwithstanding the fact that more individuals and greater sums of money were swept down in the panic liquidations, the true nature and economic necessity for the readjustment has been universally recognized. There has been no talk since Nov. 13, as there was in 1920, of the culpability of the Federal Reserve; no orations in the Senate, as there were in 1907, to prove that the Money Trust had brought about the panic for its own wicked purposes; no charges by responsible statesmen, as in 1893, that the administration at Washington was personally responsible. All this sort of futility vanished as quickly as did last Autumn's one novel eccentricity in the way of "explanation," that the 40 to 70 per cent decline in stocks was due to the delay in putting the tariff bill's beneficent provisions into law.

Retrospect, at this distance of time and in the light of subsequent events, of the great crash on the Stock Exchange, is useful particularly in showing how financial thinking and the whole American financial atmosphere have cleared up. Even in the panic days of last October, when it had to be admitted that Wall Street and the speculating public had been living in a fool's paradise regarding the stock market, it was not believed that trade prosperity could be seriously impaired. The background of our industrial expansion was so impressive that even those financiers who had to admit that the "cycle of prosperity" still governed the action of the stock market could not believe in serious trade reaction. They did not believe it as recently as last March, when the prevalent idea was that this setback in business would repeat that of 1927—a few months of reduced carloadings and steel production, then resumption of the "boom" at the old pace. But the truth of the matter has now been pretty thoroughly learned.

Everybody recognizes now that this is not a new economic era, in the sense that old-fashioned principles and penalties of economic law have been abolished. The new inventions in the way of manufacturing credit are seen to have been merely a novel way of repeating the very old practices of abuse of credit. The mere mention today of the doctrines preached with great fervor prior to last September, that the duty of the plain American citizen was not to save up his surplus earnings but to spend them, both his savings and the proceeds of his borrowings, and thus sustain the business boom, creates irritation. It is fair to infer that the American people have regained the faculty of clear thinking, intelligent industry and prudent management of their own affairs.

Chain Store Stocks

Chain Stores as a class deal in commodities essential to the life and welfare of the public. Their method of distribution is efficient and economical. They operate with a rapid turn-over and on a small margin of profit. It is conservatively estimated that the volume of Chain Store business will more than double in the next ten years.

We recommend the purchase of standard dividend-paying Chain Store Common Stocks for permanent investment.

STERLING'S DECLINE CREATES CAUTION

FRANCE TAKES NEW GOLD

London Hoping Now That Australia Will Send Gold to London to Suport Its Finances.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The position here is viewed with a certain amount of caution; because, after the temporary strengthening of sterling at American and Continental markets, a considerably weaker tendency developed. Money rates here had stiffened owing to the absence of treasury bill maturities, but rates eased off again later. Discounts followed a similar course, though they are now somewhat steadier owing to the decline of sterling.

France was again the principal buyer of South African gold in this week's market, but had to pay 84s 11½d per ounce instead of 85½ last week. Notwithstanding its inability to get gold from the open market, the Bank of England's position continues to grow stronger. This week's statement showed the banking reserve to have been increased £2,708,433 owing to reduction of outstanding note circulation and to increase of more than one million sterling in gold, part of which came from internal sources. The Bank's stock of gold is now more than nineteen millions higher than a year ago, and the proportion of reserve to liabilities is 50 per cent for the first time in many months, comparing with only 27¾ a year ago.

Directors of the Commonwealth Bank of Australia, commenting on the question of mobilizing Australia's gold with a view to shipments to this country, point out that on June 30 the bank's gold reserve against notes was still as high as 44⅜ per cent. They add that many Australian financiers will consider it the part of wisdom to ship more gold overseas at an early date for the purpose of building up a European exchange reserve in behalf of Australia. This helps to confirm the view that more gold will be received from that quarter by London.

The trade position does not improve. There was an increase of 20,742 in unemployed workingmen during the last week reported on, and the total of 2,060,444 now exceeds by 908,184 the figure of a year ago. The foreign trade figures for August are also distinctly bad; they show the value of exports to be the lowest of any month since July, 1921, and of imports the lowest since July, 1923.

The lower prices of all goods as compared with a year ago are considered to be partly but not wholly responsible for the decrease in total export and import values. The fact that exports have decreased 32.1 per cent from August whereas imports were down only 20.8 causes comment.

EUROPEAN MONEY RATE CONTINUES TO DECLINE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The Paris money market is still characterized by the great abundance of supplies. Call money, which only yesterday oscillated between 1¾ and 2 per cent, declined today to a flat 1¾ rate.

Even at the lower rate, money was difficult to loan. The outside discount rate is unchanged at 2 per cent, but it is maintained at that figure only by the refusal of leading banks to discount at any lower figure. The ease in the money market is ascribed both to slackening business and to gold imports.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—Money rates still tend downward. On Thursday, day loans went to 2@4 per cent, monthly loans were 4¼@5½, and the private discount 3⅛.

The Reichsbank's status has improved further. The first week in September witnessed repayment of 58 per cent of the credits extended during the last week of August, which is an unusually high percentage.

FRENCH BANK'S LOANS FALL

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The decrease of 1,516 million francs in bills discounted as shown by Thursday's report of the Bank of France was entirely due to month-end collections. As a result of the same process, circulation decreased 2,004 millions and current deposits 922 millions.

This reduction in the Bank of France liabilities, and the week's increase in its gold reserve, caused a rise in the ratio of reserve from 51.61 to 52.53 per cent.

PARIS STILL TAKING GOLD FROM LONDON

IMPORTS SOON TO SLACKEN

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Thursday's bank return, covering the position of Sept. 5, shows increase for the week of 238,000,000 francs in the gold reserve. Since the beginning of May that reserve has risen 5,128,000,000. Last Tuesday Paris bought about £500,000 gold on the London open market, which will appear in next week's return.

Private Paris banks which bought gold this week in London for transfer to Paris suffered a slight loss. They bought sterling bills at rates varying between 123.84 and 123.87, but the gold was sold by the London market at a premium of three-eighths of a penny per ounce, which made the price too high to yield a profit on exchange. Nevertheless, the French banks preferred to acquire gold rather than resell sterling on the London market. Had they done so their offers would have depressed the sterling rate so that the loss of the Paris banks would have been still greater.

Financial circles here expect gold imports to be fairly important during September, but to slacken next month. The tendency of franc exchange is likely to be downward—first, because foreign tourists will cease selling exchange, and, second, because the seasonal purchases abroad of raw materials will begin. During the last three months of the year French foreign trade usually shows a larger import surplus than in Spring or Summer, and this year the deficit will be greater than in previous years, since the poor French harvest will necessitate larger import of wheat than a year ago.

The foreign exchange holdings of the Bank of France, which now amount to 25,573 million francs, show decrease of 227 millions from a year ago, but this is due wholly to sales of foreign exchange by the bank last February to prevent the reichsmark from reaching a point which should compel gold exports from Berlin. During the same period the treasury's foreign exchange reserve decreased, according to current estimates, from ten billions to five or six.

On the other hand, the Caisse d'Amortissement, which last year had no foreign exchange holdings, is now well provided, as a result of payments from proceeds of the German reparations loan. As a whole, the official reserves of foreign exchange may be said to have decreased three or four billion during the twelvemonth. Banking circles also think that foreign exchange holdings of private French banks have also decreased considerably since last year, but no precise estimate is possible.

BANK OF ENGLAND'S GOLD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—During the past calendar week the Bank of England took in £878,142 gold, of which £650,000 represented amounts previously earmarked on special foreign account, but now released. In addition £226,500 came from Brazil.

Withdrawals during the week were only £92,489. Next week £812,000 gold is due to arrive in the open London market from the Cape.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Transvaal gold production in August broke all records in the district's history. Its output of gold for the month was £3,914,594, compared with £3,878,771 in July and with £3,780,804 in August of last year.

Until last month, the high record for Transvaal output was the £3,893,905 of last May.

STOCK AVERAGE LOWER.

But Decline for Last Week Was Only Small.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 13.—Professor Irving Fisher's index number of Stock Exchange prices, based on the 225 most important stocks and reckoned on their average of 1926 as 100, is 133.8 for the past week. The average of April 11, at 164.3, was the highest of the year to date; the average of June 27, at 124.9, was the lowest.

Deny That Trade Depression Imperils Reparation Payments

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—The rumor, circulated abroad, that trade conditions foreshadow difficulty in regard to impending reparation payments, and that the relatively low price of the German reparation loan is due to that fact, is pronounced baseless by the Berlin banks. On the contrary, the German Government's commission of inquiry into the balance of foreign payments expresses the view that Germany is already on the way toward a period of permanent export surpluses, which will provide sufficient exchange both for reparations and for interest on foreign loans.

Germany's borrowings from abroad, says the commission, have merely had the effect of reducing economic pressure in Germany itself during the transition from unfavorable to favorable foreign trade balances. Even if foreign loans to Germany were to cease, the shift to export surpluses will nevertheless take place, though it would then, in the opinion of the commission, involve more severe pressure on German wages and on employers' profits.

RECOVERY IS HALTED ON LONDON EXCHANGE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Indecision has been the prevailing note in the stock market this week, prices as a rule moving irregularly and within narrow limits in most parts of the market. The amount of outside orders at the opening of the new account on Monday were disappointingly small, and the turnover during the week was mainly for account of professional operators.

The reason for the public's abstention probably is that ordinary investors have not much spare money to put into stocks, owing to decreased business profits and high taxation, also that they dislike to shift investments owing to the low prices of existing holdings. Even investors with available funds in hand are still inclined to leave their money on deposit with the banks; the result being that the banks have been large buyers of investments in order to employ the funds in their hands.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—The Bourse remained very inactive this week, with its tendency irregular owing to the absence of any important transactions.

BERLIN VIEW HOPEFUL ON AMERICAN OUTLOOK

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—To German observers, the course of the Wall Street market during the past few weeks and the reports of increasing activity in the steel and building industries, are taken to indicate that the American business depression has reached or is approaching a turn for the better. The outlook for American export trade is considered to be improved; it is noted that the heavy decline in exports thus far this year was largely occasioned by trade with South America, Asia and other countries which have lost ground through the fall in prices for food and raw material products.

The fact that all European stock markets have advanced since the third week of August is considered to prove that the recent recovery in Wall Street was no accident or isolated movement, but that it possibly marks the end of the world-wide depreciation in stocks.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Although this market's ideas regarding the Autumn trade outlook in America are not enthusiastic, the tendency in some good quarters is to take a more hopeful view.

HOPEFUL OF ARGENTINA.

London Market Reassured by Latest News—Argentine Securities Rising.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The political conditions in the Argentine are regarded with considerably more hope, and confidence in the outlook is returning to London's market. After a sharp fall to 39 9-16 pence, the lowest rate reached in many years, Argentine dollar exchange has recovered sharply.

As a consequence, Argentine government bonds and railway stocks have been firm throughout the week, although the investing public has not been doing much in them.

Prices on London Stock Exchange.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The Financial News index of prices for thirty industrial shares on the London stock market on Sept. 7 was 80.3, as against 81 a week ago, 76.9 a month ago and 100.6 at the end of September last year. The present number compares with a low point for the present year of 72.6 on Aug. 26.

Koppers to Help Build Russian Plant

Technical assistance will be supplied by the Koppers Construction Company of Pittsburgh in the construction at Magnitogorsk, in the Southern Urals, of the largest by-product coking plant in Europe, it was announced yesterday by the Amtorg Trading Corporation, purchasing agent for the Russian Soviet Union. An agreement to provide such assistance has just been signed by the Koppers company and the United Chemical Industries of the Soviet Union. The plant ultimately will have a capacity of 2,500,000 tons of coke annually, in addition to by-products. The plant, it is announced, will be the third largest in the world.

BERLIN SEES SIGNS OF BETTER TRADE

PRICES ARE NOW HOLDING

Not Believed That German or Foreign Markets Have Been Alarmed Over Election Possibilities.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—There are some faint signs of improving business conditions. The steel export market is slightly better and the export price of bars has risen. Demand for steel rails has also increased. German producers are also continuing with some success their pressure on the export trade. Export of manufactured goods is well maintained; shipments of footwear in the first half of the year are shown to have been 55 per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1929.

This has happened when export of similar materials from the other leading European countries decreased. Export of machinery has lately been reported as slackening, but in the first seven months of the year it totaled 425,000 tons, as compared with 359,000 in the same months of 1929.

On the other hand, publicly supported unemployed workingmen in Germany at the end of August numbered 1,947,000. Since June, when unemployment was at the lowest of the year, there has been an increase of 130,000. It can be explained, however, by purely seasonal influences. Staple prices in Germany continue to change very little. The index number as of Sept. 3 was 123.9, against 124 on Aug. 27 and 125.2 in the first week of last month. The retail prices of manufactured goods intended for consumption continue, however, to fall sharply. Nevertheless, despite the fresh decline in cotton and rubber the prevailing view is that the decline in prices of raw materials is approaching its end.

Except for hesitancy on the Stock Exchange, it cannot be said that the uncertainties of the German elections set for Sunday, the 14th, have been considered with actual disquiet by financial and business markets here. Even the possibility of a reactionary vote was not regarded as a necessarily check to financial recovery. Even on the Boerse, though prices were slightly weaker, textile shares rose on reports of reviving activity in that trade and on Thursday there was an advance in shipping shares. After the demand for money to repay the Reichsbank's advances of August had been satisfied, the Berlin market for day loans became increasingly easy, with falling interest rates and very nearly inability to place funds.

The chief factor in this was the almost complete suspension of demand for Stock Exchange credit. The banks, having no sufficient employment for their own funds, have refused pretty much all foreign offers of loans, though such tenders were abundant. This fact pretty well disposes of the current assertion on foreign markets that other countries were withholding credit facilities from Berlin until they knew how the elections had turned out.

UNFAVORABLE BALANCE FOR MEXICO INCREASES

Difference in Trade With Us in July Is $4,000,000—Cuts in Our Tariff Looked For.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 14.—Official figures for July show that imports into Mexico from the United States were valued at $9,400,000 in round figures, while Mexican exports to the United States were worth $5,300,000.

These July figures show a decrease from previous monthly figures and an unfavorble trade balance for Mexico of more than $4,000,000, which is most unsatisfactory for Mexico in view of her general trade and industrial conditions.

Because of secret exports of Mexican gold and speculation in the metal, the currency here has for some days been running at a premium of more than 7 per cent, as compared with silver pesos. The unfavorable trade balance also must be paid in Mexican gold.

The new American tariff schedule also will cut exports from this country, and although other outlets may be found for Mexican products, the prevailing crisis is likely to continue. Meanwhile Canada, Cuba and Spain are considered by the authorities as the most likely to offer markets to Mexico. Some modification of the American tariff as affecting Mexico is looked for here.

French Industry Is Beginning To Feel Trade Depression

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Contrasting with the feeling of a few months ago, the French industrial outlook seems at the moment rather doubtful. It is thought now that French industry will have to restrict production in view of the difficulties encountered in keeping up sales. Furthermore, the unsatisfactory results of the harvest are likely to aggravate the industrial crisis. While depression is not yet severe, the expansion of activity usually expected at this time of year is not taking place, and industries which continue sustained output are working at a loss or merely to increase stocks.

In some quarters the view is held that since the trade depression began later in France than elsewhere it is likely to last longer. At the moment, optimism is more general concerning economic prospects in the United States than those of France. The feeling is that raw material prices are at bottom level, and that American business may be expected to recover next Spring.

THINK GRAIN REPORTS MEAN LOWER PRICES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—On the whole, the disposition here is to take a somewhat bearish view of the Washington Government's grain estimates, especially when taken in conjunction with those of other countries. On wheat prices the view is only moderately unfavorable. Canada's crop estimates, however, are higher than was at one time expected and the Argentine and Australian crop reports are favorable.

On the other hand, it is admitted that Europe must buy more wheat from producing countries than it bought last year. But Russia is the uncertain quantity and is expected to fill the gap created by Europe's decreased production.

Your government's corn crop estimates are considered about what should have been expected, and it is believed that the worst of the crop damage has now been measured in the estimates. This being so, the inclination is to look for lower rather than higher prices for corn.

BEERBOHM'S ESTIMATE ON WHEAT PRODUCTION

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The details of Beerbohm's preliminary wheat crop estimate are as follows: The world's total production, as previously cabled to THE TIMES, is 558,818,000 quarters of eight bushels, compared with 525,603,000 estimated last year. For Europe Beerbohm's estimate is 269,345,000 quarters, against 277,378,000 a year ago. This includes 100,000,000 allotted to Russia, as against 92,363,000 last year; but the Russian figures are admittedly problematical.

The total estimate for North, Central and South America is 190,421,000 quarters, compared with an estimated 163,280,000 last year. The United States crop is placed at 102,500,000, against 100,814,000, the crop of India at 48,314,000, against 40,109,000.

COUP IN ARGENTINA REVIVES BUSINESS

GOVERNMENT PAPER GAINS

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 14.—Trading on the stock exchanges and various produce markets of Argentina in the past week presented the anomaly of briskness, confidence and heavy trading during the first week after a revolution, with the result that exports were considerably larger than they had been in the preceding week, while quotations of all government securities and of many private corporations rose sharply and the exchange position of the Argentine peso improved notably.

All stock exchanges, produce dealers and other leading business organizations sent delegations or telegrams to the newly installed provisional government offering to cooperate with it in any way possible, and then set about to prove the sincerity of their words by trading in a manner not seen here in a long time.

The provisional government let local banks know it needed 50,000,000 pesos—$21,230,000—and twenty banks immediately opened a six-months credit for double that amount, two United States banks subscribing one-tenth of the total. There was none of that indecision and stagnation of trading which usually follows a violent change in government such as that which overthrew Hipólito Irigoyen on Sept. 6.

Foreign Banks Volunteer.

It is significant of the confidence abroad that one of the first effects of the revolution on business was a sharp rise in the exchange value of the Argentine peso and that fifteen foreign banks were among the twenty subscribing to the loan on the second business day after the new régime assumed power.

Although Monday was a holiday on the occasion of the provisional government taking its oath of office, leaving only four and a half business days, grain exports totaled 149,145 tons, as compared with 125,202 in the preceding week.

It should be noted, however, that grain exports to date this year are only slightly more than half of what they were on the same date last year.

Wheat exports during the week totaled 734,353 bushels, as compared with 438,500 the preceding week, bringing the total to date to 68,354,000 bushels, compared with 195,259,500 bushels on the same date last year. Corn exports were 4,213,676, compared with 3,791,140 bushels last week, with a total to date of 108,829,150, compared with 137,015,300 last year. Flaxseed exports were 462,126, compared with 338,882, with, to date, 35,737,750 compared with 57,138,670 last year.

Government Paper Active.

Trading was active in all government bonds, and quotations rose from two to three pesos on all important issues. The 1922 internal credit bonds rose from 96.70 on Sept. 5, the day before the revolution, to 98.70 on Saturday. The 1924 issue of the same bonds rose from 96.40 to 98.50 and the 1925 issue from 95.30 to 98.50.

There was a similar rise in the prices of provincial and municipal securities and in the Cedulas bonds of the National Mortgage Bank.

The exchange value of the Argentine paper peso rose from 34.1 United States cents on Sept. 1 to 37.1 on Thursday, but declined somewhat on Friday and Saturday, closing at 36.6.

An auction sale of blooded cattle, horses, sheep and pigs at the Rural Society's annual live stock exposition totaled 1,375,891 pesos, the lowest total in seven years, comparing with 1,918,143 pesos last year, 2,324,792 in 1928 and 3,023,946 pesos in 1924.

Trade With Us Down 36 Per Cent.

The United States exported goods valued at $82,295,000 to Argentina in the first seven months of this year, as compared with $128,624,000 in the first seven months of last year, a decrease of $46,329,000, or 36 per cent.

In the same period Argentine exports to the United States also decreased, but only 18.44 per cent, totaling $57,624,773 at the end of July, compared with $70,658,000 in the first seven months of last year.

SPEEDY RECOVERY DOUBTED BY DUTCH

FOREIGN TRADE SHRINKING

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 12.—In contrast with what seems to be the American view of the economic situation, opinion on this market is not favorable. It is forcibly put, in the judgment of the German Institut Konjunkturforscung, which holds that improvement this year cannot be expected when visible supplies of thirteen world products have increased by 50 per cent. The absorption of this surplus, it considers, would require much time even after revival of consumers' demand.

Although prices in Holland are still declining, the belief prevails here that the course of depression is at least turning. More favorable views have been officially expressed by the management of the Philips Incandescent and of the Royal Dutch, the first-mentioned being the more valuable regarding home conditions.

On the other hand, the foreign trade figures of European countries still continue to cause misgiving. In Switzerland, for instance, the August returns showed total value of the month's foreign trade (exclusive of gold) to have fallen from 406,000,000 Swiss francs last year to 326,000,000 this year. Great Britain's imports in August were, in value, 20 per cent less than a year ago, while exports decreased 32 per cent. Dutch exports during the seven months have been 1,084 million florins, against 1,176 last year; imports, 1,488 millions against 1,588 millions.

Conditions in Germany are not an encouraging factor. The depression is recognized as more or less of a "cyclical" movement, but it is necessarily judged by the masses chiefly from the standpoint of unemployment. This leads to dissatisfaction and disturbances, which in their turn are themselves hampering economic recovery.

STEEL TRADE'S RISE IN AUTUMN IN DOUBT

Industry Cannot Tell if Increased Output Is on Way or Has Mostly Been Made.

PRICE BOLSTERING TRIED

Costs of Manufacture Larger With Mills Forced to Run at Rates Far Under Capacity.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.—The question in steel now is whether the industry will fail this year to have the Autumn rise in production that occurs, by no means invariably, but more often than not, or whether it already has experienced much of the rise without noticing the fact. Predictions of a substantial increase have been so numerous and confident that something rather impressive has been expected.

Considering the rises in previous years, the increase in steel production from July to September was 9 per cent in 1928, 8 per cent in 1926 and 13 per cent in 1925. Those were ordinary years except that 1928 had a particularly good second half year. In 1924 there was a veritable slump in production from March to July, and the increase from July to September was 50 per cent. Something like a 10 per cent rise, therefore, may be regarded as the ordinary seasonal thing.

The Iron Age last week said: "No marked recovery in steel demand is yet evident," and then estimated the rate of steel ingot production at 58 per cent of capacity, which it remarked was 3 to 4 per cent larger than the last official finding, which was for Dec. 31, 1929. It said also last week's rate was 1½ per cent above the August average, which was assumed to mean the average reported by the American Iron and Steel Institute. The official report for July had given production at 56.35 per cent of the Dec. 31 capacity rating. According to these figures there had been 6 to 7 per cent rise in tonnage output since July, whereas a 10 per cent rise would be typical of seasonal increase in an ordinary year. Assuming the figures to be correct, it would appear that there has been two-thirds as much improvement in steel tonnage as ought to be expected so long as there is only a seasonal improvement in general business.

As the weeks pass a special condition existing in the early months of the year is seen more clearly in retrospect, a condition of momentum in steel consumption holding over from the previous very active business conditions, due to large corporate earnings with consequent plans for expansion or improvement in facilities and to good salary and wage earnings, resulting, for instance, in a pace of automobile buying that could not be sustained in the last three months. From this viewpoint the present dullness, it is believed, will take longer to wear off than would otherwise be the case.

Faced with a period of definite length of steel demand much below productive capacity, and therefore not conducive to economical operation or unit costs as low as prevailed last year, the steel producers have a very strong incentive to take a much stronger stand on prices. This they are attempting to do, endeavoring to hold for fourth-quarter delivery prices that lately have been called "the market," but really have been shaded or cut, sometimes deeply, in the last few months.

The Carnegie Steel Company has placed an order for $330,000 of electrical equipment with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company to be installed in its new bar mill at the McDonald plant, Youngstown, Ohio. For the first time, it is said, vertical motors will drive vertical stands, eliminating the necessity of turning the bar after it has been reduced by the horizontal rolls.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Steel output in the United Kingdom during August fell to 451,300 tons, compared with 621,400 in July and 753,300 in August of 1929. Pig iron output last month was 416,700 tons as against 486,100 in July and 682,000 a year ago.

WIDENING OF DEMAND FOR BONDS EXPECTED

Institutions, Including Banks, Are Large Buyers, Says Review by Financial Firm.

There is every reason to anticipate a gradual broadening in demand for all classes of good bonds, and prices should hold firm if the coming months show that the issues held up from last year are well out of the way, according to Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., in their quarterly review. It is pointed out that the bond market in 1930 has been making progress in the face of an unusually large volume of new offerings.

"The heaviest demand for bonds so far this year has come from institutions, including banks in the leading metropolitan centres," says the review. "The interest of individual investors, however, has been in increasing evidence. On Aug. 20, the security holdings of reporting banks in the Federal Reserve System totaled $6,340,000,000. This is the highest total on record, being considerably above the previous record level attained in the Summer of 1928.

"Many factors which should contribute to the demand for bonds have continued to strengthen during the present Summer. Money rates have remained low. The long slump in commodity prices has served to enhance the value of the dollar, and hence the attractiveness of bonds and the interest derived from them. Moreover, the last vestiges of speculative fever have seemingly disappeared, and have been replaced by a growing sentiment for conservatism."

CARTEL LOSING CONTROL.

International Steel Agreements Ineffective Owing to Secret Selling.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—In connection with the coming negotiations of the International Steel Cartel, the present German view is that the cartel will remain ineffective until it creates a central selling bureau for each sort of steel. No good is expected from control by the bureau, which merely fixes prices but leaves the actual selling methods to member countries.

The reason is that, owing to lack of syndicates in the domestic trade of France and Belgium, individual concerns can always undersell the cartel's prices during transition from unfavorable to favorable foreign trade balances Such underselling was the reason why the cartel last Summer was obliged to abandon its attempts at price-fixing.

TO BEGIN ELECTRIC SERVICE

Electricity will have entirely superseded steam by the end of September in the suburban service of the Lackawanna Railroad, it was announced yesterday. The first multiple-unit electric train between Hoboken and South Orange will be operated for test purposes this week, probably on Thursday, and if the results prove satisfactory the road will open the first passenger-carrying electric service on that line next Monday.

With the opening of this service the Lackawanna will concentrate next on the electrification of the stretch between South Orange and Morristown and on the final section, Morristown to Dover and Summit to Gladstone.

JULY AUTO EXPORTS 62% BELOW 1929

46% OFF FOR HALF YEAR

Drop in Complete Units Was 78 Per Cent in July, as Against Year Ago, and in Parts 10 Per Cent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The value of United States exports of automotive products during July registered a decrease of nearly 17 per cent, the Department of Commerce announced today in a survey of the industry, amounting to $18,977,189, as compared with $22,790,355 during the preceding month. Compared with exports for July, 1929, a decline of 62 per cent was noted.

Automotive exports for the January-July period of 1930 dropped to $215,077,460 from $402,126,465 a year ago, a decrease of slightly more than 46 per cent. The monthly average for the year up to the end of July was $30,725,351, as compared with $57,446,637 for the 1929 period.

The greatest amount of decline in July was shown in shipments of complete units, including passenger cars and trucks, in which there was a reduction of 23 per cent below the June figure. Compared with July, 1929, however, there was a decrease of 78 per cent. Other automotive products, including parts and accessories, showed a decline of 10 per cent.

The total United States production of passenger cars and trucks in the January-July period was 2,481,911, of which 173,828, or 7 per cent, were exported.

Canada was again the leading market for passenger cars in July, closely followed by the Union of South Africa, Belgium, Mexico and Argentina. Argentina took the greatest number of units during June, but their value was less than that covering the exports to Canada.

The Union of South Africa achieved second place during July by almost doubling the number taken in the previous month. The number exported to Argentina, on the other hand, was about half that shipped during June.

Other countries that increased their takings were Cuba, the Philippines, Uruguay and Denmark. Substantial decreases were recorded in Java, Japan, Sweden, Netherlands and Panama.

In the truck field, Australia increased its purchases in July about 65 per cent and rose to first place. Canada occupied the foremost position for the preceding month, but its takings decreased to such an extent that it was shifted to fifth position.

The Netherlands was the second best market, followed by British India and Japan. Substantial increases were recorded in Japan and Soviet Russia, while decreases resulted in Cuba and Mexico.

(Pronounced Mat-teece)
Incorporated under the laws of the State of Delaware

CAPITALIZATION

500,000 shares Class B no par value common

The company is organized to build and offer for sale in the United States the well known Mathis car, a powerful, well built, attractive small car that enjoys a splendid reputation in France and will sell at sight in this market.

In the opinion of the best informed minds in the motor car industry the SMALL CAR CRAZE long delayed has at last struck this country. The small car properly designed and built is the car of the future for the following reasons:

Because it is easy to handle in traffic.
Because it rides and handles more easily than the majority of the larger kind.
Because it has all the speed that reasonable people require—55 miles per hour if desired.
Because it automatically widens the streets and roads without additional cost.
Because it does quite as much and in many instances more than the present accepted large car.

For its immediate needs American Mathis, Inc., requires $3,000,000 working capital, which will be provided through the sale of 30,000 shares Class A stock at $50 per share, each share of Class A to receive one share of Class B stock as a bonus. The proceeds of Class A stock will provide $1,500,000

100,000 shares Class B stock at $15 per share, to net the company.. 1,500,000
TOTAL $3,000,000

Class A authorized 60,000 shares:
Held in treasury 30,000
TOTAL 60,000

Class B authorized 500,000 shares:
Issued for cash 100,000
Bonus for Class A stock 30,000
For use of name, use of special tools, drawings and blueprints covering the complete Mathis line of small cars, selling rights for the United States, together with contract for the manufacture of the company's requirements for a term of years (subject to cancellation)—the above issued for control 300,000
Held in treasury 70,000

Mr. E. E. C. Mathis and his associates are to be given an option for a period of eighteen months to purchase the 70,000 shares held in the treasury at $50 a share.

EARNINGS

It is estimated that 50,000 cars can be manufactured and sold during the first year. After providing for the dividend on the Class A, it is estimated that the earnings applicable to Class B stock will approximate $1,000,000, equal to 20% of the entire authorized capital. A conservative estimate of the production for the second year is, 100,000 cars, with earnings applicable to the Class B stock in excess of $3,000,000, equal to 60% of the entire authorized capital.

Are We Faced By Permanent Unemployment

In the fast-moving triumphs of American mechanical genius certain of our economists foresee a troubled future for workers. Franklyn Hobbs takes issue with them in the American Bankers Association Journal for September—and tells you why with clarity and forcefulness.

In this same issue, John Moody, famous authority, discusses bonds Norman J. Wall argues for the adequacy of the world's gold stocks: Dorothy Fullerton describes woman's part in banking; fifteen other authorities deal with problems dominant in the thinking of bankers, business leaders and investors; the magnificent five-color never-painting recalls selling methods used by Colonial brokers.

TRADERS DOWNCAST AS GRAINS GO LOWER

CANADIAN MOVEMENT FELT

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Lack of confidence, bearish statistics on all grains except corn, liquidation and a steady lowering of prices each day featured the grain markets last week. There was only a small rally at the last due to week-end evening up. The markets were the most disappointing the trade has experienced in recent years.

The effect of all the news and statistics had evidently been discounted by the recent action of the market and a general realizing movement left no doubt that leading traders who had been instrumental in advancing prices of corn and depressing wheat were satisfied that their position was wrong. The close for the week presented net losses on wheat of 4⅞ to 5⅛ cents; corn, 5½ to 6⅝; oats, 3¼ to 3⅝, and rye, 1¾ to 3.

The wheat market has few friends, although September is down to about 80 cents, the lowest price in recent years, while May wheat is the lowest since July, 1923. Winnipeg was the depressing factor, not only in American but in foreign markets. Russia acted as a bearish influence on foreign markets.

The Canadian pool was credited with selling its wheat as fast as buyers would take it. December in Winnipeg was off 6⅛ cents, with a close there at 82⅛ cents, or 3½ cents under the same delivery in Chicago. December in Liverpool was off 4⅜ cents.

Predictions of a larger crop of Winter and Spring wheat in the United States than yet announced are expected later in the season. All indications are that the final returns will be around 850,000,000 bushels, compared with 807,000,000 last year, and a five-year average of 833,000,000. With a big carryover in both the United States and Canada, there is believed to be plenty of wheat for all foreign and feeding requirements.

Statements from official authorities telling that wheat fed to hogs has returned an equivalent of $1.50 a bushel to the farmer has had some effect on the speculative mind and has induced buying on breaks, but so far those who have worked on this principle have lost money.

A representative of the Cooperative Wholesale Society of England, who has been in Washington, in a statement issued said the season was apparently overbalanced toward the buying side, and the adjustment was so close that it may be turned any year and the world find itself actually short of bread grain.

Closing trades on September wheat in Chicago were at 80¼ cents, December 85¾ to 85⅝, March 89½ to 89⅝ and May 92½ to 92⅝. Open interest in wheat futures at the close was 159,622,000 bushels, compared with 147,058,000 the previous week.

Primary receipts of wheat last week were 16,940,000 bushels; in the previous week 17,967,000, and in the week last year 17,987,000. Shipments respectively were 11,499,000, 10,991,000 and 7,744,000 bushels.

A sensationally bullish crop report on corn, coming on the heels of similar reports, with a loss of 819,000,000 bushels in the crop promise in two months is insufficient to bull the corn price and maintain a higher level, without greatly increased speculative support, according to market actions last week. Long corn came out in greater volume, with selling of corn against purchases of wheat, and a drop of virtually 7½ cents a bushel in September from the high point at the opening of the week, and of around 8 to 9 cents from the previous week's high.

Closing trades on September corn were at 92 cents, December 86⅞ to 87, March 87⅞ to 88⅛ and May 89¾ to 89⅞.

Primary receipts of corn last week were 3,762,000 bushels; in the previous week 4,667,000 and in the week last year 3,920,000. Shipments respectively were 2,398,000, 2,732,000 and 2,785,000 bushels.

An increase in the oats crop over August returns to a production of 1,391,000,000 bushels, the largest in recent years, brought a liquidating movement among the largest recent buyers and a loss of a good part of the advance of the last few weeks. The finish on the September was 36¾ cents, December 40 to 40¼, March 42 and May 43½ cents. Cash oats are selling at 2 to 3 cents discount under December in car lots on track.

Rye is a professional market. Consumptive demand from feed makers and millers is better, and the market acts stubborn, with less hedging pressure than usual. The close on September was 56 cents, December 60, March 64½ and May 67.

MIXED REPORTS ON CROPS.

Condition Said to Be First of Kind Since Forecasts Started.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Crop reports at present are mixed to a greater extent than in any other year since crop reporting became a science. There is an abundance of wheat, rye, oats and barley, with a shortage of corn, pastures and potatoes. Indications are that foodstuffs will be scarce later in the season.

Trade expectations are that final returns on Winter and Spring wheat will be raised. At the same time a lowering of corn estimates is indicated by private reports.

Where rains have fallen in the northern part of the corn belt, corn is doing better and maturing so fast that it affects the yield and quality of the grain. More than 50 per cent of the Iowa crop will be out of the way of frost within the next two weeks.

A greater quantity of corn is being cut for feed and silos than in previous years, and while the supply of roughage is fair to good, present indications are for a shortage later in the season because of increased consumption. Rains have put soil in better shape in parts of Eastern and Central Kansas, and much plowing and seeding has been completed in the Southwest.

In the large area of the Middle West plowing and seeding of Winter wheat are late and rains would enable farmers to finish this work in a short time. Reports from the American and Canadian Northwest indicate that subsoil moisture is deficient.

BANKERS TO FINANCE GRAIN CORPORATION

PLAN SUGGESTED BY BANKS

Agriculture Thus Will Benefit Without Loss of Loan Business to Bankers, Says Milnor.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—An innovation in its program of bolstering up grain prices and so helping the farmer was announced tonight by the Grain Stabilization Corporation. Heretofore, the operations of the corporation have been financed by government funds drawn from the treasury. But now the corporation will also borrow considerable money from New York and Chicago banks.

A syndicate of important banks, headed by the National City and Chase National Banks of New York and the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, has arranged to lend $30,000,000 to the Grain Stabilization Corporation. The corporation will purchase grains in the market and then on the basis of warehouse receipts will borrow 80 per cent of the market value of the grain from the banks. The borrowings will be arranged in the form of bankers' acceptances to be issued in series maturing in ninety days.

The credits will be available for purchasing grains for the present crop year, which ends July 31, 1931. It is pointed out that the arrangement with the banks providing for loans of 80 per cent on market value of grains is more liberal than the policy of Canadian banks in limiting advances to the Canadian wheat pool to only 60 cents a bushel.

"Execution of the acceptance agreement is in line with the announced policy of the Federal Farm Board to apply the provisions of the agricultural marketing act for the benefit of agriculture without disturbance to industry or banking," George S. Milnor, president of the Grain Stabilization Corporation, explained. "While heretofore the corporation has handled its operations without availing itself of commercial banking credit, the bankers had requested, in view of the fact that in previous years much of their funds had been used in financing grain, that the banks have an opportunity to join with the corporation in carrying its grain stocks.

"This being in accord with the policy of the corporation and the Federal Farm Board, which finances and supervises the operations of the corporation, the bankers' acceptance agreement was executed.

"All the grain owned by the Grain Stabilization Corporation was paid for in cash and the corporation is entirely free of bank indebtedness, making the grain collateral owned by the corporation available to secure the bankers' acceptances. The amount of credit offered by the accepting banks was greatly in excess of the amount to be borrowed."

Increasing Payroll Daily.

With orders running consistently ahead of those of a year ago, the Philadelphia Storage Battery Company of Philadelphia is adding seventy-five names to its payroll daily, James M. Skinner, vice president and general manager, announced Saturday. The company is employing 4,000 men now, compared with 2,500 four months ago.

LOW COTTON PRICES STIMULATE MARKET

LULL IN FUTURES TRADING

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 14.—While last week started with active trading, owing to the fact that the government condition and crop, as well as the total ginning figures to Sept. 1, were issued on Monday morning, it was quiet enough the remainder of the week. The government report indicating a yield of 14,340,000 bales, only a shade smaller than the estimate of a month previously, was larger than the trade expected, and the liquidation of the carried-over long interest, plus some hedge and speculative selling, was responsible for a decline on Monday of fully $3 a bale.

It soon developed, however, that the remaining long interest had been comparatively small, owing to the volume of pre-bureau liquidation that had occurred, and as the technical position had improved, prices rallied, until by the middle of the week the greater part of the loss due to the government's crop figures was regained. As the week drew to a close, however, a sharp slump in wheat and some show of weakness in stocks caused a fresh recession of values and prices dropped to within 15 points of the low of Monday.

Obstacles to Price Advance.

Although it has become evident that prices have touched levels low enough to stimulate the demand for spot cotton, the advices from the crop and the large prospective supply stand in the way of anything like a healthy advance. Exports have broadened considerably and the spot trading at the principal Southern markets indicates that domestic spinners as well are taking advantage of present low prices to replenish depleted supplies.

It has also become evident that large spot traders are in the market and buying up desirable cotton, as at present low prices the cost of carrying the cotton is an inducement to purchase good blocks as an investment. As a result, exports have run well ahead of last year and the daily sales reported from Southern markets are about paralleling those of a year ago when the demand was heavy.

Whether the crop proves to be as large as the recent forecast or a little larger or smaller is of less consequence to the trade than the revival of the consumptive demand. Low prices usually stimulate the demand and prices are now sufficiently low to encourage not only buying for investment but also for speculative purposes. Speculation so far has been rather slack, but it is likely that as soon as traders make up their minds that the crop is something like the government estimate there will be a revival of speculation.

Smaller Volume of Hedges.

While there has been more or less hedging of cotton this season, the volume of hedges is comparatively small when compared with other years, particularly last year. This has been attributed to the low range of values and also to the holding back of cotton in the interior, owing to the ability of planters to borrow the large percentage of the market value allowed by the Farm Loan Board.

Although, according to a private estimate, domestic mill consumption was again small during August, there is every reason to hope that from now on mill consumption will improve, as the cotton goods trade has already improved to a considerable extent and there were reports during the week that about a dozen New England mills were resuming work, presumably on increased schedules.

The weak spot in the situation is the unsatisfactory condition of trade in the milling district of Great Britain. The Indian boycott and the unrest in China, coupled with the decline in silver, have left their marks, but there have been some signs of improvement recently. The Indian boycott is less stringently enforced than it was and the situation in China appears to be clearing up somewhat, while silver has appreciably improved in recent weeks.

Curtailment in Japan.

The strike among the French mill operatives appears to have been settled. About the only remaining unfavorable element is the situation among the Japanese mills, as Japanese spinners have determined, beginning Oct. 1, to increase curtailment, which has been running at 20 per cent for some time, to 33 per cent. The worst phase of such a situation would be diversion to Europe of considerable cheap Indian cotton that under other conditions would have gone to Japan. This cheap cotton competes actively with American cotton.

Low prices are stimulating demand, as shown by the much larger exports than a year ago. The prospective supply of American cotton is large, but once the demand has reached the proportions warranted by the present price levels, the supply will not look so large nor exert the potent influence that it now exerts. A broadening of general trade is believed to be really all that is now needed to increase the consumption of cotton to something like the proportion warranted by the supply.

RESIDENT OFFICES REPORT ON TRADE

Notable Gain in Orders Brings Peak Activity for Fall Season Thus Far.

DELIVERY DELAYS INCREASE

Dress Call Continues Active—Tweed Coats and Berets Liked—Men's Lines Best Since May.

A heavy increase in buying activity, setting a new peak for seasonal merchandise demands thus far this Fall, featured the week in the wholesale markets. The volume of reorders was large and covered women's, men's and boys' apparel and accessories. Increasing difficulty in securing quick delivery was reported, a situation that promises to become more acute as the season advances and cold weather appears. Business this week at wholesale is expected to reveal continued gains under the spur of increasing consumer demands and light retail stocks. Dresses are in increasingly active request, with velvet styles pushing into the foreground. Knitted sports wear retains its marked popularity and a good demand continues for popular price fur coats. Tweed sports coats with berets are being reordered daily. The volume of buying orders for men's and boys' wear was reported as the heaviest since last May.

The major style and merchandising trends of the week as reported by leading resident buyers here follow:

Men's Wear Buying Widespread.

AFFILIATED CLOTHIERS, INC.—"The volume of buying orders during the past week was unusually heavy, making it the largest in point of merchandise bought since the middle of May. This increase is widespread throughout the country. Almost every article of wearing apparel for men and boys was included in the past week's purchases. Tuxedo suits and vests were sought to replenish incomplete stocks. The newest note in shirt and tie ensembles calls for the multiple stripe in shirts, which, according to style authorities, has been a very favored fashion for several months in London. The appropriate tie to wear with this shirt is the separated figure cravat."

FELIX LILIENTHAL & CO., INC.—"We are receiving large orders for the jewel afternoon dress in crepe, chiffon and crepe moravia. Calls for evening gowns centre on satins and crepe moravia, featuring mainly the jeweled shoulder strap and long runners of self material flowers. Demand for sports types in one-piece light wool dress, and two, three and four-piece knitted suits continues. We have received a number of reorders for the navy blue camel's hair coats, although the tan shade has not been neglected. The sport coat with matching beret has been popular, Caracul and Persian lamb are outstanding in the popular priced garments. Muskrats, ponies, sealines and lapins lead in the $100 retailer. There is a continued demand for the short jacket in lapin. In children's dresses, we are receiving orders for jerseys in sizes seven to fourteen to retail at $2.95. School openings have expanded the demand for children's coats."

JAY, FLANAGAN, MESIROW CO.—"This week's requests have been for all types of dresses in the better price range, but the greatest percentage has been for velvets and crêpes. Velvets have come to the fore recently and are fashioned with beading and lace trim. Dinner and evening dresses in this fabric also are popular. With the lack of any basic development in the silhouette, minor details of the street dress are emphasized. Sleeves are accorded attention. Skirts are widely sponsored both in misses' and matrons' dresses. Often they are a continuation of the blouse. The neckline most frequently viewed is the draped or cowl. We note a stronger call for wine shades, although black, brown and green still lead. In evening wear glistening satin in white, turquoise and sapphire is frequently seen."

Knitwear Deliveries Slow.

WILLIAM M. VAN BUREN—"The silhouette, while not changed, portrays much detail, but is simple and feminine in style. In the recent copies of imports those from Vionnet seem to be outstanding because of her simplicity of line. Tunics are important and are shown on all lines in varied lengths and combinations of fabrics. Sleeves and necklines are treated interestingly. Reorders are coming in on medium and better type dresses. Crêpes, many wools and transparent velvets are sought. Black leads colors, with brown and green following. There is a strong demand for knitted sportswear of the better type, and deliveries are slow. In our judgment, prospects for future business are bright."

JOHN M. BIGGINS, INC.—"There is a consistent demand for dress weight woolens over the counter. Novelty nubbed, flecked and snowflake effects are emphasized. Wool crêpes are established as one of the season's outstanding cloths. Crêpe broadcloths, broadcloths and monotone coatings are important in the heavier fabric divisions. Cantons dominate the demand for plain colored crêpes. The style importance of the jacket has caused a strong demand for popular priced transparent velvet by the yard. Small neat spaced effects are finding favor. The demand for eggshell in crêpe satin has been outstanding. Prices, particularly on seasonable silk fabrics, are softening. There is a marked decline in the prices of printed rayon."

MERCHANDISE REPORTING COMPANY, INC.—"Outstanding among recent dress offerings are transparent velvet dresses at $10.50. The V neckline has lace vestee and velvet bow to front. The belt of self material is placed at the normal waistline and is fastened with a rhinestone buckle. The skirt is circular in front. Also notable at this price are three-piece suits, consisting of transparent velvet jacket and crêpe de chine blouse. The jacket is of the straightline type, while the slightly flared skirt is set on bodice. The sleeveless blouse has jabot and five buttons to the front."

BEN F. LEVIS—"In popular-priced dresses manufacturers are booking a large business in the new Russian tunic dresses. Transparent velvet dresses and ensembles are being sought. Canton crêpes and travel tweeds are selling well. In better dresses transparent velvet frocks are now very active, more so than was predicted earlier. Chiffons for afternoon and dinner wear are becoming the most important feature in most new lines. Sport dresses to sell at $5 are very much in demand. Jersey prints, coverts and novelty woolens are the materials sought. The new guimpe dress is favored. Fur-trimmed felt hats in the better type are receiving considerable attention. Coat demand is holding up fairly well. We expect a good business in October. Monotone tweed sport coats are being ordered on a conservative basis. Manufacturers are attempting to introduce the Cossack type coats with beret to match."

JACK HARTLEY, INC.—"Numerous reorders continue to be received for men's and boys' clothing and furnishings. Retailers who have been in the market during the past two weeks have purchased more liberally and are more optimistic regarding the future. In boys' clothing knickers and longies have been reordered heavily. Boys' four-piece knicker suits have not been as active as the other items. Boys' wool, leatherette and reversible lumberjacks are purchased as good Fall items. Orders for boys' shirts and blouses continue to be placed quite liberally. Men's and young men's worsted and cashmere suits are accorded considerable attention. Numerous inquiries have been received for camel pile and alpaca sport coats. Requests for men's rayon and blanket robes are being received daily."

SENTIMENT BETTER IN TRADE IN WEST

INVENTORIES SEEN AS LOW

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Trade sentiment is slightly more optimistic than it was a week ago, with actual business reaching a fair volume. Trade leaders are convinced of an improvement is slightly more optimistic here-about than it was a week ago, with actual business reaching a fair volume. Trade leaders are convinced of an improvement, which is verified by reports of wholesale, dry goods and mercantile leaders, as well as by retailers. Business in the last two week was reported as the best in recent months. There is skepticism as to whether it can hold or can make further gains. A greater number of merchants from all parts of the country, particularly from the Middle West and West, were in the market last week with a volume of orders and shipments the best in months. Inventories are said to be low and the hand-to-mouth buying makes a steady flow of business from manufacturers and jobbers as well as retailers. Employment conditions are said to be better.

Mixed conditions prevail in the steel industry. Leaders in the trade look forward to good business later in the season. Operations in the Chicago district remain at about the same as for several weeks, at 56 to 57 per cent of capacity. Rails, plates and sheets receive the most attention. Fair-sized orders developed for plates. Sheet prices are up $1 a ton and there has been a partial readjustment of prices with a disposition to look for a continuation of present levels for the remainder of the season. Backlogs, however, are limited.

Pig iron production has been changed slightly by the closing of one independent furnace at Indiana Harbor and the banking of one at Duluth, while most merchant furnaces are in operation. Inquiries from melters have increased, with several contracts closed for the fourth quarter. An impression prevails here that the $17.50 level for No. 2 foundry at Chicago will be maintained the rest of the season.

Lumber buyers are operating cautiously. Yard stocks of retailers throughout the West are said to be moderate, and mill shipments are not increasing on soft and southern pine. Hardwood interests are experiencing better business. Building construction is furnishing rather less demand for materials than a year ago. Consumption of gasoline is heavy and values are firmer.

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Light cattle went up last week and heavy cattle down, says a government report in review of the Chicago cattle market. The former advanced 50 cents and the latter lost an equivalent amount, placing the two classes further apart on grade basis than they were at any previous time this season. Choice light yearling steers sold up to $13.10 as compared with $12.60 the previous week. The best price on heavy steers was $12.25. Most sales were at $8.65 to $12.25, with a week's average of $11, the highest since June 7. A net gain of 25 cents was established for the week but the average was $2.75 less than last year's and $1.85 below the five-year average.

Butchers' stocks gained 25 to 50 cents and others lost 50 cents. Calves advanced 50 cents, and stockers, feeders and western cattle dropped 25 cents. More pigs and lightweights were offered, showing evidence of a desire on the part of farmers to reduce holdings. Receipts of 114,900 here were 24,000 more than in the previous week but 24,000 fewer than a year ago. Fresh meat trade was good, and is absorbing a liberal percentage of the arrivals at 17 to 28 cents, the latter figure being off 4 cents.

Feeders are taking thin lambs at $7.50 to $7.75, while the week's top on fat stock, made at the close, was $9.65, with the closing average at $8.70 compared with a week's average of $8.40, a gain of 30 cents for the week, while a year ago it was $12.95. PROVISIONS IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—A break in grain prices dampened the bullish enthusiasm of speculators and packing interests whose operations on the buying side of lard advanced prices materially of late. A profit-taking movement in sympathy with grains found buying support limited, and closing prices were at losses of 30 to 42½ cents, the latter on January, which closed at $11. December ended at $11.05. October $11.42½ and September $11.50. The last named closed the same as a year before, while January lard is more than 1 cent a pound lower.

A good cash trade was on in dry-salted clear bellies at $14.45 to $14.60, with the close at $14.55, a net loss of 15 cents for the week.

Lard stocks in cold storage in leading points on September 1 were 89,140,000 pounds, compared with 118,353,000 a month ago and 180,085,000 a year ago.

OPPOSES RESTRICTION OF RUBBER OUTPUT

One of Largest Producers Holds Production Costs Are Being Heavily Reduced.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The slump in rubber prices to a new low record of 3⅞ pence per pound has since been followed by a partial rally. The fall was due to a decision of the Malayan and Dutch East Indies Governments not to support the restriction scheme. The boards of the Dunlop Rubber and Dunlop Plantation Companies have issued statements giving reasons why they do not agree with the restriction plan.

Dunlop is one of the largest users and also one of the largest producers of rubber, and the cost of rubber production to its plantation companies in August is estimated at less than 4 pence per pound. When new and approved areas come into tapping, a cost of less than 3 pence per pound is expected.

The new institution, which will be known as the California Commodity Exchange, will provide an open market for both spot and future deliveries of Western products, including long staple cotton, wool, lumber, petroleum products, citrus fruits, sugar, grains, rubber, hides, live stock and produce.

AUGUST DROP SLIGHT IN FRENCH PRICES

The General Average Is Now 9 Per Cent Lower Than a Year Ago.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—The monthly index of wholesale French prices, issued by the Statistique Générale, shows decline from 548 at the end of July to 544 at the end of August. The foodstuffs index rose from 538 to 543, but the index for materials of industry, chiefly because of the fall in metals and textiles, declined from 557 to 546.

Jan. 1930	574	Aug. 1922	383

The highest point ever reached was 854 at the end of July, 1926, when the franc reached its low price in the currency depreciation of that year. The highest last year was 653, in March.

ATTACK HOSIERY WAGE CUTS

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Pa., Sept. 14.—Warning of a "trade catastrophe" in the full fashioned hosiery manufacturing industry unless the rush to make silk hosiery at the new reduced wage rates for knitters is brought under control was given by speakers today at a meeting at Sinking Spring Labor Park, near here, under the auspices of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers.

John Peel, vice president of the North Carolina Federation of Labor and representative of the United Textile Workers, declared the low wage policy of the textile manufacturers in the Carolinas had brought economic desolation to the region, and that unless the labor movement grew more powerful in both the North and South, there was little hope for any permanent improvement in the lot of textile operatives.

Secretary Smith of the hosiery workers charged that Reading manufacturers were primarily responsible for setting the pace which brought about the menace to the industry of overproduction. The wage cutting here has evidently only encouraged increased operation, he said. He urged the immediate regulation of hours through trade union organization.

STRUCTURAL STEEL PRICE IS ADVANCED

CALLED RECOVERY FACTOR

Beals Sees Trade Gain Also in the Union of Supply Firms and Listing of Payment Practices.

An advance of about 6 per cent in the price of structural steel, effective at once for all fabricated products used in building construction in the metropolitan area of New York, is announced by the Structural Steel Board of Trade in today's issue of the Dow Service Daily Building Reports. Allen E. Beals, editor of the reports, sees the increase as one of three events in the structural steel field bolstering a belief that the way is being cleared for a general building trade recovery. The other two events are the amalgamation of two of the oldest merchant steel distributors in the city and a check-up among structural steel fabricators to determine the individual "trade contact rating" or payment practice of some 400 general contractors and owner builders in the metropolitan area.

Price advances in the Chicago district, where steel sheet producers are opening their books for fourth-quarter shipments at $1 to $2 a ton higher, were not followed by merchant steel distributors here, Mr. Beals says, the disposition of the trade being to wait to find out how the price advance in structural steel holds, since strictly building construction steel orders in this territory during June were the third highest since 1925, when such figures first began to be kept. Local orders in July and August also were above the average. The position of the local merchant steel trade, as seen by Mr. Beals, appeared to be to give precedent a chance to work, in the belief that building that is most sluggish in a falling material price market turns active in a rising one. In other words, he says, if the higher price of structural steel can be maintained here, the merchant steel price level will tighten, too.

Old Firms Amalgamate.

Mr. Beals sees as significant the amalgamation of two of the oldest merchant steel selling firms in the country, the 101-year-old firm of Egleston Brothers & Co., Inc., of Long Island City and Froment & Co. of Manhattan, who announced that on Oct. 1 they would join forces, with Albert J. Bragg as president of the enlarged first-named organization, Eugene McK. Froment as vice president, James F. Bragg as treasurer and Ferdinand Cook as secretary, in anticipation of the impending change for the better in this part of the building supply trade in the metropolitan area.

A trade letter sent out by Charles L. Eidlitz, chairman of the Structural Steel Board of Trade, Inc., to member fabricators has for its purpose, according to Mr. Beals, the recording for the first time in Eastern building trade history of subcontractor experience with buyers to put that branch of the construction industry in such shape when the expected sudden break-out of construction occurs that the sellers will know just what to expect in the way of payment from the buyers of building steel.

"Enclosed you will find a rather complete list (about 400) of general contractors, construction companies and owner builders, all of whom are more or less active in the metropolitan district," says Mr. Eidlitz's circular, as reported by Mr. Beals. "I am preparing a rating book for the use of the board covering these buyers. With my thirty years' experience in the contracting business, together with five years as chairman of the Electrical Board of Trade and another five years as chairman of the Structural Steel Board of Trade, I feel that I am in possession of information concerning those listed which is of value and should now be made available to all of our members.

Each Buyer Rated.

"I have given each of these buyers a rating. Will you now rate them based on your own experience with them, using the rating symbols attached. Please make a point of being conservative, and in all cases give full weight to the possibility that any difficulty you may have had with them might have been due to a misunderstanding or to some personal differences.

"When all the lists have been turned in they will be checked and a rating will be set up based on a two-thirds basis, i. e., where two-thirds of the returns are of the same opinion, we will assume that the rating is established. Where less than two-thirds coincide, the rating which we have placed for the buyer will be given weight to determine the standing. If you have had no personal experience with the buyer, do not attempt any rating: hearsay or gossip is to have no part in this work. If you know of an concern not appearing in the list, please add the same and rate, in order that these names may be sent out to all for a check-up.

"When this book has been completed, it will be the property of the board, and for the exclusive use of the members and such others in the industry as shall have aided in its compilation. As you know, much valuable information along these lines has been accumulated here in the last five years, and it seems that it should now be properly assembled. It is important that these lists be turned in as soon as possible, and no identification is desired. I do not want to know the source of these returns, but am mainly interested in their being fair and conservative.

Symbols For Rating.

"The following symbols should be used:

A. Pays according to contract, regardless of whether he has received his own payments; in other words, fully finances his operations.

B. Pays according to contract as a rule, but is generally governed by the payments made to him.

C. Is inclined to hold back in his payments, claiming he has not had a payment covering the item. These statements are frequently untrue, but he will, when faced with the proof of the untruth, offer partial payment, giving one excuse or another why he cannot make full return.

D. Attempts to withhold payment at all times and does not pay if he can set up any reason, legal or otherwise, for not carrying out his agreement.

u. The small letter "u" is to be added to the rating letter to indicate that unfair claims are usual. This might apply even to an "A" rating, in which case you will please set it down as "Au," "Bu," &c.

"The average general contractor or builder will, I am sure, heartily approve this method, for it is to the advantage of those who play even moderately fair. As our rating book will not be for publication, we can afford to be brutally frank. The lists are to be returned anonymously, which permits of this absolute frankness, but it should all be tempered with good judgment and conscientious thinking. No time will be lost in assembling the data."

IRISH PLAN BARRY STATUE.

5,000 at Memorial Meeting on Mall Vote Down Naval Pact.

A plea to the Irish in America to subscribe to a monument in memory of Commodore John Barry, known as the father of the American navy, was made yesterday by Michael J. O'Connor, national president of the Fianna Fail, at memorial exercises in honor of Barry held in the Mall of Central Park. Barry died 123 years ago last Saturday.

About 5,000 persons attended the exercises. The speakers included Francis J. Jones of The Irish World, the Rev. Patrick O'Leary, Captain E. A. Duff, Catholic chaplain at the Brooklyn Navy Yard; Assistant Corporation Counsel Montrose Strasburger, representing Mayor Walker, and Dr. John T. Coyle.

About fifty radicals, twenty of them East Indians, took advantage of the meeting to display banners. They were shown to choice seats by the ushers. They carried banners demanding independence for India and the release of all Irish prisoners.

At the close of the exercises a number of school children recited the oath of allegiance to the flag and sang "America the Beautiful."

But Bridge Experts Will Welcome Its Revival at Conference Today.

Backgammon, which "promises to rival bridge as the game of the coming Winter season," will receive a share of attention at the third annual bridge week of the Whitehead Bridge Studios at the Lombardy Hotel, which will open today with more than 100 bridge teachers from all parts of the country in attendance.

Mrs. Lelia Hattersley, New York bridge teacher, who is confident that backgammon is to be in nation-wide vogue, will be in charge of instruction in the game during the week and will give a talk on the subject.

Wilbur C. Whitehead declared yesterday that while backgammon will not replace bridge "we welcome it as an interesting interlude."

Several national authorities on bridge will appear on the programs of the week. Mr. Whitehead himself will lecture and conduct the bidding and play of illustrated example hands together with Commander Winfield Liggett Jr., who will discuss principles of play preceding each demonstration. Other experts expected include Milton C. Work, Sidney S. Lenz, George Reith, Ralph J. Liebenderfer, Lieutenant A. M. Gurenther, Gratz M. Scott, E. V. Shepard, E. A. Wetzlar and Captain Fred G. French.

HEALY AWAITING REPLY.

Says Steinbrink Has Failed to Substantiate Charges.

Magistrate Leo H. Healy of Brooklyn said last night that he had received no response from Meier Steinbrink, Kings County Republican leader, to his demand that Mr. Steinbrink substantiate his charges that Magistrate Healy had paid for his appointment, and recently had been guilty of intoxication and assault in a case in which the police records were falsified.

Although Mr. Steinbrink did not name any magistrate in his accusation, made in a radio address last Wenesday evening, Magistrate Healy said it was plain that he was the magistrate to whom Mr. Steinbrink had referred by innuendo.

In the same radio address Mr. Steinbrink accused an Assistant District Attorney of blocking the investigation of a defunct mortgage concern in which he was interested. On Saturday he wrote to District Attorney Brower of Kings County, who had challenged him to name the assistant district attorney, asking Mr. Brower to appoint him an assistant district attorney so that he could present his evidence to the grand jury.

"I have no comment to make on that request," said Mr. Brower.

Mr. Steinbrink was out of town yesterday and is expected back at his office today.

REALTY FINANCING DROPS 66 PER CENT

New realty financing in the United States during the first eight months of this year declined 66 per cent in volume as compared with the similar period in 1929, the respective totals being $144,678,750 and $428,610,385, according to Nelson, Hunt & Co. of Chicago, specialists in real estate financing. The decrease this year was due to a falling off in both bond and stock issues. Bond offerings totaled $129,213,750, the smallest for the period since 1922, and represented a decline of about 63 per cent from last year. Stock financing totaled $15,465,000, a decrease of 80 per cent from last year. The figures cover realty offerings of $50,000 or more in nearly 100 cities.

The figures show that apartment house financing this year was proceeding at about the same volume as that on store and office buildings, commercial and industrial structures, &c., which in 1929 comprised nearly 50 per cent of the total amount of new issues. The largest volume of financing was of miscellaneous character, covering new real estate property developments, investment trusts, &c. This type of offerings aggregated $49,992,500, or about 35 per cent of the total volume for this year.

SALESMEN.

THIS IS WORTH INVESTIGATING.

Our leads are so numerous we must add to our sales staff.

If you are a successful salesman of securities, real estate or club memberships, you do not have to worry about the future. We will take care of that. Right now many of our men are earning better money than they ever earned. We have just started our Fall campaign on one of the most successful propositions of its kind in the country—club recreational facilities—all-year enjoyment for New York families at a cost so attractive that new members are joining almost as fast as our limited sales force can reach them.

Our leads (and our sales staff is not required to call upon any others) come from a host of satisfied members and from our display advertising.

Our present membership roster includes men of highest standing in the professions, financial, commercial and educational circles as well as prominent men in public life. In four months we paid a total of $65,000 to salesmen.

We shall add 3,000 members by Christmas and will pay $75,000 in commissions to salesmen for signing them up.

We need good men—salesmen, and a few men for executive positions. We'll give them every help to be big money-makers. Come to our office at 10 o'clock today (Monday) and in fifteen minutes we'll prepare you to sell as well as the best man on our staff. You can start to earn money right away. Remember: 10 o'clock SHARP.

$60,442,000 PAID ON SHIP INSURANCE

The Bureau of Finance of the United States Shipping Board, in its first survey of marine insurance data as provided by the shipping act, made public yesterday the totals of marine insurance written by American and foreign companies in the United States in 1929. Gross premiums were $60,442,000, of which 14 per cent, or $8,696,000, went out of the United States, leaving $51,746,000 as net premiums here.

Seventy American and thirty-four foreign companies are included, representing virtually all firms writing marine insurance in the United States. They operate in groups and the redistribution or reinsurance, by and between American and foreign admitted companies, is on a fifty-fifty basis, the insurance remaining in the United States.

American insurance companies reported $43,315,000 gross premiums, 38 per cent for hull and 62 per cent for cargo insurance. On hull insurance $11,000,000 was distributed as reinsurance, about $2,000,000 going to foreign non-admitted companies. About $18,000,000 was ceded as cargo reinsurance, of which $3,610,000 went to foreign non-admitted firms.

Foreign insurance companies doing business in the United States reported $17,127,000 gross premiums, of which approximately 72 per cent was cargo insurance. Of a total of $16,521,000 reinsurance, about $3,000,000 went to non-admitted foreign companies.

After making deductions for reinsurance, net premiums received by American companies amounted to $37,730,000 and by foreign admitted companies $14,016,000, or a total net premium on marine insurance, excluding inland navigation, of $51,746,000. Net cargo premiums amounted to $32,337,000 and hull premiums to $19,409,000.

One of the surprising results shown by the compilation was the relative amounts of hull insurance written by the American Marine Insurance Syndicate "C," which has become known as the American Market, and amounts written outside the syndicate. The syndicate reported $8,000,000 in net premiums on ocean and lake hulls, while net premiums on hulls written outside amounted to more than $11,000,000.

Investigation disclosed that insurance written outside the syndicate covered fishing vessels by certain New England companies and pleasure yachts by Atlantic and Pacific companies. This is not generally considered as ocean hull business, but amounts to a considerable sum and is written mostly by American companies. The premiums outside of syndicate also included the Shipping Board insurance fund, amounting to more than $1,000,000 in premiums.

A review of surveys of marine insurance made in previous years indicates that the American marine insurance industry is growing at a steady pace. Ocean marine insurance in 1905 showed a total of $46,187,000, as against $51,746,000 in 1929, an increase of 12 per cent.

The syndicate is an authorized combination of insurance companies to provide a ready market for American owned ocean going hulls. Its business is written and managed by a central office in New York. It accepts risks on hulls and distributes this risk on a pro rata basis among the companies in the syndicate. Both American and foreign admitted companies are included, and the distribution of policy risks is made on an equal basis so far as premium rates are concerned. During 1929 the syndicate distributed its business as between forty-three American and twenty-seven foreign admitted insurance companies.

Queens to Award Contract Today.

The Queens Highway Bureau, by direction of Borough President Harvey, will award a contract for $5,400 today to the A. M. Hazell Corporation for the replacement of concrete spiles supporting Cross Bay Boulevard, which were badly damaged by a Standard Oil tanker in a fog last Fall. The spiles are 1,000 feet north of the Broad Channel Bridge. The Corporation Counsel has started suit to recover damages from the owner of the vessel.

NEW VESSEL ENTERS COAST-EUROPE RUN

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—Erik Kras, general manager of the Interocean Line, announced today that the motorship Hoeyanger will be the third vessel of the line to enter the direct service of the line between the Pacific Coast, Havre, Antwerp and Rotterdam. This vessel will start loading on the Pacific Coast in November and will call at Vancouver, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The Hoeyanger is a sister ship of the motorship Brandanger, which began the line's service. She will sail from this port on Saturday. The second vessel of the line is the motorship Heranger, now on her maiden voyage to the Pacific Coast.

The Danish motorship Amerika of the East Asiatic Company's service between the Pacific Coast and European ports, came in this morning from Copenhagen and Southampton via the Panama Canal and San Pedro with passengers for this port. This is her second voyage in that service.

The United Fruit Company's steamer Laperla arrived from Cristobal and Champerico with many passengers and a full cargo of fruit.

The motor liner Tatsuta Maru of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha's transpacific service left here today for Los Angeles to take on passengers and cargo. She will return on Thursday and sail Saturday on her regular run to Japan and China ports.

With about 400 passengers for California ports, the Panama Pacific liner California, which arrived at San Diego Friday, is due to arrive here tomorrow morning. The liner debarked a number of passengers at San Diego and about half her list at Los Angeles.

The ship Star of Alaska, last of the sailing vessels of the Alaska Packers' Association, is due in from Alaska tomorrow and, after unloading her cargo of canned salmon for reshipment East, will join her sisters of the gallant old sailing fleet and be laid up. In future the packers' business will be handled only by steam and motor vessels.

CARMANIA STILL AT PIER.

The Cunarder Carmania which was to have sailed midnight Friday is still at her pier, West Fourteenth Street, with her 459 passengers on board. Some of them have asked to be transferred to the Berengaria which leaves for Cherbourg and Southampton at midnight Wednesday.

Turbine trouble developed on the westward voyage. More than 100 engineers and fitters from the Todd Shipyard in Brooklyn are working with the ships engineers and it is hoped to have the work completed so that the Carmania can get away early this morning.

Among the cabin passengers was John Barton Payne, chairman of the League of the Red Cross, who is going to the headquarters of the organization in Paris and will then attend a conference of the Red Cross in Brussels. Another passenger was Sir Kenneth Beatty, chief counselor of the Bahamas.

POLISH SHIP GETS PORTRAIT

Painting of Kosciuszko Presented to Liner of That Name.

A large oil painting of General Kosciuszko was presented to the Polish flag liner of that name on behalf of the Polish Government in a ceremony yesterday afternoon aboard the liner at Pier 8, foot of Thirty-ninth Street, Brooklyn. Officers of the Gydnia-American Line, formerly the Baltic American Line, made the presentation in the presence of the Polish and American Consuls and diplomatic attachés.

The Kosciuszko was recently acquired by the Polish Government, with two other vessels. She will sail on Wednesday for Gydnia on her first eastbound crossing. The arrival of the Polonia in New York on Aug. 26 opened the new service and marked the first time in history that the Polish flag had flown over a liner on a voyage across the Atlantic.

FOREIGN SAILINGS GAINED.

Increased Use of Port Noted in July With the 19th the Peak Day.

Foreign sailings from the Port of New York during July increased over the same period last year and direct foreign sailings were almost 3 per cent more numerous this year, with most of the increase taking place in the Caribbean-Mexican trade, according to figures issued yesterday.

In the domestic trade a growth in the number of coastal tankers using this port was noted, sailings of this type showing a 30 per cent increase. Saturday, July 19, was the peak day of the month, with ninety-seven sailings. Forty-nine vessels sailed in foreign service. There were forty-eight domestic sailings.

New Ocean Line Service Nov. 20.

The New England Transatlantic Lines will begin a steamship service between Boston and London and Antwerp beginning Nov. 20. The new company, of which John G. Douglas is president, will operate vessels of approximately 6,000 tons, carrying freight and passengers, under the Norwegian flag. It is a non-conference line and is free to make its own rates with New England shippers.

TO FIGHT FOOD PRICE RISE.

East Side Board to Guard Against Advance in Jewish Holidays.

With the object of preventing food racketeering and more particularly to combat a sudden increase in prices of poultry and other necessities during the Jewish holidays, the East Side Food Board was formed yesterday at a meeting at 105 Essex Street.

According to George A. Suib, secretary, the members will cooperate with the Health Department and the Attorney General's office. He added that every housewife would be requested to report any price increases to the new board.

"We intend to prosecute profiteers without mercy, and any housewife may bring her complaints to us," said Mr. Suib.

DELANY SEES DOOM OF PROTESTANTISM

FOR "SUBMISSION" TO ROME

Abstracts of Volume by Former Episcopal Rector Call for Adaptation to Reality.

Submission to the Roman Catholic Church is "logically necessary" for Anglo-Catholics because the Episcopal Church "is a blind alley," and Protestantism as a whole "is decadent and in process of dissolution," according to Dr. Selden P. Delany, who resigned recently as rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Mary the Virgin to embrace Roman Catholicism.

In a book "Why Rome?" to be published soon, abstracts of which appear in today's issue of The Commonweal, Roman Catholic organ, Dr. Delany tells of his experience of thirty years as an Anglo-Catholic and reveals the reasons which impelled him finally to take the step of leaving the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Reluctant for three decades to make the change because of the difficulty experienced in making an intellectual decision, because of his fear that any decisive action taken by him might throw others "into bleak Protestantism or sheer unbelief," and because of what he characterized as the illusory feeling that he had assumed responsibilities to the Catholic movement in the Protestant Episcopal Church which he could not, without great deliberation, cast aside, Dr. Delany declares that he had finally come to realize that Anglo-Catholicism had no future.

Found Himself in "Blind Alley."

"In my own parochial and editorial work I have felt increasingly that I was walking back and forth in a blind alley, out of touch with the main flow of life in the Episcopal Church," says Dr. Delany. "Moreover I have come to feel differently about it being my vocation to reform the Anglican Church, or even that small portion of it known as the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America.

"For many years I have proceeded on the assumption that God had placed me in the Anglican ministry and was counting on me to help develop the Catholic movement, so that some day the whole membership of the Anglican Church might be Catholic in convictions and practices and then reunion with the rest of Catholic Christendom could soon become a reality. Many things have happened during recent years to make me doubt the wisdom of that assumption."

Declaring that in England the Anglo-Catholic movement "has slumped badly" since the failure to put through the revision of the Book of Common Prayer and that in the American Protestant Episcopal Church the authorities are suspicious of the Catholic movement and give it little if any cooperation, Dr. Delany declares that there was nothing for him to do following his long experience but to make his submission to Rome, having convinced himself that there is "increasing evidence in contemporary history that the Roman Catholic Church is the most vigorous and flourishing presentation of the religion of the gospel."

Urges Adaptation to Reality.

"Anglo-Catholics often act like childish adults who are making a fuss over their environment," says Dr. Delany. "They do not like the Episcopal Church as it is, so they employ all their energies in making it something that it is not. A normally matured adult tries rather to adapt himself to reality. The Protestant Episcopal Church is a reality—quite wooden, stiff and conservative. The Roman Catholic Church is likewise a reality—always teaching dogmatically the old faith, but adapting herself slowly through the centuries to the changing needs of men. If one wants a refined, liturgical and socially irreproachable Protestantism one can find it in the Protestant Episcopal Church. If one wants a developed and practical Catholicism, one can find it anywhere in the world in that vast ecclesiastical organization whose centre is at Rome in the See of Peter."

ROW ENDS NUPTIAL DINNER.

Bridegroom's Relatives, Opposing Match, Start Free Fight.

A dinner to celebrate the wedding of Joseph Eisenberg to Miss Elsie Brooks came to an abrupt and noisy conclusion before the soup had been served last night, when relatives of the bridegroom invaded the second floor of the S. & S. Restaurant, 142 West Forty-sixth Street, and started a free fight, which ended in the breaking of noses, blackening of eyes and smashing of dishes and furniture. The Eisenbergs live at 860 Bryant Avenue, Bronx.

When policemen arrived the guests, invited and unbidden, had departed. The brides' parents, Hyman Brooks of 889 Hunts Point Avenue, Bronx, and his wife, Lillian, the first bruised and bleeding and the second in hysterics, were outside, while the bridegroom was nursing a bump on the head. He told the police that his father, Sam Eisenberg, who lives at 1,980 Unionport Road, Bronx, and his other relatives had opposed the marriage on account of his bride's poverty. They were married in Brooklyn last Saturday, he said.

HELD IN CHECK FRAUDS.

Man Seized Here Is Said to Have Victimized Jersey Radio Stores.

William Barker of 281 Clermont Avenue, Brooklyn, alleged to have passed worthless checks for from $5 to $110 in radio shops in New Jersey, was arrested as a fugitive from justice last night in a garage in West Nineteenth Street. He is wanted by the police in Collingswood, N. J.

Barker had a woman accomplice, the police charge, who would enter a radio shop, pick out some model she liked and then call him in. Barker would then get out of his automobile and draw a check for more than the price of the receiver, according to the police, and would drive away with the receiver and the change.

TULAREMIA IN RUSSIA.

Repeated Epidemics Indicate the Disease Is Widespread.

"Repeated epidemics in the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics indicate that tularemia is widespread in Russia. It has been investigated since 1927-28 by the plague section of the government epidemiologic and microbiologic institute at Saratov. A thousand and seventy-six cases have been reported in four centres, as compared with 700 cases in America.

"In a report to the Health Section of the League of Nations by Roubakine, attention is called to the fact that turalemia in rodents has been confounded with plague and that symptoms in men have been confused with sodoku. Differential diagnosis, especially between turalemia, a benign disease, and a serious condition, such as plague, is important. Both diseases are transmitted through rodents, both form buboes, and both are found in similar sections of Russia.

"The interesting fact was noticed by Francis and by Alice Evans that animals immunized against the organisms of turalemia develop in their blood agglutinins for Bacterium tularense, Brucella abortus and Brucella melitensis. The Russian investigators believe that there are no grounds for classifying Bacterium tularense in the melitensis group but that a far greater analogy exists between Bacterium tularense and Yersin's bacillus because of their transmission by rodents with insects as the intermediary.

"McCoy and Chapin immunized a guinea pig against plague and inoculated turalemia; the animal died, exhibiting the typical symptoms of tularemia. Immunization against plague evidently affords no protection against tularemia. American investigators have not discovered any specific serologic treatment of the disease, and immunizing experiments were not carried out by the Russian authors."

RUSSIA EXPLOITS FISHERIES

Considerable attention is being devoted to the development of the fish industry of the Soviet Union, according to an article in The Economic Review of the Soviet Union. The program for the current year anticipates an increase of more than 60 per cent over the average catch of the last two years and sets the catch at 1,470,000 tons.

"Reports as of June 1 indicate," the article continues, "that the actual results are somewhat behind the program, due to unfavorable weather conditions during the first months of the season and the shortage of boats and equipment. The catch on that date was 454,000 tons.

"The expansion of the fishing industry is not confined solely to the increase of the fish catch. Considerable progress is being made in improving the organization of the industry and in rationalizing production. Many new refrigerating plants, canneries and waste utilization plants are being built in all the principal fishing centres, and this side of the industry, formerly neglected, is expected to constitute a factor of considerable importance in increasing Soviet exports.

"The main centre of the fishing industry is the Volga-Caspian region, which provides about half the annual catch.

"With the introduction of the use of trawlers the extensive resources of the Arctic-White Sea fisheries are increasing in importance. The catch of this region is now double that of pre-war times. The vast fish resources of the Siberian rivers and of the Pacific Coast, which abound in salmon, codfish, crabs and herring, are also being rapidly developed.

"The number of people employed in the fishing industry of the Soviet Union in 1929 was only about a half of the pre-war number—230,000, as compared with 400,000. The output is being concentrated in the hands of large State and cooperative enterprises, and the activity of the small fisheries, which contributed 70 per cent of the pre-war catch, is being organized along cooperative lines.

"The total capital investments for fisheries in 1930 will reach 116,800,000 rubles ($60,000,000)."

Dr. M. M. Ellis of University of Missouri Becomes Investigator.

The conservation and development of fishery resources in the Mississippi River Valley have received increased impetus by the recent appointment of Dr. Max M. Ellis, Professor of Physiology in the School of Medicine of the University of Missouri, to a responsible directive post as an investigator in the United States Bureau of Fisheries, that organization announces.

"Dr. Ellis is a well-known biologist with a wide experience in fishery investigation," says the bureau, "and he has recently received much favorable attention in both the scientific and business world by developing a method of artficial propagation of fresh-water mussels in which the parasitic stage in the larval life of mussels is eliminated by the culture of mussel glochidia in a nutrient solution. As regional director of investigations with the title 'In Charge, Fishery Investigations, Interior Waters,' he will head a staff of biologists engaged with ecological, fishery and pollution studies in the rivers of the Mississippi River drainage, but will not sever completely his connection with the university faculty.

"T. K. Chamberlain, formerly field assistant of the bureau, was appointed during the period of the bureau's reduced activity following the war as director of the Fairport station to handle particularly difficult administrative problems, a duty which he performed with notable efficiency. Conditions have now changed, however, so that he will be able to relinquish these duties and devote his entire time to scientific investigation as Dr. Ellis's first assistant at the University of Missouri. While the fish cultural investigations now conducted at Fairport will still remain under the direction of Dr. H. S. Davis, the biological activities of the station will be supervised by Dr. Ellis."

HIS coat bore the label of an expensive 5th Avenue tailor. "I paid $165 for this suit," he said as we measured him for his first Arnheim suit.

This case is typical. Every day custom-tailored men who have been paying 5th Avenue prices are being won to Arnheim. Economy has made them discover that Arnheim can clothe them smartly, correctly, fastidiously . . . at startling savings. Probably that is one reason for our best fall business in several seasons.

Note the following values, a challenge to extravagant custom tailoring:

The Ideal of a Craftsman

In every age men have striven with untiring patience for the achievement of an ideal. The name "STRADIVARIUS" on a violin immortalizes a master craftsman who lived true to his ideals.

Making a cigar of the finest quality was the ideal upon which in 1874, at Manchester, N. H., Roger G. Sullivan—starting with one cigar maker—founded 7-20-4. Today because of its ideal quality, 7-20-4 has grown to the largest hand-made cigar industry in the World.

Quality workmanship and the finest tobaccos are traditional with 7-20-4. The unswerving tenet of its founder—to keep faith with the public—has remained unchanged for over half a century. It is this firm principle which today refuses to alter that method of manufacture which has made 7-20-4 Cigar—FAMOUS FOR ITS CHOICE QUALITY.
